PRICE, FIVE CENTS

REPORT OF THE
WATER BOARD.

Statement of "Certain Petitioners."

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As it was declared at the late town meeting, "out of order" for the meeting to "act" as heretofore since the town was incorporated, on printed, final reports of town officers, and allow the meeting to differ from or expunge any portion of said reports, I have been requested to state through the STAR the objections "certain petitioners" had to a statement in the water board report which did not fairly represent the position of the petitioners on the fishing question.

The report says: "This fall certain petitioners asked the Board to issue permits to fish in the water supply reservoirs. As the town had recorded itself by due process as opposed to possible contamination of the water because of fishing and other action, the request was denied."

Without expressing any opinion of its own on the subject, the water board claims as a reason for not granting fishing permits that the town "had recorded itself" as opposed to such healthful, well-regulated fishing as the petitioners respectfully requested. What kind of fishing was "explicitly asked for"? In the language of the petition itself healthful, restricted fishing privileges were requested "under such rules and regulations as may best preserve the purity of the water." The town never "recorded itself" as opposed to such fishing as the petitioners wanted, but it did once record itself for a period of eleven days as emphatically opposed to such lawless fishing by people from all over the county, who fished every day in the week including Sundays. The town did "record itself" against such skating, fishing picnics, hockey games on Sunday and other "possible contaminations" of our water supply as the water board freely allowed during 1908-09 without making the least effort to stop such unlawful proceedings. The water board have very unfairly stated, and stated it many times before it appeared in this year's town report, that Winchester fishermen were responsible for the lawless fishing and "other action" which shocked the town in the winter of 1908-09 and led to a vote being passed almost unanimously at the March 1909 town meeting taking the fishing control of the reservoirs away from the town water board and requesting the State Board of Health to take charge of the sanitary condition of water supply. None of the 1910 petitioners, or in fact any Winchester fishermen, had anything to do with the disputable fishing and "other action" of 1908-09 and it is unfair and unjust to make such a statement, even by implication, in the 1910 town report. They did not petition for that kind of fishing and it is wrong to say they did.

As a whole how has the town "recorded itself" regarding healthful, sanitary fishing in its two hundred acre reservoirs? The town records will tell the story better than any statement of the Water Board. The North reservoir was completed and water let into the town water pipes September 20th, 1874. That same year the reservoir was stocked with one hundred and fifteen black bass weighing from three quarters to two pounds each by the water board for the purpose, so it is stated, of assisting to purify the water and affording healthful fishing to Winchester citizens. No fishing was allowed until 1879 to allow the fish to increase in numbers. From 1879 until 1894 (15 years) fishing permits were issued to Winchester citizens by the water board and not one single case of misbehavior on the part of fishermen was reported to the town. On the contrary the water board reported that the "experiment" of fishing in such a large reservoir worked well and recommended its indefinite continuance. Seventy five permits were issued the first year permits were issued. During this period, the State Board of Health constantly watched over the sanitary condition of the water, as it was a new supply gathered in artificial reservoirs, and not once in over one hundred examinations did it call any attention to anything unhealthy connected with fishing, as conducted and regulated in the Winchester water supply reservoirs. Certainly the town in its first twenty years of water supply history did not "record itself by due process" as against such well regulated fishing as the 1910 petitioners asked for.

In 1894 the Middle and South reservoirs had been completed. The reservoirs now covered two hundred acres in place of the original sixty acres making a water area five times as large as Boston Common, the town owning a/ the land under the water. It also owned over two hundred acres surrounding the reservoirs, making over four hundred acres in all. The State had taken for park purposes, all the woodland surrounding land of the town, thus insuring the water shed from contamination. In their 1894 report the water board says: "The natural relations of

REV. JOHN R. CHAFFEE
Who Bids Farewell After Four Long Successful Years.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

The Methodist Episcopal Church in Winchester tendered a farewell reception to their retiring pastor, Rev. John R. Chaffee and to Mrs. Chaffee on Friday evening, March 31st. The vestry was decorated for the occasion and more than two hundred people assembled to say "Goodbye." Rev. I. H. Mansfield delivered a very fitting address presenting to them at the close, a well filled purse of gold as a testimonial of the love and good wishes of their people. Mr. Chaffee responded, heartily thanking the donors, and wished for the church great success and prosperity! Mrs. Sherard Clay president of the Ladies' Aid Society returned the thanks of this vigorous body for the constant and sympathetic assistance which Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee had given the ladies in their work during the entire term of the pastorate.

Little Miss Powers in behalf of the Junior League presented to Mrs. Chaffee, their president, a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Mrs. John N. Mason read a poem very fitting for the occasion.

Miss Jean McLellan—as always—rendered finely two vocal selections.

Refreshments were served in a dainty manner. The pointers were: Mrs. Frank E. Crawford, Mrs. E. L. Dunning, Mrs. Charles A. Dodge and Miss Mae Richardson. Mrs. Chaffee's Sunday School class of young ladies served the refreshments. Rev. and Mrs. Chaffee are leaving a host of friends in Winchester.

Last Sabbath Mr. Chaffee preached his farewell sermon from the text: "Arise let us go hence," to a large audience, and he held the marked attention of his hearers to the close. He leaves the church in excellent condition financially and spiritually. There has been a net gain of 60 members in the past 4 years. The New England Annual Conference meets with the Harvard Street Methodist Church Cambridge beginning Wednesday, April 5. Bishop Neely presiding.

NOTICE.

We wish to announce that Mr. Benj. Edwards, who has been in our employ for the last two years, is no longer with us, and as he has been attending to a part of our jobbing and repair work we wish to say that Mr. C. W. Campbell, of the firm of Shaw & Campbell, will personally attend to all of this work and we will be prepared to give you better service.

We will occupy our present store at No. 6 Thompson street, until May 1st. We will then change the location of our office.

Telephone all inquiries and orders to our Woburn office and they will receive prompt attention. We wish to thank you for your past patronage and trust we may be favored with a continuance of the same.

Yours very truly,

Shaw & Campbell,

FOUND BROKEN RAIL.

On Thursday evening of last week, as Patrick Dempsey, employed by Kelley & Hawes Co., was going to his work he found that a section of the track on the Woburn loop of the B. & M. had been torn up by a passing train. The rail was broken at the switch to the siding at Beggs and Cobb's tannery, about three feet being gone.

Mr. Dempsey hurried at once to the switch tower at the centre and notified operator Tenney, who stopped the two Woburn trains which were due at that time and notified the section men.

The trouble was discovered shortly before six o'clock, it being thought that the twelve minutes of six train loosened the rail, and one of the cars as it passed over it dragged it some ten feet.

Had the trouble not been discovered by Mr. Dempsey the train would have undoubtedly been wrecked.

WORKING FOR THE COMMON GOOD.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In your last issue the following paragraph appeared under the title "Observations."

"All of our departments are obstinate enough but some are worse than nules and where they have any Easy Ap. Com. to deal with they play horse with it. This year it gave the departments all they asked for."

It has been suggested to me that such criticisms if unswayed are liable to be accepted. It also occurs to me that as the criticisms appearing under this title are unsigned there are doubtless many among your readers who regard them as editorial utterances for which the publishers of the "STAR" are responsible.

I therefore request that you will allow me to state in correction that in seventeen instances the amount recommended by the Appropriations Committee was less than that asked for by the departments and that the Committee informally recommended the postponement at least of three other appropriations not included in the report.

Without attempting to quote the exact amount of the reductions made by the committee, I think I am safe in stating that if the committee had recommended and the town voted all that was asked for, the tax rate would have been well over twenty dollars per thousand.

I think it is only fair to state also that the Appropriations Committee found that for the most part, while those in charge of the various departments are enthusiastic and desire liberal appropriations to carry on the work which they believe should be done, they are willing and glad to co-operate with the Appropriations Committee as all are working for one common end and that is the welfare of the Town of Winchester.

Yours very truly,
Addison R. Pike.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE AT SUFFRAGE MEETING.

The meeting under the auspices of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League on Saturday evening last was a great success if the size and character of the audience offers proof. The speakers, Mrs. Henry Villard of N. Y., and Miss Sylvia Pankhurst of England were greeted by a large audience of the most thoughtful men and women of Winchester, who listened with marked earnestness to earnest pleas from both speakers for justice to women in the matter of suffrage. Mrs. Villard is a charming woman, the worthy daughter of her father William Lloyd Garrison who in her earliest years imbibed his views concerning all reforms. She attacked the subject from the American point of view, bringing out arguments and conditions existing here and stating her sympathy with Abraham Lincoln's statement that "No man is good enough to govern another"—the word man here being used for mankind, including women. Miss Pankhurst explained the very different political conditions existing in England—explained the rise of the so-called Militant Suffrage party there and gave a graphic description of the brutal and unmanly treatment of the women who had felt that more vigorous measures were necessary than those that had been used for so many years with so little results. She spoke with remarkable clearness for one so young of understanding, of the situation in her own country, and showed plainly how unauthorized had been the measures used against them, how terribly they had suffered, but without faltering because of belief in the justice of their cause. Listening to her one could not fail to be impressed with the utter inability of one not conversant with English history—with the methods of which alone men have achieved their franchise, to judge fairly of the work of the suffragettes through the garbled reports of unfriendly American newspapers. Slips inviting men and women who believed in suffrage for women, were distributed through the audience, asking them to join the Suffrage League, which has more than trebled its members during the last year. The slips also suggested that literature concerning suffrage for women would be sent to any who felt they would like to know more about it.

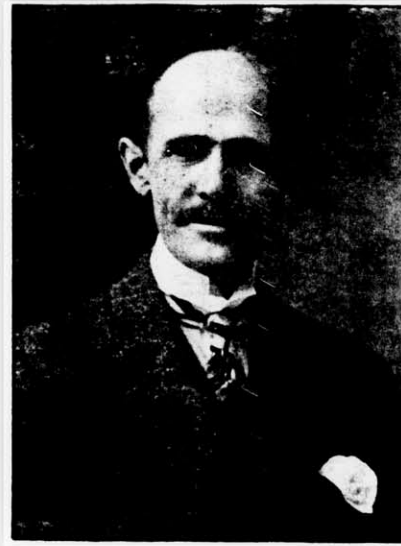

ROGERS CUP.

The final roll-off in the Rogers Cup contest was bowled on the Calumet alleys last Friday night, resulting in the capture of the prize by Phillips C. Simonds. The contest started with twenty contestants, the preliminary roll-off reducing the number to ten, and the semi-final match to five.

Following are the scores of the bowlers who reached the finals:

Simonds	64
Gilpatrick	54
Campbell	57
Beggs	57
Richardson	54

The cup was donated for the tournament by Mr. Charles C. Rogers, vice-president of the club, being of silver, highly ornamented, and standing about fifteen inches high.

GEORGE B. DAVIS.

The newly elected President of the Calumet Club.

CALUMET CLUB OFFICERS.

The annual election of officers at the Calumet Club was held last Saturday evening at the club house, resulting in the election of the following:

President, George B. Davis
Vice-President, Charles C. Rogers
Secretary, Edgar M. Young
Treasurer, Curtis W. Nash
Directors, to serve for three years:
Arthur W. Dean
Vincent Farnsworth
James H. Gerlach

WINCHESTER ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

The second season of the Society was brought to a triumphant close last Monday evening when the orchestra played the following program:

Mendelssohn, Symphony No. 3, A minor Op. 56
I. Introduction—Andante con moto
II. Vivace non troppo
III. Adagio
IV. Finale Allegro maestoso assai
Pouchielli, "Dance of the Hours" from Gioconda
Tchaikowski, Andante Cantabile, for Strings
Massenet, Overture, "Thedre"
Mrs. Marie Sundborg Sundelius, soprano, sang these songs:
Oh! Quand je dors.
Liszt, Arlette des Deux Azares, de Greta (1770)
From the Land of the Sky-blue Water Calumet

Old Swedish Folk Song
Go not, Happy Day, Benj. Whelpley
The Town Hall was filled almost to the last seat with music-lovers of this and neighboring towns who listened with most appreciative interest to the varied program.

It would be obviously unfair to compare this company of amateurs with a body of professional players but it is not going too far to say that the orchestra has, in these two seasons, reached a point where they can feel sure of playing even as difficult a program as this last one in a way to give great pleasure. Many members have not missed one rehearsal throughout the season and this enthusiasm and faithful work have told in a correspondingly steady gain in solidity and balance of tone and in light and shade. In spite of the fact that this was by far the most difficult of the six programs which have been played, the orchestra overcame the technical difficulties with surprising ease and Mr. Little is to be congratulated on his handling of the orchestra and his intelligent and musically reading of the different numbers.

The Symphony which was shortened by cuts in the first and last movements was played in a manner that was interesting and tuneful. The beautiful slow movement was exceptional for its cleanliness and balance of tone. "The Dance of the Hours" from Gioconda with its tarry-like opening, which develops into the various dance rhythms ending in a mad whirl was delightful and was played with much grace and spirit. The string number from the famous string quartette is always welcome and the quality of the muted strings was refined and delicate.

The brilliant overture was played with a confidence which was remarkable in an organization of this kind and simply goes to show what can be done with earnest workers and careful attention. In fact the whole concert was marked by sincerity and earnestness which insures for the orchestra a high place among amateurs and it is hoped that circumstances will permit of the continuance of the orchestra which has already become a feature of the town. Winchester should be proud that it possesses an orchestra which is second to none in completeness and ability, among non-professionals.

It has been suggested that a concert work might be given next season with full orchestra and a chorus drawn from the choral society of the Fortnightly and the school singers.

Mrs. Sundelius gave much pleasure with her beautiful voice, and the Swedish Folk Song was especially pleasing not only from its rendition but also from the beauty of the composition. Mrs. Fitts accompanied with taste and the audience sympathized with her in being obliged to play on a piano that had its pedals put out of commission.

Mr. Little is thoroughly in earnest and is conducting with ever increasing facility and deserves the greatest credit for his patience and care in handling a band of amateurs that cannot be driven like professionals, but must be led with tact which he seems to possess in a wonderful degree.

Mrs. J. Shepard Pond, who has been spending the winter at the Parker House, Boston, has taken up her residence for the summer at Atlantic Hill, Nantasket.

CHILD NEARLY DROWNED.

"Considerable excitement was created yesterday noon by the story that a small child had been drowned in Mystic Lake, it being said that the little fellow was a son of C. H. Lewis. A child of Mr. Lewis' did come very near drowning, but latest reports are to the effect that he will probably recover from the wetting."

In company with Kenneth Flanders, the five year old son of Wallace F. Flanders, Jack, the four year old son of C. H. Lewis, was sailing toy boats in the lake at rear of the Redding estate on Lakeview road. The first intimation of trouble came when the Flanders boy ran to the maid at his house and told her that Jack had fallen off the wall into the water and was drowning. She rushed to the lake, but was unable to see the child. Two men working on estates nearby came in answer to her calls, one of them finding the child and taking him from the water.

He was then unconscious, and it was thought questionable whether he could be revived. Telephone calls to the doctors found most of them "out, and so the men worked over the boy in an attempt to resuscitate him without delay. When the doctors began to arrive they came in quantity, and by that time signs of life were apparent. The child was taken into the Redding house and wrapped in hot blankets and other remedies tried, and it is thought that unless nothing develops he will recover. He was unconscious about a half hour, and had not the men promptly found him in the water and vigorously worked to revive him, would undoubtedly have drowned.

The credit for saving the child was due to Mr. Fred Stowers of Woburn, a carpenter who was working at the Redding house. Mr. Stowers had taken lessons in that kind of work and his knowledge proved invaluable, he draining the child and continuing artificial respiration until signs of life were shown.

THOSE GRADE PLANS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you kindly give space to the following letter, which will give the citizens of the town information in regard to the grade of the streets that were reported for acceptance at the last Town Meeting.

J. P. Boutwell, Chairman

Board of Selectmen.
April 5, 1911.

Mr. J. P. Boutwell,

Chairman Board of Selectmen.

Dear Sir:—Relative to the discussion at the last session of the annual town meeting as to the absence of grade plans of the streets presented to the town for acceptance as public ways, I desire to reiterate my statement to you that grade plans were on file at the time of acceptance of the streets, and had been in the town engineer's office for several months prior to the date of the meeting. The only thing which can truly be said against the method of procedure in accepting the streets in question, is that the grade plans were not in the hands of the moderator on the night of the meeting.

Respectfully yours,
James Hinds
Town Engineer.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

One of the highly appreciated friends of The Spectator sends the following beautiful prayer that was recited along with others when the body of William E. Gladstone was deposited in Westminster during the early hours of May 26, 1868. The thought of the good lady is that as The STAR has such a wide circulation, the beautiful sentiment expressed will have a tendency of bringing peace and quiet to many a disturbed and bereaved one:

"O God, the God of the spirit of all flesh, in whose embrace all creatures live, in whatsoever world or condition they be; I beseech thee for him whose name and dwelling place and every need thou knowest. Lord, vouchsafe him light and rest, peace and refreshment, joy and consolation, in paradise, in the companionship of saints, in the presence of Christ, in the ample folds of thy great love."

"Grant that his life [so troubled here] may unfold its self in thy sight, and find a sweet employment in the spacious fields of eternity. If he hath ever been hurt or maimed by any unhappy word or deed of mine, I pray thee of thy great pity to heal and restore him, that he may serve thee without hindrance."

"Tell him O gracious Lord, if it may be, how much I love him and miss him and long to see him again; and, if there be ways in which he may come, vouchsafe him to me as a guide and guard, and grant me a sense of his nearness, in such degree as thy laws permit."

"If in aught I can minister to his peace, be pleased of thy love to let this be; and mercifully keep me from every act which may deprive me of the sight of him as soon as our trial-time is over, or mar the fullness of our joy when the end of the days hath come."

"Pardon, O gracious Lord and Father, whatsoever is amiss in my prayer, and let thy will be done; for my will is blind and erring, but thine is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think; through Jesus Christ our Lord."

"Lord, support me all day long of this troublous life, until the shadows lengthen and the evening comes, and the busy world is hushed, and the fever of life is over, and my work is done. Then in thy mercy grant me safe lodging, and a holy rest, and peace at the last. Amen, Lord Jesus, Amen."

The majority of the houses in Winchester use lamps of the gas or electric variety, but there are a few where the old fashioned oil lamp is still in use. The Spectator has found a pleasant cheeriness in the warm, yellow glow of the oil lamp which is not always obtained from the whiter light of either gas or electricity. In his study room The Spectator has substituted an oil lamp for the electricity with which the room is equipped. Some of his admirers may view this as a step backward but The Spectator is satisfied. The good maid in charge of The Spectator's quarters understands the care of a lamp and that counts for everything. For the benefit of the few who do still adhere to the old-fashioned lamp The Spectator is going to give the secret of the lamp's care. Once a week The Spectator's lamp is thoroughly overhauled. The oil receptacle is washed in hot soda water and drained thoroughly. Next, the part of the lamp through which the wick is turned is taken apart and boiled in soda water until every particle of dirt has disappeared. This, also is dried thoroughly. The lamp globe is cleaned every day with newspapers and chamois skin, but is never washed. The oil receptacle is filled to within an inch of the top. If these suggestions are carefully followed those persons who use oil lamps will have no occasion for complaint on the score of poor light or smell.

In discussing the value of newspaper advertising a prominent merchant gives The Spectator to understand that his advertising campaign in the STAR has been getting results entirely unexpected. "I have proved the efficiency of advertising in the STAR," he said. "I have advertised special articles and have had a big run on them. That is the best advertising test there is."

Said a prominent townsman to The Spectator a day or two ago: "The STAR seems to have the proper civic spirit. It is patriotic without being servile, 'moral' without being fanatical and can stand straight without bending over backwards." Newspapers of the type of The STAR are a blessing to any community."

The other day a Main street gentleman told within hearing of The Spectator a child story that is good enough to repeat in the STAR. A little fellow's mother had told him that she would put him to bed if he disobeyed her in a certain matter. Temptation overcame him, and when his mother started to fulfill her duty sobs of anguish filled the room. "But, sonny," said the mother gently, "I told you I should punish you in this way if you disobeyed, and mother must keep her word, you know." Between muffled sobs the youngster managed to say: "You needn't break your word, mamma; couldn't you just change your mind?"

The Spectator is pained to learn that a man shot his neighbor's annoying feline. In justification of his action the man says: "To have my sleep broken by continual nocturnal howling of a cat would seem to justify a man in killing the obnoxious creature unless it be assumed that the life of a cat is of greater importance than the health of a man." The Spectator understands that the owner of the feline will ask for the prosecution of the slayer.

A visitor to Winchester from Northern Vermont last Sunday tells of a remarkable experience. Sunday morning in the northern part of Vermont there was a raging blizzard with a fall of two feet of snow, on reaching Winchester a balmy Spring day was the type of weather found. It is figured by Elevated officials that this condition will last but a very short time when the added service by this branch will more than compensate for the trouble caused.

The Honorable Samuel W. McCall, of this town, in an interview Saturday with press representatives, exhibited an optimism which he shares with no other member of the present Congress. Mr. McCall predicts that Congress will adjourn June 1st. A few hopeful members have timorously predicted that the work of the extra session would end July 1st but no one had set an earlier date and there was much surprise when Mr. McCall came forward with his prediction that June 1st would be the limit of time for Congress to transact the business which necessitated an extra session.

The annual meeting of the Winchester Boat Club will be held on the evening of Tuesday, April 11th, at the club house.

The following nominations have been made for the ensuing year:

President, Charles A. Gleason
Vice-President, James H. Gerlach
Secretary, T. Price Wilson
Treasurer, William Adriance
Fleet Captain, George B. Cumings

Directors,
Vincent Farnsworth
Schuyler F. Herron
Preston E. Corey
Dexter P. Blaikie
Hermann D. Murphy
Fred M. Bates
Charles S. Tenney
Charles R. Jeffers.

The club will open the year in a most prosperous condition, and the coming season will probably be an active one on the Mystic Lakes. Owing to the large number of Winchester people who have canoes or boats on the lakes the club opened an additional building last season for berth room, and with the numerous regattas planned for this year with the Medford Boat Club, which is also very active, it is anticipated that the club will be the centre of interest during the summer.

REPORT OF THE

the reservations and of the reservoirs are reciprocal. The three beautiful sheets of blue water add the chief beauty to the western half of the Middlesex Fells reservation, and the reservation adds the greatest safe guard to the purity of the water. As an aid to preserving the water from defilement the agreement fully set forth in the subjoined letters has been made:

Winchester, April 10th, 1894.

To the Board of Commissioners of Metropolitan Parks:

Gentlemen:—As guardians of Middlesex Fells Reservation, you are desired by the Town of Winchester, through its Water Board, to apply your rules of conduct in the Fells to all the territory belonging to Winchester in that locality. In addition to applying these rules, we would like prevention of bathing and boating and defilement of the water. As the lands and reservoirs are located mostly in adjoining town, the Winchester police are without authority to arrest improper conduct there.

Respectfully yours,

The Town of Winchester,

By David N. Skillings,
Lewis Parkhurst,
John R. Freeman.

Before an answer was received to the above letter, the Water Board established new rules governing fishing. The record is as follows:—On April 21st, (1894,) the Water Board established new rules governing fishing within the reservoirs and our townsman, Mr. Brackett, chairman of the Massachusetts State Commission on Inland Fisheries, has kindly consented to take charge of issuing permits to the proper parties. A copy of the rules is subjoined:—

"Town of Winchester, Water Board.

April 21st, 1894.

Voted:—That all fishing within the water supply reservoirs of the town be prohibited until further notice, except under conditions stated below.

1. That fishing will be permitted only upon Wednesdays and Saturdays. Fishing through the ice not allowed.

2. That no person shall be allowed to fish in said reservoirs except he has with him, and exhibits when called upon so to do, a printed permit of the Water Board, to him duly issued.

3. That no permits shall be issued except to residents of the Town of Winchester.

4. That each and all permits shall be revocable by the Water Board at any time, and that any person who defiles the water or whose conduct on the premises is objectionable will have his pass revoked.

5. Until further notice the issuing of fishing permits is delegated by the Water Board to the Hon. E. A. Brackett of Winchester, chairman State Board of Commissioners of Fisheries and Game.

6. The police of the Metropolitan Park Commission will assist in enforcing these regulations.

D. N. Skillings,
Lewis Parkhurst,
John R. Freeman,
Winchester Water Board."

Following the announcement of the above newly established fishing rules and in answer to the above letter from the Winchester Water Board, the following letter was received from the Metropolitan Park Commission.

"Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Metropolitan Parks Commission,
Boston, Mass.

David N. Skillings, Lewis Parkhurst,
John R. Freeman,

Water Board of Town of Winchester, Mass.
Dear Sirs:—In response to your letter of April 10th, I am instructed by the Board to accept the proposition therein contained, and to state that this Board accepts the care and control of the lands within your water reservations, as stated in said letter, and they will enforce the rules which you have made, or will make, in relation thereto.

Yours very truly,
H. S. Carruth,
Secretary."

The above rules regulating reservoir fishing were in force from 1894 until 1907 and not a single complaint was made by the Water Board of the conduct of any fishermen and no complaint was made of any injury to the water from the effects of fishing by the State Board of Health, who made bi-monthly examinations of the water during this long period of thirteen years. No trouble ensued in restricting the fishing to Winchester citizens and the law department of neither town or state made any legal objections whatever to the Metropolitan Park Police enforcing Winchester Water Board rules in Stoneham or Medford. How different the Water Board regarded the law governing fishing in 1894 from what it did in 1908, yet the law has not changed!

In 1906 the Metropolitan Parks Commission desired a closer union with Winchester regarding the control of Winchester territory in the Fells, and at the March Town meeting the Commission presented a proposed lease of the Winchester water supply territory to the state for park purposes. At that meeting the question was asked if the lease, which consisted of seven closely type-written pages, contained any clause guarding Winchester's exclusive right to fish in its reservoirs. It was answered that no mention was made in the proposed lease of such fishing rights, whereupon the proposed lease was rejected by a large majority.

A few months later, a new lease was made out which contained such a clause which proved satisfactory to the town and the lease was accepted at a town meeting held July 5th 1896 and signed July 20th, 1896. The cause in the lease which the town insisted upon is as follows: "That the Commonwealth, acting through the Metropolitan Parks Commission, shall enforce all reasonable rules and regulations as may be lawfully adopted by the town in regard to boating, fishing and skating on the premises above described." This lease is now in force (1911) and from 1896 until 1908 no question was raised as to Winchester's legal right to protection against citizens of other towns fishing in its reservoirs, and that question was raised by the Winchester Water Board of 1908, not by the State of Massachusetts. There would be no question of law now if the Winchester Water Board had not changed its mind and now desire a different interpretation of the law from what it did when the leases were signed. To an unprejudiced mind, is there anything in the record from 1874 up to 1908 which shows that the town "recorded itself by due process" against well regulated fishing such as the 1910 petitioners asked for?

For twelve years fishing was enjoyed by Winchester citizens and Winchester's exclusive fishing privileges were guarded by the Metropolitan Park Police. In 1906 Mr. Brackett declined to take further care of issuing fishing permits for the Water Board. He was eighty years of age, as the permit system had become well established he wished to retire as agent for the town which he had served many years without compensation. The Water Board took charge of issuing fishing permits for a short time after Mr. Brackett's resignation but soon announced without consulting the town in the least and for very scanty reasons that no more fishing would be allowed. Next, one hundred or more citizens petitioned the Water Board to allow fishing in the Middle reservoir as no water entered the water supply from this source in summer time. This petition was left at the Water Board's room but no acknowledgment or reply was ever made to it. It was probably cremated in the boiler fire. Although this petition led to no result, its reception indicated the spirit in which the Water Board received suggestions from fellow citizens regarding fishing in the reservoirs. The fate of this petition led to a vote being prepared under an article in the warrant for a town meeting held March 9th, 1908. This vote was passed by a large majority after a long debate on the question and the town "recorded itself" regarding fishing at this town meeting as follows:— "Voted:—That citizens of Winchester be allowed to fish in the Winchester reservoirs under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Winchester Board of Health and approved by the Winchester Water Board, the Mass. Fish and Game Commission, or a majority of said Boards; said rules and regulations to be enforced at the reservoirs by the Metropolitan Park Commission agreeably to an existing agreement between said Commission and the town of Winchester executed July 20th, 1896."

It would seem that this vote would settle the matter of restricted fishing for a time but it did not, as it led to free fishing, skating, Sunday sports, hockey on the ice etc., through the peculiar stand taken by the Water Board that the vote was null and void because it was "unreasonable" and exclusive fishing rights for Winchester could not be enforced at the reservoirs as they had been successfully enforced by the Metropolitan Park Police and by the Winchester police force for the past twenty-seven years.

The Board of Health, therefore declined to make rules and regulations under authority of the vote and therefore the sanitary condition of the reservoirs was left unguarded for a whole year. The Water Board of course had legal charge of the reservoirs as much as it ever did but it declined to act as heretofore and allowed free fishing and free behavior of all kinds at the reservoirs much to the disgust of fishermen and everybody else. The Metropolitan Park Police received a "tip" from some authority and did not enforce Winchester's sanitary rules and regulations according to the agreement and fishing rules of 1894 and the lease obligations of 1896. In 1907 no one could fish through the ice, or skate, or play hockey on Sunday or they would be arrested by the Met. Park Police. Though the town had voted for none of these things in connection with fishing, they went merrily on and the Water Board claimed it was all on account of the fishing vote passed at the 1908 town meeting. Why a person could be arrested in 1907 for Sunday fishing and not be arrested for the same thing in 1908 was not on account of the 1908 vote allowing fishing, but because the Water Board desired to throw the whole blame of the free, unlawful use of the reservoirs onto those who voted for healthful, restricted fishing. It was not a manly thing to do, but it succeeded somewhat in making many feel that all fishing was disreputable and could not be carried on without injury to the water supply. Winchester fishermen and not the water board, first called attention of the town to what was going on at the reservoirs in the winter of 1908-09 and much newspaper discussion followed. This led to the town vote passed March 19th, 1909, placing the sanitary condition of the reservoirs into the care of the State Board of Health and until that Board made rules and regulations governing said sanitary condition "fishing in the reservoirs of the town is hereby prohibited." The State Board of Health issued its order making sanitary rules and regulations for the reservoirs April 1st, 1909, just eleven days after the vote of the town was passed. As the State Board of Health did not prohibit fishing but granted the town the right to fish under permits which the water board had authority "to grant and withhold," fishing has not been prohibited by vote of the town excepting the eleven days from March 19th, to April 1st, 1909, since the water works have been established. The free, unsanitary fishing and "other action" openly allowed by the water board for a year previous to the eleven days prohibition was strongly denounced by Winchester fishermen as it was by all good citizens. It is a misstatement, a perversion of the facts and can lead to no good end for the water board to make no distinction between gentlemanly Winchester fishermen who desire to fish only under healthful restrictions and the mob from all the surrounding country the water board allowed to fish and do anything else they desired to do at the reservoirs during the winter of 1908-09. In the present report, these unlawful acts are designated as "other action" and the petitioners did not petition for them and resent the imputation that they desired anything but the most healthful, restricted fishing or any fishing, in fact, that the town will not approve of at present or has not approved of in the past.

At the left is the publishing house of the Christian Science Publishing Society, containing the offices and mechanical plant for issuing the numerous publications of the society as well as the offices of the publisher of Mary Baker Eddy's writings. This structure was erected in 1907, and a year later was enlarged to accommodate The Christian Science Monitor, a daily newspaper, started Nov. 25, 1908. The park in the foreground was developed from unkenet land last fall upon the plans of a prominent landscape architect. Two spacious walks, lined with evergreens and crossing extensive lawns, lead to Huntington avenue, from which thoroughfare the accompanying view was taken. The Christian Science group of buildings is in the heart of the new educational and artistic center of Boston. In the neighborhood are Horticultural and Symphony halls, the New England Conservatory of Music, the Boston opera house and the new Museum of Fine Arts.

Although any discussion of the report of the water board was decided "as out of order" in the third session of the late town meeting, contrary to all precedent in Winchester town meetings heretofore, the report was not subsequently brought up for acceptance by the town and the ideas, sentiment, opinions or any action expressed or recommended in the report are only the personal expressions of the water board, not the town. What the water board reported to the town has not been approved or accepted by the town and the town is not bound by their report and has not expressed any approval of it. If a motion had been made to have the town accept the report of the water board, the above matter would have been discussed, as no such motion was made, there was no need of such discussion.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1911.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the postoffice at Winchester as second-class matter.

The large attendance at the Town Hall last Saturday evening shows that a great many persons in Winchester take a deep interest in Woman Suffrage whether they believe in it or not.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of club members at the annual meeting on Monday afternoon, April 10. Tea will be served.

The last lecture of the course in Household Economics, given by Miss Frances Stern of the Institute of Technology, was full of suggestion and help. "The Cost of Living and the Division of the Income" is a subject of vital interest to all and those who were so fortunate as to hear Miss Stern felt well repaid for attending. The lecturer's interest in the subject was very evident from her great enthusiasm, and her personal touches and apt stories did much to enliven the practical talk.

Miss Stern said in part: Household management is no longer a matter of intuition but a business, of which the woman should have absolute control. To it must be given time, thought and study in order that the greatest efficiency may be obtained with the least expenditure of money and effort. It is necessary that the woman, whose economic function is the spending of money, have the right mental attitude toward living. She must think in order to control the cost of living. There must also be a willingness on the part of the home-maker to hunt her wants. Wants do not always mean needs and the latter must be carefully discriminated from the multitude of the former. One ought also to have the requisite knowledge as to why we need and what constitutes pure air, good food, healthful clothing and sanitary houses. The home-maker must be conscious of her ideal, must know how to make practical application thereof to get the best results in the health and happiness of the family. Sunlight and pure air are absolutely essential to right living. Food cannot fulfill its function without air. Good health and bad plumbing cannot exist under the same roof. Clothing made in a sweat shop should not find a buyer. Few people have any real knowledge of food nutrients and their proper combinations. Food is to many rather a question of amount and variety rather than of nourishment. A family spending $12 a month for food was found to be getting more nutrition than one spending $24. Hamburg steak, prunes, and dried apples are more nourishing and less expensive than rib roast, oranges, and grapes. The greatest extravagance is practiced in the buying, preparing and use of food. It is much more expensive to buy in small quantities, so that in this respect the rich woman has the advantage over the poorer one. The buyer should not only insist upon receiving only such produce as is in good condition but should also see that full measure is given. The cooking, too, must be carefully looked after, for much good food is spoiled in this process. The high cost of living is often attributed to woman's waste of material. The garbage man gets too much of what might be used to good advantage. It is often said that a French family can live on what an American woman throws away.

Neither, as Dr. Eliot points out in one of his books, does extravagant expenditure always mean greater happiness. Strawberries in January are not as good as strawberries in June, and if one has had them for six months, one's enjoyment of them when at their best is somewhat dulled. Again, it is very doubtful whether a person who has hot-house flowers all the year round appreciates them half as much as the one who has to wait till he can prepare his own little flowerbed out of doors and then watch the tiny green shoots develop into the full-blown flower.

The division of the income was illustrated by means of a chart. A family of two adults and three children was taken as a basis and three salaries considered, $1000, $2200 and $3900. In each case about 20 per cent is spent for rent and about 15 per cent for clothing. But whereas the man with the $1000 income spends about 50 per cent for food, the man with the $3900 income spends only about 25 per cent. So only a small per cent is left for the poorer man in the so-called region of choice—that is, running expenses, education, recreation, religion, etc. The class deserving the most sympathy is the one with the $2200 income, for they have the training and education of the rich but little with which to satisfy their desires.

Women could be of much help to each other if they would compare the ways and means of spending. There is no better way to do this than for each spender to keep accounts. Most women object to this, because figures are bothersome. But accounts can be kept quite simply by merely marking each day in a little book carried about with one a note of the purchases made and at the end of the month transferring these items to the larger, classified account book. This record studied and carefully weighed will suggest many ways of economizing, and the great educational value of knowing how our money is spent cannot be overestimated.

ORGAN RECITAL.

The last organ recital of the series of monthly organ recitals given at the Church of the Epiphany will be given next Sunday afternoon at 4.15. Mr. J. Albert Wilson, organist, will be assisted by Mr. Arthur S. Allen, instrumental baritone.

The programme will be as follows: Allegro Moderato Mendelssohn "On the Sea" Schubert

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

The former Reynolds estate at the corner of Washington street and Lincoln street, at present belonging to Mr. Philip Blank, is being considered as the place for the proposed cottage hospital. The Boynton house on Cambridge street, is also being considered. Mr. George Harrington, it is said, has offered to give $4000 for the purpose of demonstrating whether such a hospital is needed in Winchester, the project to be given a two years' trial.

Miss Constance Lane entertained a party of fifteen young people at her home on Glen road Saturday evening.

A Winchester boy who is rapidly climbing the ladder of success is Guy P. Palmer, who is making his home in Chicago. Following a series of rapid promotions since his connection with the Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago Terminal Railroad Company, he was recently advanced to the office of division engineer. His many friends in Winchester will be pleased to hear of his success.

Miss Gertrude Lawrence of Rangeley is spending a few days with friends in Portland, Maine.

The waterways improvement committee held a meeting at the Town Hall building Monday evening and organized with Lewis Parkhurst chairman. The matter referred to the committee by the annual town meeting was considered, and it was decided to employ an expert landscape architect and have him study the situation as well as improving the sanitary conditions of the various ponds and streams throughout the town. The matter will be entered upon at once, and the committee expect before long to have a comprehensive plan of the entire situation to submit.

Several Winchester people were among the large audience which packed the Arlington, Town Hall, last Friday evening to see the really delightful production of Sheridan's classic "The Rivals" by the Arlington Woman's Club. They were full of enthusiastic praise for the performance, and for the whole-hearted way in which these women played the various parts without any compromises in lines or in costumes. As one gentleman remarked, they were not only vastly more convincing in their men's dress, but actually seemed the more modest from the very fact that no one emphasized their femininity by any change in the conventional costume. And fancy Sir Lucius O'Trigger with a discreet black satin apron over his small clothes!

The junior promenade of the High school pupils will take place in the Town Hall on the evening of Thursday, April 20. The affair is in charge of a committee consisting of Katherine Fiske, Dorothy Furbush, Esther Parsley, Harold Farnsworth and Harold Whealey.

It appears that the town will again enjoy base ball this summer, William Callahan, captain of last year's team, being already in the field with a nine for 1911. It is planned to have the first game on the 19th of April with the Medford team, and a series of games with a number of strong amateur teams has already been arranged.

On account of other meetings the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary will be held Thursday, April 13, instead of Tuesday, at 10 a. m. The meeting will be held with Mrs. Henry Smalley. Work for a poor family. Basket lunch.

IMPROVEMENTS OF THE COUNTRY CLUB.

Many improvements have been planned for the Winchester Country Club Golf course. The changes probably will not be completed, ready for regular play until well along in the season.

The third or fifth holes are to be lengthened, the latter appreciably, and the play at the fourth hole will be resisted until the tee where the green has been in the past.

With these improvements the Winchester links will be one of the best in this part of the country.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Winchester is so rich that even town property in the business centre is completely lost sight of by town officials.

Another piece nearly was advanced in value by the Assessors last year 82 per cent, over the previous price. A gold mine must have been discovered on it, as there has been no advance in any other centre land for many years.

Why not settle with the centre property owners in re grade crossing abolition on the basis of what their properties would be worth if the Commission's plan prevailed?

So the STAR thinks the grade crossing matter will be brought up again at a near future town meeting. What for, to appoint another committee? I will agree that of necessity it would be better than the last one, but what's the use? Let's wait until a tangible proposition under House bill 1413 is put up to us and give "committeeing" a rest.

One more committee on ponds and streams let loose, and this one has some money to spend too, and I hope it will first invest in a motor boat and make good use of it in these spring months when the water is high and they can reach the sources of the rampant Aberjona. It is not only a watery but a weighty subject and calls for much prayerful work.

Does any citizen know when a full re-valuation of the town was last made? The earliest valuation list I happen to have before me is that of 1904, and the 1910 list shows no changes on land or buildings, over the greater part of the town. We certainly ought to have a full re-valuation this year and I believe the town will approve of any reasonable expense to obtain it. This is not a country town, but a suburb of Boston, and values do not lie dormant.

I trust that at the next town meeting we will have presented for adoption some common sense rules and not the absurd ones we have been acting under for some time. Let the Selectmen and town counsel attend to it.

The valuations committee should cause to be accomplished very important work and will it it does not go to sleep. It has need of much back bone, and should get results some way and get them this year, too.

Brother Spates needs a press agent. He could not buy a roller without authority from the Selectmen of course, and they did not have it to give, so why get stirred up over what some romance may have said or was reported as saying. We all want lots of things we think we need, but when we cannot have them get along very comfortably without. Hire a little dinky roller.

I wonder if our School Committee will demand the usual increase next year it the number of pupils is no larger or perhaps smaller than now? If they do, what can we do about it?

Far more new speakers than at any previous town meeting and they spoke well to, the movement appears to be spreading and perhaps by next year our Commonwealth and some of our old timers may be relieved of some of the weighty affairs of state that have oppressed us and distressed others in past town meetings.

The present legislature does not improve with experience and the House is the limit. The Senate has done very well so far, but on certain measures it will go wrong. The executive is a very strong man and cannot be influenced, for bad or good.

BUILDING AT RIDGEFIELD.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I thought perhaps some of our progressive town people might be glad to know what has been done in developing this part of our beautiful town during the past year—I purchased one year ago today, March 31, Sanborn Hill corner Main and Sanborn streets now known as Ridgefield. I have spent in constructing streets, walks and residences, $65,000. One has been occupied by myself, 6 have been sold to permanent owners all to be occupied on or before July 1st, 1911. I am planning to build to more this season ranging in price from $8800 to $12,000.

There has been created and not yet assessed property amounting to $50,000, this will no doubt be pleasing to our assessors. This will not however be pleasing to those who try to retard progress and wish to perpetuate their name by some other man's energy.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

There is no reason to be astonished at the success of "The End of the Bridge" at the Castle Square. Among plays of recent years it has no rival for its straight forward plot and vigorous characters, and it will therefore begin its sixth week on Monday with every sign of continued popularity.

Every player helps to make for the success of "The End of the Bridge." Mr. Craig an excellent Dr. Garret, Miss Young a delightful Jane Manning, while Miss McDannell's Peter is one of the most charming little boys ever seen on the stage. The other roles are well acted by Mr. Hassell, Mr. Walker, Miss Colcord and Mr. Hickey.

Sullivan Brothers, the well known barbers, have bought out the shop formerly operated by A. Latorte on Main street. The shop will be run as usual under the new management, Chris and Bob Sullivan conducting both places.

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

W. H. S. NOTES.

Base ball practice has been going on during the week and the boys are showing up well. Warren G. du Lu, last year's pitcher, will be in the box again this year, with Crapster, Wilde, and Downer as substitutes. Mincke and Marchant are showing up well behind the bat. Capt. LeDuc will play at short this year, with Donovan or Prime taking his place at the first, where he has played the last two seasons. Flinn is booked for second and Hilton or Pierce at third. Among the candidates for the outfield are Donovan, Motbs, Thompson, Matthews, and Anderson.

The first game is next Wednesday, April 12, at Wakefield. Everybody should go over and give the team a rousing start for a winning season.

The fourth number of the Recorder will come out next Tuesday.

At a meeting of the class of 1911 held last Thursday, Margaret Mason was elected class historian, Marguerite Waldmeyer and Walter Kramer Prophets, George LeDuc Statistician, and Eunice Homer poet. It was also voted to have the class day exercises strictly private.

"The Winchester School Recorder is too slim to live long." (April number of Allen School Feller.) But it has been improving lately, and we hope the next number will be much better.

The first prize, two one dollar tickets, for the posters advertising the class play was awarded to Francis Getty and the second, two seventy-five cent tickets, to Katherine Fiske. The judges were Mr. Herron, Mr. Wixom and Miss Hill. Others who handed in posters were Small, Robinson and Barbara Pratt, two.

CENTRAL THE BEST.

The Calumet Club teams met the Central Club of Somerville in the last of the invitation games in the Mystic Valley League on Tuesday night. The visitors came to Winchester by special electric, a large delegation turning out. Matches in billiards, pool, bowling and whist were run off, the local club losing the match 7 to 10.

In the billiards Smalley defeated Ash
175 to 162, and Conins defeated Solomon
175 to 112. Calumet lost both pool matches, Cutter losing to Jackson 75 to 39, and Stevens to Wemyss 75 to 74.
The whist was lost 2 to 1.

In the bowling some excellent scores were made. The Calumet league team lost three points on a total of 1545.
Central's team rolled a single of 565 and a total of 1562. Some remarkable individual scores were made. Following are some of the singles and totals:
Olmsd 125, 122, and 343; Rooney 123 and 330; Newman 321; Purington 303.

SPRING BOWLING

TOURNAMENT.

The only match in the spring bowling tournament at the Calumet Club during the week was rolled on Wednesday night between teams 1 and 4. The former won the match three to one. The first string went to team 1 by a good margin, but team 4 took the second by enough pins to tie the total. The third was won by a margin of five. Corey had the best total with 322.

WORLD IN BOSTON SOON TO OPEN

Great Missionary Exposition to Have 20,000 Demonstrators

EXHIBITS FROM MANY LANDS

Entire Mechanics Building in Boston to Be Occupied For Four Weeks Beginning April 22nd—Native Life and Mission Work All Over the World Will Be Shown in Brilliant Scenes

Preparations for the great missionary exposition officially known as "The World in Boston," toward which for months past, the interest of church leaders, Christian workers and business men of Boston and a considerable section of New England, has been directed, is rapidly maturing, and on Saturday, April 22, the doors will open. This notable religious undertaking, the significant name of which has become familiar to multitudes through the columns of the newspapers, will occupy the entire Mechanics building on Huntington avenue, Boston, for a period of four weeks. An appropriate program, embracing addresses by leading speakers, will inaugurate the opening on April 22, of this unique demonstration of the great enterprise of missions. Samuel B. Capen, LL. D., of Boston, chairman of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions; Bishop William Lawrence, of Episcopal diocese of eastern Massachusetts; President W. H. Faunce of Brown university, Providence, R. I.; Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., president of the United and World's Society of life of the non-Christian countries to which they are assigned. The picture shows two women in the African village demonstrating the pounding of grain by native Africans and the preparation of the flour thus formed, for food.

AFRICAN VILLAGE SCENE

The musical feature of the Exposition is the Pageant of Darkness and Light, to be presented every afternoon and evening in the great pageant hall. More than 3500 people have volunteered for the choir and platform of the Pageant. There are five episodes covering the four quarters of the earth, north, south, east and west, with a closing scene, in each of which 200 persons will take part. The music is difficult, but beautiful. There are not only grand hymns, but choruses which thrill with their intensity, marches which make the hearer beat time involuntarily and selections which are highly dramatic or tragic. The Pageant was presented in London in 1908 to crowds of people every day. It was regarded there as one of the greatest religious spectacles of the century.

Those who have been chosen as soloists include Miss Blanche Towle of Boston, as soprano; Miss Adelaide Briggs of East Somerville, Mass., as contralto; Mrs. Francis Annesley of London, Eng., mezzo-soprano; Mr. Henry Gurney of Philadelphia, tenor; Mr. Frank Conly of Philadelphia, bass; Mr. William Gustafson, Jr., of Boston, as baritone.

WORLD IN BOSTON HAS FINE POSTER

Design of Great Missionary Exposition, Becoming Known Throughout New England

The official poster of "The World in Boston," bearing the design of the cross and the Arab, is becoming very familiar throughout New England. It is one of the means by which the great Missionary Exposition to be held in the Mechanics building, Boston, from April 22 to May 20, is being made known.

"THE WORLD IN BOSTON" POSTER

The design is used on "The World in Boston" stamps, of which nearly a million have been issued, an attractive button bears the same picture; the cover of the Exposition Herald has the cross and the figure and it will be seen also on the handbook and on the programs. The posters which are appearing on the billboards and the cards in the Boston street cars also carry the same characteristic design, and it has been reproduced in a small size to hang in churches.

An idea of the striking poster may be had from the picture. The cross, which bears a view of the city of Boston, is blue, and the ground tint is yellow. The robe of the figure is gray and the lettering is red, there being four colors and many tints.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

An exceptionally good list of features for B. F. Keith's Theatre the week of April 10th is now in preparation, and when the full bill is announced it is confidently predicted that it will be one of the strongest offered at that house during the entire season. It is sufficient to say that one of the features already engaged is Louis Simon, who will produce one of the funniest sketches ever put on in vaudeville, called The New Coachman. A new feature of the week will be Lou Anger, a Western comedian in a German soldier character. Barry and Wolford will be seen in a new comedy called "At the Song Booth;" Oscar Lorraine, the wonderful impersonator of famous violinists, and a big feature for the children will be Maude Stickney's Circus, with some of the most intelligent trained animals that have ever been seen on the stage. Annie and Ethel Conley are also booked for that week.

THE OTHER SIDE.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you kindly print the enclosed paragraphs which is anti-suffrage in sentiment, as people like to read something on the other side. Thanking you in advance,

Very truly,

E. M. G.

A canvass of women municipal electors in England shows astonishing results, for the very class in whose interests the Conciliation Bill is framed, do not desire woman suffrage. The whole case for the Conciliation Bill rests on the assumption that those women who now have the municipal vote are those who suffer the most crying injustice in now having the parliamentary vote. Those members who voted for the Conciliation Bill did not hesitate to make this assumption, just as Mr. Balfour makes the wider assumption that women in general want the suffrage. Figures show that among women householders and women with occupations, there is no grievance. The vast majority of women in England declare they do not want the parliamentary vote.

Of those who answered the questions put to them, out of a total electorate of 41,757 the great number of 18,850 are opposed to "Votes for Women," and only 5,579 in favor. Out of these canvassed 12,621 have not answered. It is reasonable to suppose that mostly these, it not all, are opposed, or at least indifferent, for it is not to be supposed that so many woman suffragists would fail to declare the faith that is in them, well knowing that the results of the canvass might be used against their cause.

It is certain that the majority against woman suffrage is very large.

REFUSED TO PAY FARE—

FINED FIVE DOLLARS.

It cost Joseph Sanders, of 72 Third street, Chelsea, five dollars in the District Court of Lynn for refusing to pay fare on Boston & Maine train between Chelsea and Salem.

Sanders presented a season ticket, the date limit of which had expired three days before. Conductor Arthur R. Gray explained that he could not accept the expired ticket for passage and demanded payment of fare. Sanders refused to pay and also refused to leave the train at the next stop.

When the train arrived at Lynn, Conductor Gray placed him under arrest and took him to police headquarters.

Sanders was arraigned before Judge Loomis in the District Court the following day and was fined five dollars.

TEACHERS' CLUB MEET.

The Winchester Teachers' Club held a very enjoyable social last Friday evening in the Assembly Hall of the High school building. The program consisted of readings by Miss Hendrix of the High school, a short play, entitled "The Paper Match," and dancing. In the play Miss Moulton made a delightfully charming young girl, Miss Jepson played the part of a most proper maiden aunt, Mr. Hefflon as Corp. Browne took his part to perfection and Mr. Bowles as Sam, the bashful young man, was exceedingly good. Refreshments were served and dancing followed. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Miss Dodge, chairman, Miss Sanborn, Miss Marden, Miss Stott, Miss Hendrix, Miss Hill and Mr. Herron.

WINCHESTER'S BUSY YOUNG WOMAN.

Since the days of "The Mikado" when Poo-Bah became famous in his various official capacities few people have been so formidable a rival for the honors of such a group of positions as Miss Mabel W. Stinson of this town. As assistant town clerk, deputy collector of taxes, assistant to the town treasurer, agent of the board of health, agent of the overseers of the poor, assistant town auditor, assistant clerk for the assessors, cemetery commissioners, tree warden, selectmen, town engineer and occasionally other boards, she has shown a versatility that has made her record unique in the annals of Mass. town governments.

NEW LOCATION.

The Winchester Exchange will move into new quarters next week. The firm will occupy the vacant store in the new block adjoining the Middlesex County National Bank.

Edmund C. Sanderson, the electrician, will occupy the store vacated by the Exchange after extensive alterations have been made.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Press Bible Question Club.

April 9th, 1911.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) Elisha's Heavenly Defenders. 2 Kings vi:8-23.

Golden Text—For He shall give His angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. Ps. 91:11.

(1.) Verses 8-10—Were wars ever really necessary?

(2.) Will wars ever cease, and what are the signs?

(3.) How did Elisha find out what the plans of the King of Syria were?

(4.) What reason is there, if any, to believe that some men to-day are able to tell what is in the minds of others?

(5.) Is mind reading any more wonderful than other phenomena with which we are familiar, for example wireless telegraphy?

(6.) Will there ever be any regrettable events in the life of any man who carefully obeys the voice of God in his soul?

(7.) Verse 11—If a man's plans are repeatedly unsuccessful is that a sure sign, or not, that they are not of God? Why?

(8.) Verse 12—Was Elisha's ability to tell what the King of Syria was saying, when at a great distance from him, natural or supernatural?

(9.) Are clairvoyants, clairaudients, and others who claim similar powers noted for their spirituality?

(10.) Verses 13-14—Why did Elisha allow himself to be shut up in Dothan if he knew all the King of Syria was doing?

(11.) What reason, if any, is there to believe that God sometimes plans to get his children into a tight, or dangerous place?

(12.) Which good man at the end of life is the better off, the one who has had a constant fight with opposing forces all through life, or the one who has had an easy time, and why? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(13.) Verse 15—Was the fear displayed by Elisha's servants natural and free from all blame? Why?

(14.) Why, or why not, should a Christian be blamed if his heart trembles in the presence of grave difficulties?

(15.) Verse 16—Would any man ever fear if he knew the full mind of God, and was his true follower?

(16.) Verse 17—Where is the spirit world?

(17.) What reason is there for the belief that we are surrounded by spiritual intelligences?

(18.) Is there any reason to think that our spiritual visions can be cultivated to see, and our ears to hear, the spirits by whom we are encompassed?

(19.) Verse 18—Did God smite the entire army with blindness or only the officers?

(20.) Verse 19—Did Elisha lie to the Syrians?

(21.) What is a lie?

(22.) Was Elisha justified in deceiving the Syrians?

(23.) Verses 20-23—When we have our enemy in our power should we do to him as he had tried to do to us?

(24.) What is the best way to treat an enemy when he is in our power?

Lesson for Sunday, April 16th 1911. Joseph the Boy King. Crowned in Judah. 2 Kings xii:1-20.

Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare E. J. Liquid Cream Palm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, pain-alleviating Cream Palm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray is a remedy that relieves at once. All druggists sell, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 16 Warren Street, New York.

Bear in mind all the time that we are booming Wakefield and not "Greater Boston," "Real Boston," or any other clever scheme to rob us of our independence and our own municipal government. The promoters of the aforesaid schemes picture the results in glowing terms and would have us believe that great benefits would derive. A careful examination will show, however, that they are looking out for Boston all the time and Wakefield would be benefited none whatever. —[Wakefield Banner.]

TOWN NOTES.

Under the new law which went into effect Jan. 1, requiring the certification of all town notes by the director of the bureau of statistics, 274 notes of 115 towns have been certified during the quarter ending March 31, amounting in the aggregate to $2,589,924.40. The number of notes certified in March alone was 220, aggregating $2,307,455. The greater part for tax loans authorized at recent town meetings.

Concerning the operation of the law, director Gettens says: "There is no doubt that as a direct result of the law and the advice and influence of this bureau, the towns have, in many cases, exercised far greater care this year in the matter of complying with the requirements of the general statutes in regard to incurring debt, than ever before."

HUMANE DAY.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am sending you under another cover a copy of the new Humane Manual for use in the public schools of the Commonwealth, Tuesday, April 11, 1911. Kindly notice this event.

Over 1,000 teachers (excepting primary grades) including many High schools, under the care of 150 superintendents, with hundreds of thousands of school children join this year in the observance of Humane Day. The American Humane Education Society and the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, (known as the Angell Societies) have sent this Manual to all teachers gratuitously. All but two or three towns have heartily joined in this movement. Now Boston and Fall River, by reason of vacations, this year observe the 7th of April as Humane Day.

The initial object of Humane Day is to emphasize the duty of men to the brute creation, both from the viewpoint of science and of sentiment. The more comprehensive purpose as embodied in the Manual is to teach the humanity of peace and of mercy against crime, war and all forms of violence.

This is the fifth anniversary of Humane Day, which was started in the Boston schools April 12, 1906. The second of April has been set apart by the school authorities of Boston for this purpose. And the other cities and towns have accepted this date.

Very truly yours,
A. Judson Leach,
State Organizer.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Ethel Barrymore is certain of receiving a warm welcome during the fortnight beginning April 10 when she is to be seen at the Hollis Street Theatre, in Boston. As an actress, brilliant in early promise and in later fulfillment she has won for herself an immense following. She stands today as one of the really commanding figures on the stage and is liked for herself as well as for the art she so skillfully spreads over all that she does. The double bill is made up of Barrie's early work, "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire" and the latest contribution from his pen, "The Twelve Pound Look." During the long season that she spent in New York this double bill was Miss Barrymore's chief offering and its success could not have been more emphatic.

The company surrounding Miss Barrymore is strong and well balanced. The leading man is Charles D. Ron.

The matinees during Miss Barrymore's short stay at the Hollis will be on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said Court, to grant a letter of administration on the estate said said deceased, to Mary J. Chisholm of Winchester, in the County of Middlesex, without giving a surety on her bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the thirtieth day of April, A. D. 1911, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Winchester STAR, a newspaper published in Winchester, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, CHARLES J. MONTGOMERY, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day of March, in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

Mortgagee's Sale.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in certain mortgage deed, given by Janet Lytton and Henry Lytton to Charles A. Ramsdell, dated March 1, 1906, recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, lib. 2343 fol. 158, and for breach of the condition contained in said mortgage will be sold by public auction upon the premises in Winchester in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, on all and singular, the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and therein described as follows:

MONDAY, the seventeenth day of April, 1911, at three o'clock in the afternoon,

A certain lot of land with the buildings thereon, situated on Main Street in said Winchester and bounded and described as follows, viz: Beginning at the Southeast corner of said premises on said Main Street at a point one hundred and two (102) feet distant from lot No. 17 on a plan of the "Winchester and Boston Railroad" dated May, A. D. 1847, thence the line runs in a Northwesterly direction on the Southern half of lot No. 16 on said plan, one hundred and twenty (120) feet to lot numbered 15 on said plan, then turning and running in a Northwesterly direction eighty-four and one half (84 1/2) feet to said lot No. 7; then turning and running in a Southerly direction one hundred and twenty (120) feet to said Main Street; thence by and with said Main Street one hundred and two (102) feet to the point of beginning; containing according to said plan ten thousand and four hundred and two (10,402) square feet, more or less, and being the Northern half of lot No. 16 on said plan and being the same premises conveyed to me, the said Janet Lytton, by Hamilton Stevenson by his deed dated April 14th, A. D. 1875, and recorded with Middlesex deeds S. D. B. 105, Page 46, B. 1, 1875. The sale will be made subject to any outstanding tax titles, unpaid taxes, or nonpayment liens which may be on the premises.

A deposit of $2.00 will be required of the purchaser at the time and place of the sale, balance within ten days of the sale, at the office of Littlefield & Fiddler, 24 North Street, Boston, Mass. The deposit to be returned if the purchaser does not take the property within said period.

ARTHUR E. WHITNEY, Trustee under the Will of Charles A. Ramsdell, present holder of said mortgage.

Among the signers of a brief sent to every member of the State House of representatives, was Honorable Samuel J. Elder of this town. The brief was signed by many eminent Boston lawyers and called attention to what is considered the objectionable character of a bill now pending in the House providing for trial by jury on the issue of fact in certain cases of contempt of court. Mr. Elder has taken a prominent part in this opposition and says that the legislation is not called for and will benefit only guilty parties who are seeking to delay or defeat just and wholesome laws, orders and regulations.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The Congregational Sunday school anticipates an unusually pleasant celebration in the Church vestry this evening, as it is the first opportunity that has been offered the young people to meet the new pastor informally. Mr. Hodgdon expressed his regret that it was necessary to exclude all under the age of sixteen from the parish reception and so the boys and girls are going to have him all to themselves tonight, to the exclusion of their elders. The social hour will be preceded by a short entertainment which will begin promptly at 7.30.

The recent changing of the mileage from Boston to Winchester Highlands, by the Boston and Maine (N. Y. N. H. & H.) has caused no end of comment both in this town and others which were all affected by the elastic measurement. This increase in mileage has been taken up by the board of Railroad Commissioners, and a preliminary investigation is already under way. A man well qualified for such a work has been appointed by the board to give those portions of track on both railroad systems on which the mileage has been increased. He will make a preliminary report of the result of his investigation and the commissioners will then decide whether or not action is necessary.

VISITING NURSE ASSOCIATION

Annual Meeting Attended by a Large Number of Ladies.

The annual meeting of the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association was held in the small Town Hall, Tuesday afternoon, but the attendance was so large that it was necessary to encroach on the space of the large hall. Mrs. Joshua C. Cabot presided, and after listening to the encouraging reports, officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

President, Mrs. Joshua C. Cabot.
Vice-Presidents, Miss K. F. Pond, Miss Alice Shattuck.
Secretary, Mrs. Edwin C. Gilman.
Treasurer, Mrs. Ellen E. Metcalf.
Directors for three years, Finance Committee—Mrs. W. L. Palmer, Mrs. S. F. Herron, Mrs. Mary Richards; Supply Committee—Mrs. W. B. French, Mrs. Frank White; Nursing Committee—Mrs. Eben Page, Mrs. Preston Pond, Mrs. Alexander Foster, Mrs. Herbert Dwinell; Social Service Committee—Mrs. Henry L. Houghton, Mrs. Benjamin T. Church, Mrs. George N. P. Mead, Mrs. Mott A. Cummings, Mrs. Herbert E. Maynard, Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. John Abbott.

After the election of officers, Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Boston spoke on "Education of Affection."

It was announced at the meeting that the usual June breakfast would be held this year.

Many years ago our well remembered and beloved physicians Dr. Winsor and Dr. March urged the need of a Cottage Hospital in Winchester and from time to time since the same strong wish has been expressed by the later physicians and by many of our citizens.

The Winchester Visiting Nurse Association believed that the time has now come when it will be wise to test the public feeling and determine whether a small hospital may not be a blessing to the town.

It is willing to use part of its gradually accumulated fund, together with the promised help of $4000 from Mrs. Harrington, in hiring a house and making the experiment for two years, furnishing a home where the sick can be assured of the best nursing and good food, provided that the residents of Winchester are sufficiently interested in it to contribute the additional money necessary to make it the success that the association believe it will be.

At the end of two years the result is not satisfactory the Hospital will be permanently abandoned.

The Association will be glad to receive contributions for that purpose.

These may be sent to Mrs. Ellen E. Metcalf.

Mary L. Coit,
President W. V. N. Association.

Secretary's Report.

It is twelve years since the Visiting Nurse Association was organized, to give to the people of Winchester, the best home nursing possible. This ambition has carried it far and still urges it to make use of the many contributions offered to enlarge and perfect its work.

The last year has been a prosperous one, the number of members and subscribers has increased—gifts of supplies and of work have been abundant and the nursing has been kept up to its high standard, by the devotion and faithfulness of the nurses, 3193 visits were made by the nurses during the year, representing 689 patients, of these 1224 were free—the remainder paid for in sums ranging from 5 to 50 cents. The largest number of visits ever recorded, 41 were made during the month of March.

In the fall, the Association was threatened with the loss of Miss Billings, who was offered a position in Boston, which would give her a wider field of usefulness.

Reluctant to spare her, the Association granted a three months leave of absence, which gave time for both sides to consider the question. The result was a new department, that of social service, of which Miss Billings was asked to take charge, at an increased salary.

This was made possible by the generosity of a townsman, and in the three months since the work was established, it has demonstrated its helpfulness and its possibilities for good.

This year, there was no June Breakfast—Committees were formed and preparations begun when an epidemic of scarlet fever in the town made it seem unwise to hold so large a gathering.

The failure of the receipts from the Breakfast, which the Association counts upon as part of its income, would mean a great loss; and, in this emergency, it was decided to appeal to the community to make it good. People were asked to give the price of one or more tickets or the cost of food usually contributed, and so generous was the response that $750 was collected, showing clearly the interest and sympathy felt by the townspeople in the work of the Association.

In the development of the plan for Social Service, the idea of a Hospital, which has been the aim of the association from the beginning, seemed to take shape and become more insistent, and the promise of $4000 to add to the fund received by the Association for this purpose, made it seem practicable. To test the opinion of the community as to its desirability, the President called a meeting of the Association to see if it would authorize its Executive Committee to hire a house for two years for use as a Hospital. A goodly number met in the small Town Hall and unanimously voted in favor of making the experiment for two years—even those opposed to the plan seemed to think that the time had come to settle the question by a trial.

The plan favored was for a small cottage hospital with the accent on good food and nursing and it is distinctly understood that the work of the Association is to be kept up along the same lines as at present—that the hospital is to be a supplement, not a substitute.

The question of a house is the first to be considered and with the faith that has already accomplished so much the Association hopes for contributions which will enable it to secure one which has been offered and seems most suitable for the purpose. To make this undertaking a success, it is necessary that all should work together with a common aim for the common good.

Anna B. Gilman, Secretary.

Report of the Supply Committee.

A great many demands have been made upon the Supply Committee in the past year, all of which have met with hearty response. We found our closets and shelves well-stocked at the beginning of the year and these, with other supplies which have constantly been coming to us from friends of the Association, have been given out.

So articles have been given away, including new garments, and some partly worn, foods and medicines, large and small dressings, bandages, gauze, cotton lint, and pads.

20 articles have been loaned, also many of our supplies which are especially provided for the use of sick people—such as bed-rest, cabinet chair, wheel chair, crutches, rubber sheet, bedpans, and other things which are kept on hand constantly.

The Ladies Societies connected with the various churches of the town have all been most helpful, and aided the Supply Committee in every possible way to carry on the necessary work. Some have given work, others work and materials, and in this way have been contributed, 12 baby jackets, 1 baby slip, 4 Gertrudes, 7 small petticoats, 200 sponges, 6 sheets, 32 towels (hemmed), 25 nightgowns, 796 pads.

The Sigma Beta Society made 7 Gertrudes, 4 infant's sacks.

Mrs. Claussen, 86 sponges of different sizes.

We are indebted to Mrs. Geo. Parker for baby clothes of different kinds.

Mrs. Frank White has kept us supplied with bandages.

The Winchester Branch of Needle work Guild of America contributed 12 articles, viz: 2 lace cloths, 4 bath towels, 4 pillow slips, 2 nightgowns.

We have made at our room 5 Waterfield Building: 375 sponges, of different sizes, 250 pads—and hemmed 4 doz. towels, rolled in packages of 3, ready for sterilizing. We have purchased 1300 yds. gauze—2 bales cotton waste—2 doz. rolls absorbent cotton—130 yds of gauze have been sold—40 rolls lint, 20 doz. pads, and 2 rolls absorbent cotton.

Generous contributions of supplies and clothing have been sent in by: Mrs. Chas. Baldwin, Mrs. Henry Stone, Mrs. Dr. Houghton, Mrs. Harry Brown, Mrs. Randolph, Mrs. Marshall Jones, Mrs. J. W. Russell, Jr., Mrs. Dr. Ordway, Mrs. William Belcher, Mrs. Chas. Eastwick, Mrs. John Chadwick, Mrs. George Hawley, Mrs. Sullivan Williams, Mrs. L. A. Braddy, Mrs. Henry Metcalf, Mrs. Herbert Underwood, Miss Nowell, Miss Lawrence, Miss Alice Richardson, Mrs. Geo. Goddard, Mrs. Harry A. Bridge.

Kelley & Hawes have kindly stored some of our articles free of charge.

A wheel chair has brought us in a little money, as it has been rented several weeks at a time.

So many bundles that come to us without the name of the donors are of so much use in our work that we regret that a more personal acknowledgment cannot be made.

Our room has been thoroughly renovated and many new furnishings added to make it better adapted to our present needs.

With our enlarged sphere of work we feel that the demands for supplies and useful articles will be even greater than in the past and we hope for the same liberal support and interest in the work that has been manifested from the beginning.

Emma W. Parkhurst.

Report of the Finance Committee.

For the year ending March 31, 1911 the Finance Committee report a very successful one. The membership has increased to the number of 273 which means that—new names have been added to the list, and the subscriptions amount to $277.49.

The Association is indebted to the Fletcher Fund, to the Union Thanksgiving Service for $565, to the Grand Army Service for $5.50 and the Holy Name Society of the Catholic Church for its gift of $100 beside individual subscribers to the number of 233.

The June Breakfast Fund of 1910 amounted to $713.53.

The responses to the call of the Finance Committee have been generous, but, as the work of the Association increases, so also do the expenditures. We ask therefore, liberal contributions and a still larger membership, believing that all who know of the needs and work of the Association will be interested to contribute more generously in the future than in the past.

For the Committee,
Carolyn E. Sanborn.

CHARLES W. BLACKETT PH. D.

Charles W. Blackett, Ph. D., the newly appointed pastor of the Winchester Methodist Episcopal Church was born in Canada. When a young man he came to Massachusetts, graduated from the Chelsea High school and from the college of Liberal Arts of Boston University. His theological course was pursued in the same institute and from it he received his degree of Doctor of Philosophy. His special courses were made in sociology and philosophy.

While a student in college he supplied a Congregational Church in East Boston, and a Methodist in Wellington, Mass. He joined the New England Conference in 1893 and the minutes contain the following appointments 1890, 91, 92, Natick; 93, Everett; 94, 95, 96, 97, Winthrop; 98, 99, Peabody; 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04, 05, South St. Lynn; 06, 07, 08, 09, 10, Robinson Church, Malden.

Dr. Blackett's name often appears in the official minutes of his conference. He is a member of the Board of Examiners, is one of the conference stewards, is a member of the commission on conference churches, is treasurer of the Sustentation Fund, and of the Chelsea Fire Fund. His voice is often heard in debates at the business sessions of the conference.

Dr. Blackett's last pastorate at Robinson Church has been a successful one. A mortgage debt of $4000 was paid, and a fund of $500 for use as a treasurer's balance, established. The prayer meetings have sometimes reached a hundred and the attendance at the Sunday school on April 2 was 353.

Mrs. Blackett was born in Chelsea, Mass., and was a classmate with her husband in High school and college. She also received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Boston University. Perhaps there is no other couple among the Methodist ministers who both hold this title to scholarship.

Their family consists of four boys two of whom are in Malden High school.

Mr. Blackett will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist Church next Sunday morning.

BASE BALL.

The base ball season of the Winchester town team will open next Wednesday the 19th at 3 p. m. with the strong Medford team. This is the team that gave our boys such a good battle last year. They have been greatly strengthened this year, so a good contest is looked for. The Winchester's will be under the management of Geo. D. LeDuc and Edward McKenzie, they have no doubt that a fast team can be got together composed of all local players with the exception of a pitcher, whom they will have to go out of town for.

It is the desire of the management to furnish the boys with new uniforms and the subscriptions will allow.

The Winchester town base ball team will be in the field this season, having been given the use of the Manchester Playground by the Park Commission under certain restrictions. The team will have as Manager, George LeDuc, one of the best posted men on base ball in Winchester. He will look for the support of all ball lovers in town and expects to amply repay them in furnishing a first class team, capable of competing with the best amateur teams of this vicinity.

POSTOFFICE CLOSED

SUNDAYS HEREAFTER.

In accordance with instructions from the First Assistant Postmaster General, the local Post Office will be closed on Sundays on and after Sunday, April 16th, 1911, and no mail will be delivered except to those who have boxes in the office.

The corridor will be open for this purpose from 12 to 1 o'clock at noon for the present.

Any person so desiring may hire a box and have their mail placed therein on Saturday night and Sunday.

Any person can have important letters delivered on Sunday by leaving at the office on Saturday a special delivery stamp and written instructions as to where the expected letter is coming from.

No one to come to the back door for mail, as none will be given out there.

J. W. RICHARDSON,
Postmaster.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

A Brief Review of the Work of the Past Year.

The 31st annual meeting of the Fortnightly was held in the Town Hall on Monday afternoon. After the regular business meeting the annual reports of the officers and chairmen of the standing committees were presented. The report of the recording secretary was exceptionally interesting, giving an outline of the executive, social and philanthropic work of the club during the season.

Excellent work has been done by the various committees, and the reports were most gratifying. Mrs. Dunning the retiring president, who has given two years of loyal devotion and untiring service to the club, thanked the members for their support and co-operation, craving for her successor the same cordiality and helpfulness. Flowers and messages of greeting and sympathy were sent to Mrs. Mabel G. Nichols, the new president, whom account of illness was unable to be present.

The hall had been made most attractive by the social committee. Mrs. Joshua Phippen, chairman, and after a reception to the new officers, teas, cake and coffee were served.

A trio, consisting of Miss French, Miss Prescott and Mr. Bicknell furnished music during the reception.

The following ballot for 1911-1912 was elected:—

President, Mrs. Mabel G. Nichols; First Vice-President, Miss Maude Folts; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Alice R. Farnsworth; Treasurer, Mrs. Lena R. Wellington; Recording Secretary, Miss Helen A. Hall; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Mary F. B. Woods.

CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEES.

Household Economics and Pure Food, Mrs. Katherine W. Herron; Civics and Forestry, Mrs. Lizzie A. Pratt; Education, Mrs. Marion Thompson; Literature, Mrs. Sarah L. Kneeland; Music, Mrs. Carrie B. Herriek; Legislative, Mrs. Susan E. Ranlet; Art, Mrs. Martha B. Drisco; Philanthropy, Mrs. Margaret C. Cummings; Dramatic, Mrs. Carrie F. Wheeler; Member of Finance Committee for three years, Mrs. Mary W. Russell; Member of Finance Committee for one year, Mrs. Cora M. Morgan.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE.

Three years, Mrs. Mary W. Barta; Mrs. Elizabeth P. Hodge; Two years, Mrs. Marilla J. Armstrong; Mrs. Alice M. Whitney; One year, Mrs. Minnie L. Russell, Mrs. Josephine P. French.

The Annual Report.

For programs delightfully varied perhaps no year can claim more than the one just closing. We recall with pleasure our "Guest Day," the last of April, when ladies from other clubs enjoyed with us the first appearance of our "Choral Class," conducted by Mr. Albert Edmund Brown; the May meeting, when one of the greatest favorites of "The Fortnightly," Miss Grace Chamberlain, presented "The Taming of the Shrew," and the story of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

The program of the first meeting of the fall, "Vacation Symposium," arranged by the president, Mrs. Dunning, proved to be not only the meeting place of many roads traveled during the summer, but also the place for cheerily renewing hopes and plans for the year.

Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton, who gave the wholesome "Message of the Indian" and pictured "The Outdoor Life" was much enjoyed, and the enthusiastic audience who, with Mr. Garrett journeyed through "The Lorna Doone Country" and with Mr. Gleason, enjoyed the wonderful scenery of "The Hetch Hetchy Valley" expressed in no doubtful manner their approval of these stereotypical lectures.

Mr. Henry Turner Bailey gave many practical suggestions on "Art," and from Mr. William D. Swan, much interesting information about "The Gathering and Scattering of News" was gained; while, for pure fun, no one could have been more charmingly entertaining, than was Mrs. Elizabeth Pooler Rice in her recital of "Miss Hobbs."

To Mrs. Ely, chairman of the Literature Committee, The Fortnightly is indebted for a delightful home afternoon "Colonial Day." The club is also indebted to Mrs. Herriek, chairman of the Music committee, for providing music for that afternoon and other regular programs; for arranging a beautiful "Musical" by "The Eaton-Hadley Trio," and the second Concert by the "Choral Class," which has proved itself a valuable asset of "The Fortnightly."

In his lecture, "The Boy and the Gang," M. J. Adams Puffer portrayed vividly and encouragingly the characteristics of "The Boy," and the remarkable opportunities of helping him and his friends develop manly character, and thus build up civic righteousness.

Perhaps at no time has the club appreciated more its good fortune in our fellow-townsmen than on "Gentleman's Night," when Samuel J. Elder, Esq., very graphically told of his successful work at "The Hague" in the interest of "The Fisheries," and Mr. Joshua Phippen delighted every one with his artistically rendered piano selections.

About five hundred enjoyed this program and informal reception. Refreshments were served by the social committee, and the evening closed with informal dancing.

The committee on Civics, Mrs. Pratt chairman, arranged a course of lectures on "Civics" by Professor Ziehl, to which the public were invited, and also the presidents and secretaries of clubs to whom we usually extend courtesies.

Mrs. Herron, chairman of the committee on Household Economics and Pure Food, has provided free lectures on these subjects each month, and has developed much interest.

The Literature committee, Mrs. Ely chairman, has carried on a successful study class, and Miss Vinton, chairman of the Art committee, has arranged several doctory classes in the Boston Art Museum, has taken a party to Mrs. Jack Gardner's Palace, has furnished a framed picture for a room in the Chapin school, has interested the club to buy an annual subscriber's ticket to the Boston Art Museum, which will admit four of the club each year.

The Legislative committee, Mrs. Edward Russell chairman, has attended

FREDERICK A. SANBORN.

Frederick A. Sanborn for twenty-seven years a resident of Winchester, died on Saturday afternoon last in Boston where he was spending the winter. He was in his sixty-eighth year. He was born in Boston and attended the Boston public schools.

For thirty-five years he was connected with the Blackstone Nat. Bank. Following the liquidation of that bank he was associated for some years with Mr. Redfern in the Winchester Savings Bank. Upon the failure of his health about four years ago he retired from active business.

He was for many years a Deacon of Tremont Temple Church, Boston and for nearly twenty years had served as Deacon of the Baptist Church in this town. He had also served from time to time as Church Treasurer and S. S. Superintendent as well as filling many positions of trust and usefulness.

He leaves a widow and one son, Harry C. Sanborn of Winchester also one sister. The funeral service was held at his late home on Black Horse terrace on Tuesday afternoon. The Pastor, Rev. Henry E. Hodge, was assisted in the service by the Rev. James A. Francis, D. D. pastor of Clarendon Street Baptist Church, Boston and by the Rev. Joseph F. Fielden of Winchendon, Mass., formerly pastor in Winchester who paid eloquent tributes of love and respect to the blessed memory of him who had entered into rest.

Some features of the funeral service were of unusual character. Upon the casket lay the two Bibles which he had studied daily for thirty five years. One Bible was open at the 8th chapter of Romans where he had written the word "Victory." Both Bibles were well-worn and showed that the valiant soldier of the cross had used his sword constantly in gaining the victory.

Inside the front cover of one Bible were found two poems which were dear to him, and they were read at the service. "If I could live to God for just one day, One blessed day, from early dawn of light,

Till purple twilight deepened in tonight—A day of faith unflinching, true, complete, Of love unfeigned and perfect charity, Of hope undimmed, of courage past dismay,

Of heavenly peace, patient humility,—No hint of duty to constrain my feet, No dream of ease to lull to listlessness, Within my heart no root of bitterness, No yielding to temptation's subtle sway,— Methinks in that one day I would so expand

My soul to meet such holy, high demand, That never, never more could hold me bound, This shriveling husk of self that wraps me round, So that I henceforth live to God always."

"Spirit of God! Descend upon my heart; Wean it from earth, through all its pulses move, Stoop to my weakness, mighty as Thou art, And make me love Thee as I ought to love.

I ask no dream, no prophet ecstasies; No sudden rending of the veil of day; No angel visitant, no opening skies; But take the dimness of my soul away, Hast Thou not bid us love Thee, God and King?

All, all Thine own, soul, heart and strength and mind; I see Thy cross, then teach my heart to cling! O, let me seek Thee, and O, let me find, Teach me to feel that Thou art always night;

Teach me the struggles of the soul to bear; To check the rising doubt, the rebel sigh; Teach me the patience of unanswered prayer, Teach me to love Thee as Thine angels love, One holy passion filling all my frame; The baptism of the Heaven descended Dove, My heart an altar, and Thy love the flame?"

BOAT CLUB MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Winchester Boat Club was held on Tuesday night at the club house. The following officers were elected:

President, Charles A. Gleason
Vice-Pres., James H. Gerlach
Secretary, T. Price Wilson
Treasurer, William Adriance
Fleet Captain, George B. Cummings
Directors, Vincent Farnsworth, Schuyler F. Herron, Preston E. Corey, Dexter P. Blaikie, Hermann D. Murphy, Fred M. Bates, Charles S. Tenney, Charles R. Jeffers.

The report of the treasurer showed the club to be in the most prosperous condition in its history, and the opening season will probably be very active. Following the meeting those present enjoyed lunch and a social evening.

The season will open April 30th, when the steward will be engaged.

HURT BY AUTO.

On Wednesday evening Thomas Crawford of Vine street was struck by an automobile while riding a bicycle on Mt. Vernon street and badly injured. The accident occurred at the corner of Mt. Vernon street and Converse place. The automobile was being driven at a moderate speed from Converse place, but the blind corner prevented the sight of the bicyclist. Crawford saw the car through the show window of Win's store and attempted to turn to the opposite side of the street, but could not escape being struck. He was thrown from his wheel and painfully bruised, and was later treated by Dr. Cummings and removed to his home.

MAY PARTY.

The annual May Party given for the children of the town under the auspices of the Ladies' Friendly Society will be held in the Town Hall, on Saturday, April 29, from 2 to 5 p. m.

Tickets at 35 and 50 cents may be procured of Mrs. Wm. E. Cummings, 6 Elmwood avenue. Telephone 455-3.

W. H. S. NOTES.

The Junior promenade takes place Thursday night and the class play Saturday night. Don't forget these dates.

The next base ball game is tomorrow afternoon with Lexington H. S. in Winchester. There is also one a week from tomorrow afternoon with Lynn Classical H. S. in Winchester.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

While The Spectator is of the opinion that it would be hopelessly effeminate in a man to be a professional housekeeper, he knows one gentleman who does, nevertheless, co-operate with the "lady of the house" in a multitude of ways in maintaining a high standard of order throughout the house. Here are a few of the ways in which he assists:

1. Straightens disarranged pictures.
2. Picks up pins and scraps that have found their way to the floor.
3. Confines the discarding of cigar ashes to the receivers alone.
4. Helps his wife do the dishes.
5. Rearranges disordered furniture.
6. Maintains a general neatness.

In the opinion of The Spectator the strict observance of these six rules may truthfully be called the most gallant of real gallantry.

A layman has some old Bibles in his library, some of them being dated back to the early part of the sixteenth century. Several of them would bring a considerable sum if placed in the market for sale. The Spectator himself has a Bible dated 1724 but has never made any inquiry to determine what money value is attached thereto. It has been in The Spectator's family since 1791. Some copies of the Bible are almost beyond price. Copies of the Gutenberg Bible, the first book ever printed, are so rare that experts place the price at $50,000, though none are offered for sale at any price. At the last sale, the Ashburnham copy in 1897, was for $20,000, but today twice that amount would not buy the book. Next to the Gutenberg Bible comes the Psalter, the first book ever printed with a date. The date is 1457. It offered for sale this Psalter would also bring $50,000. A copy of the same Psalter, but of later date, 1459, when last publicly sold brought $12,000. It is now owned by J. P. Morgan, but the price he paid is private and unknown. The Vanderbilt copy of the Bay Psalm Book, printed at Cambridge, Mass., in 1640, was purchased for $6,000 but would easily bring $10,000 at the present time. The Bay Psalm Book, of 1640, was the first book ever printed in the country. The number of existing copies, has much to do with the price of a book.

A Pleasant street gentleman dispensed this bit of philosophy the other day: The old-fashioned man who found fault with his wife now has a son who prefers to find another wife.

A young man gives The Spectator to understand that the reason he makes it a rule never to become engaged to a two-faced girl is because he is afraid somebody else is kissing one of them.

"What makes that man so fat?" inquired a child on an Arlington bound car in an outburst of rage. "Be quiet, dear," said the child's mother, I think its food."

The other day The Spectator saw a barefooted and bareheaded boy and asked him if he didn't have shoes. "My mother only lets me wear shoes when I go to school." He looked very rugged so The Spectator presumes it is doing him no harm.

On a Woburn car The Spectator overheard a couple of gentlemen discussing woman's headgear, one of them said that fashion is becoming sane again and has decreed that the merry widow inverted washtub and other "creations" which the women folks have been using as "hats" for the last three years shall be cast aside. It doesn't matter now what sort of hat the ladies wear or whether they wear any at all," remarked the gentleman. "All they have to do is to wear a cap, and this cap may have any sort of variation to suit the fancy of the wearer." The Spectator can't help wondering why men will worry themselves over women's problems. It doesn't get one anything. Whether they imitate the milliner's "creations" or condemn them with acridity makes no difference to the ladies in Winchester or elsewhere. It was said by a wise man long ago that man is a worm, and what can a worm hope to accomplish by bristling against the dictates of fashion? There was a time when husbands were in authority in their own homes, when their words were law in their own households, but that was in the good old days when wives were subject to their lords and when physical force was not in the dispute that has latterly overtaken it. Man has consented to his own undoing, and he is paying the penalty. Some of the penalty, moreover is in the form of millinery bills.

The people who are coming to Winchester are of the most desirable type and mean a great deal for the future of Winchester. The reputation of Winchester as a residential town is spreading far and wide. The Spectator is proud he lives here.

There are many persons who give advice and some who seek it, but the few who take it are unimportant.

The kind of person who looks before he leaps hardly ever has to jump sideways.

A gentleman with the toothache had to explain to all the friends he met that his gums didn't feel very spruce.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

The Woburn Hebrew Association's request for a permit to use certain lands in Montvale for burial purposes has been refused by Woburn's City Council.

The many friends in town of the veteran actor Mr. Denman Thompson of Old Homestead frame will be pleased to know he is gradually improving in health and will soon be about again.

A most interesting sight was witnessed on Saturday by the residents of Hillcrest. A flock of purple grackles, which must have been made up of thousands, settled in the fields and lawns in the early morning and did not go away until noontime. These birds are seen in the summer feeding on new cut grass in numbers of two's or three's, but no such unusual sight as that of Saturday.

Mr. Laughran, of Clematis street, has purchased a Shetland pony for his son.

Mrs. M. B. Thompson of Black Horse Terrace and Mrs. C. E. Corey of the Parkway leave Friday to attend the 20th continental congress of the D. A. R. at Washington. These ladies will visit several cities in other states on their way home. They will be away several weeks.

Mr. Herbert Underwood of Central street is entertaining his mother and two sisters from the west.

Mrs. Lester Langley of Church street is a sufferer from the grip.

L. V. Niles has sold his 12-room cement house and 9546 feet of land, known as lot 27 on Ravenscroft road, assessed for $12,900, to William H. Tucker, who buys for investment. He has also sold lot 37, containing 8330 feet on Ravenscroft road, with frontage on Mystic lakes.

A lady accompanied by a young girl met a neighbor on Highland avenue the other day when the latter said, "I believe my two children are coming down with the whooping cough." "O, I am so glad," said the young girl, "because I can now play with them." She was just getting over the whooping cough, and was not allowed to play with other children.

The ringing of the private box at Bacon's Felt Mills on Saturday morning caused considerable excitement, it being thought that the mill was on fire. The fire proved to be only grass however, it being on land of H. C. Nickerson on Grove street. The residents telephoned to the mill for assistance, and as it was understood there that the fire was serious, the private box was rung in. When the department arrived the fire was practically out.

An unusually pleasant time was enjoyed by all who attended the last meeting of the Ladies' Western Missionary Society. The guest of honor for the day was Mrs. E. L. Baldwin who with her husband, Deacon Baldwin, sailed for Naples on April 8. After lunch, the president of the society, Mrs. Murdock, spoke a few words of welcome to Mrs. Baldwin and expressed on behalf of the society the wish that she might have a pleasant voyage and safe return. The ladies then sang together "God be with you till we meet again" and united in the Mizpah benediction.

INDIAN MASSACRE IN KING PHILLIP'S WAR.

A Sad Tragedy that Took Place in Winchester.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On the afternoon of April 10th., two hundred and thirty-five years ago, Mr. Samuel Richardson who lived on present Washington street, Winchester, on what has been lately known as the Joseph Stone farm, west of the late Nathaniel Richardson's residence, was engaged in teaming manure on to an out-lying field. He had with him his son Samuel, about six years old. His wife, Hannah, who had lately been confined, was in the house. With her was a nurse, a twin brother of the young Samuel named Thomas, and a young baby daughter named Hannah. The father of the family frequently looked toward the house to see if there were any signs of the dreaded Indians who had just taken up the hatchet in King Phillip's war. In one of his frequent observations, he saw feathers flying about and other signs of mischief. He hastened home and found his wife, Hannah and his son Thomas had been killed in the house. Upon further search, it was found that the nurse had saved her life by running to a neighboring block house. When she started for the place of safety, she seized the young daughter, Hannah, but she was so closely pursued by the Indians that she was forced to drop the babe to save her own life. The Indians killed the daughter. As there were no more people about the farm for them to kill, the savages took to the neighboring woods, now known as the Middlesex Fells. Mr. Richardson rallied his neighbors and all went in pursuit of the enemy. The Indians were tracked for some time and at last the white men came up to three of the band sitting upon a large rock. Mr. Richardson and his party succeeded in surprising the Indians and in getting in the first shot, but the Indians ran after the first volley into deeper woods where they could not be readily located. As it was getting late in the day and darkness coming on, the pursuers were afraid they might themselves be waylaid or decoyed into danger before reaching home to protect their families from a dreaded night attack on the settlement. They were ignorant of the number of the Indians and they thought best to retrace their steps and look after the safety of the settlement, leaving the pursuit of the Indians until the next day. The night passed without further attack from the foe and when the hunt for the Indians was again taken up, it was found that the volley fired at the Indians sitting upon the rock had done good service. By tracking the blood sprinkled on the trail from the rock, the body of a dead Indian was found hastily buried under brush and leaves by his companions. Indian like, they had all fled at the first effective and vigorous attack of the white men. It will never be known how much of a general massacre of the settlement then called Richardson's Row (from the three Richardson brothers who settled there in 1640) was ward off by the courageous act of a few white men pursuing the Indian savages as soon as possible after the massacre. The rock on which the Indians were discovered is still pointed out in the Middlesex Fells and should be suitably marked as one of Winchester's interesting historical sites.

CHANGE IN TELEPHONE DESIGNATION.

The telephone company is planning to give up the letter "L" as a party line designator, and to substitute for it the letter "W." On two party lines today the letter "M" and "L" are in use. "L" and "M" sound so much alike over the phone that their adoption has been the cause of no small amount of trouble. Before the change was made the whole alphabet was carefully considered. "W" would have been a more distinctive letter and would have been chosen but for the fact that in pronouncing certain combinations of numbers according to existing methods there was a chance for a misunderstanding.

After May 1st the number 300 will be pronounced "three hundred", the number 3300 will be pronounced "three e, three hundred."

This movement is being taken up by the Bell companies throughout the country, and is in the interest of uniformity and accuracy.

The chances are that the letter "W" will not replace the letter "L" in the Boston division until after the summer edition of the telephone directory has gone to press, but the practice of calling the numerals in the new manner will go into effect May 1st, so that the operators may be made familiar with the new practice before the letter "W" is actively employed.

THE WINCHESTER STEWARDS FOR THE WORLD IN BOSTON.

The stewarding of the Hawaii Court in the World in Boston is the task assigned to the Stewards of Winchester who for months in class work and outside reading have been preparing for this service.

There will be a meeting of the Stewards of Winchester on Monday evening, April 17th at 8 o'clock, in the chapel of the First Baptist Church, to meet the Rev. William Brewster Oleson, of Honolulu, H. T., superintendent of the Hawaiian Evangelical Association, who has just arrived in Boston to take charge of the Hawaii Exhibit.

At this meeting the time-table for each church and steward for each of the four weeks will be posted, so that each steward may consult it, and make any final changes that may be necessary for greater convenience in hours of service. There will also be an exhibit of Hawaiian pictures and curios. Mr. Oleson desires to spend the evening informally with the Stewards, answering questions which they have on their minds. The Winchester Stewards who have qualified to serve are as follows:

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the post-office at Winchester as second-class matter.

Woburn is working hard for the extension of the Mystic Valley boulevard to that city. They are not particular whether it be an extension of the Mystic Valley one from Winchester or a new location.

It is fifty years too soon to pass upon the question of erecting a statue of Gen. Benjamin F. Butler. It is impossible to consider his merits or defects where he left so many political enemies who are still living.

There is strong evidence that a direct nomination bill covering the State and County offices will be reported by the Legislative committee which has the matter in charge. This will place good government upon the shoulders of the citizens.

The town of Lincoln in town meeting instructed its Town Clerk to cast one ballot for "no-license," and then the vote was declared unanimous. Now, however, this procedure is declared illegal, and the villagers are in a quandary as to how the town stands on the liquor question.

A majority of the members of the Mass. House of Representatives have expressed themselves as being in favor of biennial elections. Should the constitution be amended for this purpose, we believe that it will only result in a loss of political interest by the voters of the State. It is a step away from the people, and will only be of benefit to the unscrupulous office holder.

A recent decision of the Supreme Court is to the effect that the State Board of Health and many local boards have been exceeding their authority in making regulations for the handling of milk. The decision affects the dip can, the milk bottle and other recent regulations along these lines.

There is no question but that the work of the Appropriations Committee serves as a check upon extravagance. All who have served upon that Committee and the town officials will admit the correctness of this statement. The Committee acts upon information that is not readily accessible to the citizens as a whole, and while their conclusions may seem at variance with the opinions of some citizens, yet investigation will show that their work is well and thoroughly done.

Tuesday noon the private box at the Boston race track was rung in for a second time within the week, and again for a grass fire. The department responded, but was not needed, there being no damage.

On Tuesday noon John Richardson, living on Cambridge street, and employed at the stone crushing plant at Twombly's ledge, was severely injured by being struck in the stomach by a flying piece of rock from a blast. He was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital, and his case is said to be serious.

A colored boy who lives in the neighborhood of the Chinese laundry on Church street has been annoying the proprietor by throwing articles into his place of business. The trouble between the two culminated on Monday noon, when a well placed missile hit the Chinaman. Determined to stop the nagging, he chased the colored boy through the centre and up Main street. He proved a good sprinter and made the capture, shaking the youngster thoroughly, much to the amusement of the crowd. It is believed that this particular laundry will be left unmolested by the colored youth in the future.

Mrs. Arnold Lawson's world's champion French bull brace, Ch. Mirette de la Maru and Nosal Nemo, won the world's championship at the last Westminster Kennel Club Show by defeating the best European brace, as well as the best American pairs. These dogs will be shown at the Kennel Club's show held this week in Mechanic's Building. Ch. Mirette de la Maru was imported by Mrs. Lawson in 1907 and has been shown at all large shows ever held, always winning first or second the last two years taking the winner's bitches at the Westminster Kennel Club Shows, the 1911 show being the largest ever held in the world. Nosal Nemo is a grandson of Ch. Mirette de la Maru and has created a marked sensation in dog fancying circles.

Steel drawbridges are being installed in place of the wooden trestle bridges at the North Station. OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In reply to the chairman of the last Ap. Com. I would say, that having served five terms upon that committee and four upon the board of Selectmen I speak from vast experience and do not believe either the committee or the town officials have changed much since in their attitude to each other, which is similar to that of Daniel and the Lion, neither cared for the other. I am a thorough believer in the Ap. Com. principle but only as a committee to investigate, report and explain, but an everlastingly opposed to swallowing up reports as a whole or by items, without full discussion. What is needed on the committee is inter-individual minds supplemented by five hundred such minds in the town meeting, and when you get the consensus of opinion of such aggregations you will have something to set to. The chairman of the last Ap. Com. admits that some of the town officials did not take part in the love feast and it holds to reason they were the fellows who have the largest appropriations and not the "pickers." The committee made a very good report but there was opportunity for considerable improvement, as was made evident in the town meeting. The committee suggested absolutely nothing to keep down the tax rate, some of its members believed in the "pay as you go" plan, which is neither fair nor right for a municipal corporation like ours, and the other members said there was a reason why they did not report the alternative but they didn't give it. Why? I think we will have to have a floor committee, self appointed or otherwise to meet as soon as the Ap. Com.'s report is out and analyze it. As for "Observations," I am in the frame of mind of the Scotch lassie as to her lover.

I think our representative in the House gave the right answer to a citizen, who should have known better, as to the effect on his future political career if he favored our grade crossing bill, when he replied that he was ready to listen to any of his constituents' reasons why he should favor or oppose any measure excepting that result.

In refuting in the reservoirs, why not pass the following motion: That our distinguished fellow citizens who have recently settled an important international salt water fishing dispute of long standing be a committee of one to investigate and report upon the vexed question of fishing in our reservoirs. Having become an authority upon salt water fishing he ought to embrace the opportunity to study the fresh water fishing question and thereby perform a great service to his town on this most bothersome problem which cannot be settled by patent gates, like our smaller grade crossing abolition matter, but must either be abolished or a free rein given to fish. We must have this burning question settled for we shall have no peace of mind until it is, but lengthy pieces in the STAR and much tumult in town meeting. Some simple minded citizens may say it would be more profitable in every way to improve the waters of our ponds and streams so that the fish would return to them, but of course no attention should be paid to them as they are too childish, foolish for this practical world and our reservoirs were established for fish preserves.

I am informed that at the hearing upon the laying out of Ogden-Symmes road it was stated that agreement to it without damage claims was made conditional upon the latter name being given to the accepted street. It has been stated in the town meeting there is no doubt which name would have been selected and it is not too late to change it now. An explanation is in order.

The town should build its cement walks as there is nothing difficult about it and they should cost less so built and we would also get just what we wanted.

Greater Boston, Bigger Boston, Real Boston, Metropolitan Boston! Well, let there be a council and let it agitate. Agitation has made Massachusetts what she is, the best legislating state in the Union. This is a pink tea measure anyway and it is laughable to see now the proponents and the opponents work themselves up into almost a frenzy over it. I can easily imagine this council of forty cities and towns making a majority report signed by twenty-one and nineteen separate minority reports.

BASE BALL.

The strong Wakefield High school base ball team defeated Winchester High in its first game at Wakefield last Wednesday afternoon by the score of 9-0. The visiting team played a fairly good game but their errors and the opponent's hits came at just the right time for the opponents.

In the first inning Wakefield made four runs; then Winchester held them for three innings until the fifth when they made two, and in the seventh, three. Several times Winchester had men left on third base.

Matthews excelled for the visiting team, making only one error which, by an assault, resulted in an out, one hit and two stolen bases. Rogers also played well for Winchester making two put outs and five assists. Goddu showed up fairly well in the box striking out six men and allowing only one base on balls, although Wakefield hit freely.

The feature of the game was the three base hit by Moore.

Three of Winchester's best players are at present, excluded on account of their studies.

Winchester Co-operative Bank

The 36th Series of Shares

Will be issued by the Winchester Co-operative Bank, May 1st. Applications for these New Shares may be made at this office or through the mail.

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

INSURANCE--ALL KINDS

The fire loss in the United States in 1910 was $177,477,000, yet it costs only $7.50 for a policy of $1000 for five years on a frame dwelling or household furniture.

FELL FROM STAGING.

An accident at the Episcopal Church on Monday forenoon resulted in the injury of two stone masons employed in the erection of the new addition now under construction. The injured men were J. W. Tynam of 44 Mt. Vernon street and Fred Stevenson of Clark street.

The men were at work on a staging about fifteen feet above the ground. In some way Tynam lost his balance and made a mis-step over the edge of the staging. In trying to save himself from falling he caught hold of Stevenson, both men falling to the ground. Stevenson was the more fortunate, in that his fall was partly broken by the body of Tynam, who was underneath.

Tynam received a broken collar bone and concussion, and Stevenson was badly bruised about the hands and face. The men were taken to their homes and both are expected to recover in due time, although Tynam's injuries are considered serious.

TEACHERS' CLUB.

The Teacher's Club held the last of their indoor social meetings, Friday, March 31. The members and their guests were entertained by readings by Miss Hendrix, and a play entitled "The Paper Match." The parts were taken as follows: Miss Moulton made a very charming young girl, while Miss Jepson as the maiden aunt, took her part to perfection; Mr. Bowles, as Sam, the bashful young man, was exceedingly good in his part, and Mr. Hutton, as Corporal Brown, knew just what was expected of him. The last of the evening was spent in dancing. Sandwiches and coffee were served.

The committee in charge of the evening consisted of Miss Dodge, chairman, Miss Marden, Miss Hill, Miss Stott, Miss Sanborn, Miss Hendrix and Mr. Herron. The next meeting will be in the nature of a picnic.

TO DRIVERS OF AUTOMOBILES

Upon the sounding of Alarms of Fire and while the Apparatus is responding, some drivers of Autos make a practice of Racing to the Fire and driving past the Apparatus. In doing so it causes a cloud of dust and dirt to be blown in the faces of the drivers and horses on the Apparatus. This not only obstructs the view of the road, but retards their progress, and in a number of cases they have had to slow down for some distance.

We have also found a number of times upon the arrival of the Department at the Fire, Autos and teams lined up right in the path where the Department wants to move.

We feel sure that no drivers do this with any wrong intention and we also feel sure that upon a second thought they will realize the risk it makes and will give the Department all the show possible.

I. L. SYMMES, Chief.

TOURNAMENT.

With the rolling of the matches in the spring bowling tournament at the Cambridge Club this week the teams are beginning to string out in order of standing, and several who figured in ties last week either stand above or below their previous rating.

The winning teams last week were 3, 10 and 6, the latter being the only one to take all four points, and teams 4 and 10 breaking even in their match. No high scores were rolled in these games.

Following are the results:

CHAMP CLARK'S SPEECH.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you please give the inclosed space in your next issue. These remarks of Speaker Champ Clark were made at Wm. J. Bryan's birthday gathering at Lincoln, Neb., March 20th.
Winthrup Tuck.

Champ Clark said: "We have met on this auspicious occasion for purposes of personal friendship to celebrate the birthday of one of the three most prominent contemporary Americans—the greatest living orator, perhaps the greatest ever lived—a man dear to the hearts of his countrymen and admired by millions in foreign lands, who, by his splendid bearing and lofty eloquence, has elevated the American character and popularized the theory of representative government in every civilized country, whose magnificent advocacy of right, justice and equal opportunities for all our citizens with monopolistic privilege for none, has given him a high and secure place in the history of our times.

"We are here to felicitate him upon the anniversary of his birth, 'O fortunate, O happy day,' not only because we admire him as an orator, statesman, philosopher and humanitarian, but because we love the man, William Jennings Bryan. From the bottom of our heart we wish him many happy returns.

"Shakespeare says:
"To gild refined gold; to paint the lily
To throw a perfume on the violet;
To smooth the ice; to add another hue unto the rainbow;
Or with taper light to seek the beauties
Of Heaven to garnish,
Is wasteful and ridiculous excess."

"To this category of the superfluous might well be added any attempt at eulogy upon the great American whom we have assembled here to honor. In his case the language of eulogy has long since been exhausted and I shall not endeavor either to repeat or to add to it.

"Up to date Bryan's has been a strange fate: To originate and advocate as a pioneer important measures for the amelioration of political and social conditions and the perpetuation of the republic with a force, fervor and eloquence rarely equalled and never excelled: To be denounced bitterly, mercilessly, brutally for so doing: To be thrice defeated for the presidency, for their advocacy, and then to see them adopted bodily and enacted into law by his political opponents while he is still in the prime of life. There is no tale out of the Arabian Nights more incredible than that and that will be the most mysterious puzzle with which the Facsimile, the Saluton, the Sismondi or the Macaulay who essays to write the history of the two last decades will have to unravel and explain.

"Republicans have not adopted all measures advocated by democrats in the last twenty years, but they have adopted so many that it is absolutely fair to say that certain things which they denounced as anarchy when we first proposed them have now been adopted by them as true political gospel. It is also true that in sixteen years the republicans have enacted into law no great remedial measure which was not first proposed by democrats, and what is more they could not have passed them through the house of representatives without the aid of democratic votes. Almost every measure on which the good name of Theodore Roosevelt rests was lifted from democrats; while those on which his bad name will be fastened, his new nationalism and similar doctrines, were originated by republicans. He boldly borrowed, seized, carried away and converted to his own use and to the use of the republic party any democratic proposition which was becoming too popular to be ignored or shunted out of the way, and then, though he forced them upon the statute books by democratic votes, he claimed not only the lion's share of the glory, but all the glory for himself and the republicans. In all these matters the democrats acted on purely patriotic principles. Knowing full well that he and his would monopolize the honors we supported them because they would benefit the people.

"In proposing democratic measures and in getting them passed by democratic votes and then in claiming all the honor or himself and his party, his pupil and protégé, President Taft follows his bad and selfish example.

"The first example in recent times of republicans seizing and appropriating to their own use a democratic principle was in the regulation of railroads, a measure originated by the late national Texas democrat, Judge John H. Reagan. Democrats furnished Roosevelt and Taft the votes to force bills regulating railroad rates through the house and received no thanks. True, the roll calls showed a large republican vote for them, but the republican votes for them would have been few and far between had the democrats not stood there solid as a stone wall and the republicans voted with us, thereby making a virtue of necessity; but when the victories were won the thanks of the administration and the honors were bestowed not upon the democrats to whom they properly belonged, but upon the republicans who were drafted into service. Democrats acted from principle and patriotism.

"The latest example of a republican president borrowing a democratic principle and getting it through the house by democratic votes was in the Canadian reciprocity matter. Democrats endorsed it in our almost unanimously, and in the house all the democrats except five voted for it. President Taft and his floor leader in the house, Hon. Samuel Walker McCall, of Massachusetts, could not muster even a majority of house republicans for it; but the next day after the house democrats pulled the president out of a hole, he promptly wrote a letter of thanks and congratulations to Bryan McCall and the republicans, which was a direct slap in the face to the democrats. His letter to McCall is a document as full of ingratitude as has appeared in print since Gutenberg invented movable types. But as democrats have been adopting reciprocity for years and as President Taft began advocating it only recently, we voted for it as a matter of principle and patriotism, asking no favors of thanks and we got none.

While, however, we neither asked nor expected thanks or favors, and received none, a man cannot help philosophizing on what a personal and official humiliation democrats saved President Taft and Representative McCall from when they could not line up even a majority of house republicans. Democrats voted for it because it is democratic and is therefore right and not to pull the president out of a hole, though they did pull him out of a hole and fair minded men of all parties will declare with one accord that he might have refrained from thanking McCall and the republicans for a victory they did not achieve, for a performance which but for democratic votes would have been the greatest humiliation inflicted upon a president since the days of Rutherford B. Hayes.

it because it is democratic and is therefore right and not to pull the president out of a hole, though they did pull him out of a hole and fair minded men of all parties will declare with one accord that he might have refrained from thanking McCall and the republicans for a victory they did not achieve, for a performance which but for democratic votes would have been the greatest humiliation inflicted upon a president since the days of Rutherford B. Hayes.

WHAT IS A DOLLAR?

The Rev. George Wood Anderson of St. Louis, himself chaplain of an advertising club, recently made a few remarks before the Pilgrim Publicity Association of Boston on the almighty dollar. "A dollar is not an insignificant thing. It is of great value. Here is a dollar—what is it? 'Legal tender,' says one. It is more than that; this dollar is part of my life. It is one of my yesterdays. I worked hard the other day and earned a dollar. In the evening I could have thrown it away, saying that money is nothing, 'but I looked at it and said: 'This is all I have in tangible form of one day of my life; I will save it as I would guard my life; tomorrow I need not work, for my yesterday will secure the services of someone else who can perform my task. But I prefer to keep the dollar and earn another, and thus as I guard my health in order to take care of the future, I guard my dollars which are my past. My dollars are my yesterdays, and I shall save them until I have sufficient of them to work while I sleep. Only the product of their effort makes sure a well-cared-for old age free from worry.'"

THE SUNDAY SUPPLEMENT.

Criticism of the Sunday supplement of the average newspaper, especially the "comic" section, which is supposed to appeal to children, has crystallized in a movement toward reform, led by the Federation for Child Study, the League of American Pen Women, the International Kindergarten Union, the Council of Jewish Women and the Child Welfare Committee, working with the League for the Improvement of the Children's Comic Supplement. They believe that by arousing public opinion, those responsible for these supplements can be made to see the necessity for improvement, and can be induced to heed the movement. It has come none too soon. These comic sheets are in no way advisable for children to peruse. They are vulgar, make a jest of good order and good conduct and are reprehensible from about every point of view. Like almost every department in our daily papers, they slander to the illiterate and vulgar and the lowest ranks and aims of the American people. But this is what sells papers—[Arlington Advocate.

GREATER BOSTON SCHEME.

The committee of the Legislature on metropolitan affairs stands 9 to 6 against the plan of the Boston Chamber of Commerce for a Real Boston. No formal vote has been taken, but a poll of the committee shows this result:

Against—Senators Mulligan of Natick and Brown of Medford and Representatives Thomas of Quincy, Bathfield of Newton, Nickerson of Hull, Lomasney of Boston, Parker of Woburn and Newton and Connolly of Boston.

In favor—Senators Stearns of Cambridge and Murray of Boston and Representatives Cushing of Boston, C. L. Carr of Boston, Rideout of Somerville, Ryan of Cambridge.

It is understood that the proponents of the measure are convinced that they cannot get it through in its present form and that a compromise is being considered.

But why a compromise, when the sentiment in the entire district is so strongly opposed to every part of the scheme.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Chauncey Olcott, in Augustus Pitou's splendid production of "Barry of Ballymore," will be the attraction at the Boston Theatre for a limited engagement of two weeks, April 17. The play is from the pen of Rida Johnson Young and from all accounts stands at the head of its class as an Irish play. The characteristic atmosphere of the story is one of its chief charms. It deals with the adventures of a young artist.

The story is well wrought and there are many delightful comedy situations of the delicate sort that are seen in the Olcott productions. Irish songs abound in the piece and Frederic Knight Logan, a well known musician, has composed some charming incidental music for it. The scene and costume enhancement of the production are unusually fine as may be expected from a Pitou presentation of any play.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Unquestionably the biggest attraction that has been announced for vaudeville in the last ten years comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. It is called "A Romance of the Underworld," and was written by Paul Armstrong author of "Aunt Jimmy Valentine" and "The Deep Purple," two of the biggest dramatic successes in recent years. It was put on in New York at the 5th Avenue theatre a week, and would have continued there indefinitely had not Mr. Keith ar-

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The local union met last Friday at the home of Mrs. J. C. Adams of Dix street and the members busied themselves in completing the Easter gift to the Willard Settlement, two dozen napkins and a dozen towels being thus contributed. Plans for the anniversary meeting were made. In May the Union will have been organized for thirty-five years and the occasion will be observed in appropriate fashion. Mrs. Katharine Leite Stevenson, president of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. is to speak. Further details will be announced later. At the close of the meeting the hostess served light refreshments.

Every member who was at the meeting and others, both members and friends, sent in contributions for the Easter box for the Flower Mission which Mrs. Adams packed and sent.

The Flower Mission now has its headquarters at 15A Beacon street, and anyone in that vicinity the day before Easter can gain some idea of its beneficent work by looking in upon the workers there. In passing it may be said that they are always glad of helpers, either for the packing or the distribution.

The reports of progress in temperance reform in various parts of the world are most encouraging. In Ireland there has been a vigorous campaign waged by the priests who recognize the necessity of total abstinence. In one town every man, woman and child signed the pledge. This was Quilly in County Clare. The next thing the priests led the children to the postoffice and had them take out savings bank books. At Limerick 10,000 signed the pledge and in many other cities there was an awakening on the subject which means much to the island.

Maine opened the campaign for the re-enactment of the prohibitory law by having Captain Hobson of Santiago fame speak at a Neal Dow anniversary meeting. A long list of good speakers has already been engaged to oppose the strong forces brought to bear by the liquor dealers and their allies. It would be a sad day for Maine if the open saloon were permitted to return from exile. Granted that liquor is still sold, it has not the sanction of the law, but like burglary and other evils is under the ban of the better classes. Local option may be satisfactory as a temporary expedient but a State like Maine cannot afford to take a step backward.

HOW TIRES SHOULD BE WASHED.

Washing tires and washing a car are two different propositions. Water alone should be used to wash tires and as little oil as is necessary. After every run the envelope should be wiped clean with a damp sponge or well-wrung cloth.

A common mistake made by motorists is to mix kerosene with the water. This may be advisable when washing the body of a car to remove mud and dust from the varnish, but it should never be done when washing tires because kerosene eats rubber. This fact can be readily proved by immersing a small piece of rubber in kerosene and allowing it to soak. The rubber will soon swell and lose its elasticity. The reason for this is apparent. Kerosene is rich in fatty properties which remain after the evaporation of the gases. Every time a tire is washed with a kerosene mixture the rubber is deprived of more of its strength.

When washing tires it is best to simply dampen a sponge with clean water, care being taken that the sponge is not soaked and dripping. Then wipe the tires dry with a cloth or handful of waste.

This, and many other phases of the tire question are intimately covered in the "Book of Bibendum" sent free to motorists upon request by the Michelin Tire Company of Milltown, New Jersey.

FROM MORTON L. SCRIBNER.

Friend Chris— I received your card today and was glad to hear from you. Time is going fast with me—it will be six months April 21. Have succeeded fine so far, and have no kick coming—everything, O. K. I like here very well as there is some class to this town and enlisting same. The Marine Corps is filled up most of the time, so a fellow has got to be some man to pass. I have quite a number of applicants and pass one out of about every ten. I have a fine office here on the best street in the City. I don't expect to go to Mexico, but if there is any trouble I don't stay in recruiting duty unless I am put in double irons. I would want to be with the boys, you bet.

Bad weather here, rain and snow and a little sun. This is a great city for steel plants—large ones. I think it will be some time before I see Winchester again. I have put on 14 pounds since I enlisted. I shall try for the Philippine Islands first chance I get. Hope this finds you all well, regards to all.

I remain your friend,

M. L. Scribner.

Original of Falstaff.

Sir John Falstaff was the original of Shakespeare's Falstaff and in his day was a continual butt for the jests of the town and borough of Southwark. Though he had fought at Agincourt, when Jack Cade invaded the borough, he showed great cowardice. When Cade was yet some way off Falstaff had armed and fortified his house and garrisoned it with veterans of the French wars. On the arrival of Cade, however, he withdrew his garrison and fled to the Tower, leaving his neighbors to the mercy of the rebels. Falstaff's matrimonial adventures seem also to have been another source of unpopularity, for having married a widow named Scrope, he seized her property and kept his stepson out of his inheritance during his own lifetime—London News.

Many Uses of Sand.

The sands of the sea are singularly useful. They are of primary importance in glass-making. They have an important place in warfare, as a bank of sand twenty inches thick is proof against modern rifle shots. The electrical properties of sand show that it has positive electricity, although a rod of silicon, the chief constituent of sand, is negative.

The singular drying effect which occurs when a stretch of wet sand is pressed by the foot is due entirely to an alteration in the piling of the sand grains. Normally the grains are close together, but abnormal piling is brought about by pressure of the foot, the space between the edges of the grains being enlarged and the water drained away. If the pressure of the foot is continued the sand becomes wetter than ever, the partial vacuum quickly bringing water from the surrounding sand.

In quicksand the moving character is thought to be due to the imprisonment between the grains of gases from organic matter.—Chicago Tribune.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The End of the Bridge" bids fair to be the remarkable sensation of the season at the Castle Square. Its seventh week begins on Monday, and crowded houses will be the rule at every performance. Miss Lincoln's play, it should be remembered is given twice each day, afternoon and evening. The one hundredth performance is fast approaching, and when it arrives it will certainly be celebrated with a great deal of enthusiasm. Mr. Craig's acting as Dr. Garrett is especially notable, and Miss Young's Joan Mannerling is also a feature of the performance, while the Boy Peter is acted with astonishing realism by Miss McDannel.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Press Bible Question Club.

April 16th, 1911.

Joash, the Boy King, Crowned in Judah. 2 Kings xi:1-20.

Golden Text—Blessed are they that keep his testimonies, and that seek him with the whole heart. Ps. 119:2.

(1) Verses 1-3—Who was Athaliah; her parentage, position, character, etc? (2) When a child turns out bad whose heredity and environment were as vile as they could be, how much is he or she to be blamed?

(3) Whose son was Joash?

(4) Who was Jehoash?

(5) Who was instrumental in saving the child Joash from the murderous intent of his great mother, Athaliah, and how was it done?

(6) Verses 4-12—If an individual, a company, or a nation is established and carried on by unrighteousness what will be the probable results?

(7) Can you give from your own experience, or from history, any instance where wrong actions have brought about right results, or can you conceive of such a thing as possible?

(8) When those who are in authority are usurpers, and when the regular legal processes fail to dispossess them, what should the people do?

(9) On what grounds do you justify the high priest Jehoiada for planning the death of the reigning queen, and, by force, putting the boy Joash on the throne?

(10) What can you say from this history in favor of the possibility of right environment overcoming in a child the worst kind of heredity? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(11) What can you say for, or against, private citizens carrying fire arms?

(12) Verses 13-16—How did Ahab and Jezebel, the father and mother of Athaliah, die?

(13) What are the chances that those who practise violence will themselves receive violent treatment?

(14) Why, as a rule, is it impossible for us to get from others any different kind of treatment to that which we give them?

(15) Verse 17—What are the chances for national success when both rulers and the people are serving the Lord?

(16) What is the probability for national greatness when the rulers and the people are corrupt?

(17) Verse 18—What relation does the success of a people bear to their religion?

(18) How many centuries will the prosperity of this country continue if we forsake the precepts of Jesus Christ?

(19) Verses 19-20—Why is it impossible for a really happy people to be turbulent and revolutionary?

(20) What is the relation of the present day Christian Church to the prosperity of the masses?

P. N. Abare, the druggist, has had installed this week one of the newest designed soda fountains at his store in the centre. The new fountain is known as a "quick service fountain," and enables two clerks to operate at the same time independently of each other. The fountain is of the latest sanitary style, made entirely of marble, onyx and metal, no wood at all being employed in its construction. It is backed by a handsome mahogany framed mirror in keeping with the rest of the fittings of the store. The fountain was opened for use this morning, and tomorrow a free soda will be given to each purchaser of goods amounting to 25¢ or over.

REV. C. W. BLACKETT
New Pastor of the M. E. Church.

HIS FIRST SERMON.

Rev. C. W. Blackett is a Strong Man and Able Preacher.

Rev. C. W. Blackett, the newly appointed pastor of the Methodist Church preached Sunday morning to an audience that filled the auditorium. His theme was "The Church, a monument of the death and resurrection of Jesus." He began by saying the two greatest monuments of the life, death and resurrection of Jesus was the Christian Church and the Christian Sabbath. The text was Eph. 2: 20, 21. "Built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself the Chief Corner Stone, in whom all the building truly framed together groweth into an holy temple in the Lord."

The preacher said that the finest literature in the world was written in prisons and instances of Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, Madam Guyon's lyrics and the prison Epistles of St. Paul. Ephesians is one of the prison epistles. Its theme is a holy church on earth and in heaven. The apostle develops this theme by a number of beautiful figures, among them the figure of a temple. This figure would appeal strongly to the Ephesian Christians because of their acquaintance with the temple of Diana in their midst, one of the finest buildings of the ancient world. But they had reason to fear the foes whose forces centered in that temple. If he could succeed in building in their thought the vision of the spiritual temple, the redeemed and purified church, their tears would vanish in the glory of that which was to be.

The preacher then began to speak about foundation. He said, "If you are to build a cottage a foundation laid in the gravel will suffice, but if you are to build a Bunker Hill Monument it is better to go down to the solid rock. When God was about to build His Church he went to the bed rock of his own eternal nature, and out of this He gave us Jesus Christ, the corner stone."

The Church's sure foundation is Jesus Christ the Lord. In speaking of the Superstructure, he declared the material is brought from everywhere. No nation, no race has a special claim upon him. If the first of the martyrs was a Grecian Jew we must not forget that the Chinese furnished as noble heroes of the cross.

The material is transformed. God has a way of working it over, and then of conforming it to the pattern of the cornerstone.

Then this temple is a growing temple. Some men question that. The difficulty with them is that they mistake the scaffolding for the building. There is a great deal of scaffolding about the Christian Church. There is the scaffolding of denominations, the Methodist scaffolding, the Episcopal scaffolding, the Presbyterian scaffolding, the Catholic scaffolding and what not. Now people mistake their own bit of scaffolding for the building. At that is growing they say the church is growing, and it is not growing they say the church is declining. I do not think scaffolding is a bad thing. I believe it is a good thing. But I think that some day God will send the celestial workmen and they will pull the scaffolding down and then in all the majesty of the Creator's great design, in all the beauty of his spiritual workmanship, the dream of God from eternity, a redeemed, and purified and glorified church will stand out for the admiration of the universe and a dwelling place of God for ever and ever.

In an ancient book is found the suggestion that sometime the master will come and touch the wall of his temple and all the several stones will be welded into one solid stone. The suggestion is a worthy one. He there is little per manency. Here there are temptations and sins and pains and parings. By and by these shall be passed for ever.

"There we shall see his face
And never never sin,
Drink of the rivers of His grace
With Christ eternally shut in."

WORK OF THE WATERWAYS IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE.

The Waterways Improvement Committee, shortly after their appointment, met at the Town Hall and completed their organization by electing Mr. Lewis Parkhurst as chairman, and Mr. Everett N. Curtis as secretary. In view of the importance of the work placed in the hands of the committee, it was determined at their meeting that they would at once begin to carry out the purposes for which it was appointed. Upon considering the matter very carefully and after diligent inquiries, the committee decided to employ an expert to study the situation and to report thereon, Mr. Herbert J. Kollaway of Newton, Massachusetts, who was highly recommended by Mr. Frederick Law Olmsted, and endorsed by the entire Metropolitan Park Commission. A few days later the committee engaged Mr. Kollaway to make the proposed investigation, and in company with him carefully went over the entire ground beginning at the mouth of the Abenaki and continuing northward through the town. All matters of interest were specifically brought to the attention of the expert, including the surface drains discharging street washings into the river, the accumulation of refuse and debris covering the bed of the stream, the position of the local and metropolitan sewers, the effect of the maintenance of the Whitney dam and flowage of lands above caused thereby, the influence of present manufacturing establishments, and numerous other matters affecting the sanitary, economic and artistic features of the problem.

The maps and data in possession of the various departments of the town have been placed at Mr. Kollaway's disposal, and Mr. Arthur E. Whitney and others have kindly volunteered to furnish the expert with such knowledge and assistance as they are able.

Mr. Kollaway has promptly begun his investigation, and is now at work upon the various phases of the situation. As soon as he has been able with reasonable diligence to give the subject the consideration and study which it demands, and has worked out the engineering and topographical features of the waterways and developed a plan, his report will be rendered.

KNOX—GRAY.

Miss Marion Baird Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick G. Gray of Everett and William Henry Knox of Sewickley, Penn., were married Wednesday evening at the residence of the bride's parents by Rev. Ernest M. Paddock of St. James' Episcopal Church of Cambridge.

The bride wore a gown of crepe meteor with pearl trimmings over white satin. She was attended by Miss Isabel Barr of Toronto as maid of honor, who was gowned in white muslin over green satin with crystal trimmings. Miss Jane Pittman of Chicago wore flower girl and Stillman Weston of Winchester ring bearer. The best man was Charles E. Ellis of New York.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, the young couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick G. Gray and by Mrs. William H. Knox, mother of the groom. The ushers were Knox Cam of Philadelphia and Morton Burdett of Sewickley, Penn. Prominent among the guests were: Miss Rebecca Knox of Atlantic City, N. J.; Mrs. Ralph C. Thomas of Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Charles Pittner of Chicago and Mrs. Walter Gunthorp of Chicago.

The music was furnished by six players from the Winchester Orchestral Society, under the direction of Mr. Bicknell. Among the selections played was the graceful "Day in Venice," suite by Ethelbert Nevin, who was a cousin of the groom.

POP CONCERT.

Pretty Toilets, Charming Music and Decorations.

The post-Lenten season of festivities was ushered in most auspiciously Tuesday evening by the annual pop concert in the Town Hall, given by a committee of women in aid of local charities. The affair was an unqualified success. The gathering of men and women who occupied seats at the tables where dainty refreshments were served included the leaders in the affairs of the town.

The decorations were on a very elaborate scale, the motive being Japan and its flowers. The effect was carried out in streamers, festoons and garlands suspended from the rafters and chandeliers. Many vari-colored paras. Is lent an added charm to the scene. The young women who served the refreshments were gowned in Japanese costumes and made a pretty picture indeed.

Those who assisted were Bertha Adams, Norma Benet, Barbara Blank, Pauline Blank, Elinor Briggs, Dorothea Chase, Celina Cox, Elber Dean, Katherine Edgett, Frances Foster, Gretchen Huegin, Isabel Hunt, Doris Goddu, Una Kinsley, Ruth Lawrence, Mildred Lee, Pearl Longley, Leah McIntosh, Helen Meincke, Eleanor Morris, Marjorie Root, Helen Rowe, Pauline Sweetzer, Anna Tindall, Edith Vandebogert and Marjorie Waldmyer. Marion Barry, Alice Kay, Georgia Young.

The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. Frank A. Cutting, Mrs. George H. Root, Miss M. Alice Mason, Mrs. Percy W. Witherell and Percy W. Witherell.

The Japanese idea was even extended to the college girls which bore such names as "Uyino-sato," which translated meant banana Royal, or "Numida-Garva," which was strawberries on vanilla. "Samidone" was chocolate on vanilla. "Asaborake" made walnut on vanilla. "Trubiki" was chocolate walnut on vanilla. "Matsu-no-uki" pine-apple on ice cream, etc.

The concert program was as follows: March, Daughters of America, Lampe Overture, H. W. King, Adam Solo for cornet, Selected.

Selection, Faunt, Gounod Melodies from the Arcadians, Monckton Selection, The Dolla Princess, Fall a Run dance, Madame Scherry, Hochina B. The American Parol, Meacham Selection, The Chocolate Soldier, Strauss Selection, The Girl of My Dreams, Hochina Grand march, Tannhauser, Wagner Beautiful Blue Danube, Strauss

The last musical number, the "Blue Danube Waltz," by the band, was played with the hall darkened, except on the stage, where Miss Mary Kellogg appeared and gave an artistic interpretation of the waltz.

Seated at the tables were: Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Sanborn Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barr Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clark Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Metcalf Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Palmor Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wallis Mr. and Mrs. G. REV. AND MRS. HODGDON GIVEN RECEPTION.

A most attractive reception was held on Tuesday evening at the Congregational Church. The weather was all that could be desired and a large number of people attended.

It was the regular pastor's reception, which is usually held in the fall, but it was necessarily postponed to await the coming of the new minister and his wife, the latter arriving last Saturday.

The ladies who had the social in charge were Mrs. Dr. Ordway and Mrs. Ralph Redfern and they received with Mr. and Mrs. Hodgdon. The ladies were dressed in white and Mrs. Hodgdon carried a large bunch of Killarney roses. The decorations on the platform back of the receiving party were very beautiful, especially the large potted bush of Ranunculus, pink carnations brightened the mantles and table. Four ladies presided at the table and poured chocolate and coffee. Miss Kate Pond, Mrs. D. P. Dennett, Mrs. M. C. Tomkins and Mrs. M. H. Lombard, and later in the evening their places were filled by Mrs. Wm. Snow, Mrs. A. E. Smith, Mrs. William Herrick and Mrs. Henry Ordway. Ice cream and cake were served by the young ladies.

Music was furnished by the Dotten orchestra and it was more lively than those usually heard in the vestry, they were well suited to the occasion, which was made more delightful by representatives from the other churches, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf, Mr. Robert Metcalf, Mr. and Mrs. Parkhurst, Dr. and Mrs. Cummings, and others being among them.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The Dramatic Committee of the club will have the meeting on Monday afternoon in charge, and two plays will be given—"Friday afternoon in the Village School," and "The Register," by Howells. The cast will include several members of the club, and there is every indication that this will be a most successful production. Ladies will be requested to remove their hats at this meeting.

The ladies are reminded that the proposed increase of membership will be voted upon Monday.

MAY PARTY.

The May party committee, Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, chairman, has made arrangements to have the beautiful decorations used in the Town Hall for the Pop Concert, retained for the May Party which is to be held on Saturday, April 29, from 2 till 5.30 p. m.

Tickets may be obtained of Mrs. Wm. E. Cummings, 6 Elmwood avenue, Tel. 455.3 and of Mrs. George Everett Pratt, 5 Grove street, tel. 316.1 until Thursday, April 27, when they will be on sale at the drug stores of Messrs. F. N. Abare and F. H. Knight.

CHILD BADLY BURNED.

On Wednesday noon, Henry O'Melia, the five year old son of John O'Melia of Loring avenue was badly burned while playing with fire near his home. In company with two other children the O'Melia boy was near the fire, his clothing catching from the flames. He was seen by Daniel Reardon, who was attracted by the cries of the children, and the fire extinguished by tearing off his clothing. A physician was called, who ordered his removal to the Mass. Gen. Hospital, where he was placed on the dangerous list.

"THOSE GRADE PLANS."

Takes Exceptions to Present Methods of Town.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

My attention has been called to a letter published in the STAR of April 7th written by the Town Engineer, with reference to "Establishment of Grades" of streets, presented by the Selectmen at the town meeting for acceptance.

That letter was written for publication, at the request of the Selectmen, and, it allowed to go unanswered might create a false impression regarding existing methods of procedure in establishing grades for streets.

The whole discussion arose through remarks which were made at the last Town Meeting. I wish to say at the outset that I have no desire to criticize the Board of Selectmen either individually or collectively and I considered it a privilege and duty to vote for every one of them at the last election. Neither have I any wish to find fault with our town engineer, who I believe is trying to do the best he can under existing conditions. The only reason I had for objecting to the manner in which we accepted streets was that I felt very strongly that we were not proceeding in the best manner and that we would sooner or later reap the rewards of our neglect. When the various streets were presented for acceptance at the town meeting, I noticed that no mention was made, in the motion, of the establishment of grades for those streets and I asked the Selectmen, through the Moderator, if such grades had been established. I was surprised to learn that the Selectmen did not seem to know whether this had been done or not and one of their members left the hall to telephone the town engineer to ask if such grades had been established. His reply was that on one street he did not think it necessary and on another it had been done. To this method I must take exception. No profiles of streets were mentioned in the "warrants," presented or mentioned at the town meeting and today I feel sure that on none of the streets accepted at the last town meeting have any grades been legally established. In the engineer's letter, above referred to, occurs this conclusive statement:—"The only thing which can truly be said against the method of procedure in accepting the streets in question, is that the grade plans were not in the hands of the Moderator on the night of the meeting." I am not a lawyer, but it is this law, and the only thing that is necessary, is for the Moderator to have in his possession a piece of paper, the contents of which he nor the citizens have the slightest knowledge, and reference to which is in no way mentioned in the "warrant" or "motion" made at the town meeting, constitutes a legal method of establishing the grades of streets, then it would seem necessary that, at every town meeting, the Moderator be officially searched to see what else he may have, (in his inside pocket) that we are unwittingly voting upon.

Of course such a "method of procedure" is too ridiculous for serious consideration, but it is also two important matters to trifle with and if we wish to have those things done in a proper or legal manner we must go at it in the right way.

After some 35 years experience much of which has had to do with municipal work, I have seen the folly of allowing these matters to go at loose ends and then pay the penalty therefor. I have no hesitation in saying that there is scarcely a street in town which has a properly legally established grade. If this be so, any attempt to change the grade of those streets, to the injury of any abutter, may lead to endless and expensive law suits against the town. In fact, I understand, that at the present time there is a possible suit pending and the town has no "established grade" to fall back upon. It was to guard against just such things as this, and to safeguard the town's interest that I objected to the acceptance of streets without "established grades."

How antiquated and careless our system (or rather lack of system) is, can best be understood by comparison with the manner in which these things are done in other "up-to-date" towns.

In those towns plans and profiles of the streets are drawn on the same sheet of paper. The warrant, calling the town meeting, notifies the citizens that certain streets are to be presented for acceptance in accordance with plans and profiles and the motion for acceptance also refers to said plans and profiles. These sheets are posted in the meeting so that the citizen may understand what they are voting on. After acceptance these sheets are signed by the Selectmen and Town Clerk for identification. How much more business-like this method of procedure is than our "slipshod" method of neglecting to accomplish what we wish to do.

I know it is not a pleasant matter to disturb existing conditions and one is apt to get oneself disliked for suggesting any changes from old ideas and customs. But we should realize that Winchester of today is quite a different place than was Winchester of 25 years ago. And if we are to keep our beautiful town abreast of the times, we must adopt modern and improved methods of town government.

I am sorry that the Selectmen did not seem to take my suggestions in the spirit intended. There is much more that could be said about acceptance of streets where it is pretty hard to find that "Public Necessity and convenience" requires such acceptance, and conditions of acceptance are not always uniform. All citizens should be treated alike in these matters, and no favoritism shown. But this letter is already too long and these matters can be discussed at some other time. D. W. Pratt.

ARMSTRONG—CREIGHTON.

The wedding of Mr. Robert W. Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Armstrong of Highland avenue, and Miss Edith K. Creighton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Creighton of Lynn, took place at the home of the bride's parents, 142 Washington street Lynn, on Tuesday evening.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Owen J. White, pastor of the Washington street Baptist Church, and was largely attended by friends and relatives of the couple.

Mr. T. Douglas Armstrong, brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Bessie E. Creighton, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mabel Case, Miss Marian Johnson and Miss Alice Black of Lynn, and Miss Clara Hopburn of Freehold, N. J. The bride was gowned in white satin, with Brussels lace and pearl trimmings.

The residence was decorated for the wedding with roses as the predominating flower, white roses being used exclusively in the room in which the ceremony was performed, with pink in the living room and red in the halls and reception room. The large garage on the estate was connected with the residence by a covered passage and used as a supper room.

The couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. Creighton, their parents. The ushers were Messrs. Albert M. Creighton of Lynn, Russell B. Armstrong of Winchester, Frank S. Bonney of New Bedford, Dr. Arthur V. Rogers of Winchester, Percy O. Dorr of Springfield, Frederick J. Driscoll of Brookline, Edwin F. Breed of Lynn, Rev. Arthur P. Pratt of Bellows Falls Vt., Ivan H. Joslin of Melrose and Hugh Montgomery of Cambridge.

A special electric took the Winchester guests there and return.

Following their wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside on Fletcher street, this town.

FREE SEED.

Mr. Theo. P. Wilson, Winchester, Mass.

My dear Mr. Wilson:—I am sending you a mail-bag full of the seeds, which the government issue for free distribution in the hope that you may know of people who would like to have them for their gardens. I feel quite certain that there are many who would make very good use of these seeds and I should be much obliged to you, if you would see that suitable quantities of them are given to those whom you know who would be glad to have them.

Sincerely yours,
S. W. McCall.

THE MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Mothers' Association will hold its April meeting next Wednesday the 26th in the High school Assembly Hall. Miss Carpenter, the Master's assistant in the Margaret Fuller School, in Jamaica Plain, will give an address of special interest to mothers of young children. She has had long experience as a teacher of the first grade in the Public Schools. The subject of her paper will be: "Does the Kindergarten help or hamper the child in the Primary School?"

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A few days ago a gentleman told The Spectator a story of a woman in his native town who murdered her child last week because she could not feed it. Then the other gentleman took a whack at John D. Rockefeller for having so many millions while widows and orphans suffer. The question is, is John D. to blame or the nation which not only permits but sanctions and bows down to predatory wealth? he said. "I honestly believe Mr. Rockefeller would like to see everybody well fed. It is the system, not the individual, which is to blame." The Spectator can't see why John D. Rockefeller should be blamed for the poor woman's tragic poverty when she had all around her neighbors amply able to relieve her necessities. It is convenient to lay blame upon distant scape goats, but doing so does not relieve us of our obligations. We who have a modicum of prosperity are directly responsible for our fair proportion of poverty's woes, and all about us lie our duties. Mr. Rockefeller, The Spectator readily admits, has a vaster responsibility; and it should be said in his behalf that he has not shirked it. Probably he gives away every year a much larger proportion of his income than any person gives of his. The great oil man has accumulated a gigantic fortune by means of which many persons question, but that he has employed methods more notorious than those utilized by millions of others for gain is much to be doubted. The difference is in the volume of the returns rather than in the morals involved.

A friend pointed out to me the other day a girl who he said had been through two colleges. The Spectator asked him what she did then. "Got married," he said.

A physician says that the tramp instinct is a disease. The Spectator wonders if he recognizes a change of scene as the remedy.

If the health of a town may be judged from the good old age to which some of its people attain, Winchester must be a remarkably good place to live in. The Spectator personally knows seven octogenarians and one nonagenarian. Their combined age totals 500. Three of these octogenarians are as frisky as a man of forty-five.

An old-fashioned dame of The Spectator's acquaintance says that when she was young, she was not permitted to run around with young men as girls do today.

The school houses of Winchester, which represent one of the town's heaviest investments, are idle and dark a good part of the time. The Spectator is glad to note an increasing agitation that the buildings be used in some way for the good of all the people to whom they belong. Various experiments have been made of such use, and some of them have been very successful. Most of these experiments deal with people who are no longer children. Our boys and girls need an education, of course, and for them the buildings are used in the day time. Even in Winchester there are people who have not received all the education they should. Then there are those who are well educated but who wish more. Therefore The Spectator suggests that the school houses of Winchester be used for a series of popular lectures on popular subjects. In one Massachusetts town the school houses are being used for lectures on cooking. These lectures have been given by an expert, and have been attended by multitudes of women and girls, all of whom have learned a hundred things about cooking which they never knew before, and which will have good results in their families. These lectures were paid for by private capital. But The Spectator believes they might well be paid for by the town, for is this, not a most valid extension of the school system? There is a chance for something of the kind here in Winchester. Free lectures on cooking, by an expert, in a school building. Why not? The Spectator believes that they would be very popular.

A well known professional man in conversation with The Spectator says that at present it is not advisable to newspapers to suppress in their reports of divorce cases all details, publishing only the bare statement that application for a divorce has been made or that a divorce decree has been granted. Yet, as he points out to The Spectator, if such a precedent is established, the way will be opened for all sorts of abuses of the law. There are people here in Winchester as elsewhere who advocate the sealing of all papers and testimony in cases where persons seek legal separation. These people maintain that a divorce case is something concerning only the parties to the suit. Marriage is the bulwark of society. Before a marriage is permitted society, according to existing laws, has the right to show cause why any two people should not be united in marriage. Why has it not also the right to know the reason a married couple is entitled to a divorce? If a man in any walk of life knows that his actions are to be submitted to the verdict of public opinion he will be more careful of the life he leads. Should the custom of sealing divorce cases spread to other cases in equity, there is the possibility of the rankest injustice being perpetrated, if ever, as history tells us has been the case in other lands, a member of the American judiciary should prove unworthy of the trust reposed in him by the people.

A gentleman who has traveled extensively gives The Spectator a little illustration in turn as it was brought to his attention in France. The Spectator will let him tell his own story:—

"While in Paris I hired a young French woman to act as both nurse and maid in my family. Her knack of saving money was really remarkable and opened my eyes to the tremendous deficiency of the wage-earning class here at home. This young woman's pay was $16 a month. She fixed that wage herself. All her expenses were paid, and from time to time she was given small sums of money in recognition of her faithfulness and skill. Well, at the end of ten months when the time came for us to return to Winchester and settlement was made with the nurse, how much money do you suppose I paid her? Just 800 francs. Not a dollar of her pay had she drawn in that time, and so I just added 200 more francs to express my appreciation of a young woman who could be so prudent. The counterpart of that French girl hardly exists in Winchester or any place in the United States, but if we had more of her kind the nation would be in a far more fortunate condition."

The Spectator.

Newsy Paragraphs.

We have received from Mr. Charles M. Thompson, formerly town engineer of Winchester, an illustrated pamphlet of the history of the early attempts made to build a canal across Cape Cod up to the time of the present enterprise of the Cape Cod Canal Company. The canal is now three-fourths completed, and to Mr. Thompson's knowledge of actual conditions is due the fact that the work was undertaken by Mr. Perry Belmont and others.

HOUSE OF EDISON

LIGHT CLOSSES.

On Tuesday night the House of Edison Light closed its door to the people of Winchester after a stay of almost five months. Since it was first opened to the public on Dec. 8th thousands have visited it from almost every town in this vicinity, and the exhibit has been of interest to electrical men from all parts of the United States.

The work of taking the house apart began on Thursday, and it will be taken to Newton Centre for its next step, where it is planned to have it opened next week. The House has been a decided addition to the town, and will be missed by many people.

PARK THEATRE.

"The Commuters," James Forbes' successor to "The Chorus Lady" and "The Traveling Salesman," now in its tenth week at the Park Theatre, Boston, is still playing to crowded houses, with every indication that it will finish out the season and complete the longest run ever recorded in the annals of Boston theatrical history.

The Boston "American" has the following to say of Mr. Forbes' newest comedy:

"Mr. Forbes has wrought well with his Sammy Fletcher, hunch or, As a stage creation it overreaches his other two models of cleverness. Patricia O'Brien in 'The Chorus Lady' and Bob Blake in 'The Traveling Salesman'."

All the other Boston papers speak in the highest terms of this play.

PROBATE COURT.

The will of Bridget O'Donnell who died February 5, 1911, has been allowed by Judge Charles J. McIntire of the Probate Court. The estate is valued at $342.95, all in personal property.

John F. Donaghey has filed a petition in the Probate Court asking to be appointed administrator of the estate of Ida E. Donaghey of Somerville, who died September 24, 1910.

Etta T. Hevey has been appointed as guardian of William H. Hevey aged 20, Anna L. Hevey aged 16, John F. Hevey aged 13, and Madalene Hevey aged 8, all of Winchester.

The will of Betsy M. Lombard of Somerville who died January 20, 1911, has been allowed by Judge Charles J. McIntire of the Probate Court. Henry F. Lombard of Winchester has been appointed one of the executors. They have each given a bond of $10,000. The estate is valued at $14,000, $6,000 in real estate and $8,000 in personal property.

Annie L. Carney has been appointed as administratrix of the estate of John Carney of Winchester, who died January 24.

The Changed old Town.

ASSUNG IN THE FOLLIES OF 1978.

Words by Lew Duckstakker. Music—The Grand Old Rag. Take it home and try it on your accordion.

There's a feeling comes a creeping
Over me when I am sleeping,
As I listen for the leaping
Of the water o'er the dam;
And it starts my heart a thumping.
Also sets my blood a pumping
When I hear the water jumping
For I know just where I am.
I look around for the railroad tracks.
They're not in sight:
It don't seem right.
The Center I see; But the streets are all free—
No Subway there; No tracks in air.
Gracious! You're a changed old Town.

Chorus.

Your a changed old Square
From what used to be there;
But I think it is all for the best.
You have lost your tracks,
And that job of Mac's
Tending gates, now has gone with the rest.

Now the Town will grow
With rapid strides, I know,
For you can't keep a pretty place down,
And railroad tracks should be forgot.
Keep your eye on the dear old Town.
After all the agitation
Of the Town's small population,
Looking for emancipation
From the crossing in the square
Into some one's mighty noodle,
Came the dream of easy boudle.

As he saw a poor ki yoodle
By the train tossed in the air.
He had read about the old canal;
It struck his block,
Gave him a shock—
He says "O! G-e! A good thing I see.
A trolley-boat line: won't that be fine?
How much better for the dear old Town."

Chorus.

Your a change I old Square
From what used to be there,
But it's all for the better I know.
Now the trolley-boats glide
Regardless of the tide,
Or the wind, or the rain, or the snow,
And our dogs can roam
Far away from home,
And the worst they can do is down.

For railroad tracks are all forgot,—
Keep your eye on the dear old Town.
With a little million men an' their cars
Put to work at different sources,
He had combined all his forces,
And the digging soon began.
But for them 'twas easy solving,
For they, the old canal, were trailing,
So there was no chance for failing
If they followed where it ran.
They worked at night and they worked in the day,
They dug it wide,
And deep inside,
Bridges built o'er from shore to shore,
Grass mowed and green; banks all kept clean.

Gracious how it changed the Town.
Chorus

Your a changed old Town,
But no more do we frown
When we walk from Mt. Vernon to Main,
Now we don't have to wait
For an eighty-car freight,
Or any other old kind of a train.

The trolley boats skim by
While your batting an eye,
With no danger of knocking you down;
So railroad tracks are all forgot.
Keep your eye on the dear old Town.
Sixty miles an hour they travel,
With no care for rails or gravel,
And no switches to unravel
As they speed upon their way.

There's express boats for the drummers
And there's freight boats for the hummers;
Either kind are sure class hummers,
And they travel night and day.
They load the cars on the boats at Boston,
To Lowell they fly,
See them spin by,
Moving along just as smooth as a song
No noise they make; It's a pleasure to take

A trip to the changed old Town.
Chorus

You're a changed old Town,
Such men of renown,
Such as Carter, and Tuck, and some more
Made it a matter of tradition.
How they howled for abolition
When the crossing in the center made them sore

Now they can rest in peace,
Their howling ever cease,
And in heaven will wear a golden crown,
For railroad tracks are all forgot.
"They" kept their eye on the dear old Town.

Lew Duckstakker.

TURTLE CAME BACK.

One day last autumn Daniel Sullivan of the Woburn slitting crew, while passing the pond near the junction of the Woburn Loop and main line saw a large turtle which he later captured.

He brought the prize to the turntable house where it was secured with a piece of wire in the tablepit. The turtle disappeared and search was unavailing until yesterday, in the same place that he was caught six months before.

Thomas Duffy, another freight brakeman found the self same turtle two miles away from the house with the large piece of wire through its shell.—(Woburn News.

AN AID TO GOOD NURSING.

What the Social Service Committee is Doing.

The following report was made by Mrs. Cornelia McA. Houghton, chairman of the Social Service Committee, at the annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association last week. This committee has been found of considerable assistance to the Association during the past year as the very able report of its work will show.

Report of Social Service Committee.

Social service in connection with the work of the Visiting Nurse Association in Winchester, is bringing the work done by the nurses to a more satisfactory finish, putting oneself in touch with individuals and associations working along the same line, as a help to the patients, and conserving the strength and time of our physicians and nurses.

To this end and through the generosity of Mr. George Harrington, the room which the association has occupied for sometime was opened as an office or headquarters on Jan. 19th, '11. A few necessary articles were bought, more were given by friends believing in and interested in the project and a telephone installed on the same line with the one in the Nurse's Home, enabling us at all times to be reached and satisfactory response to calls given. This office is open daily from three to four o'clock in the afternoon, when one of our physicians takes the responsibility of work which is outside the nurses' province.

There has been held every Thursday since that date, the Mother's Conference, under Dr. Putnam, with an attendance of 83 and an average weekly attendance of eight mothers and babies. The baby is weighed, its general condition noted, directions as to the proper care of the child and the care and preparation of its food given, and where the mother needs help in carrying out the physicians' orders the nurse gives the necessary instruction in the home. Miss Billings has made in connection with this particular work 134 calls in the 70 weeks. On Wednesdays, at the same hour, the tuberculosis class meets, with Dr. Brown in charge. The average attendance is four patients. The association has had during the year eight tuberculosis patients, 2 have died, one at the State Sanatorium at North Reading, one returning from the Westfield State Hospital a few days before his death, and one young girl who has been at North Reading the past year and is reported as improving.

Of the patients attending the class, and under the care of the nurse are two patients who have returned from the State Hospital, who are doing well, and three new cases.

The class work, the regular visits of the nurse to the home of the patient who assures proper food and conditions, makes this branch of the work more satisfactory than ever before. Since the opening of the office, 61 surgical dressings have been done, 5 casts fitted to glasses, 2 patients measured for rubber stockings, 3 operations and 85 calls made upon us. The social service work has been equally encouraging, but it is not possible to give it in detail; domestic help has been procured when sickness incapacitated the mother, employment found for those needing it, suitable homes found for two children whose mothers are out at service, nursing care provided for a chronic invalid at a reasonable fee, satisfactory to both patient and helper. In this case the nurse has given the necessary teaching to the helper and visits frequently, thus insuring the best care to the patient.

Nourishment has been provided in many cases during the period of need and we have done work in connection with the Children's Aid Society, Boston Children's Hospital. The social service and tuberculosis department of the Mass. Gen. Hospital. We desire to thank our doctors for their generous co-operation, hoping we may increase in usefulness to them, and the friends, who have aided us with their interest and gifts.

Besides Mr. Harrington's gift of $500 for this new department of the association's work gifts as follows have been received: New shades for the office, a gas stove, white enameled ware, basins, pitchers, instrument tins and hot water kettle, 12 baby blankets, a tea service, 1 pr. baby scales, 1 baby weighing basket for members of the colored church, 2 nickel soap dishes, 1 couch, 1 hospital screen, 1 pr. hospital scales, 2 receipted bills for work done for the association, 1 rubber stocking, 1 abdominal band, 1 set of surgical instruments for use in the office or Dr. Cutter, $1 from a friend, 1 clock for office.

Respectfully submitted,
Cornelia McA. Houghton,
Chairman.

APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE

How the Work is Done and Appropriations Scrutinized.

For the benefit of our readers we give a brief summary of the thoroughness of the work done by the Appropriations Committee, believing that by so doing the effort of the committee will be more understood and appreciated.

Immediately on organization, sub-committees are appointed. These sub-committees are charged with the duty of acquainting themselves with the needs of the departments assigned to them and they not only examine into the proposed expenditures for the coming year but look into the expenditures for the past year. When their investigation has been completed they report to the whole committee, and they are then examined and sometimes cross-examined and if the information obtained in this manner is not sufficient a further investigation is made.

As soon as possible after the end of the year each department submits in writing an analysis of its expenditures for the past year and a statement of its needs for the coming year.

This is examined by the whole committee in connection with the reports of the sub-committees, the departments appear before the committee and are examined, every member of the committee having an opportunity to ask questions.

Notes on the appropriations are first taken and then the budget is carefully gone over as a whole.

The information which the committee thus obtains is therefore far more complete than it would be possible to obtain in any Town Meeting or perhaps in any other manner, and any other method of examining into the advisability of making appropriations would not be as effective.

It frequently happens that as a result of the inquiry made by the committee it is possible to offer suggestions to the departments which result in a saving of money to the town.

As an example of the thoroughness with which the work is done by the committee it might be stated that the sub-committee on highways and bridges personally viewed all the streets, ways and town property upon which it was proposed to make expenditures.

This committee, while it believes in progress, yet it exercises a watchfulness over all contemplated expenditures, and that there shall be no extravagance, thus saving to the town considerable money.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"The Virginian," a dramatic version of Owen Wister's fascinating story of the Wild West, comes to the Globe Theatre for two weeks, commencing April 24th. As is well known to the majority of theatregoers, "The Virginian" in its dramatized form is in four acts—the first at Uncle Huxey's house, the second at Judge Henry's ranch, the third act at the camp of the horse thieves, and the fourth act in Medicine Bow, Wyoming.

The play version was arranged by Kirke La Shelle, assisted by the author. Earle Ryder's characterization of the Western range rider has been pronounced exquisite in its manly sincerity and an ideal conception of Owen Wister's hero. The play is known to be a carefully studied depiction of types and scenes in the far West when most of the States were then territories. The characters are skillfully drawn, and there is none of the highly colored material usually associated with stage portrayals of life on the plains.

The La Shelle Virginian Company is headed by Earle Ryder. The impression of physical strength, of manly self-reliance, seems to have found a suitable expression through the portrayal of this cowboy hero by Mr. Earle. Noel Travers will play the part of Steve, Augusta True will be seen as Molly Wood. Others in the cast are Charles R. Gilbert, Henry Holliday, Eleanor Wilton, Marie Dantes, Wm. H. Leiden and Frank Vail.

Let's talk it over—When you buy a car here, we are interested long afterwards to keep down expense—That's economy—Information without prejudice—Call up Win. 21608 Winchester Garage. G. O. Fogg, Mgr.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the post-office at Winchester as second-class matter.

The clerks in the postoffice are entitled to a rest day, and no fair-minded person will begrudge them Sundays, the same as is accorded to most everyone else. It won't cause suffering if we don't get our mail on Sundays.

Personal taxes are, as is customary at this time of the year, receiving much attention. It is claimed that the laws are defective but the proposition is a most difficult one to settle, from whatever point of view looked at.

Automobilists should give the fire apparatus the right of way to fires and not hinder their progress. Then, too, this rush of automobiles adds to the danger of the firemen from accidents and the general public as well. Give the firemen every opportunity possible.

President Mellen of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., has given sleepy Boston a severe shaking up. Now if the Chamber of Commerce will take Mr. Mellen's advice to heart and do something and throw overboard the Greater Boston scheme, it will accomplish something of a benefit to that city.

If a street was started across the pond to the Plain, the inhabitants would not, probably, be called upon to pay the increased price for having their ashes removed. A dump at this place would not only be convenient, but it would give the town a street, exclusive of the right of way, at no expense.

The entire country mourns the death of "Josh Whiteomb," or as he was known in private life, Denman Thompson. The loss is felt particularly in Winchester, the home of his brother, the late T. E. Thompson, and where the latter's widow still resides, because of his frequent visits here and the many friends he made.

The Lexington High School boys evidently do not attach much importance to a promise, else if they did they would have come to Winchester last Saturday afternoon and played ball with the Winchester boys as they had agreed to. They did not care enough to even send word that they would not come. The master of the Lexington school should inculcate in these young men the importance of keeping their word.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

The last Confirmation lecture will be held at the church this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Rector will be at the study this evening at 8 o'clock for those who can not come to the church this afternoon.

Next Sunday the second service will be at 7:30 in the evening and there will be no service at 5 o'clock.

The service Sunday evening will be the Confirmation service and the Bishop will preach.

Sunday School will meet for two Sundays more at Waterfield Hall at 12:15 p. m. Beginning with the first Sunday in May, Sunday School will meet at the new Parish House at 9:30 a. m.

The second service a week from next Sunday, April 30 will be omitted. The choir will take part that afternoon at the "World in Boston" service at Mechanic's Hall, at 3:30 p. m.

The last meeting for the season of the Bible Study Class was held at the Rector's Study last Thursday morning.

The Easter music will be repeated at the service next Sunday morning.

IMPORTANT LECTURE COURSE

Charlotte Perkins Gilman offers a course of three lectures on "Man," on the nature of humanity, of work, of men and the androcentric past.

"Woman" on the relation of woman to humanity, to man and her change in the present.

"Child" on parentage, physical and social, and the child's place in the future.

WILLIAM A. BATES.

William Alexander Bates, a well known resident of this town, died suddenly last Saturday. His body was discovered on Sunday on the estate of Hon. Samuel J. Elder at Myopia Hill, it being presumed that the end came on Saturday, he having left his home on the morning of that day.

Mr. Bates resided with his wife on Lagrange street. He was 80 years of age and the last surviving member of his family.

Mr. Bates was engaged in the jewelry business on Bromfield street in Boston for a great many years.

He was a very successful and much respected man. His health failed him several years ago and his physician advised him to retire from business, which he did, and to remain out of doors as much as possible.

Being a man of very fine education, having studied medicine, botany and natural history, he was greatly interested in his out of door life and he enjoyed it much. He was constantly in the woods which surrounded the town and he often went to Winthrop, where he had relatives, to hunt shore birds and to fish.

Mr. Bates was a man who had traveled extensively. He had never taken an interest in town affairs.

The funeral services were held from the residence on Tuesday at one o'clock, Rev. Joel Metcalf, pastor of the Unitarian Church officiating. The remains were taken to Forest Hills.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Oh, yes, the Ap. Coms. have been good committees, but none of them have ever known it all. None of us are any great experts on municipal government, much less specialists, and make many mistakes. Why not instruct this committee to bring in the budget based upon a certain estimated valuation and a fixed tax rate? This would tie it down effectually and the year's work would not suffer in any department.

The State House not only lacks fire protection, but ventilation and intelligent running of its electric and heating plants. What is needed there is new blood.

Mr. Olin and Mr. Turner have been figure heads in their offices for several years. A number of other State offices are so filled.

At this writing the bill amending the Boston Charter act has had but one reading in the House and must take two more before going to the Senate. What the House voted was to substitute the bill for the report of Metropolitan Affairs Committee "leave to withdraw" and the bill then took its first reading and is still away back in the calendar for its second reading. It will have a stormy time before it gets through the House and will be buried in the Senate if it gets there.

The Hurd resolve is still in Senate Ways and Means where it has been since reported by Counties March 27. The bill asked for $6,000 for life, and Counties reported $3,000. The same committee reported in favor of paying to the widow of Court Clerk John L. Ambrose his salary for the balance of the year. It went through the House, was reported against by Senate Ways and Means and was rejected by the Senate unanimously. It looks doubtful for the Hurd resolve.

By chapter 146 of this year cities and towns may establish art commissions. Let's have one for our grade crossing.

By chapter 147, Falmouth may appropriate money to advertise itself.

April 17th there were still three hundred and fifty bills not reported upon by the various committees of the legislature and all of the hearings will not be completed this month. Speaker Walker seems to have lost all control of the House, and it looks like a July first session. Even the House itself is so tired of its floundering that it voted for biennial elections by a large majority.

I trust our street department spring cleaning will include those busted street signs and that harlequinaded sandbin in the Linden street yard. Even if they cannot have a new steam roller and automobiles, they might manage to attend to these small things.

I have been asked what piece of town property does not appear in the Auditor's schedule. The water repair shop, piece on Vine street.

WEDDING AT BELMONT.

The wedding of Miss Ida Woodbridge Fletcher, daughter of J. Henry Fletcher and Robert Bacon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Bacon of Winchester, took place Tuesday evening at the bride's home 439 Pleasant street, Belmont, Rev. George H. Reed officiating. Mrs. John Cameron Abbott of Westford, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. William T. Foster, jr., of Arlington, was best man and the ushers were Arthur W. Fletcher of Belmont, John Cameron Abbott of Westford and Everett P. Turner of Arlington.

The bride was gowned in white satin with her lace, and the matron of honor's gown was of white satin also.

Following the ceremony a reception was held from 8 to 10 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Bacon will make their home in Winchester.

CARPENTERS' LADIES' NIGHT.

Local Union 991, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, had a very pleasing and largely attended Ladies' Night in Masonic Hall, Wednesday evening, the hall being well filled with members and their ladies. As guests they had Mr. John Harrigan, president of Massachusetts State Council, Representative C. A. Dean and Mrs. Mary O'Sullivan.

Mr. J. D. Colburn, district agent, was introduced as the presiding officer, by Mr. Fred Dutton. The speakers were Mr. Harrigan, Representative Dean and Mrs. O'Sullivan, recitations being interspersed by Mr. McGregor of Malden.

After these exercises there was a supper followed by dancing. The local union is in a very prosperous condition, and all thoroughly enjoyed the annual event.

Another week of "The End of the Bridge" at the Castle Square. That tells the whole story of its overwhelming success. More than one hundred thousand people have come from within a radius of fifty miles of Boston to see this play are still coming without the slightest signs that they will not keep on coming for many weeks. The popularity of "The End of the Bridge" is unexampled.

Mr. Craig as the Doctor, Miss Young as the heroine, Miss McDannell as the boy, and Mr. Hassell as the lawyer all help to bring about the great success of Miss Lincoln's play. It will be continued at the Castle Square till further notice.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" which proved to be one of the most popular of last season's dramatic successes in Boston where it ran for nine weeks to crowded houses is announced for a return engagement of two weeks, commencing Monday, April 24th, at the Hollis Street Theatre. The entire original company and production returns to Boston direct from a triumphant engagement of seven months at Belasco's Republican Theatre, New York.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

At the close of the Boston engagement the company and production will sail for London where it will appear at the Criterion Theatre during the Coronation ceremonies. The play was selected for this honor by Sir Charles Wyndham who witnessed the play last winter during its run in New York.

TOURNAMENT.

With the four matches in the spring bowling tournament at the Calumet Club during the latter part of last week the teams split up considerably and it would be hard to pick any one as a probable winner. The scores were as a whole rather low, although the matches between teams 2 and 6, and 1 and 8 were productive of some good rolling. Olin-sted's single of 132 was the highest of the week. Team 1 rolled a total of 1474 in a well bowled match, Caldwell having the highest total with 314.

NAMES ARE TOO TAME.

So Thinks "Frederick W. Coburn Regarding Designations in the Middlesex Fells.

In his "Saturday Saunterings" in the Boston Herald, Frederick W. Coburn took his readers out to the Middlesex Fells and its miniature zoological garden. After picturing the wild animals and the possibilities of the Zoo, he continues: The half-holiday enthusiasm of the crowd for wandering in the Fells, very evident since the street car service to Spot pond was opened, prompts a second inquiry of the rambling sort in which the sauntering person is permitted to indulge. It may be pertinent to ask whether nothing could be done to give names of better class to the physical features of this reservation.

For there is a little lesson in the psychology of popular appeal in a New York woman's criticism that when in Boston she often takes the trolley to some picturesque named suburb, just to find out if the place lives up to its designation. She is sometimes disillusioned when she reaches a jerry-built village, but the impulse on which she acts is correct. A writer in a New England paper recently expressed pleased disappointment at discovering on his first visit that the Middlesex Fells were finer, more charming and more romantic than he had been led to suppose by noting on the map such names as Pond street, Elm street, Pine hill and Long Pond. He expected, he confesses, to encounter something as tamely tiresome as "Washington street," "Main street" or "School street" in the average American town. Instead he wandered for several hours in a lake region as glamorously beautiful as a bit of transplanted Adirondacks.

Others must have felt the same way. To add, indeed, to the allure of the miniature mountain heights reserved for the benefit of 1,000,000 people it was a lucky circumstance that, instead of the trite designation, "the woods," which sufficed whole generations of New England Yankees to describe an exquisite tract of out-jutting rocks and mossy gullies, Sylvester Baxter had the imaginative foresight to import a word which by its very unusualness lends distinction to the park. It is probably safe to assert that thousands of people have visited "Middlesex Fells" who would not have been interested to enter "the woods."

Except, however, for the primary name the map of the Fells tells a sad story of that poverty of the American vocabulary and American imagination which has elsewhere given us a many East, West, North, South and Centre Smithvilles. Fine old glacier scraped stubs of an antique mountain system, with peaks and prospects worthy to be sung by poets and with intervening valleys where the earliest white violets appear, have been stuck with such unenticing designation as Bear Hill, Deer Hill, Pine Hill, White Hill, Saddle Hill, Money Hill, Black Rock and Boston Rock.

The stroller who studies one of the maps which the park commission has placed at convenient points in the Fells, feels no particular curiosity to visit Sumer pond, Willow spring, Quarry spring, Indian swamp, Turkey swamp or Pickering rock. This banalization of the "dim unventured wood" is of long standing, of course. It began, indeed, when that prosaic person, Gov. John Winthrop, on Feb. 7, 1632, seated himself on a wind swept crag overlooking a goodly plain to the northward, and feeding only upon cheese—his servant having neglected to put bread into the hamper—dubbed the peak "Cheese Rock." Other dubs followed. Cheese Rock, the northerly crag of Bear Hill, must continue to be on account of the historical reminiscence, nor could Spot pond at this date properly become a lake with a sonorous Indian title. Wright's pond commemorates the public spirit of that imaginative man of figures, Elizar Wright, while Dark Hollow pond and Doleful pond convey vivid, if not precisely alluring pictures to the fan tual of mind.

For a few redeeming designations thanks are probably due—to high browed innovators rather than to local initiative. Most Winch people still know the pretty turn on their side of the Fells as "Long pond," although, from study of the park commission's maps, some are learning to call it "Cranberry pool." Other better names are sparsely scattered over the area. The mention of Jerry Jingle Natch prompts a desire to explore it, and one knows in advance that Shilly Shilly brook must be more amusing to follow than Straight Gully brook.

This question of the nomenclature of popular resorts seems a trivial matter to the unobservant. It is, in reality, important. The descriptive name, as advertising experts know, helps to sell goods. Name your biscuit aptly, and you shall export it over seven seas. Associate a life insurance company and a famous rock and every traveler passing through the straits of Gibraltar will look for an advertising placard.

The opportunities of the metropolitan park system at best are too little appreciated by a large section of the population. Franklin Park and the Blue Hill reservation at least show many names that are not so singularly unattractive as those at Middlesex Fells. Who wouldn't, other things being equal, rather listen to the spring birds on Hossickwick lake than on the shore of Long pond? A priori which would one rather climb—Bear hill or Hagbourne hill? Half-mile road evokes no thought of pleasant encounter with one's fellow beings; the Greeting's does. Marigold brook pictorializes flowers that may or may not grow beside Whitmore brook. Tame names, in short, consort badly with the Fells' rugged wildness. They should go out with the rest of the scrub growth that is disappearing from the crags.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

Jonah Repairs the Temple. 2 Kings xi:21-xii:16.

Golden Text—Then the people rejoiced, for that they offered willingly. 1 Chron. xxix:9.

(1.) Verse 21—To what extent may we trust the reasoning and deductions of a bright, and good boy, seven years of age, upon matters with which he is familiar?

(2.) What immediately preceding events had led up to the boy Joash (Jehoshaphat) being crowned King of Judah?

(3.) Verse 1—Who was Jehu?

(4.) Zibiah was the mother of the boy King Joash, but who was his father?

(5.) Verses 2-3—Is the statement here made that "Jehoshaphat did that which was right in the sight of the Lord all his days," literally, or historically correct? (See 2 Chron. xxiv:17-22.)

(6.) Take two men, both previously good, in responsible positions of great temptation, both having been religiously trained, one having a wife and the other a good ancestry; one of them late in life becomes a bad man—on the law of averages which is it, and why?

(7.) Verses 4-5—What method or rule should we adopt in giving money to the church?

(8.) What is the relative obligation, upon a man for keeping up his own house and the house of God?

(9.) Verses 6-8—What were the priests bidden by the king to do with the money which the people brought in, and how did they carry out their orders?

(10.) Why is it either wise or unwise for a person to be the treasurer of his church?

(11.) What is your opinion as to what those priests did with the money?

(12.) Which is the right, or better place to collect money for God's cause, and why, at the homes of the people or in the church?

(13.) Verse 9—If Jehoiada had gotten up a series of concerts, or lectures, or bazars, or tea meetings, or had set the women to making quilts and selling them, instead of asking the people to give their money direct, would it or not have been more in keeping with God's plans for financing His church and why? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(14.) What modern plan for paying money to the church, most nearly answers to putting it into a chest at the church door, and what is the advantage of the plan?

(15.) How many instances can you recall of dishonesty in handling church funds, and how do they compare with the number you can recall of dishonesty in banking and other business institutions?

(16.) Verses 11-12—Ought a church to gladly pay the regular market value, or should it expect to get work and material for less?

(17.) Verses 13-16—Should a Christian church spend money for style, or for spectacular effect, or for anything beyond that necessary for comfort?

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

The biggest thing ever in vaudeville has been the verdict in regard to Paul Armstrong's "A Romance of the Underworld," which has been doing business at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week. This mammoth production with no less than 35 speaking parts or more to be found in the average four act play, has been the talk of Boston, and it was to be expected that it would be held over for another week. It will be headed by Neil O'Brien the famous comedian of Lew. Dickson and his Minstrels, assisted by William N. Hale, formerly interloper with D'Orestes here. Another strong feature will be Jack & Violet Kelly, the Australian stock whip experts. On the same bill will be Lyons & Yoon, the wonderful stunts; Marie & Billie Hart in some 112 entirely new in the way of circus entertainment and Neil Nichols, the West end comedian who created such a sensa when she last appeared in Boston; the Mario-Alco Trio in equitation, and other features will complete a remarkably strong bill.

XIV.—Disease Prevention In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.
Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association

"WHO would not give a trifle to prevent what he would give a thousand worlds to cure?" Dr. Young who wrote these words, had a habit of "seeing things at night," but not in the popular sense of this expression. He wrote "Night Thoughts," but saw very clearly the principle which the medical profession is now carrying out well expressed in the homely old phrase, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Scourges of the Past.

The horrors of pestilence and unnecessary disease that afflicted our forefathers are almost unbelievable in these days, and yet during the dark ages they were accepted as a matter of course and variously ascribed to "acts of God" or "the evil one," according to the point of view.

PROPER WINDOW VENTILATION

[Have plenty of window space and so arrange your rooms that they are thoroughly ventilated and well lighted.]

We do not read in the sprightly romances of Dumas and others who have thrown a glamour over history that "itch" was a common, not to say general, affliction at the court of France and that the great Napoleon suffered from this trouble because no one knew its cause or simple treatment. It seems difficult to realize that in the old days a person who was not pockmarked from smallpox was conspicuous in the streets of London.

The custom of sleeping in bunks in the wall, of using rushes or straw for floor covering, in the meshes of which refuse scraps from the table and other filth were allowed to accumulate, was regarded in the old days as a natural and healthful mode of existence. The custom of dipping germ infected fingers into large dishes of food containing the general supply for the family was followed by the Four Hundred during the middle ages, when the "black death" and other scourges spread a desolation of which it is difficult to form any conception in these days of comparative "sweetness and light."

But we must not lay too much flatteringunction to our souls. Taking into account the advances in science and knowledge of the causation of disease, we are today relatively just as neglectful as our forefathers. Rock- less and careless habits in defiance of disease risks are still common enough and are responsible for a tremendous waste of life.

The Fall in the Death Rate.

In the registration area of the United States the death rate has fallen from 19.6 per 1,000 in 1890 to 15.1 in 1908. In Massachusetts the death rate has fallen from 19.4 in 1890 to 17.5 in 1907. In England and Wales it has fallen from 19.5 in 1890 to 14.7 in 1908. In Sweden from 17.1 in 1890 to 14.9 in 1908, and in France from 22.8 in 1890 to 14.9 in 1908.

This is a splendid showing, but when we analyze the material from which these figures are derived we find that the death rate among young people has fallen more than 30 per cent, while the death rate among the middle aged and elderly has either been slightly affected or markedly increased, according to the locality investigated.

In Massachusetts the increase in the death rate at advanced ages is really startling and doubtless reflects a condition general throughout the country.

We know that the degenerative diseases affecting middle life and old age—apoplexy, heart disease, Bright's disease, arterial diseases, etc.—have increased 105 per cent during the past thirty years in the registration area, and an increase in the mortality at the ages affected would naturally follow, such as is exhibited in the Massachusetts statistics.

But the limit of prevention and improvement among the infectious diseases that affect young lives has not yet been reached. These diseases, such as typhoid, cholera infantum, tuberculosis, etc., should be absolutely eradicated.

Proper sanitation, especially in the rural districts, is greatly needed and a more thorough observance of the precautionary measures against tuberculosis and other infectious maladies.

Prevention of Degenerative Diseases.

Diseases of the heart, kidneys and blood vessels (apoplexy, paralysis) are caused by high pressure living, over-eating, intemperance—any condition involving undue nerve strain. What may be done to guard against these troubles? The most rational protective measure is to treat your body just as you would treat your business or your automobile or your yacht. Have it overhauled and examined periodically. What would you think of a man who put out to sea in a vessel that had been used for years and never overhauled or inspected for leaky boilers, pipes or seams? Is it not obvious that he invites shipwreck? But the average mechanic, farmer or business man will embark on a life voyage and wait until something goes wrong before he consents to an overhauling, and then too often in his conceit and foolish egotism he derides the physician who warns him and boasts that he will outlive the doctor or the insurance company that refuses to carry his risk.

Value of Periodical Examinations.

It must be apparent that this human machine should be periodically examined for evidence of commencing strain and impairment. Many a valuable life could be saved for years of happy and useful existence if the early symptoms of disease were detected and the manner of living changed. A downward course may readily be checked if the disease has not gone too far. The wise man, therefore, will consult his doctor at least once a year and listen patiently to advice regarding the habits of eating, drinking and housing. The periodical inspection of the whole family is also desirable. Give the children a chance to be molded and guided to health and strength instead of permitting them to grow up like weeds or untrained vines. The correction of eye troubles, removal of adenoids, tonsils, etc., proper habits of bathing, eating, etc., may completely change the destiny of your children.

These principles are coming to be recognized as of such extreme importance that one large life insurance company has arranged to give to its policy holders the privilege of free medical examinations once a year, believing that the saving of lives will more than offset the expense involved.

Care in Choice of a Home.

In choosing a habitation remember that sunlight, fresh air and dry soil are money savers. By properly choosing your location you may save the interest on the mortgage in doctors' bills. See that your home is on firm, well drained ground. Made ground, however carefully packed and graded, is very likely to cause a dampness in the cellar and around the foundations. Do not settle near a marshy pond or sluggish stream if you can help it. A southern exposure is desirable.

Have plenty of window space, and so arrange your rooms that those most constantly occupied—bedrooms, living rooms, etc.—are thoroughly ventilated and well lighted. The best room in the house should be used by the family, not by an occasional guest.

If the soil is damp the subsoil must be drained below the foundation and the cellar floors and walls thoroughly cemented. Absolute dryness may be attained by having hollow walls. Bricks are undesirable for cellar walls, as they absorb moisture. Stone is likewise porous and retains moisture. Slate or cement coatings will obviate the danger.

Heating.

If you have a hot air furnace be sure it is of good quality, gas proof and that the air supply is drawn from outside and not from the cellar or any damp or dusty location. See that a water reservoir is attached to the furnace and kept filled.

If other methods of heating by direct radiation are employed some provision should be made for changing the air of the room. Many special ventilating systems have been invented, and if means permit these should be investigated and a desirable one installed when the house is built. Stagnant, vitiated, overheated, dusty or damp air is a menace to health. Exclude these conditions from your home. It can be done.

Water Supply.

If there is no general water supply system in your locality, beware of shallow wells, surface springs or water from any doubtful source. A deep driven well far removed from any possible source of contamination, should be secured, if possible; other wise cistern water, held in a slate or cemented cistern, is safer. Suspected water should always be boiled.

I have elsewhere dwelt upon the importance of proper sewage disposal, but it cannot be too often stated that the old fashioned methods employed in the country are barbarous and unworthy of a civilized nation. Study this question carefully and adopt a system, whether surface irrigation or portable dry earth closet, etc., that will protect your family and your neighbors from disease. If greater care is not exercised in this regard the state must step in and act vigorously to protect the community from typhoid, hookworm and other maladies due to soil pollution.

The Home Atmosphere.

It is not sufficient to keep physical germs out of the home atmosphere. The germs of discord, strife and confusion are also prejudicial to health. A household where nothing ever happens and everything always worked smoothly would be a great bore, but there is a "golden mean" characterized by patience, forbearance, system and order in the household relations and government.

When the Pipe Bursts

WITH a telephone in the house the plumber is within instant call. You can get him quickly. He grabs his tools and hurries to your home. In a few minutes the repair work is done.

In emergencies like this the telephone is invaluable. Delay may mean serious damage—always inconvenience.

Nearly every plumber can be reached from the city or country residence by the universal Bell system.

Ask the Local Manager what a telephone will cost in your home.

GOVERNMENT PAP.

The Democratic members of our Congress seem to have entered upon the investigation of government expenditures in dead earnest. The investigating committee headed by Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania claim that a cut of $182,680 can be made in House salaries without injuring the service, and from recent developments it would seem that this might be easily accomplished. Among the remarkable discoveries was the finding of the name of the chief door keeper's daughter, 13 years old, on the payroll as clerk to the doorkeeper at a salary of $1200 a year, while there is nothing pertaining to the door keeper's services that requires a clerk, and if there was, a more competent person than a child of 13 years should have been employed, at a salary of $1200 a year. During the Spanish war 38 extra policemen were added to the Capitol force to protect it from imaginary danger, and they have received their salary ever since. They will now be dropped from the force and $39,000 a year will be saved. Two telegraph operators were employed on private line between the War Department and the House wing of the Capitol before the introduction of the telephone and they also have continued to draw a salary of $1500 each, although the telegraph service had been dispensed with. The names of other clerks whose services had been done away with several years ago were found on the pay roll. Their salaries amounted to $6250 a year but have been cut off by the report of the investigating committee. It may be a good thing after all that the Democrats got control of the House and have set to work cutting out unnecessary expenses which prevailed under Republican rule, providing there is not corresponding outlay to turnishing government pay for the boot-lickers of the Democratic party.

Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, pain-alleviating Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray is a remedy that relieves at once. All druggists 75c, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 16 Warren Street, New York.

Brush fires were numerous during the past week. On Monday night the department was called out in response to an alarm from Box 38, for a fire in a greenhouse on Swanton street owned by an Italian. The damage was slight. On Tuesday box 64 was rung in twice during the day for brush fires. No damage was done in either case, although the assistance of the firemen was needed to save surrounding property. On Wednesday forenoon the department was called by telephone to the box on Forest street for a brush fire. This fire was extinguished before the department arrived.

The following clergymen were also invited:—Rev. Asher Anderson, D. D., of Boston, Rev. Albert E. Dunning, D. D., of Boston, Rev. William Ewing, D. D., of Boston, Rev. Albert C. Fitch, D. D., President of Andover Theological Seminary, Rev. Herman P. D. Forest, D. D., Lexington, Rev. Charles C. Merrill, Winchester, Prof. John W. Plummer, D. D., Cambridge, Rev. Cyrus Richardson, D. D., Nashua, and Rev. Charles R. Seymour, D. D., Mount Vernon Heights, N. Y., a former pastor of the church.

The council organized by the choice of Rev. Dr. Henry H. French of Malden as Moderator, Rev. Thomas Sims, D. D., of Melrose, assistant moderator and Mr. Samuel Usher of Cambridge as Scribe. Mr. Hodgdon the pastor-elect then presented the following statement of Christian belief and experience:

A paper read by the Rev. F. W. Hodgdon before the Council at Installation at the First Congregational Church of Winchester, Mass., April 27, 1911.

When I was a boy at the age of eighteen, I went one evening to a prayer meeting which was in charge of my boyhood pastor and life-long friend, Rev. Nehemiah Boynton. As Dr. Boynton spoke that evening in his earnest and tender way, a deep longing filled my soul. I seemed to be in the grip of some new and unseen power. A violent trembling got hold of my being so that I could scarcely walk or speak. That night I gave my life to Jesus Christ and in a few weeks united with the church.

It so happened that my employment kept me in the company of a man who had a mean disposition. Hatred under ordinary conditions, this new life of mine seemed to madden him and inspire him to pour forth unusual torrents of profanity and give way to outbreaks of scorn and ridicule.

Soon after uniting with the church I revealed my plan to go to Phillips Academy seeking an education. This man of wrath resented this later scheme as if I were breaking caste with him, and one day in the presence of sympathizers took occasion with a bitter sneer to declare that the next step in my, to him, insane course would be to enter the ministry. It is impossible for me to describe how that prediction of his filled up every nook of my interior being and fascinated me into unconsciousness of the spirit in which it was uttered. I had never thought of such a thing. Instantly I felt again as if I were in the grip of the unseen. The suggestion didn't seem a stranger to my soul though I knew it really was. From that moment I have never felt that I could be anything but a minister. Even when the ministry has brought its burden and I have wondered if I couldn't do as much good for the world in a life that was easier, deep down I have never dared seriously to consider any other occupation.

I have not related these incidents in my experience because there is anything remarkable or mysterious in them but simply because they are mine giving a glimpse of my beginnings; and, if I analyze my spiritual possessions correctly, giving the basis in experience of my most cherished convictions.

God is Spirit and so is man. Communion with Him is a profound reality. He can use anything there is to talk with and He does. When I say He is Spirit, I mean that there is in Him among other realities the essence of that which I feel myself really to be. There is all the vitality I can appreciate. I do not mean thus to limit Him. The sun is my light. My light is not all the light. Other orders of being know rays I do not and the photographer's plate is more sensitive than the retina of my eye. Yet for me the sun is light; my light. Other light is interesting but not essential; that is, I do not know that it is for me.

God is Spirit. The statement is anthropomorphic. He is what I am in essence. He wants me and I need Him. He loves me. He loves me first and comes to me and talks to me. My soul seems made with tremendous forces coiled up within it. It awaits a touch from the outside. It is as ready for the call of God as a seed is for the spring sunshine. "Any kind of an incident, it only happens at the right moment, may become the medium of a whisper from God which stirs and unmakes and remakes the soul." Anything at any time may serve to let in the holy energizing spirit of the loving and seeking God. My soul cannot thrive except under the conviction that the Father has found in me His child and that I His child am honestly seeking to do those things which please the Father. "My God is the God of my soul. One of my favorite pastimes is to objectify myself and watch, as I do flowers grow and floating fleecy clouds, the transformations wrought by my experiences in my soul. My one passion is to keep my soul on top.

Like the metaphysical game. But to me it is a game. I am perfectly willing to call the grand blanket generalization God. I am equally willing that it shall be called any other name that for logic means the same thing. The postulate is necessary to relieve Prof. James' baby from the predicament of never being able to look into it into the feeling that the universe has ceased to be for him "one big, blooming, buzzing confusion."

But the three letters G O D employed by the metaphysician to symbolize his impenetrable absolute have not one particle of the spirit-content that the word God has for the Christian heart and soul. The failure to make this distinction between a hiatus in logic and the Father of our spirit is a prolific cause of irreligion among those who use religious terminology merely for the delight of intellectual activity which is intellectual activity for intellectual activities sake.

The God of man as spirit comes to man in men. This profound truth underlies the universal instinctive tendency to hero worship and explains the ambitious attempt of adoration to apotheosize huge personality. The human soul almost madly demands a God personal and concrete. The words of some being are remembered, cherished and revered because they make the dumb, undefined longings of the many articulate. They are spirit—they are life.

For me God personalized and concretized Himself in Jesus Christ. Jesus has for my soul the supreme religious value. His words are spirit and they are life. He has said the final thing and said it so that it will stay said. He has found my soul. I feel sure God had Him do it. I don't think God could do it any better. Jesus has done it and I love Him. I don't explain Him. Such a personality furnishes a very fascinating metaphysical plaything. I enjoy the exercise. But I mean that in the serious, solemn business of living and in holy fellowship, I don't explain Him. I feel no need of it. When I love a person my relation to him is spiritual. I love him. I accept him. All that concerns him, height, weight, chemical composition, genealogy, etc., are interesting, the more interesting because I love him, but they do not enter as constituent, determinative factors into my affection. They could not create it; they cannot destroy it. They are entirely outside the realm of holy spiritual communion. So I accept Jesus. When I look for the God of my soul Jesus fills the whole field of vision. I can't see God around the edges of Him anywhere. Thus He is to me and I believe God wants Him to be, all of God my soul needs.

The union of the spirit of Jesus with that of other men produces everywhere by a kind of soul-chemistry a new spiritual compound of such marked characteristics that it may be quite accurately described as a new type.

The transforming power of this Christ force is perhaps the supreme marvel of history. It creates the new type out of every kind of human material in spite of racial distinctions and traditional differences. By the way His personality has worked ever since God let Him loose on this planet we have had demonstrated that His mission is to all men and we have in His conquests absolutely incontrovertible evidence of the most fatherly Fatherhood of the God who did it, in the actual brotherhood and fellowship of individuals of the new type irrespective of "race, color, or previous condition of servitude."

The redemptive power of the spirit of Jesus is as wonderful as His transforming power. So long as there is a spark of life left in a sin-sick being the energy of His projected personality with no apparent diminution of potency because handled by centuries of middle-men unites with that remnant to produce that same unmistakable superior type of spirit life. It seems to me that we are here in the presence of an energy as mighty and as dependable, as persistent and pervasive as the force of gravitation.

One of the marked characteristics of the new type created by the indwelling spirit of Christ is its vivid and active faith in life eternal. It was the great enthusiasm created by belief in the resurrection of Jesus that gave us the church. Personally I rejoice that the moral and spiritual history of the race under that sublime conviction is to me God's pragmatic method of justifying the ways of Jesus to men. Nothing ever worked better. No seed ever produced more acceptable fruit. No faith ever fostered a more sublime spiritual beauty. I am grateful for scientific assurance that in the scheme of evolution "death is not a necessity, but simply one of nature's devices for the furtherance of life" and for the scientific suggestion which has as much satisfaction for my soul as demonstration could have for my vision that "if we can turn heat into motion, and motion into electricity, and electricity into light, but can by no process reduce them to nothingness" then the human spirit which is the highest kind of force manifested on this planet can be no exception to the general law of the continuity of energy. Or to pace it off in George A. Gordon's seven-league boots, "We do not discover our ideals; they discover us. They find us as Samuel found David among the sheepfolds, lost to the dignity of existence under its dead monotony and they anoint us in the name of the Eternal. We do not create our ideals; we wake to behold them bright with an everlasting light. They do not originate in human hearts; they rise like stars out of the Infinite. They are objectively real; mountains at whose base men are born and whose steps they are to climb. They are the forms which the ethical character of the Eternal assumes in the human imagination and their sublime chant is: 'Ye therefore shall be perfect as your Heavenly Father is perfect.'"

"Solidarity in man is but the expression of the Godhood beyond man; and when the Sonhood declares its judgment in favor of the deathless life that declaration is not of man but of God."

A sequential imitative of the new type of life in the individual produced by the union of his spirit with that of Jesus is the Church. The church is the product of the passion of Jesus for oneness, the oneness of disciples in fellowship, the oneness of His own with Him, the oneness of all in communion with the Father. So deeply convinced am I of this truth that it is my firm belief that the grip of Christ upon the hearts of men can be quite accurately measured by the intensity of Christendom's passion for fellowship and union. The church is not an expedient, a voluntary organization; it is inevitable so long as people in numbers give their hearts to Christ. "It is not made from the outside in realization of an ideal. It springs out of the interior genius of the Christian spirit. It is because we are. Fullness of being is its supreme justification. We sometimes hear it said that the church is not practical. It is supremely practical when it is actually a church. There is nothing more practical than the practice of the presence of God. There is nothing more practical than the working of the spirit of Christ in men, the realization of the truth that we are souls; meeting life's duties, gifts, losses, joys, pains, as souls. There is no secure business, social, or personal ethics outside the practice of the supremacy of the spirit of Jesus.

There is nothing more practical than love. Take it out of life and there would be none of the splendid activities we call business. The more of it we have the more business we have. Men are made for each other. No day ever revealed it so clearly as this day. We are ransacking the globe for new companionships. The practice of brotherhood is the one great business of life. The church is intensely practical. It springs out of the church to which I have referred arises. I think out of a mistaken notion of the nature of the church. It regards the organization as a machine rather than as a living organism. It looks for action. That is not bad, but being, fullness of being, with adequate vision, always lies back of efficient action. Much doing is mere "diddling." The first great concern of the church is to keep the organization itself in shape by worship, by enlistment under the religious ideal of all the faculties in the attempt to realize the presence of God and by vital fellowship, that the soul shall have its full chance. If the church is not true to itself it cannot be true to the world. It can't give the world what it hasn't. If it cannot co-ordinate and harmonize its own constituent parts it cannot solve the world's social problem. If it cannot discipline its own interior life it cannot reform world abuses.

It cannot keep the spiritual and eternal radiant over every form and all organization it cannot offer redemption to the lost.

It cannot practice brotherhood with itself accepting racial, traditional and social differences; it cannot bring the heathen into the kingdom of God. For the sake of the world it must sanctify itself, but it must sanctify itself.

The hugeness of the demand now made upon it is my apology for this emphasis which I lay upon its static quality even in the face of being understood almost to regard it as an end in itself. There is a mighty sense in which it is an end in itself, a constituent part of the eternal kingdom. And as such it will do more for man and God to stand, just stand, and having done so, to stand. Stand in the matchless dignity, glory and serenity of its vaster spiritual realizations than it can by shuttlecockish acrobatic gyration and breathless ubiquity.

The social problem in its various phases is the burden of our modern souls. But that burden has been created by the dawning realization that we are souls. It is as deep seated as being itself. No scheme will solve it. The only plan that ever works is a man with a purpose. The social problem will be solved only by the increasing consciousness of our spiritual nature and by the practice of the principles of the spirit world. The church can make no other contribution than her own transparent, sanctified, spiritual life. It is enough for the disciple that he be as his Master.

The church must sanctify itself. It must neglect nothing in its endeavor to discover and realize upon all of its worship resources. It must spare no cost and shun no pain necessary to take advantage of every possibility in the adolescent period of youth springing in the kingdom of God.

It must take steps to provide it with an educational outfit to train youth morally and religiously that shall at least match the dignity, continuity, thoroughness and effectiveness which the same youth discover when they are taught reading writing and arithmetic. You can't impress the child mind with the superiority when parents habitually neglect it and when the institution which the child is told is the most sacred in his community gives him the cheapest outfit it can, consistent with mere decency. If the Bible is the book we say it is then surely it deserves as competent teachers as biology or the dead languages, cost of no cost. It history reveals God on the way that it deserves teachers who can point out God the working.

Following the council, a banquet was served in the vestry of the church. Deacon Charles E. Sweet presided and addresses were made by Dr. Boynton, Dr. Anderson, Dr. Richardson, Rev. Mr. Noyes, Rev. Charles R. Seymour, D. D., of Mt. Vernon Heights, N. Y., Rev. Henry E. Hodge of Winchester, Rev. Charles C. Merrill of Winchester, Samuel Usher Esq., of Cambridge, Rev. Vincent Ravi, Cambridge, Rev. George H. Reed of Concord, N. H., Rev. Thomas Sims, D. D., of Melrose and others.

The Council having voted to approve and ratify the action of the church, services of installation were held in the evening in the presence of a large congregation. The preacher of the occasion was the Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D. D., Moderator of the National Council, and who, when pastor of the North Church in Haverhill, received Mr. Hodgdon into church membership. The invocation was offered by the Rev. P. Isaac Osborne of Winchester and the installing prayer by the Rev. Ambrose W. Vernon of Brookline. The scriptures were read by the Rev. Arthur S. Beale of Stoneham. The charge to pastor was given by the Rev. William Ewing, D. D., of Boston; the charge to the people by the Rev. D. Augustine Newton, late pastor of the church, and the right hand of fellowship was extended by the Rev. Stephen A. Norton, D. D., of Woburn and the concluding prayer by Rev. Thomas Sims, D. D., of Melrose. The benediction was pronounced by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hodgdon. The committee having in charge the arrangements for the installation were Messrs. Charles E. Sweet, James W. Cameron, Arthur W. Hale, George S. Cabot, John K. Mordock, Edward L. Baldwin, Abner Bowers and Ralph Redfern on part of the Church and Messrs. Henry C. Robinson, Frederick S. Snyder and Preston Pond on the part of the Society. The tables were in charge of Mrs. Ralph B. Redfern and Mrs. Clarence E. Ordway assisted by a corps of young ladies.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The club entered on a new year of work Monday afternoon. The meeting was in charge of Miss Folts, first vice president, Mrs. Nichols' continued illness preventing her from being present.

For weeks past, the members of the club interested in the drama have been rehearsing, and the result of their efforts provided the entertainment for the afternoon. "The Register," a farce by W. D. Howells, was presented with the following cast:—

Ethel Reed	Mrs. Farmer
Henrietta Spaulding	Mrs. Elv
Oliver Ramsom	Mrs. Root
Samuel Grimidge	Miss Mason

After a ten minute intermission, the curtains parted to reveal, "Friday Afternoon at a Village School," and Miss Mason, as a typical school-marm called her scholars to their desks. Songs and compositions added to the interest of the exercises.

The two plays were coached and staged by Mr. Sylvester H. Taylor. The following ladies of the club took the part of pupils:

Julia	Mrs. Breen
Laura	Mrs. Bourne
Clara	Mrs. Goddard
John	Mrs. Bird
Charlie	Mrs. Merrill
Maria	Miss Hazeltine
Maria's little Sister Rose	Mrs. Pratt
Tommy	Mrs. Root
Annette	Mrs. Farmer
Georgiana	Mrs. Gilpatrick
	Mrs. Wheeler

QUEENIN—WALSH.

Miss Margaret Josephine Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Isabelle Thorne of Main street, and Owen Joseph Queenin of Woburn were united in marriage on Wednesday evening by Rev. Francis E. Rogers of St. Mary's Church. The couple were attended by William Queenin of Woburn, brother of the groom, and Miss Emily A. Thorne sister of the bride.

The bride wore a dress of white messaline, trimmed with Irish point lace, and carried bride roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence on Main street, attended by about one hundred friends of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Queenin were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Thorne and Mrs. Emil Beauchamp of Woburn.

The ushers were Messrs. Emil Beauchamp, Frank and Michael Queenin of Woburn and Fred Scholl of this town.

During the evening several musical selections were enjoyed by the guests. The couple were the recipients of many handsome gifts of cut glass, silver and household linen, etc. They will make their home on Kilby street, Woburn.

Miss Mary C. Nickerson of Bacon street, has been confined to the house with grip, and was unable to return to Smith College at the end of the vacation.

"A BATCHELOR'S ROMANCE."

A Play in Four Acts by Martha Morton, Cast

David Holmes, literary critic of the Review, Kenneth Caldwell, Martin Beggs, his secretary,

George LeDuc

Mr. Savage, a man of letters,

Harold Farnsworth

Harold Reynolds, on the staff of the Review,

Lowell Smith

Gerald, David's brother, Harry Donovan

Mr. Mulberry, an antique literary man,

George Baker

James, servant to Mrs. LeGrande,

James Flinn

Sylvia Somers, David's ward,

Annette Symmes

Helen LeGrande, David's sister,

Helen Meincke

Harriette Leiceser, her friend,

Eunice Homer

Miss Clementina, a maiden lady,

Marguerite Waldmyer

Produced under the personal direction of Mr. Robert Howes Burnham.

This charming comedy was presented by the senior and junior classes of the High School at the Town Hall last Saturday evening and certainly no amateur performance of recent years has surpassed it, not to say equalled it.

Martha Morton's story of the middle aged literary recluse, who had put off visiting his ward, the child of a dead friend, for so long that he had forgotten the flight of time, since the baby girl came under his charge, and when she finally forces herself upon his notice awakes to the fact that she is a lovely girl, just budding into womanhood, is a charming bit of refined comedy and it was rendered the other night in a most graceful and sprightly manner and with a keen appreciation of the most delicate passages, which were handled in a most artistic way.

Kenneth Caldwell, in the character of David Holmes, was most satisfactory. He looked the part thoroughly and throughout the evening was convincing as the refined, sensitive literary man, who had long ago perceived the virtues of the world and had protected himself from them with his work, his books and a few true friends. One of these was Martin Beggs, an old man, a broken down literary hack, now acting as David's secretary, and George LeDuc, gave a splendid yes, an unusual piece of character acting in the part. So also did Marguerite Waldmyer in the part of Miss Clementina, a maiden lady. Her didactic manner, her "best black silk," to say nothing of the mits and black shawl and the precise arrangement of the hair, loudly proclaimed a partiality for a belief in original sin, a bestowing of tracts upon the unregenerate and the giving of wholesome, though unpleasant, advice to the unfortunate. All these austere characteristics, however, could not chill the warm and tender heart underneath, which continually came to the surface when most needed. Helen Meincke as Mrs. LeGrande, David's frivolous widowed sister, and Eunice Homer, as Miss Leicester, her friend, were excellent as society women, to the manner born. Harold Farnsworth, Harry Donovan and Lowell Smith filled the minor parts of Mr. Savage, Gerald and Harold most acceptably and James Flinn, as the butler and George Baker as Mulberry, were also good, though they only had what the late August Daly was wont to call "thinking parts."

But the star of the evening, it must be admitted, was Annette Symmes, as Sylvia Somers, David's ward. Who though admired and sought by many, could find no man in her estimation equal to her dear old guardian, "Mr. David," and he, so kind to her affection for him, though he himself secretly loves her, that she fairly has to propose to him herself in order to open his eyes. Miss Symmes was simply delicious. She portrayed the straightforward honesty of the country girl and the charming naivete and bubbling joy of unspoiled youth in a manner that drew rounds of spontaneous applause from the large and brilliant audience.

Mr. Burnham, the coach, is to be complimented on the smoothness of the performance and the thoroughly artistic rendering of the more delicate parts of the play. The committee in charge, composed of Mary Flinn, Dorothy Furbish, Kenneth Pratt, mgr., Nancy Brigham, Katherine Fiske, Dexter Futein, asst. mgr., Kenneth Caldwell, Harold Farnsworth, Lowell Smith, is also to be congratulated for selecting a play so well suited to a High school production.

Sylvester H. Taylor.

MORROW—DOBBINS.

Catherine Emily Dobbins and George Morrow, both of this town were united in marriage last evening at St. Mary's parochial residence by Rev. Francis E. Rogers.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held at No. 31 Loring avenue, attended by a large gathering of friends of the couple.

THE MAY PARTY.

For two years on account of outbreaks of sickness in Winchester the annual May Party of the Unitarian Church had to be abandoned.

This year however every thing is favorable and the beautiful old custom will be resumed.

It is not possible to celebrate this festival in the northern part or the United States as it was and is celebrated in England, out of doors with the May Queen and other adjuncts. The weather there would make such an undertaking very uncertain. But many of the traditional features can be kept by having a day of merriment for the children.

In the recent celebrations in Winchester the day has taken the form of an entertainment where the idea of a spectacle has been developed as something for the children to see rather than to take part in. This year the committee proposes to return to the earlier custom of simplicity, where all the children will enjoy themselves in an afternoon of dancing. There will be a May Pole but after that all the children are expected to dance.

Among the Winchester people cast for parts in "Cupid's Handicap" the musical comedy given by the Junior Charity Club in Jordan Hall, Boston, last Saturday evening, were Mrs. Edgar Young, Mrs. Bernice Hilton and Miss Marcia Hazelton. Miss Florence Coggan, formerly of Sheffield Road, Winchester, was also among the number.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A gentleman of some prominence in the community was discussing with The Spectator the other day a subject of more than ordinary interest to the people of Winchester. The gentleman advocated a "White Way" for Winchester, a proposition that has been uppermost in The Spectator's mind for a considerable period. A friend of The Spectator's was recently in Winterset, Iowa, a small town that affords the most remarkable example of street illumination that has yet come to The Spectator's notice. While Winterset only boasts of a population of 1,500 it has a real "White Way" illuminated by 39 handsome cluster posts. Why can't Winchester imitate Winterset, although on a larger scale. Surely Winchester is wealthier than the small Iowa town.

The Spectator attributes his good health to the fact that he has a side occupation. He doesn't spend his whole time writing although he could find enough to do to keep him busy 18 hours out of every 24. His side occupation is pedestrianism. Any person in responsible position or under mental stress will have better health if in addition to his life work he has some side occupation, whether it be walking like The Spectator, clock unknocking like Jerome, or book collecting like Pennypacker. It is best that this incidental pursuit should be of a character as different as possible from the daily grind, and that it be not too intellectual. For the average person there is perhaps more raw material of benefit in a saw, a hammer, a few boards and a can of paint than anything else. Tinkering around should save anyone a few dollars in actual outlay, and a good many dollars in taking the place of more expensive amusement; it may markedly increase one's health and vigor.

The other day a man dropped the remark in The Spectator's presence that he hadn't cast a vote for four years. He says the reason he hasn't voted is because he can cast but one ballot and that his vote is of no consequence. The Spectator wants to give here a little object lesson to this indifferent citizen. An election in a nearby city was decided by one vote. Every man who voted for the successful candidate will be entitled to claim that his vote elected the man. On the other hand, every Republican who neglected to go to the polls and vote was chagrined over the reflection that his vote might have given the city a Republican administration instead of a Democratic one.

A gentleman who is acquiring some reputation as a philosopher gives utterance to the following: "Some persons get most of their enjoyment out of life through effort to take pleasure out of the lives of others."

Sometime ago The Spectator heard that a certain man "had got sick of Winchester and was going to move." He did move. This week he moved back to Winchester. The Spectator thinks it is always a good idea for the citizen who is tired of his own town, who conceives the idea that his community is not to his liking and that he can improve his peace of mind, by going somewhere else to live—it is a good idea. The Spectator says, for such a man to leave home and settle elsewhere. He will be lonesome in ten hours, restless in two days and homesick in less than a week. The Spectator has yet to find a person who has moved from Winchester who has not regretted it. There is something in human nature that calls for change, but there is something else that craves the old scenes and the old associations. Life is pitiless. Come to Winchester.

A lady whom The Spectator knows recently bought herself a wrap. Her husband objected to the price she paid for it whereupon she made him glad it wasn't two.

A young man called upon a certain maid the other evening. But something came up which changed the plan. A mouse ran across the room whereat the maid called upon the young man.

The Spectator is pained every time he reflects that there are persons who seek to follow the advice of fortune tellers and mediums on business matters. This is said to be an enlightened age, and the United States an intelligent nation, all of which The Spectator readily admits, but in it are people who in their credulity and superstition have not got beyond the dark ages.

The Spectator wonders how many readers of The STAR have acquired the good humor habit. One smile in the midst of frowns, is like a glimpse of sun through the clouds on an April day. The happiest people are those who smile at and with the world as they turn all the sharp corners and ascend the steep places.

It's all right for a person to be headstrong if it doesn't come from eating onions.

Let's all get together and loost Winchester and make it even more beautiful and attractive.

The Spectator is of the opinion that it is time for the law to step in and protect the people from a peril that is increasing with the sudden change in the size of hats, the reduction sales of the long passe hat pins and the overcrowded street cars. When thoughtlessness endangers the safety of others, it is the duty of prudence to caution, but when caution is met with defiance it becomes a case for the law. Such has become the hat pin question. The following conversation occurred the other afternoon on a Lowell bound car:

Prudence (very softly)—Pardon me, but is there any way you could arrange your hatpin that would make it less dangerous to those around you.

A surprised and contemptuous look from thoughtless.

Prudence (continuing timidly)—I really tremble for the safety of the conductor, and thought possibly you were not aware how perilous it really was.

Thoughtless—I like long hat pins or I wouldn't wear them.

Prudence (shocked)—But you surely wouldn't like injuring somebody.

Thoughtless—That's their business. Let them look out for my hat pins and keep out of their way.

Prudence (disgusted)—Well, I hope you'll be spared the remorse of blinding some one for life.

The Spectator.

Newsy Paragraphs.

The sacrament of confirmation was administered to a large class at St. Mary's Catholic Church last Thursday afternoon. Bishop H. G. R. de Silva officiated, assisted by Rev. J. J. Lyons of West Medford and Rev. Walter J. Roche of Winchester. A sermon of instruction on the sacrament was preached by Rev. Francis E. Rogers. The sponsors for the boys were Daniel Murphy and for the girls Miss Rose E. Doherty. The musical part of the service was rendered by the girls' choir, under the direction of Miss Margaret Merritt.

BRYCE—LALLY.

John H. Bryce of 15 Grove street, Woburn, and Miss Margaret Lally of 28 Forest street, were married April 19 at the parochial residence of St. Mary's Church by Rev. Fr. Roche. The couple were attended by Miss Delia Gaitens as bridesmaid and Mr. Michael Lally, a brother of the bride, as best man.

The couple will reside at 12 Harrison avenue, Woburn. After the ceremony the party journeyed in an auto to the new home where a reception was tendered to friends of the couple.

Mr. Bryce is an employee of the Central House stables, Woburn, and is well known in that city.

DANCING PARTY.

The last assembly of the season of Miss Langley's adult dancing class was held Friday evening, April 21st, in Waterfield Hall, and was a very successful affair. The hall was tastefully decorated with Japanese lanterns, parasols and flags, and stirring music was furnished by Dotten's orchestra. After being presented to the matrons, a goodly number of couples enjoyed the dancing until midnight, and in the course of the evening expressed their appreciation of their winter's pleasure by presenting Miss Langley with a bouquet of beautiful Killarney roses. Besides the members of the class, guests were present from Malden, Melrose, Somerville, Cambridge, New York City and Urbana, Ohio.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

The afternoon service next Sunday will be omitted. Our choir will sing at "The World in Boston" service at 3.30 p. m. at Mechanics Hall.

HEALTH BOARDS IN JOINT MEETING.

Woburn, Winchester and Stoneham Members Confer.

Members of the Woburn, Winchester and Stoneham Boards of Health met Thursday evening, April 20 at city hall, Woburn, in the Board of Public Works room and a lengthy and very interesting conference upon health matters was held. Winchester was represented by Dr. Allen, (chairman), Danforth Comins and Marshall W. Jones. Mr. Hinchliffe represented Stoneham and Doctors Stewart, Carroll and Mr. Corry, Woburn.

Dr. Stewart presided and introduced Dr. Allen of Winchester who was the first to suggest that much benefit would accrue from health boards in neighboring cities and towns getting better acquainted.

Dr. Allen has had eleven years' experience in health legislation and is deeply interested in sanitation and municipal health. He briefly outlined a series of policies by which in his judgment Woburn, Winchester and Stoneham could by co-operation greatly assist each other. Other matters such as general routine work the doctor believed could be better worked out by individual methods.

The principal matters in which Dr. Allen advised co-operation were the question of caring for cases of contagious diseases and milk inspection. He said that the large milk dealers were willing to furnish milk from certain specified dairies, the milk to be approved by local inspectors. This milk comes into Charlestown and is kept apart from the general supply. The milk could be inspected by one competent man for all three municipalities and considerable expense saved.

Along the same lines the doctor advocated the choosing of a bacteriologist and positively said that with a score card system thoroughly compiled the purity of milk to the consumer is assured. It developed that Woburn pays its inspector and bacteriologist $400 per year, Winchester pays its inspector $500 and expenses, and Stoneham pays $100. The salary in total amounts to $1000 and the contention of Dr. Allen was that by combining the work a far better and improved system of inspection and analysis could be maintained. Mr. Hinchliffe of Stoneham strongly supported this suggestion and said that he had no doubt that public sentiment would stand behind Dr. Allen in his ideas.

Mr. Comins and Dr. Allen then took up the question of caring for contagious cases and the expense attached to this line of work. During the discussion it was shown that Winchester pays on an average $1000 a year for the care of contagious cases and detention bills. Woburn $1200 and Stoneham about $400 or a total for all three of at least $2600. In Winchester it is difficult to properly isolate cases and the town is forced to pay $15 a week per case to outside hospitals.

Co-operation was the real remedy here. Dr. Allen and Mr. Comins claimed, as Woburn and Stoneham were in the same predicament. The possibility of using the new contagious hospital in this city for the care of contagious cases in the three municipalities was seriously considered. The cost of maintenance to be divided properly among those interested. Dr. Carroll of the local board was strongly in favor of this being done if on investigation it was proven feasible and said the convenience of such an institution would greatly aid all physicians in the handling of such diseases and that in some cases lives might be saved by the opportunity afforded to administer proper and effective treatment.

It was decided to inspect the building on Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and Dr. Sheehan, chairman of the Stoneham Board of Health, will be there if possible. It was thought that if a central hospital of this kind were established that Burlington and Wilmington might become interested and be willing to contribute toward its support.

Other interesting methods of doing business by the different boards such as the collection of swill, ashes, house refuse, etc., were talked over. The collection of swill costs Winchester less than $500 a year and was done by contract up to seven years ago but many people complained about the quality of the service and the contract system was abandoned. Mr. Hinchliffe said the collection of ashes and swill in his town was cared for by contract, the last contract costing $850 and the town had received splendid service. He said that W. C. Collins, a Woburn man, held the contract. In Winchester licenses, for which a fee of 50 cents is charged, are issued to all persons desiring the privilege of collecting house refuse of all kinds, excepting swill. About 40 of these licenses are issued every year and the collection costs the town nothing, the householder paying all bills. Dr. Allen said that very satisfactory results are secured in this way.

Before the meeting adjourned, Dr. Allen requested the Woburn Board to carefully consider the advisability of permitting the Union Packing and Refrigerator Co. to become established in this city, saying he spoke in behalf of the people of Winchester, and Mr. Hinchliffe of Stoneham also urged the utmost caution on the part of the local Board.

Dr. Allen advised he hoped similar meetings would be held from time to time as closer relationship and a better acquaintance between health boards would be productive of good results. If there were cheaper methods of handling the business of health departments, other than his methods, and still maintain a high standard of efficiency he would like to be informed of the fact and at the same time he was quite willing and anxious to give somebody else the benefit of his knowledge and experience. It was deemed advisable to await the possible revision of health laws by the Legislature before doing anything definite about combining the duties of milk inspector and bacteriologists in the three municipalities. If the powers of local health boards are not interfered with, it is quite probable that a joint effort to improve the system of inspection at reduced cost will be made.

The meeting was a pronounced success and the discussion which began shortly after 8 o'clock and continued until ten, was very interesting and instructive from beginning to end. - [Woburn News.]

BASE BALL.

The High school base ball team met its second defeat last Saturday on Manchester Field at the hands of Lynn Classical High school by the score of 7-3. The game was fast and interesting in spite of the cold day. The local team lost the game on account of poor base running for in the second inning three hits in succession failed to bring in runs, the runners being caught between the bases. A rally in the ninth was stopped by the hidden ball trick. The feature of the game was the playing of Prime and Girk. The former obtaining two singles and a triple, while the latter obtained a double and triple.

"OUR WIVES."

Winchester Council, No. 210, K. of C., have for the past month been preparing, under the efficient direction of the veteran Fred J. Rice, a farce in three acts, entitled "Our Wives." The play will be staged May 4, in the Town Hall, and its successful rehearsals are prophetic of a successful performance. Mr. Rice will have the honor of staging one of the most creditable amateur shows ever given in Winchester.

The talent is purely local and Mr. Rice had a choice lot of eager aspirants to choose from, so the cast is the very best that his experience could insure. Tickets are selling fast and indications of a packed house are in sight.

There will be dancing after the show.

POSTAL CARDS 10
BE CREAM COLORED.

Cream colored postal cards printed in red ink are to take the place of the old cards of common place black ink design. It is said that the new cards will be of more attractive appearance. Last year the government issued $71,318,000 postal cards, the total cost of which was $273,000, or $4,000 in excess of the cost of the cards issued the year preceding, against which so many complaints had been made. The new cards will cost approximately $55,000 more than the present card.

MONEY.

I do not believe in the doctrine that if you want to make your wife happy all you have to do is to give her plenty of money. I do not believe that possession of money and happiness are synonymous. Women want love first of all if they are provided with the right instincts. The great problem of today is the making of money. It is unquestionably the occupation that engages the minds of the vast majority of people. But from what I have seen of life and those leading it when one has obtained a competency money is superfluous. Just like an excess of what is not needed to round out the figure and give it a handsome appearance. Piling up wealth then he comes like piling on flesh and greatly hinders the enjoyment of the best things of this life.—John Burroughs.

Let's talk it over—When you buy a car here, we are interested long afterwards to keep down expense—That's economy—Information without prejudice—Call up Win. 21608 Winchester Garage. G. O. Fogg, Mgr.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"The Virginian," a dramatic version of Owen Wister's novel of that name, prepared by the novelist and Kirke La Shelle enters up in its last week at the Globe Theatre on May 1. The play is the best of its kind which has been presented on the stage for a quarter of a century. All the characters in the play without exception are definite and convincing. "The Virginian" is a character with a rough exterior, but is good at heart; he is coarse, like his fellows, but there are many excellent traits which even his surroundings could not eradicate. The development of the man under the sort influence of pure affection, his manliness when actuated by a sense of duty and his physical courage in scenes of danger, combined with a touch of romance, makes him a strong winning character and a true son of the plains.

The spring and summer season of Vaudeville and Pictures will open on Sunday evening May 7th. The same high grade acts and animated pictures such as the management has been giving in previous seasons will be given, and for the opening week several new and novel acts have been engaged.

Enactments upon the statute books that are not supported by public opinion are not worthy to be called laws. Either they are not enforced at all, in which case they are no better than so much waste paper, or if they are enforced they become offensive.—George B. McClellan.

JUNIOR PROM.

The junior promenade and reception to the senior class of the High school took place last Saturday evening in the Town Hall and was attended by a large gathering of parents and friends.

The pupils were very fortunate in having the use of the decorations which were left from the "Pop Concert" for the Junior Prom, and the class play. With the large 1912 banner, and the two class shields beside it, in a prominent position, and the matrons with a background of palms, the hall could certainly not have been more fully decorated. The prom. was well attended and proved a success in every way. The matrons were: Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. Smart, Mrs. G. A. Woods.

The committee in charge was: Katherine Fiske, Dorothy Furbish, Esther Parsley, Harold Farnsworth, Harold Wheatley.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the post-office at Winchester as second-class matter.

The Legislature in joint session has elected Albert P. Langtry of Springfield Secretary of State for the balance of the year. Mr. Langtry is a gentleman of ability and thoroughly equipped for the office.

Gov. Foss does not believe in allowing towns and cities of this Commonwealth to carry on public business just as they please, and therefore has asked the Legislature to appoint a State Finance Commission.

The Town Improvement Committee of the Reading Woman's Club have arranged for the annual "Clean Up Day" to be observed Saturday, April 29. Here in Winchester a man is constantly engaged in this work in the business section of the town.

"One of the best advertisements a town has is its good roads," says the Mansfield News. "In these later days when automobile rides are planned those towns having bad roads are shunned. Just as visitors talk about a big store, just so do autoists talk about a town having good roads, and that town gets visitors."

But it costs a lot of money to repair the roads.

In his Arbor Day proclamation, Gov. Foss makes a practical suggestion when he says, "Classes of school children under the direction of their teachers should plant seeds or set out saplings according to some carefully arranged plan, and thus not only help in building up the future of our woodlands, but learn a valuable lesson in systematic co-operation. To plant a tree in the school house grounds and teach the children to take care of it, guard it from injury, study its growth and bequeath it to the children who shall follow them, is surely worth while."

LINEN SHOWER.

Miss Alice L. Sands was pleasantly surprised at a linen shower given her by the members of the Winchburn Soamye Club Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Elma A. Larsen on Eaton avenue, Woburn.

Miss Sands was placed beneath a large red heart which was suspended from the ceiling and as the young ladies present simultaneously pulled the red ribbons which were attached to the heart, the heart broke open and a shower of hand embroidered towels and confetti descended upon the prospective bride. Later a chafing dish luncheon was served, the table decorations and refreshments being in the form of red roses, hearts and cupid.

Those present were Misses Alice, Cassie, Ida and Jennie Sands and Gertrude Cameron of Winchester and Misses Anna Gage, Elsie Parker, Elsie Patterson, Louise Turner, Mabel Rosenquist, Elma Larsen and Mrs. Ida Carlberg of Woburn.

W. H. S. NOTES.

The candidates for the crew resumed practise on Tuesday afternoon. At present Capt. Kramer is sick, but he is improving and will soon be able to take up his duties again. The candidates who have reported are Kramer, Capt. Chapin, Donahue, Donovan, Elliott, Evans, Farnsworth, Flinn, McNally, Meyer, Park, Small, Smith, Soutter, Symmes, Thompson, D. Wheatley, and H. Wheatley.

The date for the essays of the Fort nightly Contest expired last Monday. The same contest was carried out in seven other towns, but Winchester was the only one who had all the scholars of the Senior Class compete.

A compilation of the work of the report cards showed that 90.1 per cent. of all the pupils received an average mark above 70 per cent. the required mark for passing.

The Class Play proved to be such a success that the managers are to give it over again in the near future.

NOTICE!

We wish to announce that after May first we will occupy the store on Main street now occupied by Mr. Sanderson, the electrician. We will then be prepared to promptly attend to all orders and will be pleased to submit prices on anything in the plumbing and heating line. We will also carry a full line of Glenwood Ranges.

Yours very truly,
SHAW & CAMPBELL.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

The County Convention of the Local Temperance Legion which was to have been held in Winchester Saturday has been postponed on account of that day being set apart for the children's day at the "World in Boston."

Mrs. Caroline M. Sull, aged 73 years widow of the late John Still, died at Salem, N. H., on Wednesday. She was a cousin of Mr. Warren Johnson of Washington street, and some fifty years ago lived in this town with her parents. The funeral services will be held at Wildwood cemetery on Saturday at 1 p. m.

Mr. Royal Martin, supervisor of the Playground last year, and whose services for this position were anticipated for this year, will be unable to be in Winchester this summer. Mr. Martin has written, asking that he be released from the contract, he having been offered a permanent position with increased remuneration.

IS YOUR HUSBAND

A CRANK?

Nine times out of ten his shoes are the cause. Bring me a pair of his shoes and have them REPAIRED, and you will have the happiest time this side of your honeymoon.

I don't "fix" shoes; I repair them. And there is a whole lot of difference between "fixing" and REPAIRING.

I have a full line of all the popular grades of rubber heels, and am proud to say that among my patrons are the Elite of the 400 of Winchester, where I have done business for 30 years.

A pair of rubber heels, properly adjusted to your shoes, will wear twice as long and give you ease and comfort. When they are "fixed" on, it is entirely different.

Don't blame the blacksmith if he puts your watch out of commission, and don't blame the man who "fixes" your shoes.

Bring them to O'Loughlin and have them REPAIRED.

Remember the old stand. Converse place, next to Winchester Laundry.

CHILDREN'S EXCURSION.

The children of Winchester are to have the privilege of an especial excursion to the great Exposition called the "World in Boston" on this Saturday morning, April 29th. Special cars will leave the center for Medford at twenty minutes before eight in the morning, and returning will leave Mechanics building Boston at eleven o'clock.

The management of the Exposition are planning to make this visit of the children very interesting and instructive to young people, and we feel sure that they will succeed as those who have already attended the Exposition say that there are enough interesting things to make the young as well as the old want to go more than once. Here will be seen the life of many lands, the houses and the costumes of the people, also moving pictures and tableaux without extra charge. For this especial occasion only those children who have not passed their fifteenth birthday, and those who are to look after them, (one adult for every twelve children) are to be admitted. This is to give the children a chance, which they cannot get during the regular hours of the Exhibition. The admission has been placed at the small sum of five cents. Parents who allow their children to go, may feel easy about their care since those who have been selected to accompany the children are persons of experience and special fitness for their tasks, and the matter of transportation has been arranged so that there will be but one change of cars, and that at Winthrop Square, Medford.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

How many citizens recognize that real estate pays about five times as much of our tax levy as personal estate? Should the proposition be anything like that?

In Dedham real pays only two and a quarter times more.

Governor Foss' expert has reported many queer things in town government, but he has not mentioned that many towns get their annual reports after they have held their annual town meeting. Imagine any public service or private corporation doing that. When will municipal corporations learn simple business principles?

I challenged the statement of a speaker at a public meeting this week. "That Roosevelt was not believed in by many Boston people," and on a vote being taken but one man stood upon that side and he said he was a stranger and only opposed one of his statements.

When Norman Hargood, the editor of Colliers, was asked at a Ford Hall meeting recently, if there was a single independent daily newspaper printed in Boston, he answered: "The Boston Commonwealth is a very independent weekly paper and the Springfield Republican also, and I have a high regard for each of them." Draw your own conclusions from his answer to the question asked.

In the following towns the assessed personal exceeds the real estate: Weston, Lincoln, Cohasset, Falmouth, Easton, Buxford, Groton, Dover, Milton, Marion, Lancaster, Webster and Hopedale. In the last named it exceeds three to one and in Dover four to one. Most of these are tax dodger towns.

Governor Foss is the first, within my time it has been any satisfaction to me to make suggestions to, and he is glad to receive them from anybody, provided they are specific and to the point. Governor Douglas had a like opportunity, but was a rut traveler. The present Executive is the wealthiest we have had and the most democratic and independent and strives, in spite of the fact that he succeeded the best Governor, in my opinion, we had had up to his time. Governor Draper was a very strong man dragged down to defeat by a decadent party. Joe Walker is far and away the strongest Republican in sight, but he is like a yacht trying to tow a boat with its rudder in the bow and covered with barnacles and moss. If little Louie Frothingham should be the candidate selected to run, he will not be mentioned in the dispatches election night as even an "also ran" as he will be left at the post. Poor old P. O. G.

I am glad to see such signs of life from the Waterways Committee, but let it not forget that few people understand engineering plans and what is needed is sketches, which all of us can grasp when we know the locality. If the citizens think that a proper carrying out of this whole scheme will be a matter of small cost, they are woefully mistaken, as it is a big and expensive project, but at the same time worth while.

If Boston is to censor the theatres let it subsidize them.

The Greater Boston Council bill and the Amending Boston Charter bill will keep each other company to defeat. No legislation, however, is needed to form a council and it one is really wanted, instead of a chance to talk about it, it will be done. The Governor would not be opposed to that kind of voluntary association.

A good way would be for citizens to state how much increase over their present personal tax they would stand for. Most of them will agree to an increase provided all are treated alike and the experience of assessors here and elsewhere has been that very few sworn returns can be got unless forced by repeated increases. Our assessors state that they are going to make a thorough re-valuation this year and much good should come of it as no complete valuation has been made for a great many years, and while values in some localities have increased none, in others they have more or less, mostly more, and I believe our total valuation should be increased a million and a half this year, and it would be conservative then.

Grade Crossing abolition—is progress being made, backward or forward? Let it go one way or the other, but not stand still. When the Committee on Railroads is able to have an executive session it will report our bill, but it is almost as slow as we have been. A citizen who is afraid our vote of 205 to 5 in favor of the town plan will be forgotten, is reminded that at our recent annual meeting the vote in favor of it was unanimous.

TOURNAMENT.

The teams in the spring bowling tournament at the Calumet Club have been making every endeavor during the week to capture every point possible, this week and next finishing the rolling. Teams 6 and 2 led at the opening, it being an almost even thing between them. The former made a straight win from team 10, but the best team 2 could do was an even break with team 7.

The scores are running remarkably even without being particularly high. Woods put up the highest single of the tournament on Friday night with 140 flat, and this will probably stand.

Following are the scores:

THE SAD LAMENT OF AN INCUBATOR CHICKEN.

I'm a sad and lonely chicken,
And your hearts will surely sicken
When I tell the woes I've suffered from my birth:

For I've never had a mother,
And my father doesn't bother
To look after all his children round the earth.

I'm an incubator chicken,
And my woes began to thicken
When I broke the shell that covered my poor form:

Not a single cluck received me,
And no feathered breast relieved me
When I trembled at the coming of a storm.

In the place of any other
I was given a wooden mother Who is colder than the weather in the spring.

As she has no claws for scratching
She's no business to be hatchin' g.
But would better be about some other thing.

I myself, and many others—
Fluffy sisters and wee brothers—
Scratch until our feet are weary of the work:

But this mother does not pity,
And she never sings a ditty;
So we've come to think her nothing but a shirk.

Oh, good gentlemen and ladies!
As you love your little babies,
Please take pity on all broods of orphan chicks;

And whenever you'd have others,
Give them good old feathered mothers
'Steard of putting little birdies in our fix.

DEAD BIRDS COST HIGH.

While Easter bonnets are parading the plumage of birds that check crop pest, losses to food and cloth products in the last year that amount to over $10 for every person in the United States, have been reported here today as chiefly due to the destruction of these feathered insect eaters. According to statistics just gathered by the government biological survey at Washington, officers of the National Association of Audubon Societies declare that the cost of living has been raised to cover a billion dollar loss in agricultural produce from the inroads of insects and rodents that would be largely wiped out if their natural bird foes were protected from the feathered men, market butchers and pot hunters. Every year that such commercial interests are allowed to thin the ranks of the insect eating species higher prices must be paid by the ultimate consumer for vegetables, fruit, cotton cloth and many other necessary staples, it is predicted.

On last year's cotton crop alone a loss of between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 is shown to be borne by every one who buys a bit of cotton goods, principally because the birds that destroy this pest are being killed. While Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Missouri, Alabama and Arkansas are now impregnated with this costly crop plague, ornithologists report that bird life is becoming so wasted throughout the whole cotton belt that the boll weevil may soon spread over every plantation with little opposition from the natural forces that help to hold it in check. Every dollar's worth of such damage that the bird guards could prevent, it is pointed out, must come in pennies from the pockets of the American people.

Almost every article of food except meat has been found to come to the consumer today with an added cost to cover many millions of dollars of loss that the government experts have proved is largely due to the increasing lack of insect eating birds to drive away the pests that are spreading over the fields.
Such staples as corn are now known to fall short of a supply that means lower prices, in some measure, on account of the depletion of the wild birds and the consequent increase in their noxious insect prey. If the orchards, fields, gardens and plantations of America were not being guarded by fewer and fewer of these insect eaters each year, the records show, their yield would be increased and the price of their products lowered.

"Though the Easter season is saddened by the sight of wild bird feathers on bonnets, there is this year a plain economic reason for revolt at this show in the findings of the government experts of the Department of agriculture," said
T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at its headquarters, 141 Broadway. "We have just heard of the butchering of 11,000 meadow larks, whose diet is proved to consist of 75 per cent of crop destroying insects, in one Georgia community. For every one of such insect eaters that is killed we must all pay in increased costs of food and clothing. When Americans come to realize this, we believe they will all join with us in working for the protection of the birds whose life means agricultural prosperity and plenty."

(1.) Verses 1-2—When did the Lord command Jonah the first time to go to Nineveh, and why did he do so?

(2.) What method did God adopt in speaking to Jonah?

(3.) What method does God adopt to-day in giving special instructions to individual men?

(4.) Verses 3-4—Where was Nineveh situated?

(5.) How long would it probably take Jonah to traverse the principal streets of Nineveh and deliver his message?

(6.) Is it probable that Jonah gave the message just as the Lord had given it to him?

(7.) Verses 5-9—What steps did the king and the people of Nineveh take to prevent their doom?

(8.) What effect does repentance, fasting and prayer have in these days in preventing the legitimate and natural consequences of sin?

(9.) Are God's rewards and penalties ever absolute, or are they always conditional, and why?

(10.) How would you distinguish between the natural and moral pen-stroy Nineveh, as He had threatened?

(15.) Why, or why not, should a true Christian who is a physician, depending upon his practice for a living, never be sorry because the people are all well?

(16.) Why should those of us who teach the eternity of punishment for confirmed sinners be either glad or reasons.

(19.) Verses 5-6—What if any reason is there to think that Jonah still loved Nineveh would be destroyed?

(20.) Seeing that Jonah was angry with the Lord why did God protect, and not destroy him?

(21.) Verses 7-11—Why is it sometimes necessary for God to cause us to suffer in order to teach us lessons of love and mercy?

(22.) Does God ever punish for the sake of vengeance alone? Give your reasons. (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writ-

BOSTON THEATRE.

In "The Old Town," George Ade's musical comedy, is a farcically-inclined story which might as well be played without music as with the tuneful illustrative score furnished by Gustav Luders, providing of course, that David Montgomery and Fred Stone continued to play the two leading characters.
They laid the foundation of their empire of fun in "The Wizard of Oz," strengthened and solidified it in the three seasons of "The Red Mill," and now come in "The Old Town" with a pre-assured cordiality of welcome that belongs to the few American's favorite entertainers.
"The Old Town" ran nearly the entire season of 1909 at the Globe Theatre, New York, and the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago, and played a most successful five weeks at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, beginning last November, the same notable cast which found favor here.

The burden of the fun making, of course, is borne by the two stars, Montgomery and Stone, and they are well equal to the task set them by the librettist.

By all odds the most popular single entertainer in this country today is Nat Wills, the comedian, who has just returned from a trip to Europe and the stories of his experiences there are far offered. Wills will be one of the big travellers of B. F. Keith's Theatre next week on what is unquestionably one of the biggest bills put on in years. Howard and North, than whom there has never been any greater favorites on the vaudeville stage, will be seen in their homely and amusing country classic, "Back to Washington." Fanny Rice, is another popular favorite, and a new feature will be Homer Miles and Co. in a most real-

XV.—Germs In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

THERE are "good germs" and "bad germs," just as there are "good trusts" and "bad trusts." "Germ busting" in some respects resembles "trust busting." Publicity and the light of day are supposed to be correctives for bad trusts. Sunshine and fresh air will unquestionably restrain the activities of bad germs.

An example of a good germ is the lactic acid bacillus found in sour milk. Tablets containing these germs are now used in medicine for the treatment of intestinal trouble, it having been found that they destroy certain harmful bacteria that flourish in the intestines. In fact, the "elixir of life" in the form of artificially soured milk may now be purchased at soda fountains, but whether it is a real elixir and actually prolongs life by killing off the bacteria that produce old age has not been fully passed upon by science. However, these lactic acid bacilli are quite useful and are also employed in the treatment of infective processes in the nose and mouth.

Diseases Due to Germs.

It is not so long ago—only about fifty years—that learned men were willing to debate about "spontaneous generation." It was contended that the microscopic organisms that were found in certain fermenting and decomposing fluids were "spontaneously" dooryard. Burn or bury all garbage or refuse. Keep your stable floors clean and wash them occasionally with hot soapuds solution (one ounce common soda to twelve quarts soft soap and water). Manure heaps or vaults should be disinfected with powdered chloride of lime.

Flies find a splendid breeding ground in a stable. Sewage vaults should be cleaned frequently and disinfected and protected from flies by chloride of lime or milk of lime. A filthy pigpen is also a fine breeding place for flies. Pigeons should be so built that they may be flushed out and cleaned. The manure is a valuable fertilizer and may be stored, but should be covered with dry earth, chloride of lime or crude oil.

The task of keeping flies out of the house is a difficult one. Screens and a fly beater, fly paper, etc., only mitigate the evil. The rational method is to prevent breeding.

The mosquito does not carry the germ of malaria on his feet, as the housefly carries the typhoid bacillus, but in his salivary gland.

The mosquito is known as the "intermediate host" of the malarial parasite. In other words, the parasite is received into the digestive tract of the mosquito and hospitably entertained and developed until it passes into the salivary gland, from which it is injected into the next human that the mosquito bites.

The mosquito must go and is going.

The hospitality he has extended to the plasmodium of malaria has downed him. But the "anopheles" mosquito is the genial host and the one which we must especially seek to destroy. The common mosquito, "culex," which flies in the daytime, is harmless so far as we know. Anopheles may be known by its attitude on a flat surface—hind legs and body are elevated at an angle, while culex keeps the body parallel with the surface. Anopheles has spotted wings, culex not. Anopheles bites in the early evening, culex at any time.

How to Avoid Malaria.

Avoid the anopheles mosquito and you will avoid malaria. Bad air has positively nothing to do with malaria. Particularly avoid being bitten by mosquitoes in the early evening. Screen your house and also screen your bed with netting if you live in a malarial locality. Best of all, do not let mosquitoes breed around your home. A small pail of standing water will produce thousands. I have seen countless swarms of mosquitoes on a golf course where the sole breeding places were a few water boxes for washing golf balls.

Allow no standing water around your place. Screen your water barrel or cistern. Pour out all along the margin of swamps or slow running streams. Drain all stagnant water. Deprive the mosquito of a place to breed and the "fever and ague" will not get you.

Pneumonia, Grip, Etc.

Every one fears scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough and diphtheria, for they are well known to be communicable or contagious. It is not so generally known that pneumonia is an infectious general disease with a local manifestation in the lungs. The pneumonia germ, residing in several beautiful names, of which "Diplococcus pneumoniae" is the most commonly used, is rather short lived and easily killed by sunlight and fresh air. In the modern treatment of pneumonia these agencies are utilized, and the patient is treated so far as possible in the open air. Every precaution should be taken to destroy the sputum of pneumonic patients. Strong eye is a good disinfectant for this purpose, but burning is better. People in attendance on pneumonic patients should protect themselves from infection.

Home Disinfectants.

Boiling is the most effective way of sterilizing clothing, handkerchiefs or other articles that can be treated in this way. Useless infected articles should be burned.

Soapuds.—One ounce of common soda to twelve quarts of hot soapuds (soft soap and water) is an excellent cleanser for floor, refrigerators, etc.

Chloride of Lime.—Powdered chloride of lime is a strong disinfectant and deodorizer. It should have a pungent, penetrating odor and an extremely irritating effect on the eyes and air passages, otherwise it is inert and useless.

Milk of Lime.—One quart of dry, freshly slacked lime to four or five quarts of water; useful for the same purpose as chloride of lime in disinfecting stables, drains, sewage vaults, sinks, all places where putrefaction, foul odors or infection may exist.

Carbolic Acid Solution.—Six ounces to one gallon of water. This is dangerous to have around the house and must be used with care. Useful for wiping floor, washing utensils and pouring down drain when infection is feared.

Formalin.—One part of formalin to ten of water is quite as useful and less dangerous than the former. For disinfecting rooms use the following for each thousand cubic feet of space:

Place four ounces of potassium permanganate crystals in a metal pail; add eight ounces of formalin (40 per cent solution). Place this pail in the middle of the room, which should be left tightly closed for from five to twenty-four hours. Avoid inhaling the gas which is quickly formed after mixing the above ingredients. This gas does not penetrate bedding or upholstery and does not injure metals or fabrics. It will not destroy insects. Two ounces of gum camphor added to the above mixture will kill flies and mosquitoes.

To completely disinfect clothing, bedding and upholstery the formalin solution must be freely sprayed directly on these articles.

Saving Valuable Time

THE telephone saves the painter a great deal of valuable time. He don't have to run around for every little thing he wants. He gets it quicker by 'phone than on foot. In the same way if you want a painter to do some work the quickest way to place the order is by telephone. He gets started without delay.

It's the universal Bell service that makes it invaluable to both. It is always a convenience and often a necessity. There are 5,000,000 telephones in the Bell system.

It will pay you to have a telephone. The Local Manager will be glad to tell you about the low cost.

JUSTICE TO NEGRO?

As a white man I am afraid of but one thing for my race, and that is that we shall become afraid to give the negro a fair chance. The first duty of every man is to develop himself to the utmost, and the only limitation upon this duty is that he shall take pains to see that in his own development he does no injustice to those beneath him. This is true of races as well as of individuals. Considered properly, it is not a limitation, but a condition of development. The white man in the south can never attain to his fullest growth until he does absolute justice to the negro race. If he is doing that now it is well for him. If he is not doing it he must seek to know the ways of truth and pursue them.—Charles B. Aycock

PESSIMISM.

The man who does not hope for better things and who does not believe that better things can be brought about is not the man likely to bring better things about. Constant criticism and constant pessimism are productive of paralysis and stagnation.—President Taft.

Standard Color Vocabulary.

The Wall Paper News puts in a timely plea for a standardized color vocabulary. Every season the French dyers and colorists issue a list of colors, shades and tints to serve as a style basis for the season, and to these are arbitrarily added names that bear in many instances no relation to the colors they designate. Following in the footsteps of the dyers, other handlers of color or the subject of color—lecturers, authors, manufacturers, designers, artists and artisans—have cultivated the habit of expressing color thought in terms intelligible only to themselves. This habit, it is asserted, has become so general that today we have a nomenclature of color that no man living can ever hope to master.

Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they get splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful, pain-alleviating Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray is a remedy that relieves at once. All druggists 75c, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

The Yankee Knack

THE story of American industrial development has no more fascinating or impressive chapter than that devoted to the discoveries and improvements resulting from the extraordinary inventive genius of the New England workman.

He is never content with things as they are. He is forever experimenting—and successfully. He searches until he finds the soul of the machine, and from this intimate acquaintance he begins to eliminate and improve. He accomplishes the paradox of perfecting a perfect article. If there is a practicable way to make one part do the work of two, if some added device will simplify a process or improve a product, he will not rest till he has worked out the problem.

This passion for invention has been from the first a vigorous characteristic of the New England mind. The early settlers were artisans rather than tillers of the soil; and when by a bitter struggle with an undeveloped country they had supplied their immediate wants, they naturally turned again to manufacturing; and this mechanical bent, stimulated to alertness by a vigorous climate, resulted in course of time in an almost incredible mechanical ingenuity—the "Yankee Knack."

This genius for simplification of processes, this wonderful knack of devising machinery which will do the work of the human hand, has multiplied the output of our factories; and this in turn has increased wages and decreased the hours of labor, and so brought a great uplift into the lives of our workmen; given them the power to provide better homes for their families, better education for their children, and greater leisure in which to work out a broader destiny for themselves.

As in the past, so in the present and the future. The "Yankee Knack," which long since turned New England into a vast workshop, is still at its age-long task—simplifying, improving, lowering cost of production, ever raising quality of product—and all to the end that the average American family shall enjoy today what were luxuries but yesterday, and gratify in their turn the yet undiscovered desires of tomorrow.

HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Sixteenth Annual Meeting—Reports and New Officers.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the Home for Aged People was held in the small Town Hall, Monday evening, when the reports of officers and directors were presented and also officers and directors elected for the ensuing year. It has been a quiet year at the Home, no deaths and but little sickness, everything moving along with the customary smoothness that has characterized the workings of this benevolent institution since its formation. The number of inmates is five.

Mr. Preston Pond, the president called the meeting to order and after the presentation of the reports of directors and treasurer, which are printed below, and the voting of a number of new members, the following officers were elected:

President, Preston Pond.
Vice-Presidents, Jere A. Downs, Mrs. E. Florence Kelley, Mr. Marshall W. Jones.

Secretary, Charles F. Dutch.
Treasurer, Harry C. Sanborn.
Auditor, George H. Carter.

Directors for two years, Miss Alice F. Symmes, Mrs. Mary M. Foster, Mrs. Sarah Nowell, Mrs. Frederick S. Snyder.
Directors for one year, Mrs. Freeland E. Hovey, Mrs. John E. Emery.

Directors Report.

18th Annual Report of the Board of Directors. To the Corporation of the Home for Aged People in Winchester.

Your Directors respectfully report that the functions of the corporation have been quietly and efficiently performed during the past year. The admission of Mrs. Emily B. Craig to the Home last May filled the house to its present capacity of five. The established policy of keeping the corporate property in good condition has been followed. The expenses of the corporation are small. No compensation is paid for administration or superintendence except for the Matron in charge, who, with one servant, carries on the housework. The other expenses of administration are negligible. Practically all, therefore, of every dollar contributed is expended directly for the purpose in view,—the support and comfort of the household.

In the accomplishment of these purposes, we have had the co-operation of the Matron in every way and as usual the personal as well as the financial assistance of many of our townspeople. We recommend that special effort be made to increase the number of members of the corporation, since thereby we gain not only needed financial aid but also a greater circle of interested workers and friends.

We have gratefully acknowledged the receipt of $100 in accordance with the will of Mary A. Simonds. This, according to established policy, has been added to the permanent funds.

For the Directors,
Charles F. Dutch,
Secretary.

W. H. S. NOTES.

The class base ball games have been arranged for the following dates:

May 24, Wednesday, Sophomores vs. Freshmen.

May 31, Wednesday, Seniors vs. Juniors.

June 14, Wednesday, Final game between winners.

It seems now as if there will be no doubt but that the Sophomores will win the cup this year.

The next base ball game is tomorrow with Woburn in Winchester. This is the first league game. On Monday the boys go to Lynn and play the return game with Lynn English H. S. On Wednesday the second league game is played with Arlington at Arlington.

Friday the team plays Reading in Winchester. This is also a league game.

GOOD THOUGHTS.

"Do you know all the rocks along the coast?" said a passenger to the pilot of a coast steamer. "No," was the quiet reply "but I know the places where there are no rocks." That was a good answer. It is not necessary to a successful life that we should have an intimate or extensive knowledge of the vices and follies of the world. There has been a tendency for some time to proclaim the need of making youth, especially, aware of the pitfalls and snares that beset the unwary. The value of such knowledge is very doubtful. The "horrible example" is not the best means of instruction. It may be like some drugs that assist in the cure of disease, but leave uncomfortable effects behind. The philosophy of "The Old Book" is good today, "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things." Phil. 4: 8.

MAY PARTY PRETTIEST YET.

The annual May party given under the auspices of the Ladies' Friendly Society furnished a spectacle at the Town Hall last Saturday a tereon that will provide pleasant memories for some time to all those who attended, both old and young. The pretty costumes of the little folks, the handsome pop concert decorations and the music and animation furnished a most enchanting scene. For the past two years sickness in town prevented the holding of the May party, but this year everything was just as it should be, so that the enforced postponements appeared to give added zest to the pleasures.

Much praise is due the committee in charge for the excellent manner in which all the details had been arranged, there being not the slightest resemblance of a hitch.

The participants were:
May Queen—Carlene Murphy.
Maid of Honor Ruth Whittington Dorothy Hammond, Rebecca Rowe, Wilhelmina Ross, Helen Woods, Ann Zeblin, Sally Thompson, and Rhoda Case.

Four Little Maids—Elizabeth Chamberlain, Marjorie Moseley, Barbara Forbes, Elizabeth Dwinell.

May Pole Dancers—Ruth Hammond, Milora Davis, Elizabeth Passano, Myrtle Dunn, Helen Ireland, Louise Alexander, Winsome Abbott, Georgianna Brown, Virginia Mossman, Georgianna Watters, Margaret Adriance, Leslie Brown, Priscilla Sweetser, Joan Abbott, Katharine Starr, Ruth Caldwell.

Aids—Caleb Sanborn, Stuart Forbes, Max Passano, Roy Brown, Richard Higgins, John Higgins.

Committee—Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Mrs. George H. Root, Mrs. William E. Cummings.

May Party Patronesses—Mrs. Joel H. Metcalf, Mrs. John Abbott, Mrs. Frank A. Cutting, Mrs. Phillip Hammond, Mrs. George Adams Woods, Mrs. Wm. R. Chamberlain, Mrs. Hermann D. Murphy.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

The demand for property in Winchester is steadily increasing and the sales for the last two weeks have been many of which we report the following:

Wm. H. Boudier of Newton has sold to Albert S. White of the American Radiator Co. of Boston, about 13,000 sq. ft. of land on the easterly side of Highland avenue near the head of Park avenue. Edward T. Harrington Co. were the brokers.

Harriet S. and Ellen S. Wellington have sold to Teresa S. Felber of Winchester a lot of land on Bacon street containing about 5339 sq. ft. Edward T. Harrington Co. were the brokers.

The same firm has sold for James J. Myers of Boston lot No. 57 in Wedgemere Park containing about 16,680 sq. ft. and located corner of Calumet road and Yale street. Mahala F. Nickerson of Newton is the purchaser.

Edward F. Jones of Syracuse, N. Y., has sold to Nathaniel G. Hill of Winchester lots No. 11 and 12 corner of Cabot and Warren streets. Edward T. Harrington Co. were the brokers.

The same brokers have sold for Mrs. W. D. Sanborn the estate No. 12 Wildwood street comprising 9 room house and about 12,000 sq. ft. of land. The purchaser G. W. Collamore of Winchester proposes to make some improvements and occupy as a home.

Harry Wellington has leased his estate No. 17 Chestnut street to L. G. Leadbetter of Cambridge. Edward T. Harrington Co. were the brokers.

"OUR WIVES"

An Excellent Presentation of this Sprightly Farce.

The friends, admirers and supporters of Winchester Council, No. 210, Knights of Columbus, assembled in force in the Town Hall last night to witness a thoroughly enjoyable performance of that sprightly farce, "Our Wives," and to participate in the dance which succeeded the play.

The hall was a veritable bower of floral beauty, being profusely and most artistically decorated with a wealth of verigated blooms fashioned by clever fingers and so faithfully copied from nature that one could readily imagine the fragrance. Trellises of sweet peas screened the balcony; honey suckle vines trailed over the windows; Chinese wisteria climbed the walls and there were cables of Japanese chrysanthemums, festoons and ropes of roses and masses of flowers of many species. Japanese umbrellas, Chinese lanterns and Mikado banners contributed to the harmonious and effective ensemble.

The laughable little farce, with its comedy of errors, its funny situations and amusing complications was presented with spontaneity and naturalness that would have done credit to the most ambitious exponents of light drama. There was a remarkable absence of the stageness that usually characterizes amateur performances and the productions served to prove that Winchester possesses dramatic talent of no mean merit. The personal of the cast was well chosen; each personation admirably portrayed, and the entire performance a matter of congratulation for Mr. Fred J. Rife the director, also labored so earnestly to attain the successful accomplishment of the play. And if enthusiasm and plaudits count for anything, there was abundant evidence of appreciation.

Following was the cast:

Roswell Chandler, a retired merchant, Leon E. Day

Walter Blair, his son-in-law, Martin J. Caulfield

Oscar Siebel, composer, J. Frank Davis, jr.

Lloyd Deveau, a chronic invalid, Henry R. Glendon

Mallory, a reporter, Howard S. Cosgrove

John Stanton, detective, Nicholas J. Murray

Expressmen, Joseph Mawn, Henry J. Lyons

Gilda Deveau, Mrs. Lillian I. Kane

Mrs. Chandler, Miss Emily M. Dowd

Beatrice Blair, Miss Katherine E. Lehan

Julie, a French maid, Miss Francis T. Noonan

Messrs. Day and Caulfield were irresistible and provoked hearty laughter.

Mr. Henry R. Glendon, as the irritable, irascible, gouty husband, furnished some remarkable good acting. Mr. J. Frank

Davis, jr., as the operative composer made the most of the part assigned him and

Messrs. Cosgrove, Murray, Mawn and Lyons filled their respective part most acceptably. Miss Lillian I. Kane, as the wife with operative ambitions, filled a difficult role, and Miss Frances T.

Noonan, her maid, who was at her wits end to grapple with complicated situations, was bright vivacious and captivating. Miss Lehan, as the struggling wife of Walter Blair, and Miss Emily M. Dowd as her sophisticated mother were strikingly clever for amateurs, so that each and all acquitted themselves splendidly, and were the recipients of beautiful tributes.

Special features between the acts consisted of solos by Miss Madeline N.

Doolley of Boston Opera Company, who has a soprano voice of peculiar sweetness and extensive range with fine shadings and power.

Little Miss Kathleen Kennedy, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kennedy, a promising pupil of Mr. W. S. Stokell of Back Bay Academy, Boston, danced a Sailor's Hornpipe and Irish jig in costume with charming unconsciousness and daintiness. She received a large basket of roses and maiden pink fern, a shower bouquet of white and pink roses and a bunch of carnations and fern.

Mr. Edmund T. Sheehy contributed two songs in a mellow bass voice that were received with hearty enthusiasm.

The chief usher, Mr. James V. Haley,

Wm. J. Daly, Dr. Richard W. Sheehy,

Dr. Jas. H. O'Connor, Dennis F. Foley,

Frank E. Rogers, Frank J. O'Donnell,

Patrick J. Glendon, James H. Haggerty,

Wm. P. Callahan, Henry O. Young,

James H. Brine and John S. O'Leary.

The entertainment was not only a success, artistically and numerically but financially and the proceeds will be directed towards procuring some requisites for the Knights of Columbus hall. Whenever the Knights of Columbus were called upon to lend their aid in the cause of charity or to provide entertainment that would contribute towards the cause of the organization, and it should be a source of gratification to all who realize their meritorious aspirations that the receipts of last night's entertainment will assist them in obtaining their requirements.

HAROLD FEATHERS.

Harold Feather passed away yesterday at the home of his uncle, Mr. Fred Branch, 797 Main street, in his 21st year. He had recently come to Winchester from Bradford, Eng. intending to make his home here. Funeral services will be held at the house Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Mr. Suter. THE FORTNIGHTLY.

Prof. Charles Zieblin will lecture on "William Morris" before the club on Monday afternoon.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance as this is the last meeting of the season. Please come promptly to the business meeting, as the subject of ree classes, guest day, gentlemen's night, and other equally important matters will be discussed.

SHORTAGE OF RAIN

HAVING ITS EFFECT.

The shortage in the rain fall for the past three years is beginning to have its effect on the quantity of water in the reservoirs. There has been a drop of about three feet, three inches from what it was a year ago at this time and if the supply continues to decrease the Water Board will be compelled to call upon the Metropolitan Water Board for a supply to help tide over the shortage. This, however, is a remote contingency, and probably will not have to be resorted to. It was in anticipation of just such conditions that induced our Water Board to install meters. Already about one-half of the houses are metered, and the Board will continue on this course as rapidly as possible until the entire town is under measured service. This it is expected will conserve the supply to a considerable extent and postpone for an indefinite period the necessity of calling for water from the Metropolitan Board.

There are several manufacturing plants and farms here in Winchester that use great quantities of water, and these will be obliged to get their supplies from driven wells in case of an emergency. But this is also a remote contingency.

The Metropolitan Water Board, it is said, is not so anxious to secure our reservoirs for storage purposes as it was some years ago. They having ascertained that these reservoirs cannot be filled by gravity and that the water would have to be pumped. And again they have now all the cities and towns that they can permanently provide water for.

The occupants of houses that are not provided with meters, will in all probability be restricted in the use of water to wet down gardens and lawns during the coming summer, unless the water in the reservoirs should keep up to where it is at present. Those having meters can use all they want, but they will have to pay for it, so that there will be no danger in their case of an extravagant use or that the water will be allowed to run during the night time.

RECEPTION TO REV. CHARLES W. BLACKETT, D. D.

The Methodist Episcopal Church tendered a very cordial reception last evening to Dr. C. W. Blackett and family in the parlors of the Methodist Church. Mr. N. H. Seelye was in charge and Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Armstrong assisted. Dr. and Mrs. Blackett in receiving Mr. Nestor W. Davis was in charge of a goodly number of attentive young gentlemen as ushers.

Mr. Seelye on taking the chair gave a few words of greeting to all present and then introduced Miss Marguerite M. McIntosh as soloist, and Miss Louise A. Keeler as accompanist of the evening. The two songs were finely rendered, and pleased the audience.

The chairman then called upon Mr. Alfred S. Hall, Esq., to give a welcome in behalf of the community. Mr. Hall expressed great pleasure in being called upon to assist in welcoming Dr. Blackett to the town as one of Winchester's new pastors. Among other things, he said, that any man who successfully did his duties in life's work whether clergyman, lawyer, doctor or any other calling, must of necessity give himself up to a life of unremitting toil, and that Winchester presented Dr. Blackett a good field for work, and playfully remarked that he judged that the new pastor was well equipped physically, and in every other way to meet the demand.

Rev. Henry E. Hodge, pastor of the Baptist Church voiced a cordial welcome in behalf of the churches. He said he had labored in Winchester for twelve years, and had enjoyed the work, and he welcomed Dr. Blackett to a share in the work the churches were trying to do in this community. Rev. Mr. Metcalf made a pleasant impression (with his countenance beaming with good nature) as he characterized with apt illustration some of the points he had observed in the different denominations.

Mr. Robert M. Armstrong a charter member of this church established 38 years ago, was introduced as the appointed representative of the church to welcome Dr. Blackett as pastor of the church. Mr. Armstrong was glad to voice a warm welcome in behalf of the church to the new pastor and his wife and his four promising sons.

Mr. Seelye then introduced Dr. Blackett to the audience. As he arose to speak one could see that he was a man of power, that to Winchester had come a pastor well equipped by a long and careful early preparation for his great life work of leading men to God. Dr. Blackett's words were well chosen and impressive. He said he had come here almost a stranger but he had already commenced to feel at home. He planned to build up the church and also to be interested in affairs of the town as well. If there were any people who did not go to church he wanted them for his people and should seek diligently for them, and also for the children for his Sunday school as the best means of laying the foundation of a future strong Methodist Church. His address claimed the closest attention of his hearers. Mr. Seelye then surprised the pastor's wife, a winsome lady sitting by his side by asking her for a few words. Her ready, modest response closed by singing, "Blest be the Tie" and prayer by Rev. J. M. Mansfield. The Ladies' Aid Society, with its President Mrs. Sherard Clay, assisted by Mrs. John N. Mason, Mrs. R. M. Armstrong, Mrs. George C. Ogden and Mrs. Leon E. Crouch as pourers, and a bevy of bright young girls as waiters then served refreshments.

Miss Lillian Fraser left town for north Conway N. H. where she has accepted a position as matron of the Memorial Hospital.

A FORTUNATE DISCOVERY.

Many Fires During the Past Seven Days.

When Mr. Menchin, a farmer in the Hill district was on his way to Boston with a load of vegetables at three o'clock Monday morning, he discovered the ell of the Smith house on Ridge street in flames. There were no signs of life about the house, and concluding that the occupants were asleep, Mr. Menchin quickly started to arouse them. The inmates had to vacate the house in short order having only time to get out in scanty clothes. Mrs. Josiah L. Smith, an invalid for many years, was carried out of the burning building by Mr. Edward Verville and Mr. Smith. Occupying the house were Mr. Lester F. Smith and family, and their aged mother, Mrs. Josiah L. Smith—in all six persons. They were cared for at the house of a neighbor.

But for the timely discovery of the fire, the occupants would, in all probability, have been suffocated by the dense smoke. The origin of the fire is a mystery, as there was no fire in the house during the night.

The house is situated in Winchester close to the Arlington line, and a telephone call brought the chemical engine from the latter place to the scene of the fire, the remainder of the apparatus being sent back when it was found out that it would not be needed. At the same time an alarm was sent to Winchester, the department quickly responding but all the firemen could do was to watch the burning house, there being no water, and the fire too far advanced to permit the use of the chemical. The house and contents were entirely consumed.

Other Fires.

The alarm Friday night from box 26, Main corner of Herrick street, was false.

Saturday the department was called out for a dangerous brush fire on Cambridge street, opposite the Boat Club house. It was necessary to use chemicals to extinguish it.

Sunday evening at 9.20, there was a false alarm from box 44, on Main street, opposite Canal.

When the alarm from box 13 sounded at about nine o'clock Tuesday evening the firemen and all others who knew the location of the box had visions of a large conflagration. Box 13 is a private one and is on the large plant of the Winchester Manufacturing Co. on Cross street near the station. The wind was blowing a gale and the air was as cold as it is during the first of March, and the drivers of the apparatus thinking they had a hard task before them, may have urged their horses to the scene a little faster than usual, so that very quick time was made in reaching the box. The firemen also made a quick run up the tracks of the railroad or through the streets, or across lots, whichever way would bring them to the scene the soonest possible knowing full well that every minute might be precious. It was a great relief to them, however, to learn when they arrived near the huge building that the fire was not there, but in one of the coal sheds of the Parker & Lane Co., close to it, which was burning quite freely. No time was lost in turning streams of water onto the fire which was quickly extinguished. But it was some time before the firemen recovered from the scare and had resumed their usual composure, for an alarm from any of these private boxes in town portends a big fire.

The roof of the shed was damaged but little. The fire probably caught from the sparks from a passing locomotive. Tuesday evening previous to the alarm from box 13, a telephone call summoned the firemen to a brush fire on the Brooks estate on Grove street near the Medford line, and it was while working here that the alarm from box 13 was sounded calling the department to Cross street.

The alarm from box 41, corner Main and Lake streets, Wednesday evening, was for a fire in the barn on the old Holt estate on the former street. When the department arrived the fire was burning briskly and a great deal of water was used before the flames were subdued. The building was used as a storage house by the heirs of the Holt estate and it was well filled with old and valuable furniture made of expensive wood, heirlooms that have accumulated in this old family for years. The goods were badly damaged, and the loss cannot be figured in dollars and cents.

MOTOR FIRE TRUCK.

The creditable performance of the Arlington motor chemical truck at the burning of the Smith house on Andrew's Hill last Sunday evening, very forcibly calls Winchester's attention to the need of a similar piece of apparatus in this town. With our many hills and comparatively large area, which is increasing at a very fast rate, it is impossible for a horse drawn piece of apparatus to give the proper results. Many towns have realized this already and have remedied the situation. Winchester is held back by lack of accommodation at the present time and the impossibility of erecting new fire quarters until this grade crossing problem is solved.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

In a town not many miles from Winchester there is a bright, manly little chap whose parents are ambitious, well supplied with the goods of this world, and perfectly clear in their plans for the young son. He is to be trained for a professional career, with nothing spared that will make for his material progress. And mean while? During vacation days he is sent adrift in the morning; an automobile takes the father and mother "to town"; sometimes they return for luncheon, often not until the shades of night fall. More than once The Spectator has seen the little fellow out late at night looking down the street for the familiar car. And when it comes he is talked to a bit and sent to bed, alone. He is an affectionate boy, but is simply starved; loves play, but is secluded from too close contact with other boys; is a natural chatterbox and yearns to tell all his little pleasures and woes, but has no one to turn to, with willing ears and ready sympathy. The Spectator wonders what manner of memories that boy will have, and what manner of man will he be, missing the individual mother-guidance and comradeship of a father who grows closer to him with the passing of every year?

The Spectator wonders how many readers of the STAR remember in George Eliot's "Mill on the Floss" how the childish griefs of Maggie Tulliver faded away under the magic of her father's "Never mind, little maid?" With her inborn faculty for dropping on the wrong side of things there was abundant need of the comforting word, but it was balm to her frequently wounded spirits to know that her troubles would be shared. Children take their woes pretty much to heart, and it is no one to say "Never mind," the little grievances must leave an imprint that will come back to disturb later on. A child can dispense with luxuries and playthings far better than with loving sympathy and companionship, and it pays parents to climb down from the heights of their greater years and cultivate a kinship of interests. They do, in the main, and The Spectator would point out that it is because they do so generally that the neglected child stands out conspicuously and presents such a pitiable figure.

A medical friend of The Spectator's give him to understand that persons who are not loquacious, are always remarkable for good health. It is up to the ladies who read the STAR to speak right out with, "Don't believe it, you mean thing."

Just because a person talks to "Central" as if he would scare her to death is no sign that he isn't henpecked at home.

A clergyman gives The Spectator to understand that rice throwing at weddings destroys the impressiveness of this fateful service, and occasionally gets into people's eyes. Two youthful honey-mooners of The Spectator's acquaintance handled this proposition very well. After the train departed from the station, with their seat under a snowdrift, the groom carefully swept up every particle of the rice. A few months after, Mr. and Mrs. Newlywed invited to dinner a company of people who had displayed the most athletic powers at the wedding. After all present had gloated over the mellow appeal of a gorgeous pudding, the bridegroom remarked off-hand, "It ought to be good; it was made out of the rice you gave us the day we were married." A person don't have to sit around at weddings with a grave yard written all over his face in order to be a gentleman or a lady. There is a parting going on, a setting sail into the dark, and possibly the storm that brings the occasion perilously close to tears. Anything that kindles merriment and obscures the too far horizon has its uses no matter how frivolous. But people show pretty clearly at weddings what breeding they have had. If you take chances on spoiling the unique and radiant fragrance of the honeymoon by a physical injury, you have not outgrown the stage of childhood, no matter how classic your manners, or how heavily loaded with dollar signs your clothes may be. The newly married couple, under the embarrassment of a novel, experience are entitled to a monopoly of each other's society. When the pursuit reaches even to the distant inn, and mementoes are thrown over the bridal train it becomes time for some youngsters of older growth to be well spanked and put to bed by kind maumas. At least that is The Spectator's opinion.

A man in a near by town has applied for a divorce because his wife chased him out of the house with a red hot poker, broke a board over his spinal column as he was climbing the back fence, and finally threw a dish of soup at him when he came back. Some men become unhappy over the most trivial circumstance.

Can you judge a woman's morality by her raiment? A lady informs The Spectator that she can pick them out as fast as she takes a look at their gowns, just as Miss Grace L. Hutchings of the fine arts department of the Teacher's College of New York says she can. Now these ladies don't astonish The Spectator in the least by their assertion. Not that The Spectator can also assort the women after one brief look at their gowns, but he has heard such remarks as the foregoing before. So has nearly everyone in Winchester. Being a mere man, this wonderful insight to women into the hidden meanings of crepe de dingbat and muslin a la laia has interested The Spectator enormously. He has pondered over it and inquired into it and observed the course of feminine analysis with the result that he is prepared to state that any woman who dresses considerably better than any other woman is a "mean old thing" and that said other woman has "very little use for her."

"That's what I call gross negligence," as a groceryman said, when his clerk broke twelve dozen of eggs.

You should have heard the "scolding" a certain woman here gave her husband the other night. It was something terrible. Hubby didn't say a word to her, but he just said to himself: "And in some countries there are men who voluntarily have a dozen, and sometimes even more!"

On a recent Saturday up to two o'clock the local telephone exchange had 1000 calls. Winchester has a long list of telephone subscribers.

Mr. Finn is the most enthusiastic ball player seen on Manchester field in a long time. And his enthusiasm catches the other players, and this makes the game full of snap.

Mr. Lester Smith of Winchester writes us as follows: "Read the item about Old Uncle Asa yesterday in Wolburn Journal, which made me think that on April 19, 1849, he took a load of apples to Lynn on runners; which was certainly going some!" We should say so. - Wolburn Journal.

Before finally deciding upon your place of residence for the summer, don't forget to take into consideration the fact that Winchester continues to be the model summer resort.

As the train for Boston leaving Weymouth at 10:45 Monday forenoon had started a young lady got onto the steps on the wrong side of the train and before her predicament was discovered and the gate opened, the train had got considerably below the bridge that spans the river. She did not appear to be disconcerted at all.

Readers of the STAR should not fail to visit the exhibition room of the Arlington Gas Light Co. on Main street corner of Converse place. Labor saving utilities can be seen here that will surprise many modern housekeepers, and make cooking one of comfort and not heat. For cooking in summer, gas surpasses all else.

At the Winchester Country Club links Saturday afternoon the play was a bogey handicap, three-quarters handicap. The following cards were handed in: H. W. Spurr, Jr., 1 down; A. C. Fernald, 3 down; R. S. Vinal, 3 down; A. V. Rogers, 2 down; C. A. Wheeler, 2 down; J. W. Fellows, 3 down; W. E. Kinsley, 5 down.

Nine times out of ten his shoes are the cause. Bring me a pair of his shoes and have them REPAIRED, and you will have the happiest time this side of your honeymoon.

I don't "fix" shoes; I repair them. And there is a whole lot of difference between "fixing" and REPAIRING.

I have a full line of all the popular grades of rubber heels, and am proud to say that among my patrons are the Elite of the 400 of Winchester, where I have done business for 30 years.

A pair of rubber heels, properly adjusted to your shoes, will wear twice as long and give you ease and comfort. When they are "fixed" on, it is entirely different.

Don't blame the blacksmith if he puts your watch out of commission, and don't blame the man who "fixes" your shoes. Bring them to O'Loughlin and have them REPAIRED.

TUBERCULOSIS CAUSES 10 PER CENT OF CHURCH DEATHS.

Statistics showing how serious a problem tuberculosis is to the ordinary church congregation were published today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a bulletin on Tuberculosis Day.

From reports received from over 725 churches, with a membership of over 312,000 communicants of twenty denominations, and from 208 cities and towns in 12 states in various parts of the country, out of nearly 7000 deaths in 1910, over 700 or 10.4 per cent were caused by tuberculosis. This means 2.24 deaths for every thousand members or communicants.

While the percentage of deaths from tuberculosis as compared with other diseases is not higher in the churches, according to these figures, than in the country at large, the tuberculosis death rate, as shown by the church returns, is higher per thousand communicants than that for the general population in the Registration Area of the United States, which the Census Bureau gave as 1.67 in 1909.

"The National Association," the bulletin says, "does not, however, consider the statistics received from ministers comparable from the point of view of accuracy with those reported by the Bureau of the Census. A sufficient number of returns from a great variety of churches have been received, nevertheless, to indicate that one of the most serious social problems the ordinary church has to consider, is that of the devastation of its membership by tuberculosis. The need for education from the pulpit and in the home is apparent. Every minister in the United States is asked to give this subject some attention during the next two weeks."

FRED L. WALDMYER

Fred L. Waldmyer, who was appointed a member of the board of Fire Engineers Monday evening, to succeed Irving L. Symmes, who has been Chief Engineer for a number of years has been a fireman since boyhood, having run with the machine in the days of the hand engines, and for six years from 1895 to 1901, was a member of the Board of Fire Engineers, part of the time filling the position of Chief Engineer.

CHIEF IRVING L. SYMMES

BOSTON'S PRIDE.

The new steamship, the "Franconia," the largest steamer that ever entered Boston harbor, is all this. She is the latest word from the Cunard Company, and that means much for the travelling public. The new ship has every comfort that heart could wish for, and will receive the deserved patronage of all going abroad from this port. She is a twin-screw, 625 feet long, 72 feet wide, 18,000 tons, and 23,000 horse power.

The commercial importance of her arrival in Boston was celebrated at a banquet on board the steamer last week Thursday evening, when a distinguished gathering of 250 business and professional men were guests of the Cunard company. The banquet was elaborate, and followed an inspection of the ship. Speeches were made by Vice-President Burns of the N. Y., N. H. & H., and B. & M., Mayor Fitzgerald, Edwin U. Curtis, Pres. G. S. Smith, of the Chamber of Commerce, and others. Mr. Frank Barr and Mr. Jay B. Benton were also present. The editor of the STAR had the privilege of attending, and it proved memorable in many ways.

CONG. McCALL AND RECIPROCITY.

Congressman McCall spoke last Saturday evening before a large gathering of the Intercolonial Club, giving the history of the recent consideration of Reciprocity with Canada in Congress, when he argued for it and expressed the confident hope that the Senate would pass the bill without amendment.

Mr. McCall termed the agreement the means for greatly benefiting both the United States and Canada and urged the necessity of reciprocity on economic grounds. He predicted that within the next decade the United States would not raise enough grain to supply its home demand and termed the free admission of Canadian wheat as provided in the agreement a wise provision against that time. He said that the farmers would not be injured by reciprocity and pointed out that the same scare is being used to 200 anti-reciprocity sentiment among the agriculturists of Canada.

BASE BALL.

High School lost its fourth game last Saturday afternoon at the hands of Lynn English High school by the score of 4-2. The local team played an excellent game up until the ninth inning when it all went to pieces.

Winchester made its first run in the second inning, gained by hits, there being four in succession. Again in the fifth inning by heavy hitting, Winchester again succeeded in scoring one more run.

In the seventh inning the visiting team made its first run making the score at the first of the ninth 2-1. But the excitement caused by the thought of winning a game was too much for the Winchester boys. The visitors hit freely and soon tied the score. Then, with two out and a man on third, a little fly was knocked out to third base. This was muffed thereby giving the game to Lynn. After this another run was scored by a single and a double.

Rogers excelled on the infield while Flinn and Mathews did the heavy hitting for Winchester.

Vinal and Mrs. Arthur G. Williams for one year.

A Nantucket lad had a severe cold the other day and his mother, hearing him coughing during the night, aroused her other half, and told him to make a poultice of lard and apply it to the boy's chest. Father minded and dutifully trotted off to the pantry and found the crock of lard all right just where he expected to, and spread some on cheese cloth and plastered the whole thing where it was supposed to do the most good. Son was better in the morning and rather felt quite cheery over his doctoring until mother discovered the stuff used was not lard at all, but mashed potato.

The Massachusetts Senate has voted down the income tax measure, the vote being 10 to 11. The vote against it was solidly Republican, the Senator from this district, Mr. Brown of Medford being one of the voters against it.

We have received Hon. Samuel W. McCall's speech on reciprocity with Canada, delivered before the U. S. House of Representatives on April 21. This speech was the ablest and most convincing in favor of reciprocity of the many delivered, and we would suggest to readers of the Star that they procure a copy. There is no member of the House who receives more attention from the members and the country than does Mr. McCall when he makes a speech. He always talks to the point and is convincing.

Albert P. Langtry, who was elected secretary of State last week, is serving his second term in the House. Two years ago he was a candidate for State Treasurer, but withdrew and Senator Stevens of Somerville was elected. Mr. Langtry is editor and publisher of the Springfield Union. He is married. He is a Mason, a member of the Middlesex Club, of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Editorial Association and is serving as its president, and was formerly a member of the Republican State Committee. He has for years been a member of the Massachusetts Press Association, and has the respect of his fellow craftsmen to a remarkable degree. He is an exceedingly strong and forceful man, one who will carry his personality into his new office and which will certainly result in benefit to the State.

WINCHESTER ORCHESTRAL ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Orchestral Association was held at the residence of Mr. Dwight last Tuesday evening. The Treasurer's report was presented and it was a great satisfaction to learn that at the end of the Orchestra's second season there is a small balance on the right side of the ledger instead of a deficit of nearly $150, as there was at the end of the first season.

It was voted to change the name of the organization to the Winchester Orchestral Association instead of Winchester Orchestral Society and to designate the orchestra as the Winchester Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra has grown to the proportions of a "grand orchestra" and it aims to render only classical music, including a symphony, at each concert.

It is the desire of the committee to increase the number of low-priced seats for the benefit of those who feel they cannot afford to pay Boston Symphony prices with the added expense and effort of attending concerts in Boston and yet are hungry for such music as the Boston Symphony offers. The demand for such seats was very strong at all concerts this past season, showing an appreciation of the work of our orchestra by the general public.

Subscription blanks for next season will be mailed to associate members in a few days. The number of associate memberships has been slightly increased to meet the increased expense that may occur next season. Application for these vacant memberships may be made to Sylvester Taylor, Secretary.

REV. JOHN H. MANSFIELD.

On Friday, April 28 occurred the 85th birthday of Rev. J. H. Mansfield. His pastor, Rev. C. W. Blackett conceived the plan of its celebration by quietly removing the augmented class meeting from the vestry of the church to the pleasant home of these veterans of the cross on Crescent road. At eight o'clock the friends entered unbidden, completely filling their large parlor. Dr. Blackett, in warm words, announced the purpose of the evening as a celebration of the birthday, by holding a class meeting (which, in his mind, should be the most joyous of all informal religious meetings) which he proceeded to lead. Before the closing hour, Dr. Blackett presented Mr. Mansfield with the latest book of Bishop Henry W. Warren of Denver, who was converted under the influence of Rev. Mr. Mansfield, while they both were in college. Between the leaves was hidden a bookmark of shining gold, as a birthday testimonial from friends. Mrs. Leon Crouch then presented to Mrs. Mansfield in a few well chosen words a beautiful bouquet of flowers from friends, as they wished that she, too, should enjoy a birthday. A large number of congratulatory letters, postcards, and gifts, were also received from relatives and friends from all over New England, where they are both well known, and greatly beloved. Rev. and Mrs. Mansfield are the parents of Mrs. John N. Mason of Mt. Pleasant street.

Mrs. Mary Heron, wife of Jacob F. Emerson, mother to Mrs. Harry A. Wheeler of this town, passed away yesterday at her home, 15 Monte to street, West Roxbury. She was a former resident of Winchester.

At a meeting of the Republican Town Committee held this week, William A. Kneeland Esq., of Highland avenue was chosen a member of the Committee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Frank F. Carpenter.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Mr. Pratt is absolutely right in his contention on street grades, and I have the impression on my mind it was upon his motion a town meeting voted a few years ago that in the future the Selectmen should establish the grades of all proposed new streets before submitting their lay out to the town meeting for acceptance.

The attempt to make the present eight hour bill apply to those cities and towns which have accepted a different act is a violation of the referendum principle which the Democratic party stands for. The only thing the present House is consistent in is badness. May we never see its like again.

The reason Joe Walker had to favor an open ballot for the legislative convention to elect a secretary of state last week was because he accepted it, against his wish, in the speakership contest. He was right in refusing to agree to more than one roll call on the preliminary motion and the Democrats knew he was right, but cannot be blamed for trying to make a little political capital for next fall. The interesting phase of the contest was the Republican's distrust of their own members, although they had twenty-six majority. It is seldom indeed that party measures are won by votes from the opposition party anywhere.

I have been asked where any very great expense can come in connection with our ponds and streams? The proper and complete plan means dredging out to some extent and filling in to a very much greater extent, and this last will require arrangements to take care of the water in freshet times, which means the enlargement of openings through the railroad embankments and of all bridges over the streams, if the ponds between the main line and the Woburn loop and east of the main line of the railroad are filled in to the extent they should be, the building of retaining walls and the attendant beautification.

It seems to me unfortunate that Selectmen are not permitted to appoint a single fire engineer, but under the old law must appoint not less than three. I tried to get this law amended a few years ago but corporate opposition of a personal nature defeated it. It there is any line of work that calls for individual authority, it is in the fire departments, particularly when a fire is on.

School committees may now expend school money to supervise play and games on land under their control and for equipment thereof.

If the question was asked which town of Massachusetts has the greatest per capita wealth, most everybody would answer Brookline, but the town of Dover has nearly twice as much.

The Governor's special messages have been coming along thick and fast and while they are vile there is getting to be a feeling they are too frequent. The legislature is clogged with work now, and the fear of staying beyond the 4th of July is the only thing that will send the members home by that time, so it cannot spend much time on extra work. Our legislatures are seldom more than six months apart.

Our gas company had a hearing before the commission May first for authority to issue new stock, at which time it developed that these were the companies: the Arlington Gas Light Co., The Massachusetts Lighting Co's. (a holding association), and the Light, Heat and Power Co. a purchasing and constructing company, and each got a share and the others and stock holders were the same.

BASE BALL.

Winchester High took a decided stand in the game against the strong Medford High school team at Medford last Wednesday afternoon. It was anybody's game until the last minute but finally after twelve innings Winchester won 3-2.

As Goddu, the regular pitcher, did not go, those who went from Winchester expected to see their team woefully slaughtered. But Mobbs pitched an excellent game considering that he never pitched for the High school before. That the infield made nineteen assists and that twenty-two were put out at first base shows that the infield played an excellent game.

However the visiting team did not get its runs altogether by its own merits as it was allowed twelve bases on balls and the opponents made six errors.

The decisive run was made in the first of the twelve innings when Donahue knocked a long fly to deep right with one out and the bases full. After this was caught LeDuc on third, had time to run in, thereby winning the game for Winchester.

It was an interesting and exciting game to see in spite of the cold and those who were unfortunate enough not to be able to attend, missed what will undoubtedly prove to be, the game of the year.

First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

(If a holiday the following evening)

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

Seven children of Wolurn, ranging in age from 3 to 10 years, had a joy ride yesterday that might have been serious. Standing on Buckman street in that city was a horse and open buggy. The kids piled in and as the last one crowded into a niche, the horse took fright and made a dash for Winchester, narrowly missing telegraph poles and electric cars on the way until he reached the foot of Black Horse Hill where he was stopped the children crying and screaming all the way from Wolurn. The police of Winchester were hot foot after them and when the stop was made the names of the children were taken, for a settlement with the fathers and mothers. The horse belonged to a Mr. McDevitt of Wolurn and aside from the animal being out on the legs no damage resulted other than giving the children a bad scare.

NOTICE

Depositing leaves and other refuse in the public streets and the burning of same there, is a violation of the town by-laws, constitutes a source of danger to passing horses, and fills the streets with litter which the town is obliged to cart away at great expense.

For these and other reasons, all persons are requested to stop this practice and thereby to assist the Street Department in keeping the streets clean and free from obstruction.

So great has the nuisance become that the officers of the street and police departments have been directed to enforce the by-laws on this subject.

INTERESTING FACTS.

The first report of President Keller of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company presents some interesting facts in a condensed form.

The total number of telephones connected with the New England system at the end of 1910 was 388,022, this including sub-license, associated and connecting companies.

The wire mileage required to furnish service was 7342,04, of which 442,166 miles, or about three fifths of the total, represented wires placed underground.

The total number of employees was 10,153.

For 1911 the estimated appropriations are as follows: for new construction and real estate, $4,000,000; for repairs and depreciation, $4,400,000.

The net earnings were slightly less than in 1909, and the profits, after allowing for certain depreciations of stocks and bonds, were $710,797.27 for 1910 as against $864,974.42 for 1909.

A foot note in the balance sheet calls attention to an interesting point. The Highway Commission during its investigation of the rate schedule, showed that not only was the stock not watered but that the independent appraisal showed property largely in excess of book records.

WESTERN STATES AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The Women of Massachusetts will have to look to their laurels and bestir themselves in earnest if they do not want to be left far in the rear in the march of progress. Legislators in various states here had the question of equal suffrage recently brought before them. With equal Suffrage an assured fact in five states, the following results of legislative action are significant and assuring:—
California Legislature 98 ayes to 17 nays;
Kansas 121 ayes to 40 nays; Oregon and Nevada two to one in favor; Illinois 31
ayes to 10 nays; Montana 38 to 32;
Maine 70 to 66; Massachusetts 69 ayes to 161 nays! Some one has said that the sun used to rise in the east, but now it rises in the west. One of the most statute lawyers in Massachusetts says that the arguments for equal suffrage cannot be refuted—they are sound—but "woman suffrage is wrong" by which he must mean, what he forgot to add,
"in my opinion," since if arguments for action are right, it would seem to follow naturally that the action itself is right. It is to be hoped Massachusetts, usually in the forefront of reform, will not be the last to do her women justice.

INJURY TO WOMAN SUFFRAGE

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Daughters of the American Revolution have again met at Washington and adjourned without actual bloodshed.

"I do not believe that the national Democratic convention at Charleston, in 1860, where passions seethed and which precipitated the awful war between the states was more intense in feeling in that gathering of men than was manifest here in the aggregation of women over the election of the chief officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution."

That was the observation of a gray-haired gentleman who had been a looker-on at the D. A. R. Convention at which a feminine near relative was an attending delegate. Truth is the conduct of the normally good and amiable women composing the ostensibly peaceful and patriotic organization has been such as to cause the judicious of both sexes greatly to grieve. It is not uncommon talk that a resultant of the misbehavior of leading members of the several delegations has injured it seriously in the estimation of many.

For one thing it has caused a revulsion of sentiment of men inclined to look favorably upon the proposition to grant suffrage rights to women. It is also said that the venting of passions at these women's conventions have caused not a few to resign from the organization and deterred many from joining it who are qualified for membership.

GETTING EVEN.

The story is told in Boston that the reason the Eastway was driven to New York, (where it is now being played at the Republic theatre) was because of a grudge. Members of the Boston city council have passed to all the shows, same as Beverly and other cities have,
and the pass is usually good for father and friends. One night when the house was full a Boston city father went to the Hollis theatre with a number of friends and could not find any good seats. The father is noted for being "mippy" about his tree lot and the city father told them so very plainly. He was a good friend of the Mayor and he bled his time and got some of the church folks to help him.
When the Eastway came he had his revenge and it proved a costly one to the show folks. Other theatres who were more liberal were not molested—

(2.) What had been the character of Amaziah, the father of Uzziah?

(3.) Which are sons more likely to resemble in moral character, their father or their mother?

(4.) Verse 4—In what sense did Uzziah and his father Amaziah do "that which was right in the sight of the Lord?"

(5.) Verses 5-10—Who was the Zechariah here mentioned?

(6.) Do you regard it as the privilege of all spiritual people, to have "understanding in the visions of God," or is it a special gift to a few, and why?

(7.) What did the prosperity of Uzziah appear to depend upon?

(8.) What are some of the things mentioned which demonstrated Uz-ziah's prosperity?

(9.) In the light of time and eternity, what do you consider as the highest type of a prosperous man?

(10.) What are the degrees of degradability, to be prosperous in wealth, honor, intellectual ability, or in having "understanding in the visions of God?"

(11.) Verses 11-15—Did God ever delight in war? Why or why not?

(12.) Was it ever God's first best plan for nations to settle their disputes by war?

(13.) If Jesus were king of this country, and a duplicate of Jesus were king of another country with whom we had a misunderstanding, why would there be no danger of war?

(14.) Are the nations of the earth, as nations, guilty or innocent before God, for the vast sums of money they spend annually in preparation for war? Why?

(15.) Verses 16-18—What proportion of men are drawn nearer to God, and what proportion are driven to the Devil by earthly prosperity?

(16.) Why is it that so many are spiritually hurt by prosperity?

(17.) After Uzziah had had such unmistakable experience with God, how do you account for his moral lapse?

(18.) What motive do you suppose prompted Uzziah, to usurp the office of the priests of the temple?

(19.) What are the sins which an exalted position, or great riches, tend to develop today. (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(20.) Verses 19-23—Was the disease of leprosy supernaturally inflicted as a punishment, or was it contracted in a natural way?

(21.) Does God in these days send disease upon people in any other way than through the laws of nature? Give your reasons.

The Price Consideration

Some people have the impression that they cannot afford to make purchases at this store, which is nearly always a mistaken idea. MACULAR PARKER COMPANY make a forty-dollar ready-to-wear suit. But they make a twenty-five dollar suit as well, which has just as careful attention in the making as the higher-priced one, and is, by all odds, a suit impossible to duplicate anywhere else for twenty-five dollars.

From an economical standpoint, and taking into consideration the various points of style, materials, workmanship and fit, the various departments of this house offer a line of goods of such superior quality and worth, that the buying of them is extremely profitable.

XVI.—Emergencies In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.
Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

NOTWITHSTANDING all that has been written and uttered regarding "man's inhumanity to man," the first impulse of the average man is to help a fellow being in distress. This is well exemplified by the agility with which half a dozen people unskilled will chase a bat that has been blown off.

When accident or disease occurs in the household, however, successful assistance is not so easily rendered as in the case of the wind-blown bat. The most willing hands and heads may bring injury rather than relief through an excess of zeal and ignorance of how to direct it.

Fainting Spells.

Ordinary fainting spells, excluding cases of unconsciousness, due to heart disease, kidney trouble, apoplexy, etc., may be due to a number of causes—shock, indigestion, eye strain, lack of food, bowel trouble, etc. In such cases the patient should be placed in a reclining position, with the feet higher than the head and the clothing loosened about the neck and chest. Cold water dashed in the face will usually suffice to restore consciousness. Aromatic spirits of ammonia inhaled or if the patient is able to swallow fifteen to thirty drops in a wineglass of water is a good restorative. Strong ammonia should not be applied to the nostrils of an unconscious person, as extreme irritation of the mucous membrane may result before the patient becomes conscious of it.

An impending faint may be prevented by having the patient place his head in his hands and lower it between his knees while sitting down. This strain ed position tends to retain the blood in the upper portion of the body and prevent the bloodless condition of the brain, which is responsible for the unconsciousness.

The natural impulse is to raise the head and body of a patient who has fainted. This is the worst possible thing to do. Feet high and head low is the rule.

Sunstroke.

The symptoms of sunstroke are very high temperature, ranging from 104 to 112 degrees F., congested countenance, heavy breathing and unconsciousness. This condition may be mistaken for apoplexy if the temperature is not taken.

The remedy is, in a word, cold. If it is not possible to give a full ice cold bath, feed cloths should be applied to the head, neck and chest and the extremities bathed in cold water. The application of cold must be continued until the temperature drops to normal and resumed if it rises.

The symptoms of heat exhaustion are the reverse of those above described. The temperature may be subnormal, the face is pale, and there is a condition analogous to shock, with a bloodless brain.

The treatment must be directed against these conditions. The application of heat to the body and extremities is necessary by means of hot water bags, bottles, etc. Coffee, essence of ginger or other stimulants should be taken internally. The reclining position as advised for fainting spells is also indicated.

Caution.—It is not unusual for physicians to be called in such cases in hot weather and find the patient's head loyally elevated by anxious friends and cold applications being assiduously applied. Although this condition is due to heat, cold will only aggravate it.

Convulsions, Etc.

In true epilepsy the patient should be made as comfortable as possible during the attack and prevented from injuring himself.

Convulsions in children may be due to comparatively trivial causes—teething, indigestion, worms, etc. Sometimes a convulsion is the first sign of a serious acute disease, as infectious fever, pneumonia, etc.

The child should be put in a hot bath (100 to 104 degrees F.), for about five minutes. This will usually control the spasm, and the patient can be put to bed and other necessary measures taken, especially cleaning out the bowels, which may be most rapidly accomplished by an enema. A physician should, of course, be called.

Surgical Troubles.

Sprains.—In this condition there is laceration of ligaments, blood vessels and other structures surrounding a joint. The first treatment is to place the injured part in hot water and apply hot cloths for half an hour. The joint should then be bandaged, not too tightly, and kept at rest until the acute swelling and tenderness subside. Alternate applications of hot and cold water poured over the joint from a picher are often beneficial. It is a mistake to attempt continuous self-treatment of a severe sprain. Months of suffering and crippling may result from neglect to secure early surgical aid. The X ray has demonstrated that supposed simple sprains are often complicated by fractures.

Fractures.

When a limb is fractured the first step is to apply a temporary splint in order to prevent needless injury to soft parts by the ends of the fractured bone. Any stiff material, an umbrella, rolled up newspapers, canes, etc., may be bound to the limb by handkerchiefs, towels or bandages until surgical aid has been procured. In fractures of the leg one leg may be bound to the other. If the skin has been broken the fracture is termed compound, and extreme care is necessary to prevent further laceration or infection of the tissues.

Wounds.

Slight punctured or lacerated wounds are often neglected or improperly treated, owing to the fact that no medical aid is sought. For the reason that blood poison and lockjaw are not uncommon following comparatively trivial injuries all wounds should be cleansed as quickly as possible with peroxide of hydrogen, turpentine or some antiseptic solution. A sterilized gauze pad should then be applied and held in place by rubber adhesive plaster or gauze bandages. The use of strong antiseptic solutions in wounds is no longer customary. When the wound is infected, as evidenced by heat, redness, swelling or discharge of pus, the parts should be cleansed frequently with peroxide of hydrogen and a simple wet dressing applied as follows: A gauze pad is bandaged over the wound and kept moist with a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda in boiled water. Antiseptic solutions kill germs, but they also interfere with the natural reparative work of the body cells.

Dangers of Carbolic Acid.

Carbolic acid should be banished from the household, except in the form of carbolic vaseline. This preparation may be useful to apply to cuts or sores in emergencies. Solutions of carbolic acid constantly applied to the extremities, fingers, toes, etc., have been known to cause gangrene.

Every useful purpose served by carbolic acid as a household remedy can be served by simple nonpoisonous antiseptics, such as a saturated solution of borie acid or the official liquor antisepticus of the United States Pharmacopoeia. Diluted with several parts of water, this latter preparation may be used whenever a cleansing antiseptic wash is required.

Burns.

Probably nothing causes more excitement in the household than burns or scalds, and this explains why first aid is so seldom properly and promptly applied.

The most convenient and perhaps the best remedy to apply is ordinary baking soda. This may be applied in powder and the parts wrapped in clean linen cloths, gauze, etc., and then covered with cotton, or the bandages may be saturated and kept moist with a strong solution of the soda. Blisters should be punctured with a needle that has been sterilized in boiling water, but the skin should not be removed.

When a burn is very extensive immediate proper dressing is difficult, and it is extremely important to reduce the shock and protect the burned area from the air. This may be quickly done by placing the patient in a warm salt bath, keeping the temperature between 94 and 104 degrees F. Such treatment is often continued for a long time, replenishing the water, of course, as it becomes contaminated. Stimulants internally are called for.

Ear Emergencies.

Accumulations of wax or foreign bodies in the ear should be removed by syringing with warm water or saturated solution of borie acid. Insects may be suffocated with a few drops of pure sweet oil and then removed by syringing with warm water. It is a bad practice to use oil in the ear for the removal of wax. If syringing with warm water does not suffice a physician should be consulted.

Ears are usually due to inflammation, which may develop into suppuration and abscess. Heat should be applied by means of hot water bags, hot clay poultice (Cataplasma kaolin, U. S. P.) or hot fomentations. Hot water may be poured into the ear while the patient reclines on his opposite side and the heat retained by covering the affected ear with cloths saturated with hot water and the whole covered over with a flannel pad.

Bleeding From the Nose.

In old people or those with a tendency to apoplexy a hemorrhage from the nose may prove a relief and should not be too hastily checked. Where it is desirable to check a hemorrhage the application of cold to the nose and back of the neck will often prove efficient. Syringing with peroxide of hydrogen is also an excellent emergency remedy. Syringing with a hot salt solution at a temperature of 125 degrees F. is another efficient measure. If the temperature of the solution is lower than 125 degrees it will only aggravate the hemorrhage.

(The operation of the two number system to this exchange will be begun as soon as practicable.)

Beginning May 1, the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company INCREASED TO FIVE MINUTES THE INITIAL PERIOD ON ALL TEN CENT TOLL CALLS.

For the benefit of those not accustomed to making such calls, attention is called to the following points to be observed in calling these places:

CALLS MUST BE MADE BY NUMBER ONLY.

Calls for particular persons cannot be accepted. If the number cannot be found in the directory, the information operator will give it.

CALLS SHOULD BE GIVEN DIRECTLY TO THE LOCAL OPERATOR IN THE SAME MANNER AS WHEN A LOCAL CONNECTION IS DESIRED.

THE RECEIVER SHOULD BE HELD TO THE EAR UNTIL THE CALLED NUMBER ANSWERS OR A REPORT IS RECEIVED FROM THE OPERATOR.

Toll calls handled under the new method will be completed with almost the same promptness as local calls.

In Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East Which Comes to Boston, May 15th to 20

The interesting announcement is made that Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East will exhibit as indicated above. A remarkable event is announced in the leave-taking from public life of the old scout, "Buffalo Bill," who is making a last bow to each city he now visits—a valedictory.

Two vast enterprises are now allied under one management. The union of Buffalo Bill's Wild West with Pawnee Bill's Far East brings together two great factors in out-of-door entertainment. The Far East contingent will be represented in an Oriental spectacle of great beauty and splendor, introducing many picturesque types which inhabit the romantic East. In this scene and as a particular feature, Rossi's Musical Elephants, imported at an expense of $1,000 per week, will introduce their remarkable exhibition: playing various musical instruments, dancing, and in other manners evidencing their remarkable sagacity and wonderful training.

The chief scenic feature will be the Battle of Summit Springs, a reproduction of one of the deciding conflicts in Indian warfare; a battle in which Col. Cody participated and in which he shot and killed Chief Tail Bull. In a Holiday at "T.E." Ranch will be pictured the pleasures and past-times of the plainsman, cowboy sports and a dance upon the green.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Andrew Mack, the Irish singer who has won wide popularity as a dramatic star, has been making one of the greatest successes of his career during the past few weeks on the B. F. Keith circuit and he comes to Boston next week. Mack is not only a splendid singer with a wonderful voice, but he is a remarkable good story teller. He will head an exceptionally strong bill, of fun makers: Jack Wilson, and his company in a new version of "An Upheaval in Darktown," Claude and Fanny Usher in their comedy sketch "Fagin's Decision," introducing the famous "Sparrows," Rivoli, an Italian character comic artist who enacts an entire play by himself. Newcomers will be Lee White and George Perry, in singing and dancing specialties. Petrich, the strong man, will also appear, and other features will be the Visconti Brothers, wonderful acrobatic players, and Rawson and June, the booming towers.

MOTHER'S DAY.

The setting apart of special days for the commemoration of great events or for honoring characters is a very old custom. The churches of Christendom have a full calendar, and the suggestion of another day could scarcely be received with favor. But when, a few years ago, Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, advocated wearing a white carnation, on the second Sunday in May, in honor of Mother's Day, a great many hearts responded with the thought that if any persons in all the world were worthy of special remembrance these persons were All Good Mothers. Three years ago Miss Jarvis' idea was taken up quite generally. Firms presented their employees with white carnations; the Los Angeles Examiner gave away 30,000 of them. Even the Bowery had its part in the celebration. Men who had not seen their mothers for years pinned a white flower on their breasts in their honor. Some of the churches are putting in special services, and in some others where there is a distinct objection to deviate from the ordinary ecclesiastical calendar many men are wearing the white flower just "for mother's sake."

"I love old mothers—mothers with white hair, And kindly eyes, and lips grown softly sweet

With murmured blessings over sleeping babes, There's something in their quiet grace That speaks the calm of Sabbath afternoons.

"Old mothers! as they pass with slow-time's step Their trembling hands cling gently to youth's strength.

Sweet mothers! as they pass one sees again Old garden walks, old roses, and old loves."

Any one having any articles of clothing or furniture for the rummage sale given by the Rebekahs, May 20th, please notify Mr. Hersey of Hersey Hardware Co., and they will be called for. The sale will be held at 522 Main street.

MEN'S CLUB DINNER.

The dinner of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church will take place next Tuesday evening in the church vestries.

A splendid time is assured. The addresses by the new minister, Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon whose subject will be "The Municipal Resources of Democracy," and Dr. Cryus Richardson who radiates good cheer and happiness will be enjoyable and instructive. The music will be provided by the Adelpi Male Quartette of Boston and Dr. Hindes will intersperse the addresses with some of his best songs, accompanied by Mr. Joshua Shippen.

The dinner will be served by the Page Catering Co., of Lowell whose reputation for refined service is known to many of our citizens. The reception to the speakers will be at 6.30. Dinner at seven.

The men of the church are invited.

that is likely to become popular in all social organizations, and that was an Old Members' Night. It was a happy thought on his part, and the innovation, for such it was, proved to be a very happy event to the older members of William Parkman Lodge, who turned out in force last Tuesday evening—men who now but seldom leave the evening fireside. In all there were considerably over a hundred present, including old and recent members and the reunion was thoroughly enjoyed. The Lodge now has a membership of 261. Mr. Warren Johnson was the oldest member present, he being the first man to receive the degrees after the Lodge was chartered in 1865. He was honored in remarks by Master Witherell and presented with a handsome bouquet of cut flowers.

ALBION K. P. JOY.
The First Master of William Parkman Lodge.

Mr. Johnson who is 84 years of age was so overcome by the tribute, that he could not find words to express his gratitude.

During the early part of the evening the first degree was conferred on two candidates, and there were two admissions to membership. At the conclusion of the regular business, Samuel J. Elder, Esq., after complimenting Worshipful Master Witherell for his thoughtfulness in inaugurating this pleasant feature of an Old Members' Night, gave a most interesting informal talk on the Hague Tribunal proceedings, and at the finish he was presented with a handsome bouquet of pink carnations.

The members then adjourned to the banquet hall to partake of refreshments and enjoy a social hour. It was one of the pleasantest evenings in the history of the Lodge, and no doubt will become an annual feature.

The following have been members of the Lodge for thirty years and longer:

Philip J. Blank,	1881
Bedwell S. Briggs,	1873
James H. Dwell,	1877
Charles E. Follansbee	1867
Samuel J. Elder,	1878

FISH MARKET THREATENED.

Mr. Charles A. Lane will leave town a week from Saturday with a party of gentlemen on his annual spring fishing trip. This is one of the events of the spring, and an unusually large party of gentlemen will enjoy the week's outing this year. The party will make its headquarters at the famous Mr. Camps on the head waters of the Kennebec. Included among the gentlemen who will take the trip are: Chas. E. Barrett, Charles A. Gleason, Vincent Farnsworth, George B. Whitehouse, William Nickerson, Alfred S. Hall, Ralph E. Joslin, Noel B. Nutt, Irving L. Symmes, Theodore P. Wilson, F. W. Pray of Newton, E. H. Kitfield of Swampscott, C. B. Goss of Melrose, W. H. Woodman of Wakefield, F. J. Brown of Woburn, J. S. Eisele of Scranton, Pa., and last but not least, Mr. Lane.

STRAY THOUGHTS.

VIII

Public, and Private Libraries.

The rapid increase in the number of public libraries, during the last fifty years, has given to every one, whether old or young, opportunity to read the best of books without expense. In many states there is scarcely a village or town which has not within its limits a good public library. Besides the public libraries, there are at present in the country thousands of excellent school libraries in both elementary and high schools. These school libraries furnish pupils with the means for convenient reference when in search of information not found in the ordinary text-book.

In the public libraries, people of all ages have access to all grades of literature, from the popular novel to scientific works that deal with the deepest problems which concern us. These libraries have given a mighty impulse to learning, and have led thousands of men, women, and children to become intelligent readers.

Literature.

The term literature conveys a somewhat indefinite idea to most of us. In fact, almost all reading matter may be classed as literature. Even the dictionary makes no attempt to draw a hard and fast line between what is and what is not literature. "Webster" says, "Literature is the collective body of literary productions embracing the entire results of knowledge and fancy preserved in writing." This definition is certainly broad enough to satisfy the poorest writers, and too broad to satisfy the best. A second definition, also from "Webster," expresses more nearly, I suspect, the interpretation put upon the term by most scholars. "Literature is the class of writing distinguished for beauty of style or expression, as poetry, essays, or history, in distinction from scientific treatises, and works which contain positive knowledge."

The fact is, however, that every one may have his own interpretation of the word. Personally I doubt whether, in the opinion of most educated people, it is altogether "beauty of style or expression" which constitutes literature. Literature is rather beauty of expression coupled with nobility of thought—thought which tends to ennoble character, and has a moral uplift for anyone, young or old, who reads, understands, and feels the healthful stimulus of words which give to thought its expression.

Literary Fiction.

Of the books usually drawn from the public library, a very large proportion would fall under the head of fiction.

For many years this tendency of the general public to read fiction in preference to other forms of literature, was derided because it was felt that fiction belonged to a low form of literature,—that it was debasing, and tended to distract the attention of readers from the more serious concerns of life. This feeling of distrust towards fiction was so marked a generation ago that many librarians, in their annual reports, called special attention to the matter, deprecating the tendency of the times, and showing that efforts had been made by the attendants in the library to check the evil as far as possible.

This distrust of fiction had its origin partly in a too familiar acquaintance with some of the popular novels of two or three generations ago, and partly in a misunderstanding of the end and aim of the best fiction. Few men, women, or children, in any community, are endowed with a full catalogue of virtues; most of them have a few. The writer of fiction has the inestimable advantage of constructing his own characters. Dr. Watson (an MacLaren), author of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush," once gave an address in Tremont Temple, Boston, to which the present writer had the privilege of listening. While speaking of his books, the doctor remarked that people had asked him where he had found his character of Doctor MacLure. He had told them the doctor said, that he never found Doctor MacLure; he had made him. He had known many physicians, and each had some admirable characteristics. He had taken from several of them such characteristics as he considered most admirable, and had made Doctor MacLure.

Here we find the secret of the powerful influence which some works of fiction have over its readers. An idealized character, for good or for evil, portrays with wonderful power what the soul of the reader most loves or hates, and inspires the reader to renewed efforts to choose the one and to avoid the other. A reader of such fiction learns to read more truly his own character which, possibly for the first time, is clearly interpreted to him, the "fictitious composite" showing in bolder relief the peculiar traits which lie hidden in the reader's sub-consciousness. These hidden traits may be of such a nature that they must be crushed out before a more perfect manhood or womanhood can be attained. It is fiction that paints vice in an attractive form, a form which vice never has when rightly depicted, that harms the reader.

The reading of one or two works of suitable fiction in all grades of the public schools above the fifth is strongly recommended. These books should be read at home, and the stories then re-told and discussed in class, thus giving the teacher an excellent opportunity for imparting wholesome ethical instruction.

MANY FIRES.

During the past ten days the firemen have been earning their pay. The alarms have been frequent and at all times of the twenty-four hours. The employers of the call men are liberal and to a considerable extent are entitled to credit for allowing these men to go to fires. The wives are, however, grumbling a bit, because their husbands so frequently break up the night's sleep, and are so uncertain at meal times.

Everything is as dry as tinder these days, therefore extreme care should be exercised in setting fires.

Last Saturday forenoon a dangerous fire at Hillcrest from box 64 called the department out. Three houses and the Middlesex Fells were menaced.

Saturday noon, an alarm from this same box brought the department to the corner of Prince avenue and Washington street for a brush fire.

Sunday afternoon the dump at the town yard kept the firemen busy for more than an hour.

Late in the afternoon a still alarm was sent in for a blaze in the rubbish in the rear of the Holt barn on Main street which was burned last week.

Monday forenoon an alarm from box 43 called the department to the corner of Main and Salem streets to a fire on the roof of the house occupied by Mr. Fred Branch. The fire was caused by a spark from a mattress being burned in the back yard. Damage slight.

At about half past five o'clock in the afternoon box 38 brought the firemen to the corner of Spruce and Oak streets when there was a chimney fire at the residence of Mrs. Kane.

Again at eight o'clock a hay stack on the premises of Mr. Michael Nelson on Cross street, claimed the attention of the firemen for nearly an hour. The hay was rained.

An alarm from the centre fire station called the department out yesterday noon for the brush fire on Andrews Hill, which had been burning several days. The fire was extinguished during the afternoon after several hour's work.

JANE RIPLEY HERRICK.

The late Jane Ripley Herrick passed peacefully away, in her 85th year at her residence in Winchester, on the 10th inst. She was born in Boston in 1827 and was the eldest child of the Hon. Charles and Amelia R. Hubbard. When she was about nine years old her parents removed to Chelsea, Mass., where she resided until 1870.

She was educated at the Academies of Charlestown and Bradford in Massachusetts. On December 20th, 1848, she was married in Chelsea, Mass., to Moses A. Herrick of the same city.

In 1874 she with her husband and family of five children made their home at Winchester, Mass., where she has ever since resided, taking letters from the Winisnett Congregational Church of Chelsea, Massachusetts, to the First Congregational Church of Winchester. She is survived by her five children: a daughter Mrs. Handel Pond, and four sons James A., William H., Rufus F., and Charles H. Herrick.

She was a woman of deep religious convictions and strong affections, and through all her long life, was devoted to church activities and benevolences of every kind.

Democratic in feeling and kindly of heart, she will be sincerely missed by a large circle of relatives and friends.

Dr. Charles F. McCarthy, who suffered a nervous breakdown last week is rapidly recovering, and is now able to be about his house. The report that the doctor had a stroke of paralysis was erroneous.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator heartily endorses the proposition to teach cooking in the public schools. The cooking question has been too long unsettled. It is time good cooking were the rule rather than the exception. Bad cooking has had a full hand in the work of keeping the world half savage. It is remarkable how many women who think they can cook, who cook every day and three meals a day, and yet can't cook. The Spectator not so very long ago was the unwilling victim for some three weeks of a cook who couldn't cook. She was intelligent and thoroughly satisfied that she was a kitchen queen, but she couldn't cook. She had raised half a dozen sickly children, buried her husband, and was willing to bury another. All her life she was accustomed to prepare her family's meals, and yet, despite all her experience, she was absolutely incompetent in the kitchen. To "eat after" her for long would have been fatal to any human, but she would have been indignant if told so. And to refute the statement she would have replied that she had not only been cook for her own family and others, but had kept boarders! All true and all bad, for she could spoil more groceries than one man could pay for. But the point is that she is typical, it is to be feared, of a large class. There are literally thousands of good women in humble homes who are killing their families by the slow but certain process of her cookery. It is hardly too much for the Spectator to say that if all people were properly nourished, their morals might be safely left to take care of themselves.

There is a man not very far away from here who not only eats pie, but who puts butter on it. He appears to be one of those persons who intend to get all the good things they can in this life, and not to run the risk of waiting until the next.

A gentleman informs the Spectator that he is greatly interested in the discovery of Homer J. Poir, a graduate of the school of pharmacy of the University of Pittsburgh, namely, embalming that will maintain the human body a hundred years—the lost art of Egypt. Poir has been experimenting on rodents, and has a number of mummy rats which he uses as paper weights on his desk, and one large one which he uses for a door check. The Spectator contents that is one lost art that moderns are, or ought to be, willing for the moments to keep locked in the mystic chamber of the past. There is no need to keep the dead in perpetuity. The Ramesses and Ptolemies who have come down to us in the form of petrified clay have added nothing to their dignity by sitting up for us, so to speak. They are not good lookers. Their complexions are bad and their clothing exceedingly unfashionable. The Spectator can think of Cleopatra, for instance, and imagine her very beautiful, but if the Spectator was to stumble upon her mummy in his peregrinations about Egypt he should look upon her cadaverous cheeks and say that Marc Anthony must have been hypnotized.

One day recently the Spectator overheard a group of Misses discussing vandyke beards and everyone of them emphatically declared that they would forever socially ostracize any man sporting them. Personally the Spectator does not know what business it is of the girls whether men wear whiskers or not. A man ought to be allowed to be the supreme arbiter of his own hirsuteness just as much as a billy goat is. If he thinks a moustache or a goatee or lambskins or weepers are decorative to his order of pulchritude he ought to be permitted to have his way with it, or them. Man has none too many privileges now, and he should fight to retain the few he has left to him. Besides, shaving is quite a bore when carried on at home and somewhat of an expense when practiced elsewhere. Moreover, fleecy whiskers conduce mightily to phylantropy. Mr. Carnegie would probably be tightwad if he were bare-faced. Mr. Rockefeller is the only considerable endorser who is beardless, and he isn't that way because he wils it so. Russell Sage was clean shaven, and all of us remember that he never gave anything except homely advice to the needy. The second generation of Vanderbilts wear no beards and they don't even pay the preacher. Their father wore a fine bandol of fringe on each side of his face, and he founded Vanderbilt University. The Spectator might cite a hundred instances to prove that hair and charity go together.

While a clergyman in a town within a few miles of Winchester was officiating in church a few Sundays ago he observed several young men and maidens exchanging surreptitious smiles from adjoining pews. The pastor abruptly suspended his sermon and sharply rebuked the delinquents, declaring that a church was no place for flirtations and that the practice would not be tolerated longer. The good man evidently thought the idea of making the church attractive to young people was susceptible of being carried to a pernicious latitude.

The other day a well known man who was about to partake of some imported dried mushrooms complained that they were infested with live worms. When the presence of live worms in food products is held as a justifiable ground for their non-eating. The Spectator thinks those who refuse must be exceedingly fastidious. Among epicures here in Winchester and elsewhere cheese devoid of vermicular inhabitants has always been considered of inferior quality.

A gentleman dispenses some pretty sound philosophy when he says that just because a person smells of soap is no sign that he talks cleanly.

If some people dictate the weather, there never would be any crops produced.

Lots of people start their conversation with these words: "The trouble is."

One trouble of the person who feels he must swear to relieve his pent-up emotions is that he is so emotional.

The Spectator.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. Sylvanus Patterson, aged 71 years, 8 months and 2 days, passed away April 3rd, at the home of his son on Sedgwick park, Woburn. He was born in Saco, Maine, and moved to Winchester when quite young and had made his home there up to within a few years. He is survived by his wife, one son and three daughters. He was employed as an engineer at the Begg and Cobb tannery for years. The funeral was held Friday with burial at Saco, Maine.

An exchange says that "The Mothers' Congress, held in Washington, composed not only of mothers but bachelor ladies, is reported as having accomplished much important business in relation to children." But pray tell us what do old maids know about children.

The Misses Elsie L. and Amelia Wullop arrived home from Europe on the Cymric last Friday after a very rough passage.

The Committee of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church have made plans for a dinner for Tuesday evening, May 16. Dr. Richardson will address the club. The Adelphe Quartette will furnish the music.

Mrs. E. B. Bangs of Central street will sail for Europe on May sixteenth to spend the summer.

In spite of the cold weather a week ago many cherry trees and a few apple trees were in blossom. This seems remarkable when the severity of the weather is considered.

According to all weather authorities a very severe water famine will be experienced this summer if the rain fall does not make a large increase over the monthly average for the part of 1911 already gone. Anxiety is already being felt in New York States for the summer's water supply.

EDWIN GINN FAVORS A WORLD ARMY.

At the sixth session of the conference of the third National Peace Congress Mr. Edwin Ginn of Winchester spoke, saying that too much stress is laid upon the glorious side of war and too little upon its horrors, is the reason for the continued popularity of international conflict.

Mr. Ginn's words explained the scope and work of the World Peace Foundation and one of the most interesting proposals embodied in his remarks was that an international army be organized, similar to that which put down the Boxer uprising in China. Such a body, with individual national armies abolished, would result in an enormous saving, not only of life but of wealth and property.

CO-OPERATION A GOOD THING.

The fire departments of Wakefield, Stoneham and Reading have made an agreement that they will respond to all alarms from boxes near the borders of either place, regardless of boundary lines. It is a good thing, and shows a willingness to co-operate. A few weeks ago there was a brush fire in Lexington. The department of that town kept with the fire until it crossed the border line into Winchester. Then with their apparatus they went back home. Later the fire became a menace to Winchester property, and the local department had to go over and extinguish it. This was an act of selfish indifference and not creditable to the Lexington fire Chief, considering the fire originated in that town. This is in marked contrast to the Arlington department, which is always willing to cross over the border and fight fires in Winchester. Co-operation is a good thing.

PROBATE COURT.

The will of Edwin N. Simonds, who died April 11, has been filed in the Probate Court.

The will is dated April 14, 1910 and names his wife as executrix, Mrs. Edith I. Simonds. The estate is valued at $2,100; $2,000 in real estate and $100 in personal property.

Harry C. Sanborn has filed a petition to be appointed as administrator of the estate of his father, Frederick A. Sanborn, who died April 8. The estate is valued at $6,500 all in personal property. Lester F. Smith and Wilmer E. Smith, have filed a petition in the Probate Court asking that Arthur J. Cox of Woburn be appointed as conservator of the estate of Francis L. Smith. The latter's estate is valued at $1,000, $850 in real estate and $150 in personal property.

"TWO-NUMBER" TOLL CALLS

Various reductions in rates or extensions of talking periods are announced by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in connection with a change in the method of handling short-haul toll calls.

After May 1 toll calls to most points within 15 miles of any exchange will be handled by what is known as the "two-number no-delay method." This obviates the necessity of referring the call to the toll operator and the somewhat cumbersome process of having her ask a lot of questions, such as "Whom do you wish to speak to?" "Is Mr. So-and-So's out will you talk to any one else?" "Who will speak at your telephone?" and so on.

Under the old method of operating, these questions were unavoidable because the answers were being jotted down by a recording clerk who in turn sent the slip containing these directions to the toll operator. Naturally this process consumed a good deal of valuable time, and time is a very important consideration in the transaction of business affairs in this swiftly-moving country.

After carefully observing the results throughout the territory for slightly shorter distances the telephone people concluded they could handle calls up to, and including 15 miles just as local calls are now handled, that is, by number. Instead of calling for some particular person, therefore, and being subjected to the exhaustive cross-examination of the toll recording operator, the caller must ask his local operator for the number he desires and then hold the receiver to his ear until the person at the other end responds.

In some places the work of supplying the necessary extra cable will not have been completed in time to permit the operation of this No-Delay System on May 1, but will be put into effect as soon as possible.

Under the old plan, one could call for a particular party and be charged a reduced rate if this party were not on hand to answer. This practice will be abandoned under the new system of handling toll calls whose radius is not more than 15 miles from the calling exchange. All calls will have to be made by number, but if for any reason the number desired does not answer there will be no charge for the call.

Wherever this new plan has been tried it is said to have given great satisfaction to subscribers, inasmuch as connection are made in less than one-tenth the time consumed in the old toll routine.

After carefully tabulating calls covering extended periods, the telephone people found that of what are known as "particular party calls," in other words calls for a designated person, in 80 per cent of the cases the party wanted was found at the other end of the line or within easy reach while in an additional six per cent of particular party calls the call was completed to some other person as a satisfactory substitute. It is calculated from this data, therefore, that even the comparatively small number of particular party calls would benefit by the changes announced, while on toll calls as a whole there would be a decided reduction in cost as well as an increase in efficiency.

It is said by those conversant with the matter that it will not be long before this "two-number" system of handling toll calls will be extended to apply between points 40 to 50 miles distant, and even between such places as Boston and New York, where there is a heavy toll traffic.

Points in this locality favorably affected by a reduction in rate from 15 to 10 cents or an extension of the three-minute period to five minutes are as follows:

E. Reading	Saugus
N. Wilmington	Lynn
Wayland	Andover
Danvers	Beverly
Peabody	Salem
Marblehead	Concord
Billerica	Tewksbury
*Beverly Farms.

To exchanges marked with a star the operation of the no-delay system is to go into effect as soon after May 1 as necessary construction work is completed.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

Sunday school met the first time in the new Parish House last Sunday. The school assembled in the church. The school is asked to assemble again in the church next Sunday promptly at 9.30 a. m.

There will an opportunity for Baptism for children next Sunday afternoon at 4.15.

The service next Sunday afternoon at 5 will be the last of the afternoon services for this season. Beginning with Sunday, May 21, the services will be in the morning only.

The Informal Dedication of the Parish House or the House Warming comes next Wednesday evening, May 17th. People are asked to assemble in the church at 8 o'clock. Notices of this have been sent throughout the parish and the people are asked to return the postal cards as promptly as possible.

The Family Service of which notice was given at the same time will be held Sunday morning, May 21, at 11.

The Epiphany Circle will hold its sale this Sunday afternoon, May 13, in the Parish House at 3 o'clock.

HERMANN D MURPHY IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

The following article in regard to Mr. Hermann Dudley Murphy of this town has lately appeared in one of the Boston papers: "Hermann Dudley Murphy of Winchester is a man of national and international reputation. He is a picturesque figure, perhaps nearer seven feet tall than six, ruddy bearded and genial of countenance. He is the image of his late father, a successful business man, in recent years and retired from mercantile pursuits in Kingston, Jamaica. Young Murphy struck out for himself in art, after some time spent in engineering. For some months he was at the head of a surveying party on the Nicaragua canal project. He studied painting in Paris, and now stands in the front rank of Boston artists. Not finding painting remunerative enough he made practical use of his decorative faculty by establishing most successfully a picture framing industry, to which he gives part of his time, adapting his frames to the character of the pictures.

His clientele is large, both among artists and picture buyers.

Mr. Murphy is athletic and is particularly devoted to canoe sailing. A few years ago he entered the international races in England sailing a canoe entered by Thomas W. Lawson, who from his long residence in Winchester was well acquainted with Mr. Murphy.

Mr. Murphy's local sailing has mostly been done on Mystic Lake in Winchester and Medford, but lately he has been a frequent of Charles River Basin, as well as of the Winchester Boat Club and the Shuh-Shuh-Gah Canoe Club, being a member of both and also of the Union Boat Club.

It was last year that he introduced this sport on the Charles River Basin and a large number of sailing canoes was the result, the white sails picturesquely enlivening the basin on many summer days.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Murphy rank with the most public spirited people in Winchester. Last year the Sunday evening meetings for the discussion of important topics of the day were held in their charming studio on a Winchester hillside and were in high form in local society. This year the scope of the meetings was extended and they were held in the Winchester Town Hall, Sunday evenings.

The above is a well earned appreciation of Mr. Murphy and one which his friends, who are many, will welcome. Among his works in this town may be mentioned his great help to our High school canoe crews. Mr. Murphy's work in helping the boys has been untiring and of inestimable value.

THE DUST DISEASE.

Now that we have "the typhoid fly" and the "malarial mosquito," science may soon order that not a few of those who experience a Blue Monday be described as sufferers from "dust depression." Good physicians assert that much of the mental and physical languor which many people of in-door life report on Monday is due to their tremendous intake of dust on the day before. This powder is full of physical peril. It may actually have those disease germs, which set up systemic disturbances, the effects of which we commonly call colds; it may, by merely piling in dirt and filth, so irritate the mucous membrane as to do other serious harm. It is a trouble maker in any form. The human race has not inherited from its ancestral types much capacity for dust resistance. Aside from relatively unpeopled deserts, dust is not largely associated with nature's conditions. It is rather a product of modern inventions, like the electric car, the automobile and the gravelled highway.

Here is the situation with which the modern world must grapple courageously. The dust must be laid. For doing this the water wagon is out of date. It is the most expensive way now used for performing this service, since the sunbeams lick up so soon all the effects of its work. Various forms of oiled road, asphalt and other hard surfaces which can yield little dust, are the better solutions of the problem. And on these the community must be prepared to expend very much more money than it has done in the past. Otherwise real estate on the much travelled highways will be seriously depreciated in value, and what is worse—the public health will suffer in countless ways, even though the occasion of the discomfort is not at all times properly realized. —[Boston Herald.

FIRE ENGINEERS ORGANIZE.

The new Board of Fire Engineers organized last Friday evening by the Choice of David H. DeCoursey as Chief Engineer, and Fred L. Waldmyer as clerk, in place of Dr. C. J. Allen.

Mr. DeCoursey first joined the department in 1894, and was made a permanent man in 1895, and assigned to hose 3, where he was driver for ten years, when he was transferred to the Central Fire Station. He resigned in 1906 to go into business for himself, but remained a call man on ladder 1. In 1907 he was appointed to the board of engineers by the selectmen, and for the past four years has served as assistant of the chief engineer.

He is considered among the best fire fighters in this section and has always taken a deep interest in the department and but seldom, if ever, being absent from a fire.

Mr. Waldmyer, the new assistant chief and clerk of the board, is well up in fire department matters, having first connected himself with the department in 1874 as a member of hose 1 company, in which he served for about five years. He was then transferred to the chemical engine company, of which he was made captain. He later joined the ladder company, of which he was also captain until he resigned in 1891 on account of the demands of his private business. His interest in the affairs of the department never abated, and in 1895 he was appointed one of the board of engineers, on which he served till 1901, the last four years of his term as chief engineer.

Do the right thing if you have Nasal Catarrh. Get Ely's Cream Balm at once. Don't touch the catarrh powders and snuffs, for they contain cocaine. Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas medicines made with mercury merely dry up the secretions and leave you no better than you were. In a word, Ely's Cream Balm is a real remedy, not a delusion. All druggists, 50 cents, or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

A. C. A. MEET.

Members of the Winchester Boat Club are reminded that the annual Meet of the A. C. A. is only about three weeks away—May 27-30. This is the Medford's turn to run the Meet and they should have the hearty co-operation of the Winchester boys. In the past other clubs have put in from fifteen to twenty new members, and Winchester should do all in its power to assist Medford and make this meet the most successful ever held and not be behind the other clubs in the number of new members. It costs only $2 to join the A. C. A.

The Meet will be held at Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, Mass., which is easily accessible to Winchester Club members. Give the popular Jack Howard the vice commodore, the support that he deserves, is the word that is being passed along by the members of the local club.

Don't miss seeing the World in Boston. The memory will last a life time.

John Doucette, who died at Wakefield recently at the age of 97 years, left 255 descendants. Now, what do you say, Col. Roosevelt.

Winchester has no doubt the best roads this side of Boston. This is owing to liberal appropriations, intelligent road building and a superintendent who stand well up in the ranks of the best road builders of the State.

The Boston & Northern Street Railway Company has received permission to purchase the Old Colony Street Railway Company. If the Old Colony's standard shall hereafter measure up to the standard of the other, it will be an excellent and satisfactory one.—[Charlestown Enterprise.]

It is said that the legislators are having lots of fun with Expert Chase and his reports. But these Solons will find they can't laugh Mr. Chase's facts and figures down. That extravagance and slipshod methods exist at the State House, it is only necessary to go through the departments in the building to form an opinion.

Canada, with as vast a territory and a more scattered population, carries on its postal service, with, on the whole, lower charges than the rates charged—at least on second class matter—in the United States, and still shows a surplus of earnings, instead of a deficit. In the face of such a fact, it would seem that the first steps in this country, should be the careful examination and adjusting of methods.

The six million dollar fire at Bangor is causing many people to think what might happen to those closely huddled wooden buildings seen from the train as it passes through Smerville. Once a serious fire was started nothing could prevent their destruction. And the singular thing is that houses should be erected so closely together where there is so much land.

Why should there be any hesitancy on the part of our representatives in passing the bill now before the Legislature making it compulsory to tag cold storage products, so as to show the period of storage? It seems even more essential than the provisions of the pure food law, and that has done an immense amount of good in protecting the consumer from adulterated and impure articles of food.—[Athol Chronicle.]

Is it not time to stop and think! The railroads in Massachusetts are regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Board of Railroad Commissioners, the Senate and House of Representatives, Committees of the Legislature, and many others who would like to. All of these require the railroads to employ constantly a corps of expert lawyers at a great expense. This week Senator Hoar said "graft" at that the Railroad Commissioners were not attending to business, and asked that the railroads be investigated for the past ten years. Without stating why, he left the committee hearing. Counsel for the railroads said that if this measure was passed, it would mean a cessation of all improvements for two years. Another measure was to practically place the management of the roads in the hand of the labor union. Can the railroads build up the State and Boston under such a handicap? Why not a fair deal for the railroads?

Quite a number of the ladies of the Belknap accepted the hospitality of Mrs. Charles H. W. H. S. NOTES.

The annual interclass track meet was begun yesterday afternoon. The score at present is as follows: 1912—21 points; 1913—15 points; 1911—5 points; 1914—3 points. The meet will be continued tomorrow morning at 10 and the following events will be run off: 220 yd. dash, shot put, mile run, and 440 yd. dash. It is hoped a large number will be present.

At a meeting of the class of 1912 held Monday it was voted that each member of the class should pay ten cents extra dues to make up for the present deficit.

FAST GAME PROMISED.

Winchester B. B. C. will play the second game of the season Saturday, May 13th at 3.30 p. m. on Manchester field. Their opponents will be the last Roman A. A. of Roxbury. This is the team that beat the Notre Dames in a series of games last fall on the Am. League grounds for a purse of $200. They have not been beaten this year, but our boys are out to spoil their record and a fast game is looked for. Everybody come and root for the home team.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

At the Hollis Street Theatre for two weeks beginning Monday May 15, S. T. King offers Aphie James and her own company in a new comedy drama of the romantic Seventeenth Century period entitled "Judy O'Hara" by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett. Mrs. Burnett has four successful plays to her credit: "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," "The Little Princess" and "The Little Sister of Jose." This new play is in the vein of the author's best works. It has an exciting plot, a romantic love story, Mrs. Burnett's characteristic humor and a strong sympathetic appeal.

The most prominent in Miss James' company are: Paul McAllister, Lynn Pratt, Ann Warrington, Frank Kilday, Frank Currier, Alfred Moore, Frank Dekum, Julia Hanchitt, Isabelle Lee, Jerome Edwards, Henry Douglas, Marcus Moriarty, Helen Lang and Caroline Olen.

Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given during Miss James' engagement.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A patent preparation concern deliberately arranging a suit against itself for advertising purposes is about the limit in the advertising line. Even the Transcript got caught.

The following street signs on the Arlington Stoneham electric car line sadly need replacement: Glen road, Shilfield road, School street, Irving street, the last one being broken for a year. The new Church street sign at the centre is without "Arlington 3 miles," which was on the old sign and was a convenience to many travellers. The new Mt. Vernon street sign at the corner of Main street is not straight upon the post. Although we have a sign man on our board of Selectmen the street signs have not had much attention.

State Treasurer Stevens has been making an exhibition of himself, which is a tiling of his when hard pushed. It was so when he was in the House and Senate but on the whole he was an excellent legislator. A department which is well run should court the fullest investigation.

The Boston Transcript refuses to print any criticism of the Railroad Commission at present as it does not consider it timely, believing that it is best for the public to have perfect confidence in this board at present when it has so many important matters before it. The Governor however will send in a special message on another phase of this board's work soon.

It the fight between the Ogden and Symmes factions on that street name is to be continued I hope the town will take Hermann Murphy's suggestion and call it Squa Sachem road. This is not only a more ancient name, but her people were the original owners of that territory, their title to which was probably better than that of the succeeding holders.

The Water and Sewer Board should prohibit the use of water for irrigating purposes unless a meter is installed. When I was on a committee of investigation several years ago with the late Henry F. Johnson we found more than one case where more than a hundred dollars worth of water was used in a season through the hose for which but three dollars was paid. We have always acted queerly on our hose charge. There is nothing in our water act which authorizes the use of water for irrigating purposes, anyway.

The Railroad Committee reported our Grade Crossing act unanimously Monday and would have before them, but for inability to hold executive sessions. Two of our citizens, ex-representatives, have opposed it since the hearing, but evidently made no impression. The Selectmen and town counsel should hurry up this question as we should have our town meeting within a month from now, and make it last longer than one session.

The legislature has not enacted any laws yet that are very bad and has defeated less desirable legislation than any previous one, but the session is young yet on the more important matters and there are plenty of them. The Governor is urging his special messages very shrewdly to keep questions before the public, and undoubtedly has the people with him, and this is the only way to get the press to print what the big interests are opposed to and he knows it. There are many things that even local papers are afraid to print.

THINGS NEEDED.

The following materials are needed for the Playgrounds and Vacation School: worsted yarn, pieces of cotton and woolen cloth, bits of silk, ribbon, velvet, lace and dress braid, denim for bean-bags, silkateen, odd bits of embroidery silk, knitting cotton, railroad canvas, scrim, raffia, scissors, empty spools, pencils, crayons, tops of old kid gloves for pen-wipers and purses, cambric and linen for scrap books, odd pieces of wall paper, dolls, games, odd tennis rackets and balls, and lard pails for the sand-boxes. Colored beads are very much used by the younger children and pins and needles are most necessary. Little trinkets of no use to the owner are especially valuable as prizes for good behavior and steady work.

Children's magazines, juvenile books are much desired.

The gift of such articles will be much appreciated by the Philanthropy Committee. They can be sent to Mrs. W. E. Comings, 6 Elmwood avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Clark of 3 Hill-side avenue are leaving town Sunday for their summer home at North Scituate. They will return to Winchester the first of October.

(If a holiday the following evening.)

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

MISS IDA A. BACON.

Miss Ida Adelaide Bacon, aged 53 years, died at the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. Henry Bishop, 83 Walnut street, on Sunday. For a number of months she had been in failing health, her death being due to bright's disease.

Miss Bacon had made her home in this town for thirty-six years. She was a daughter of Daniel S. and Louisa L. Bacon and was born in Quebec. In addition to her sister, Mrs. A. E. Frost of this town, she leaves two sisters and two brothers. She was a member of the Woman's Charity Club of Boston and of the Winchester Unitarian Church.

The funeral services were held from the residence on Tuesday at 3.30 p. m., conducted by Rev. Joel Metcalf, pastor of the Unitarian Church. Several selections were sung by a male quartette during the service. The burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

SPRING BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

The bowling for the winter season ended at the Calumet Club on Monday night when the Spring Tournament closed after a series of games covering two months. The scores of this tournament were better than the previous winter tournament, and some very good games were rolled by the teams entered as well as by individuals.

The prizes were the handsomest offered for some time and consisted of cups in every instance except one, that being a handsome tobacco jar. The cups were of copper and silver and copper and pewter.

Following are the prize winners: First prize, team winning greatest number of points. Won by Team 6, 25 won, 11 lost. W. J. Brown, capt., C. W. Tarbell, E. W. Metcalf, J. A. Downs, A. H. Hildreth.

Second prize, team winning second greatest number of points. Won by Team 2, 24 won, 12 lost. J. E. Gendron, capt., H. J. Olmsted, C. E. Kinsey, G. A. Woods, G. W. Fitch.

Third prize, team winning third greatest number of points. Won by Team 1, 23 won, 13 lost. S. E. Newman, capt., H. T. Bond, J. E. Corey, H. Weed, J. A. Caldwell.

Fourth prize, individual highest three strings with handicap. Won by H. W. Campbell, 323 and 35 making 359.

Fifth prize, individual highest single string with handicap. Won by S. E. Newman 149 and 2 making 151.

Sixth prize, individual high average with handicap. Won by E. W. Metcalf, 93.9-27 and 9 making 102.9-27.

Seventh prize, individual average without handicap. Won by J. E. Gendron, 100.6-27.

FEWER INFANT DEATHS.

There are 4250 dairies outside of the State which are supplying the Massachusetts market with milk. Many of them are in an unsanitary condition and in general they are not up to the same standard of cleanliness which is maintained by the Massachusetts dairies. Some of this milk comes from a distance of over 250 miles and is four days old when it reaches the consumer. In one Vermont dairy an inspector found a dead cow and her calf in the tie-up in front of the other cows. On a second visit six weeks later he found the same two carcasses in the same spot. The hens were eating them. In a New York dairy a man was discovered storing his milk in manure for the purpose of keeping it from freezing. Is it any wonder that so many infants die each year from diarrheal diseases? The consumers of Massachusetts demand that these dairies be inspected by the State Board of Health before they are permitted to send their milk to Massachusetts. It is perfectly obvious that such a task cannot be effectively undertaken by any local board acting alone without the assistance of the State Board of Health.

Of the 2000 Massachusetts dairies inspected by the State Board of Health last year only 35 per cent were found to be clean, but this percentage, 700 in all, also need attention. What should be the attitude of the owners of the 65 per cent of clean dairies in Massachusetts? Is it in their interest to oppose the consumers' bill, or is it in their interest to advocate its passage? They certainly have nothing to fear from the State Board of Health. Their dairies have been approved by this Board. No additional expenses whatever will be required of them. They therefore have nothing to lose.

What have they to gain? 1. Under the consumers' bill the State milk regulation board upon which the producers will be represented will pass a regulation providing that no milk shall be sold in Massachusetts from a dairy which is not approved by the State Board of Health. Such regulation will apply equally to out-of-State dairies. The result will be that the conscientious Massachusetts producer will be protected against the unfair competition which now exists with unsanitary out-of-State dairies. This will be a great boon to the Massachusetts producers and is enough in itself to lead them to support the consumers' bill.

2. The large consuming public consisting of over three million people, recognize the State Board of Health as the expert board to which they must look for protection on health matters. The great work of Preventive Medicine as a whole will be administered by that board. If the consumers' bill giving this board the supervision of the milk supply passes, the consuming public will feel that they can safely drink the milk supplied to the Massachusetts market under such inspection. There will immediately be an increased demand for milk, which will be a pecuniary benefit to the conscientious Massachusetts producers.

The passage of the consumers' bill means increased milk profits to the producers and decreased infant deaths to the consumers.

It is perfectly apparent that the conscientious Massachusetts producers should bend every effort to secure the enactment of the consumers' bill.

Issued by the Massachusetts Milk Consumers' Association, 6 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

BOYS BREAK ELECTRIC STREET LAMPS AND GET CAUGHT.

Efficient work on the part of police officers in the various cities and towns where the Edison Electric Illuminating Company's service is used has resulted in the arrest and conviction of quite a number of rowdy and irresponsible boys for breaking electric street lamps.

The latest convictions for this crime were in the Court at Stoughton last week. Two boys, Arthur Lane and Edward Curran, were sentenced and ordered to make restitution. Clarence Clark was discharged and the cases of Henry McDermott and Joseph Gibbons were continued. The Judge in the case reserve the right to impose further sentence at the end of six months' probation, if necessary.

In several towns, among them Canton and Sharon, boys have been running riot in breaking street lamps. In the eyes of the law this is a very serious offence. Not only is there a severe penalty for interference with the property of an electric lighting company, but Chapter 208, Section 78, of the Laws of Massachusetts, reads in part as follows:

"(Whoever) wilfully, intentionally and without right mars or defaces a building or sign board, or extinguishes a lamp, or breaks, destroys or removes a lamp, lamp post railing or post which has been erected on a bridge, sidewalk, public way, court or passage, shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than six months or by a fine of not more than fifty dollars."

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston has instituted a vigorous campaign to break up this form of depredation. It is especially dangerous, especially for persons like firemen, milkmen, physicians, etc., who often have to make hurried emergency trips, and who have been accustomed to govern their speed and their direction by certain lamps. If these lamps are out when the emergency call comes, results are likely to be disastrous and perhaps fatal. Last year it cost the Edison Company nearly $10,000 to replace street lamps that had been broken maliciously. Such acts as these lead boys into more serious trouble as they grow up, heedless of the rights of others and without respecting the law until, finally, they graduate as members of the "gang," become full fledged hoodlums, a disgrace to their parents and a menace to society. If parents kept a stricter watch over their boys, there would be fewer cases of juvenile crime and general annoyance to the public. Many a mother's heart has been needlessly broken—a sound thrashing administered when the lad began to be wayward would have cured the boy and made a useful man out of him.

BISMARCK'S ATTITUDE TOWARD WOMEN.

Bismarck is revealed as an advocate of woman's suffrage in a hitherto unpublished conversation which a young woman had with the Iron Chancellor on the eve of his retirement from public life, says The London Mail. "What I am I have become through my wife," Bismarck declares. "I respect every woman who elevates us men, teaches us religion and morality, preserves our ideals, and scatters roses along the path of our earthly life. I have long wished for the co-operation of women in politics, but we are not yet a civilized enough. Women should not encroach upon men, but should influence and soften them and lead them to good works. Mark my words, the day will come when women will be called to cooperate in politics."

"We men are all clumsy. We Germans, especially, are bears. So are the diplomats. Moreover, if women were in politics fewer secrets would become public, for a clever woman's mouth can keep silent. Yet in the midst of innocent conversation it understands how to extract many a secret which it keeps from us men. Women chatter so delightfully about the gravest topics that one—when one is an old donkey—fails to notice one has said more than one wished. In every thing that has to do with slyness woman is our superior."

Meeting later in the day the same lady to whom he imparted these confidences, Bismarck said: "Well, probably we shall not meet again in this world. The old lion is retiring growing to the dark forests. My work has not been in vain. It will live, for if Germany's men become weak Germany's women will be strong."

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

THE PAGEANT OF DARKNESS AND LIGHT.

A great revival of interest in pageantry has sprung up in this country and abroad during the last few years. We have had historical, patriotic, and semi-political pageants in various cities and towns; but none of these has approached in operatic splendor or in the unity of story the Pageant of Darkness and Light, now being given daily at the Mechanics Building in Boston, in connection with "The World in Boston" Missionary Exposition.

This production actually goes back to the carefully planned and magnificently set pieces of Ben Jonson and other Elizabethan lovers of pageantry. It is no mere string of scenes, passed like a bewildering panorama before the spectators. Instead, it was built around a set motive. The excellent libretto by John Oxenham, although short, contains some lyrics of great rhythmic beauty. Dramatic unity is maintained by having a scene, called an episode, from missionary history in each of the four quarters of the globe: North, South, East and West, and closing with a beautiful processional episode with an immense final tableau of a thousand participants in the attitude of worship and triumph.

The first episode is in an Indian camp in the North-west. The chief and his wife are in distress over the loss of their little daughter who has strayed away. A band of Esquimaux come to trade and the medicine man invites the Indians to kill the visitors. Just then a missionary brings the chief's little daughter into the camp and having gained the chief's good will, preaches to the people his message of light.

The scene shifts to Africa, at a spot where Livingstone, the famous missionary is resting. Here Stanley finds him and begs him to return to England but Livingstone determines not to go until his work is done. At this news his men break into a song of thanksgiving.

The East episode is in a city of India. A funeral procession is seen leading a young widow to the funeral pyre. Just as the pyre is about to be lighted however an English official rushes in with a proclamation prohibiting the burning of widows and the missionaries break into a jubilant chant.

The most dramatic episode of all opens on a coral beach in Hawaii. In the background the volcano Kilauea towers while a wedding party rejoices. A priest of the Goddess Pele approaches and chooses the bridegroom and a child as victims to be thrown into the volcano as a sacrifice. The Christian Queen Kapulani appears and bids defiance to the goddess. She taunts Pele, but there is no answering wrath from the crater of fire, and the power of the goddess is broken forever.

The music for these episodes was written by Hamish MacCunn. There are gloomy Indian chants and blood-thirsty war songs; jubilant missionary choruses and hymns of praise; musical invocations of medicine men and native priests; and many solos of every description. The music is scored for full orchestra and chorus, and the composer made plentiful use of all modern instrumentation in order to express the wild character of scenes and setting.

Mr. George Pickett is the Pageant Master, having been brought from England to produce it. The Musical Director, Edmund Cutter, Jr., conducts a chorus of more than 300 voices. The soloists are Miss Blanche Towle, soprano and Miss Adelaide Griggs, contralto, both of Boston; Mrs. Francis Amesley of London, England, mezzo soprano; Mr. Henry Gurney, tenor, and Mr. Frank M. Conly, bass, both of Philadelphia and William Gustafson, Jr., of Boston, baritone.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Next week the play at the Castle Square will be "The White Sister," dramatized from Marion Crawford's novel of the same name, and originally played by Viola Allen. From beginning to end it is alive with sensation and emotion. It has been highly commended as one of the most vigorous of Marion Crawford's plots. It is a play that will be thoroughly enjoyed by those who like to see incidents on the stage, and who are impressed and moved by emotional acting.

The leading roles will be acted by Mr. Craig Severi, and by Miss Gertrude Binley in the title part of Giovanna. Following "The White Sister" the week of May 22nd, will come a revival of Sheridan's brilliant comedy, "The Rivals," with Donald Meek returning to the Castle Square stage in the part of Bob Acres after an absence of several months.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The local union is today celebrating its thirty-fifth anniversary. It is hoped that two of the charter members may be present, but the years have laid heavy burdens upon most of them and none can now be said to be among the active workers. A study of the old records is interesting for various reasons. At one time weekly meetings were well attended but the increase of other women's societies in the town has had something to do with lessening the number. Among the charter members of the Fortnightly, nearly six years its junior, were practically all of the leading members of the Union and for a long time they were a power in that organization. The Equal Suffrage League, organized still later, also includes many of the Union workers. In this as in many other lines the Union was the pioneer in Winchester and relinquished its primacy only because it did not think wise to duplicate the work.

It has never made a strong bid for popularity and undoubtedly has at times antagonized many who should have been its friends and supporters. "For Lion's sake I will not hold my peace," has been its motto, and it has certainly been an actively deterrent force compelling the respect of the purveyors of evil. The fact that Winchester has no open saloon has minimized the importance of its work among some of the truly good whose adherence to the laissez faire policy is dictated by disinclination to stir up trouble.

The majority of the people of Winchester have little or no idea of the purpose of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. It is assumed, with the easy nonchalance of the uninformed, that it is a set of fanatics bound to oppose anything savoring of the joy of living. Because in its appreciation of the seriousness of its great campaign against the saloon evil, it has been inclined to stress the "thou shalt nots" of life, it does not follow that it is not actively engaged in constructive reform. There is hardly a line of beneficent activity carried on in Winchester that the W. C. T. U. has not discussed or urged upon the attention of its members. Often it has seemed wise to stir up others to do the work but its members have been active in every good work in the town.

In the National Union there are thirty departments of work. Probably no one local Union carries on all of them, the local needs determining the choice. Winchester at present is working chiefly along a few lines: Flower Mission, including relief for the sick room; Soldiers' and Sailors', making comfort bags, sending literature and furnishing entertainments for the sailors; Frances E. Willard settlement in Boston, contributing supplies and money for carrying on the work; Loyal Temperance Legion, for the training of children in temperance principles and Scientific Temperance Instruction, to see that school children are taught as the law prescribes. Several other departments are also represented, but the emphasis is put upon these five, while the Union contributes generously to the missionary work of the National and World W. C. T. U. and helps support the State and County work in excess of its required dues, recognizing the claims of less fortunate sections on its treasury.

Today there are about sixty members, fully a third of them new since the annual meeting of 1909. This infusion of new blood to replace the heavy and inevitable loss of the older workers argues well for the future of the Union and in its anniversary meeting it mingles with regret for those who are gone, a bright hope for those who are to carry on the work in the future.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

May 14th, 1911.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) Isaiah's Vision and Call to Service. (Home Missionary Lesson.) Isa. VI.

Golden text—I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, here am I, send me. Isa. VI:8.

(1.) Verses 1-4—Why did God give this vision to Isaiah?

(2.) Do you think that any such vision needs repeating? Why?

(3.) When we have any special Divine illumination what is the advantage of connecting it with some event, or putting down the date, as Isaiah seems to have done?

(4.) Did Isaiah or anybody else ever see with the outward eyes, the actual eternal God, and will He ever be so seen?

(5.) Is there any reason to think that Seraphim, or angels, are to be seen everywhere in the universe, if we had the media through which to see them?

(6.) Verse 5—How was it that the sight of the Lord made Isaiah conscious of his sinfulness?

(7.) What if any reason is there to conclude that the use of coarse slang, or profanity, proves the user to be an impure man?

(8.) Which is the more effectual way to reveal to sinners their guilt, to correct them with words, or to live pure lives before them? Why?

(9.) What effect does the teaching of the spotless purity of Jesus have, upon sinful men?

(10.) Verses 6-7—What is God's attitude to sinners who are conscious of, and loathe themselves because of their sins?

(11.) What is the "live coal," with which the Seraphim touched the lips of Isaiah, emblematic of?

(12.) What actually transpires in a man's spiritual nature, when he comes to God for the pardon of his sins?

(13.) What reason is there to think that angels, or spirits, have anything to do with the salvation, or the spiritual comfort of men and women today?

(14.) Verse 8—What class of men and women does God need, and call to be missionaries?

(15.) What are the indications that God is calling to day, with a loud voice, for missionaries? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(16.) Is it possible for any person to be in harmony with God who is not willing to be a missionary, or to support a missionary, if the Lord should so demand?

(17.) What reasons are there to conclude that it is the duty of pastors in these days, to look out for suitable young men, and call them to missionary work?

(18.) Verse 9-10—The prophet was being sent to a people familiar with God's message, and hardened in sin: what is generally the doom of such people?

(19.) What is the use of continuing to preach to a gospel hardened people?

(20.) When sinners hear the call of God to repentance, and heed it not, what chance takes place in them for better or worse?

(21.) Verse 11-13—It is very trying to preach without results, but is there anything in this story to indicate that in time, a faithful servant of God will surely cause some to hear and turn to the Lord?

PEACE RESOLUTIONS AD-VOCATED BY UNITARIANS.Unitarian Church Endorses Universal Arbitration.

At the Unitarian Church last Sunday the minister, Joel H. Metcalf, preached on "America and the War Spirit," with a text from Isaiah 2:4: "Neither shall they learn War anymore."

He spoke of the increasing burdens of war preparation, even in peaceable America, where 65 per cent of about two-thirds of her magnificent income is spent either for her war bills or in preparation for future conflicts. In 1907, the last available figures available, the total expenditures were roughly 755 million dollars. Of this 102 million were for the military establishment, 100 million for the navy, 148 million for pensions; 25 million interest on the Public Debt which was the result of the Civil War, 62 million for military public works and miscellaneous expenses, bringing the whole sum up to nearly 490 million dollars.

What is 265 million to run the government and develop its peaceable pursuits and 490 million nearly twice as much, for war.

All the nations of the past which have gone to destruction were the victims of war. Ninevah and Lyre, Carthage and Rome, Babylon and Greece died principally because they followed the cynical advice of Kipling and sent forth the best they bred to be sacrificed upon the field of battle. War is the destruction of the fittest.

Mr. Metcalf then spoke of the tide of sentiment that is now flowing toward Universal Peace.

He spoke of the wonderful response throughout England after President Taft's courageous words before the National Arbitration and Peace League. And Sir Edward Grey's great speech where he declared England was ready to enter into an unlimited Arbitration Treaty with the United States. He saw there a great opportunity to drive a nail in the coffin of War and make war forever impossible with England.

At the close of the service an informal meeting was held when the congregation unanimously adopted the following resolution.

Whereas: The President of the United States on March 22nd, before the National Arbitration and Peace League declared that in his opinion all international controversies of whatever kind should be submitted to a duly organized court of Arbitration.

And Whereas: Sir Edward Grey the British Secretary of Foreign Affairs has given this statement his deliberate and emphatic endorsement, declaring that such an unlimited Arbitration Treaty would receive the sanction of his Government and the British Parliament.

Resolved: That we convey to President Taft and the Senators of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts our hearty approval of such a movement and express the earnest hope that a treaty shall soon be framed and duly receive the confirmation of the Senate of the United States which will make war between the English speaking people forever impossible.

CLARKE HOUSE BURNED.

At two o'clock yesterday morning the fire department was called to the house on Sheffield road owned by Charles Wyman, more generally known as the Clarke house, for a serious blaze. Box 53 was rung in from the centre house following a number of telephone calls from residents.

The house is being remodelled by Mr. Wyman, and the fire presumably caught from a pile of rubbish at the rear. The first information of the blaze was given from the residence of Mr. F. D. Cleveland, it being said that a fire was burning at the rear of the house and asking that a chemical be sent there. Other telephone calls followed immediately.

The firemen found the back of the house burning from the cellar to the eaves, and the residence was badly damaged before it was extinguished. After working about three hours the all-out signal was sounded. That the entire residence was not destroyed was due to the prompt and efficient work done by the department. The damage is said to have been between two and three thousand dollars.

BAD ACCIDENT.

Last night at 11:30 an automobile was wrecked on Main street at Cutter's hill, and one man was killed outright and six injured, two having fractured skulls. The name of the dead man is Andrew E. Warren. The injured are Bartholomew T. Clancy of Woburn, Walter J. Shea, 360 Winsor street, Cambridge; James Buchanan, 484 Revere street, Revere; Martin Simpson of Winthrop; Patrick McGarry of Boston; Bert Linahan of Cambridge. The automobile was a large touring car, and was owned by Taylor & Palmer of 121 Huntington avenue, Boston.

The injured men were taken to the Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn. From investigation it is believed the shoe on the rear right wheel slipped, causing the tire to burst and the collapsing of the entire wheel. When the heavy car dropped to the street the entire machine turned completely around and turned over.

A LIVE TOPIC.

Dean Hodges of the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge will speak Thursday, May 25, at 3:45 p. m., in the Congregational Church on "The Christian Social Parish." The Dean's long standing close relationship to the practical work of charities and connections and his vigorous study of the whole matter of social betterment insure a quickening presentation of this duty of the Christian to his community. While this meeting is under the auspices of the Woman's Bible Class of the First Congregational Church, it has been felt that, with such a subject and such a speaker the meeting should be thrown open to the general public, men and women alike.

MAINE FISHING TRIPS.

Plea of a Stay-At-Home.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

All Winchester admire the enterprise of our local fishermen who so well advertise their going and coming as well as the big catches they always make, even before they start for Maine or elsewhere on their fishing trips. The stay-at-home fisherman who has to get his fishing at home, or not have any, would like it very much if our more enterprising and fortunate brother anglers would help us have a little fishing in Winchester such as we always have had up to within a few years. If we could fish on holidays or on Saturday afternoons during the summer it would be a great pleasure to many people who cannot afford such far away, expensive trips which make our stomach water as we read about them in the STAR. If we cannot catch any fish in Winchester, it would make the STAR stories more interesting reading to even allow a home fisherman a chance to wet his line in the water. It is no great fun for a hungry man to see his well fed neighbor eat. It only makes him more hungry, therefore, Mr. Editor, we wish our betters would let up on their STAR fish stories or help us a bit to get a little well regulated fishing in Winchester for ourselves and families. It is almost cruel to tantalize us with such realistic fishing yarns as we have to listen to about town and yet not have the least chance to match them. We can stand the yarns well enough, if we could only get a little fishing ourselves, and it would only be a fair, gentlemanly thing for those who have all Maine to fish in and much more fishing lore than they can possibly keep to themselves, to help stay-at-homes have a little angling at home. Be generous Brother Anglers, and help us out. At least do not be too ostentatious in telling us of your great wealth of fishing enjoyments when we have not a chance to even catch a tadpole at home.

FIRE IN MR.

CUTTING'S STABLE.

The firemen made a quick stop at a fire in the stable of Mr. Frank A. Cutting, Oak Knoll, Tuesday afternoon, despite a handicap, that should be removed. The apparatus made record time in leaving the Central fire station and the hose wagon and ladder truck were quick to reach the fire, but the heavy steamer was too much for the two horses and consequently they were tagged out before reaching the scene, the best they could do being but little faster than a walk. The water pressure was not sufficient to reach the top of the building where the fire was, so the firemen had to wait until the arrival of the steamer when plenty of water became available. Quick and effective work was then made with the fire and it was soon under control. The south portion of the roof of the handsome stable was badly burned, but aside from this the damage was not heavy. An automobile, carriages, harnesses, etc., on the first floor were removed to a place of safety. The fire appeared to have originated in a manure chute, and as near as can be ascertained was caused by spontaneous combustion. The damage caused a loss of $500 or more.

The fire engineers should, as soon as possible, have a three-horse hitch for the steamer as it is altogether too heavy a load for two. The most effective use of this piece of apparatus is on the highlands where the water pressure is low, and the horses are unable to make any kind of time in going uphill. On the low land the water pressure is in about all cases sufficient.

Team 6, the winners of both the winter and spring bowling tournaments at the Calumet Club, gave a dinner at the Boston City Club on Wednesday evening in honor of Walter J. Brown, the captain. The team is composed of W. J. Brown, W. C. Tarbell, E. W. Metcalf, J. A. Downs and A. H. Hildreth

Bottom Row—A. Payne, 3rd base; Dr. C. E. Ordway, left field; E. Smalley, pitcher; Rev. C. Wellman, center field.

BASE BALL CHALLENGE.

W. H. S. team of 1895 challenges present High School team for game on May 30th.

Sixteen years ago our High school had a base ball team which finished its schedule with a record of ten games won and five lost, playing such schools as Malden, Medford, Melrose, Arlington, Wakefield and Woburn.

As is the case with most all such teams they were unable to play the same line up in each contest, and therefore the accompanying picture does not show every man who played on the school team that spring. It is, however, exceptional that a school team should after so many years be able to get together eight of its players represented in the picture, and in the place of the ninth man—Arthur Payne who is now in Texas—to be able to call upon Father Lyons of Lynn, who played more games with the team than did some of those found in the above cut.

Upon hearing it was possible for the old team to get all its men together they met at luncheon in Boston early in April, elected "Jim" Nowell their old captain, to continue in that capacity, and further voted to challenge the present High school team to a game for the morning of May 30th. This challenge has been accepted and the game is on.

Already four or five evening sessions of practice have been held by the old team and we venture to remark that unless the youngsters make a stand and pull themselves together they will think they are up against a team of Mike Kellys, Pop Ansons and Cy Youngs all come back into their own.

Sixteen years is not a long period, but we cannot help but be impressed with the different conditions under which these two teams played. In 1895 there was no public play ground and that spring opened with so much building in progress on the old Bacon field that new grounds had to be selected. A rough field full of ridges and hollows on Cabot street was the only place available, and much work was needed to make it at all suitable for base ball. To put these grounds in condition would cost a goodly sum unless the boys did the work themselves. It was finally decided to call upon James J. Fitzgerald for aid, he being young and not past the age where base ball loses its charm. Whether or not it was an uniform love for the game that prompted him to help, or possibly the pleasure it gave him to see the boys work, suffice it to say, he consented to let them have a horse and cart, plenty of picks and shovels, and a roller, agreeing to make the charge as reasonable as he consistently could. Three or four afternoons of hard work on the part of the team resulted in enough ground being leveled off to make a fair diamond. The horse, cart, roller and tools were returned, but the management never learned the amount of Jimmie Fitzgerald's consistent charge.

Our recollection of Cabot field leads us to conclude that the '95 team will offer the excuse that the play ground diamond is too smooth for them to play their best game, should they by chance be on the losing side. More of the spirit that has led up to this game is what is needed in our school and among the Alumni. If the latter would take more interest in our boys we believe there is enough material to develop teams which few of our neighboring schools could beat.

MRS. CHARLES F. FRENCH.

Mrs. Anna M. (Goodwin), wife of Mr. Charles F. French, of Allen street died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Horace H. Hazeltine of Arlington. She was 77 years of age.

Mrs. French was stricken with paralysis on Sunday during a visit to her daughter. She leaves a husband, two daughters—Mrs. Hazeltine and Mrs. Frank Hodges of N. Y.—four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral services will be held from the residence, No. 11 Allen street on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

PARISH HOUSE WARMING.

The house warming of the new parish house of the Church of the Epiphany was held last Wednesday evening, attended by about 200 members of the parish. Mr. M. B. May, in the absence of Mr. A. S. Higgins, chairman of the building committee, gave the report of that committee, it being followed by an address by the Rector, Rev. John W. Suter. Following this, the gathering adjourned to the new addition, where a social hour was spent in its inspection and partaking refreshments. The parish house will be used mostly by the Sunday school, the lower floor having the choir and guild rooms, with a hall for social gatherings above.

TOWN HAS PERMISSION.

This bill passed the House Wednesday without any opposition and will pass in the Senate by the first of next week and will become law by the last of the week, probably.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Section 1. If it appears to the special commission appointed for the abolition of the grade crossing of the railroad and the public ways at the centre of the town of Winchester that the method most advantageous to said town is more expensive than another method which would satisfy the other parties having to bear the expense of the abolition, then said town of Winchester, in order to obtain such more advantageous method, may contract with such other parties, including the Commonwealth, to pay a portion of such expense greater than that devolved upon it by the statutes, the percentages of the remaining expense to be borne by the various parties in the same proportions as is provided in the statutes as to the whole expense. In such contract the Commonwealth shall be represented by the attorney-general, the town by its selectmen acting in accordance with a vote previously passed by a two-thirds vote of the registered voters of the town present and voting at a meeting duly called for the purpose, and the railroad and railway companies by their boards of directors; and any contract obligation or indebtedness so established or agreed to in writing shall be valid and binding.

Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

PAYMENT REFUSED.

In a report of the meeting of the Woburn Board of Health held Tuesday evening, the Woburn News in its account of the proceedings had the following:

The clerk read correspondence relating to a case where a Woburn man with a settlement in Winchester had applied at the Choate Hospital for treatment and was unable to pay.

The man was treated last November and the bill sent to the Woburn Overseers of the Poor amounting to $84. The Woburn officials approved the bill and the treasurer paid it. The Overseers of the Poor then sent the bill to the Winchester Board of Health who said that they would consider it.

Several months had passed when the Winchester Board announced that the bill should have come from the Woburn Health Board within 30 days from the time the bill was incurred and since that Board had not done this they were not liable and could not see their way clear to pay the amount. The Woburn Health Board then sent them a bill but it having passed the 30 days time limit they now refuse to pay the bill stating that they have no authority to settle it.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

Sunday School next Sunday and until further notice will assemble in the church at 9:30 a. m.

The service next Sunday at 11 a. m. will be as has already been announced a Family Service. The presence of all the families of the parish is earnestly requested. The children coming with their parents.

The ordination of priests this year is to be held here in Winchester. The service is to be at 10 a. m. Thursday, June 8, at which time the Rev. George Edw. Norton and five others are to be ordained.

There will be no afternoon service next Sunday. These services will not again be resumed until fall.

The House Warming last Wednesday evening was a great success, a time of real rejoicing. The people all seemed happy in the possession of their new parish home.

RECITAL AT ASSEMBLY HALL.

A piano-forte recital by the pupils of Miss Hattie E. Snow was held in the assembly hall at the High School last Friday evening. The young folks were assisted by Miss Jean MacLellan and Mr. Albert Pickering. A large audience enjoyed the program of twenty-seven numbers and the artists received many encores.

Among the group of songs given by Miss MacLellan were: "Sing on," "Denza," "Loch Lomond," "The Sands of Dee," "Fred Clay," "Living Poems," "Martinez." Mr. Pickering's character songs were also greatly enjoyed.

CASSIDY CASE SETTLED.

Town Wins Reduction in Award from $5000 to $3000.

The long drawn out Cassidy case was settled this week and the plaintiff given $3000 in final settlement. This case has been before the Courts for many years, and was tried three times and each time an appeal was entered because of excessive damages, the town becoming more and more indebted to Mr. Cassidy. The first award was for $2250, the second $4000 and the third $5000. Finally the judge before whom the case was tried, although believing that the award in each instance was excessive, advised that the counsel for the town and Mr. Cassidy get together and settle the case, as he did not believe the town would fare any better before a new jury than it did with the preceding ones. This was done and Town Counsel Joslin has made a settlement favorable to the town in reducing the amount from $5000 to $3000.

A serious blunder was made when the claim for damages was first put up to the town that a settlement was not made then and there. It could have been done then for a few hundred dollars. But it appeared to be an instance where verdicts by juries in cases against towns and cities was not taken into consideration.

A number of years ago when the sewer was being built on Highland avenue it was found necessary to blast through a ledge near Wilson street. As far as the top of the trench was concerned it was securely covered so there was no danger from flying stones. Because of some reason the blast instead of going up shot out at the end of the trench and Mr. Cassidy, a town employee, who was some distance away was hit with a flying stone and injured.

BASE BALL.

The High school base ball team won its second game of the season on Wednesday afternoon by defeating Stoneham High school 17-2. The game was poorly played and slow.

In the first inning, Stoneham by the usual combination of hits and errors scored two and their only runs.

Winchester did not score until the fifth inning when, by two bases on balls, three hits, and several errors, they scored five runs. In the seventh inning, after Lannon had passed the first two men, Stoneham changed pitchers and Sweet, the new one, allowed seven hits. By these hits, together with Stoneham's many errors, Winchester scored ten runs. Again in the eighth inning Winchester scored two more by Stoneham's loose playing.

The feature of the game was the catch by Rogers who while running sideways, stabbed a fly high over his head.

WOBURN PEOPLE IN ACCIDENT.

Yesterday forenoon a two seated carriage driven by James Brooks of Woburn and containing Mrs. Francis Harlow and Miss Merrill of that city met with a serious accident on Main street near the old Cutter place. The horse in some way became partially freed from the carriage, the shafts striking and frightening him. Before he could be brought under control the carriage struck a telegraph pole, throwing the two ladies out. The driver was rendered unconscious by his head striking an upright of the canopy of the carriage.

Fortunately none of the party were seriously injured. The ladies were badly bruised and shaken up, but no bones were broken. Mr. Brooks received a cut on the head and was stunned, from which he recovered before being removed to nearby residence. The carriage was badly damaged and the harness broken.

The team was owned by Mrs. Harlow, Brooks being in her employ. Had the horse not run into the telegraph pole the carriage would have undoubtedly gone over the stone wall at that place, and the results would probably have been much more serious. After resting for a time the party returned to Woburn by electric.

LAST RITES.

The funeral services of Madam Jane Ripley Herrick were held on Saturday afternoon, the 13th, instant at her late home.

Rev. D. A. Newton of Reading, Mass., her former pastor, conducted the services and prayer was offered by the Rev. F. W. Hodgdon. The interment was in the family lot at Wildwood Cemetery.

WINCHESTER COUNTRY CLUB.

May 20, Saturday. Four ball foursomes.

May 23, Tuesday. Women's schedule—Monkey match, in charge of Miss Kellogg.

MEN'S DINNER.

The men of the First Congregational Church had a most delightful time at a dinner given in the church vestry Tuesday evening. The men showed their appreciation of the event by almost completely filling the large vestry. Tables seating about eight persons each were arranged about the room and these were prettily graced with vases of cut flowers. Previous to serving the supper, there was an informal reception from 6:30 to 7 o'clock.

After the splendid dinner had been served, which took about an hour, Mr. Preston Pond, the toastmaster, in well chosen words, introduced as the first speaker the Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the church, who gave a very interesting talk on "The Municipal Resources of Democracy," dealing with the Des Moines commission form of government, the bringing about of which he was in great measure responsible. His talk was educative and instructive.

The next speaker was Dr. Cyrus Richardson who is beloved by the entire church membership. He came from his camp in New Hampshire expressly to attend the dinner, and his cordial reception must have been exceedingly pleasing to him. His talk, full of good suggestions and advice, was closely listened to.

During the dinner hour there was singing by the Adelpi Quartette, and between the talks Dr. Hinds sang several selections that called for a number of encores. His singing was one of the features of the evening.

Mr. Henry C. Robinson, chairman of the committee, to whose efforts this most enjoyable evening was due, was most assiduous in his attention to all, and his cordial greeting made every one feel at ease. A committee, headed by Mr. Arthur W. Hale, was appointed to arrange for the next dinner to be held at some future date.

The committee having the dinner in charge was composed of H. C. Robinson, Marshall W. Jones, David J. Witmer, W. A. Kneeland, J. H. Blasdel, Robert W. Fernald and Preston Pond.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

On Friday afternoon and evening at the Methodist Church in Woburn will be held the Annual Convention of the Woburn District Mass. Sunday School Association. An exceptionally fine program has been arranged. The following is a general outline of the program:

Afternoon session—Addresses—Rev. C. W. Blackett, D. D., Winchester; Hamilton S. Conant, General Secretary, Boston. These talks by pastors on Sunday school topics—1. Rev. Stephen A. Norton, D. D. Woburn; 2. Rev. Frank Hodgdon, Winchester; 3. Rev. Henry E. Hodge, Winchester.

Following will be department conferences for Primary, Junior, Intermediate and seniors work—Lead by Mrs. L. E. Wan, Worcester; Rev. Arthur L. Beale, Stoneham.

At 6 there will be supper served by the ladies of the church at 25c each; all are invited to stay. The Rev. Fred B. Fisher will present a Four fold plan for continuing the World in Boston movement in Sunday School Work, followed by discussion by superintendents.

Evening session will be as follows:

Devotional service by Rev. P. L. Osborn. Address by Rev. Cyrus B. Richardson, D. D. Nashua, N. H. Solos, Address, The Sunday School Religious Forward Movement, Geo. W. McElroy, General Secretary, Boston Y. M. C. A.

F. CHANDLER PARKER.

F. Chandler Parker, who entered the leather industry 61 years ago, and who has since remained an active factor in the local trade, died Wednesday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Symmes, of this town, aged 82. Mr. Parker was born in Woburn Jan. 17, 1829, the second of seven children born to Frederick and Nancy (Thompson) Parker. He was a direct descendant in the seventh generation of Deacon Thomas Parker, who sailed from London in the ship Susan and Ellen March 11, 1655.

F. Chandler Parker was apprenticed at the age of 21 to John Cummings, the leather manufacturer of Cummingsville. Later he embarked in the business on his own account, being partner in several concerns.

In 1858 Mr. Parker married Miss Martha A. Hanson of Peabody, then South Danvers. She died in 1893. Mr. Parker is survived by his son, Wm. C., and two daughters, Mrs. J. H. Richardson of Erie, Penn., and Mrs. C. H. Symmes of Winchester. He had always made his home in Woburn, coming here to live with his daughter a short time ago.

PIANO RECITAL.

Mr. Joshua Phippen will give a piano recital in the High School Assembly Hall on next

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator sees by one of the journals devoted to the interests of the newspaper fraternity that newspaper proprietors are considering the policy of reducing editorial salaries to the maximum of $50,000 per annum. To reduce editorial salaries to a maximum of $50,000 per annum may run some editors, but it won't touch The STAR. The editor of the The STAR doesn't mind admitting that he gets only $30,000 a year now!

The Spectator is in receipt of the following communication from one who signs himself "Wild and Woolly Westerner."

Dear Spectator:—I would like to inquire concerning the rule for spelling the possessive of proper names ending in S. Out west we were taught that any proper name ending in S has as its possessive simply an apostrophe, but I find that nearly everywhere in Winchester it is spelled with an 's. For example, the name Evans, Jones, Davis and other similar names seem to be uniformly spelled in this way for the possessive. I have been greatly puzzled because my tongue is a little too thick to pronounce such possessives as Moses's, Bridges's, Hodges's, etc. If the 's is right on the name Evans then it must be right on the name Moses. What puzzles me more is the fact that the newspapers hereabout seem to follow two different rules in cases similar to the above mentioned; that is, some possessives of names ending in S are spelled with an 's and some simply with the apostrophe. Kindly give me the rule of grammar which is followed in Winchester in the above cases.

Wild and Woolly Westerner.

The Spectator begs to reply that it is a rule of grammar that the apostrophe and the letter 's' be added to the nominative form of singular nouns and to express the possessive case, though some writers have preferred to simplify the forms by the addition of an apostrophe only in names ending in 's'. The weight of authority is in favor of the former plan, though the latter could hardly be considered incorrect. When a plural noun ends in 's', the apostrophe and additional 's' may be added or not. Either way is correct.

A large tramp cat one night recently in some mysterious manner made its way into the home of a certain lady who has six "aristocratic" felines in her house. The tramp cat in question has been known to whip dogs and it is said has killed other cats. Within a few seconds after the tramp cat had slipped into the lady's house there was an awful fuss. The tramp cat is said to have a special dislike for good-looking cats, clean cats and strange cats, and he proceeded to do his best to lick the entire six felines. The occupants of the house were awakened and lost no time in driving the tramp cat from the premises but it was very plain that the animal was only getting warmed up when his onslaught was so rudely interrupted. The six badly-mussed "society" cats blinked and spat at each other until morning.

The Spectator agrees with his friend the philosopher that the man who is gaining ground should never be dissatisfied with his lot.

The fact that revenge is sweet causes some people here and elsewhere to bite off more than they can chew.

A physician this week explained to The Spectator Prot. Metchnikoff's theory for the prolongation of life. It supplements the Bulgarian sour milk whose bacilli he claims to kill the old-age-bringing poisons in the alimentary canal, with dates as food for the sour milk bacilli themselves. Prot. Metchnikoff's theory, as stated by the physician, is as follows and may be of some interest to readers of The STAR: The Bulgarian bacillus does its sanitary work by killing various poisonous substances that develop in the alimentary canal. The bacillus, however, must live; it flourishes best on sugar, but sugar is usually absorbed in the upper part of the canal, which gives the poisonous indol, phenol, etc., a chance to multiply in the lower part. Fortunately the experiments of Albert Berthelot have shown that the sugar in dates reaches the lower intestinal tract and thus enables the Bulgarian bacillus to do its work thoroughly.

A "rural" weekly reaching The Spectator's desk gives the following account of a dance: "A second dance was given Monday night in the storeroom recently vacated by the Gould restaurant. It is reported there was not a woman or girl in the room during the entire evening, and of course the dances were dull and uninteresting. To be sure a dance without a girl is worse than breakfast without a cook. Men can't dance. There is nothing about a man's dancing to win particular interest. It is either acrobatics or plain labor, of course some men dancers are graceful, but who cares anything about a graceful man? The term 'polite as a dancing master' is almost opprobrious. But it is very, very different with women dancers. Grace of pose and beauty of form are to woman what salt is to mutton—the very savor of life. No wonder the Greeks, who worship beauty, men now worship money. Brought dancing to its highest development. They loved art and they loved nature, and they saw that in combining artistic dancing with beautiful womanhood they came near to visualizing the sublimation of both. The Spectator has small patience with that order of man who sees grossness in the rhythmic movements of a dance done by a good girl either on or off the stage. To confuse sensuousness with sensuality is to see potter's clay in the most delicate ceramic.

A lady says that the woman who trusts her husband to mail her letters never knows when to expect answers to them.

The Spectator tries to be as kind as he is long-suffering, but it does rile him for the washerwoman's husband to wear his socks when The Spectator needs them himself.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

A movement is on foot to erect a Unitarian parsonage. This step meets with the approval of many members of the Society who believe that such action should now be taken when available land can be had at a reasonable price, and also when the church is free from debt.

Rev. D. A. Newton of Reading attended the funeral of Mrs. Moses A. Herrick last Saturday.

Mr. Robert Fernald, who recently suffered a nervous breakdown, is at Lancaster, N. H., at the Fernald summer home, where he will remain until his condition improves.

An English pheasant was found in Woburn with a broken leg last week. After being attended to the bird will be set at liberty in the Fells.

NOT SCHOOL CENSUS.

A list of children in the town, fourteen years of age and under is again being taken this year. This list is made for outside parties and is in no way connected with the regular school census taken each year by custodian of the schools, Nathaniel Nichols. Last year considerable trouble was experienced by Mr. Nichols in taking his census owing to parents having imagined that the information previously given the canvasser applied to the schools.

MOTHERS' DAY SERMON AT THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Blackett preached at the Methodist Episcopal Church last Sunday evening on "To All Good Mothers." The sermon was listened to with great interest by a large audience that thoroughly enjoyed it. The text was Second Timothy 1:5. "When I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also."

Timothy was one of Paul's choicest helpers and friends. He once declared he had none other "like minded." He was the constant subject of the apostle's prayers "without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day." He possessed an "unfeigned faith," and rightly so, for it was the faith of his mother and grandmother. The Bible clearly recognizes the influence of the home in making the man and the Christian, and especially the influence of the mother.

"The mother in her office holds the key of the soul, and it is she who stamps the coin of character, and makes the being who would be a savage, but for her gentle care, a Christian man." The speaker recalled many tributes of great men to their mothers among them Richard Cecil who said, "I tried when a boy to be an infidel but there was one thing I could never get over, I never could answer my mother's love and character. I stand today a living witness of my mother's love and faithfulness."

Henry Grady of Atlanta who when he felt that he was losing some of his earlier ideals went home to his mother and asked her to treat him as she did when he was a boy. "She gave him the dishes he liked and at eventide sang a familiar lullaby. Before retiring the big man put his head on his mother's lap and said the simple prayer, 'Now I lay me down to sleep. When I bed she would bend over him and kiss him good night. After that experience of a few days back with mother Mr. Grady returned to his work with a shining face for he had a new vision."

Dr. Theodore Cuyler gave this testimony for forty-four years. "I have been preaching the good tidings of the Word, and would not change places with a king but I doubt if I ever would have been drawn to the service of Jesus Christ but for the faithfulness of that home preacher who rocked my cradle. At the starting point of nearly every minister's life stands a Christian mother."

Grover Cleveland on the eve of his election to the governorship of the State of New York wrote to his brother. "I have just voted, and I sit here in the office alone. If mother were alive I should be writing to her, and I feel as if it were time for me to write to some one who will believe what I write. . . . Do you know that it mother were alive I should feel so much safer. I always thought her prayers had much to do with my success."

Greater than the brilliant qualities that shine in the mothers of great men are the constant qualities that adorn the lives of all good mothers. The self-sacrifice, trust, devotion, unceasing care, overflowing love of good motherhood is the fountain of the world's best life. It was by mother's knee we learned to pray. It was she who taught us the peculiarities of Christian faith, love of liberty, hatred of oppression, and fear of God. There is nothing affects a child more than atmosphere. If anger, suspicion, uncharity and bickering surround a child what wonder if it becomes hateful. But if love's gentleness, and especially if the spirit of a truly Christian life surrounds it there is no wonder if it become gentle, obedient and thoughtful.

Someone asked a successful mother the secret of her method and she said, "This is my secret, when in the morning I wash my children I prayed that they might be washed in the fountain of a Saviour's mercy. When I put on their garments I prayed that they might be robed in the garments of a Saviour's righteousness. When I gave them food I prayed that they might be fed with manna from heaven. When I started them on the road to school I prayed that their faith might be as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. When I put them to sleep I prayed that they might be enfolded in the Saviour's arms." What soul could resist an atmosphere like that.

The speaker closed with a tribute to his own faithful mother.

There were few dry eyes in the audience at the close. Many men thought very tenderly all day of the mother in whose memory they had worn the white flower and some carefully preserved the poem on the evening calendar.

A Tribute to Mother.

A little boy, with a winsome face,
Plucked a sweet wild forest flower
To wear to the church on "Mother's Day."

Where it withered in scarce an hour;
A moment's offering of childish love,
To the "dearest one," 'neath the heaven above.

A young man stopped on the city street,
And bought a blossom fair.
He wore the bouquet, his mother's flower.

With a thoughtful, chivalric air,
A knightly tribute for days of care,
The sleepless nights, unceasing prayer,
A grey-haired man culled a lily white

From an old-fashioned garden-plot—
He thought of the hands that planted it
there,
And the tender, smiling face;
For the angel mother across the Way,
He carried, in memory, her flower that day.

PUBLIC HEALTH OF WINCHESTER.

May 9, 1911.

Arthur E. Whitney, Esq.,

Winchester, Mass.
My dear Mr. Whitney:—I find that Senate Bill 327 which you asked me about, passed the Senate on April 6th, and was signed by the governor on April 14th, and is now Chapter 296 of the Acts of 1911.

I am enclosing you a copy of the bill as it passed.

Yours sincerely,

W. R. Evans, Jr.

AN ACT

To provide for the Protection of the Public Health in the Vicinity of the Towns of Winchester and Stoneham, and the City of Woburn.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Section 1. The state board of health is hereby authorized and directed to prohibit the entrance or discharge of sewage into any part of the Abenona river, or its tributaries, and to prevent the entrance or discharge therein of every other substance which may be injurious to public health or may tend to create a public nuisance.

Section 2. The board shall consult and advise with the owner of any factory or other establishment, at his request or of its own motion, as to the best practicable and reasonably available means of rendering the waste or refuse therefrom harmless.

Section 3. The supreme judicial court or any justice thereof and the superior court or any justice thereof shall have jurisdiction in equity to enforce the provisions of this act and any order made by the state board of health in conformity therewith. Proceedings to enforce any such order shall be instituted and prosecuted by the attorney general upon the request of the state board of health.

Section 4. Whoever permits the entrance or discharge into any part of the Abenona river, or its tributaries, of sewage or of any other substance injurious to public health or tending to create a public nuisance shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars for each offence.

Do the right thing if you have Nasal Catarrh. Get Ely's Cream Balm at once. Don't touch the catarrh powders and snuffs, for they contain cocaine. Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas medicines made with mercury merely dry up the secretions and leave you no better than you were. In a word, Ely's Cream Balm is a real remedy, not a delusion. All druggists, 50 cents, or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

BROKE RIGHT WRIST.

Mrs. R. B. Galusha of Hillcrest, sustained a painful accident at the Park street subway station, Boston, Monday evening. She was crossing from the platform of a Back Bay car to take a car for the North Station, when, in the rush of the crowd, a young man ran against her and she fell heavily to the platform.

It was found that her right wrist had been fractured. She also sustained severe bruises on her left arm. Mrs. Galusha was able to accompany her husband to their home.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The thirty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the local union was held in the vestry of the First Congregational Church last Friday.

The members of the missionary societies of the various churches had been invited to be present to hear Mrs. Katharine Lente Stevenson, president of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union speak of her trip around the world as representative of the World's W. C. T. U., visiting nearly all the great mission stations in the interests of temperance. After brief devotional exercises led by Mrs. M. D. Kneeland, Mrs. Stevenson spoke of the solidarity of interests of all the missionary efforts and how deeply she became impressed with the fact that there is not only a common menace and a common need but the same kind of material with which to work for the uplift of the world.

The endeavor to bring about the kingdom of God on earth finds everywhere great barriers laid by those who should be helping. She instanced the remark of a missionary in Japan that a certain party of tourists had done much to undo the good work of ten years. The evils of intemperance in China as in many other countries are directly traceable to the people of so-called Christian nations. Almost every mission field is begging for white ribbon missionaries to do the work that is becoming increasingly imperative. Not only the so-called heathen people but those from Christian lands need the gospel of temperance.

The latter need especially to be taught the fallacy of the need of alcohol in the tropics, a fallacy so deep rooted that more than one Mohammedan has defined Christian as "one who drinks."

The speaker called attention to the exhibit in the World in Boston of the grave covering of the African—the bottles he had emptied of their spirituous contents.

In closing she urged a still closer relation between the members of missionary societies and the wearers of the white ribbon, hoping that the time may come when they shall all be members together, and the use of alcohol shall be no longer considered fitting for mission workers.

At the close of the address, refreshments were served and an informal reception was held.

The Union appropriated a good sum toward the State work and appointed the following delegates to the County Convention at Holliston, next week, Tuesday, May 23: Mrs. J. C. Adams, Mrs. Henry Smalley, Mrs. Mary Winn, Mrs. Daniel Kelley, Mrs. J. M. L. Enman, Mrs. W. A. Nicholson, Mrs. C. F. Gage, Mrs. Joseph Parker, Mrs. E. N. Lovering and Miss Eugenia Elliott. Further particulars about the convention may be had from Mrs. Hamilton, the president.

Contributions of flowers for the Flower Mission will be gladly received by the superintendent, Mrs. J. C. Adams, Friday of each week.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is made in Toledo, O., by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle. The new firm are making a specialty of butter, eggs, tea and coffee, and are making extremely low prices. The Winchester store is a branch of the store run by the firm, and their large business enables them to furnish the best goods at lowest prices.

The protracted dry spell is beginning to have its effect on surrounding water systems, a number of nearby places having already limited the use of garden hose. Although the water in the Winchester reservoirs is very low for the season of the year, our supply is not so far diminished as to cause any restrictions yet.

It is now said that the B. & M. instead of adding trains to its summer service, will discontinue a number now running. This will hit Winchester, as the town has usually been afforded a number of additional trains during the summer months. It is said that every train which has not been paying will be discontinued and no new ones will be added. Among the trains which are said to be slated for discontinuance is the 3 p. m. train from Boston to Concord.

A May party was given in Lyceum Hall Wednesday evening by the degree staff of Winchester Court, M. C. O. F. The attendance was large and included many from neighboring places. The floor was in charge of Timothy O'Leary floor marshal, Miss Nellie Huggerty floor directress, Miss May O'Leary assistant floor directress, Miss Mary Madden treasurer, and the following aids: Miss Katherine Madden, Miss Sarah Donnelly, Miss Anne Higgins, Miss Nellie Buckley, Miss Anne O'Leary, Miss Mary O'Toole, Miss Nora O'Melia, Miss Ellen Burke, Miss Frances Lynch, Miss Katherine Fallon and Miss Anne O'Toole.

The High school pupils were fortunate in being able to have Hon. Samuel J. Elder speak to them yesterday morning on the subject of "Peace". He spoke of the disasters, sorrow, destruction, and the great expense of war and how, at the present time, the peace movement is gradually advancing.

We are now located at our new store 260 Main street; our new telephone number is 270-1; office will be found open from 7:45 a. m. until 6 p. m. Shaw & Campbell, Plumbing and Heating.

TRIBUTE TO A NOBLE WOMAN.

There never lived in Winchester a nobler woman than the late Mrs. Jane R. Herick. With her husband, the late Moses A. Herick, a man of constant and courageous faith and patriotism, she came here to reside about forty years ago. Through all this period, she has given of her studious thought, her willing efforts, her fortune and her very self, to help and encourage the worthy souls of every land. She earned a great reward. May her memory endure.

NOTICE!

Personal observation by the members of the Board of Selectmen, coupled with constantly increasing complaints made to them by citizens of the town, lead the Board to call upon owners and drivers of automobiles to bear in mind the necessity for restraint in driving upon Winchester streets.

Driving automobiles through the thickly settled portions of the town at a high rate of speed is not confined to non-residents, but is indulged in by many residents, who do not realize, apparently, the danger to others, and, particularly, to young children who are forced to cross the streets many times in traveling between their homes and their schools.

The growing practice by dealers in automobiles of using the principal streets of the town to demonstrate the speed qualities of their machines must cease.

The Board of Selectmen believe that automobile owners intend to be reasonable in the use of the streets and desire to co-operate with the public authorities in enforcing the laws of the road.

This notice is sent out in the hope that a word of caution to all will be sufficient and render unnecessary a campaign for the strict enforcement of the laws by the police officers of the town.

REGULAR MEETING

First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

(If a holiday the following evening.)

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

Address all communications to the Bank and not to Individuals.

Holeproof Hose

What Our Six Months' Guarantee Really Means

Holeproof Hosiery is guaranteed to be as free from holes at the end of six months as it is the day you buy it. We give you this guarantee in writing so if any holes appear in six months you receive new hosiery free of charge.

Common hosiery has no such guarantee. It costs you just as much as "Holeproof," but at the end of six months it is worthless. You spend hours darning it when for no extra expense you can have "Holeproof" and do no mending. Why not have the best?

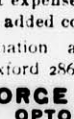

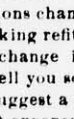

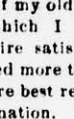

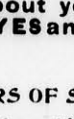

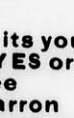

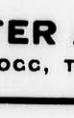

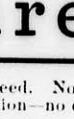

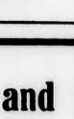

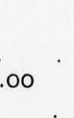

FAMOUS Holeproof Hosiery FOR MEN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Insist on seeing the original Holeproof trade-mark. Many have imitated the guarantee but none have equaled the quality.

The makers pay 63 cents a pound for Egyptian and Sea Island cotton, but common hosiery is made from cotton at 12 cents a pound.

"Holeproof" uses 3-ply yarn in the body and 6-ply in the heels, toes and knees. Ordinary hosiery uses 2-ply throughout, yet costs you just as much as "Holeproof."

Stop in at our store and examine the hose. See how stylish and comfortable it is—soft, smooth and neat fitting. Learn the facts today.

WINCHESTER WON.

The Winchester's won their first game of the season last Saturday against the fast Romar A. C. It was Romar's first defeat this season which they did not relish. To show how bad they wanted to win, they presented two professional in their lineup under assumed names. Our boys outbatted them almost 3 to 1 and led all the way in what proved to be a fine contest. The features of the game was the battery work of Somerville and Flaherty, the batting of Budreau, a timely hit of Murray which scored 2 runs, a fine 3 bagger by Kenney and a savage hit by Stephenson which landed in the Aberjona, that looked good for a home run, but the left fielder jumped in the water after the ball and by a fine relay throw just nipped (Bart) at the plate. The visitors excelled in holding and snappy throwing.

The attendance was small and not what it should have been for so important a game.

BASEBALL.

In a very close and exciting game, the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club was defeated in eleven innings, by the Belmont A. C. at Everett last Saturday afternoon. The two pitchers were the stars of the game, Holbrook for Everett striking out nineteen, while Murphy for Winchester Hlds. struck out seventeen. Their batting also featured, each making two two-base hits. McEwen made several star catches of high fouls, and caught well behind the bat. In the second with the bases full and one out, Murphy tightened and struck out the next two.

Up to the ninth inning Winchester Hlds. was leading, but the combination of a hit, two stolen bases and an error tied the score.

In the tenth Murphy doubled with one out, and stole to third, but the next two men were easy outs, and he was left Everett scored twice and won the game in the eleventh inning, although Winchester scored what seemed to be the winning run.

We discount all bills, buy in large quantities, and are pleased to save customers money on good work which is guaranteed by a reliable firm which must appeal to business men. We employ more real mechanics in our various lines than all other Winchester firms put together. Large sales and small profits has been our motto—results always guaranteed.

Nothing too large or too small to receive our prompt and personal attention. Tin pans, hot water heaters, furnaces or ranges repaired at short notice and we can do real nice new work if we get a chance.

Yours truly

J. A. Laraway & Co.,

WHY DO LAUNDRYMEN

Visit the Plant of THE WINCHESTER LAUNDRY COMPANY? Because They Find There Not only the Latest Appliances of the Laundry Business but the Most Advanced Methods of Using These Appliances.

Our cordial invitation to inspect our interesting shop is accepted by only a few of the general public.

Hardly a day passes, however, but some laundryman drops in to look us over.

That tells a story of progress toward a model laundry plant.

A. C. A. MEET.

Most Promising in History of Association.

The annual camp of the Eastern Division of the American Canoe Association will be held on Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, Mass., May 27th, 28th, 29th, and 30th. The Association has secured the use of Blake Island and Wapiti Island which are handy to the Tatassit Canoe Club and it is the desire to make this a camp where the canoe will be more in evidence than it has been in most of the camps.

Located near the famous Tatassit Canoe Club of Worcester and other clubs on the lake it is the ambition to make this a record camp for attendance and good fellowship.

Worcester is central and easy to get to by steam and electric cars and ought to be the largest camp the Association rowing crews from the Worcester High School and the Kalumet Club of Worcester.

Tuesday will be the regular race day for the Eastern Division canoe championships and the list is as follows:

War Canoe, Club Four Single Blade, Single Single Blade, Club Four Double Blade, Single Double Blade, Tandem Double Blade, Tandem Single Blade.

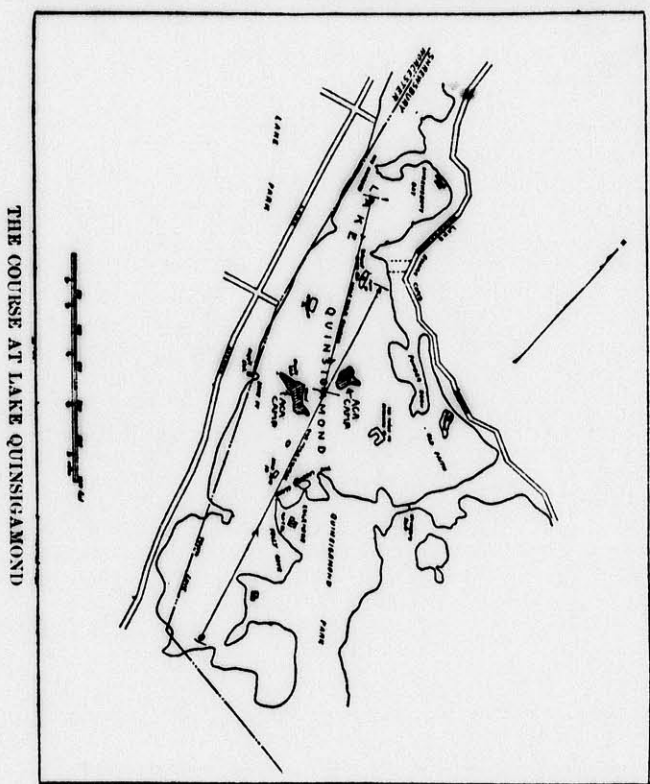

Order of events subject to change.

The War Canoe Race bids fair to be the best ever pulled off in New England as there will be at least five crews in this race, all of which are anxious to win this year.

It is also intended to run an open sailing canoe race Sunday if enough canoes are entered to make an interesting race.

There will be a ball game Sunday, the Medford Boat Club against the World.

The days ought to take care of themselves with the program outlined by the Regatta Committee, but the nights being dark must be made jolly in some way has had for a number of years. There will be something doing all the time, and in variety enough to suit all tastes. The camp being located on islands will make it more necessary than usual to use canoes in order to go and come at will, and it is the wish of the Vice Commodore John B. Howard of the Medford Boat Club, that the members will use their canoes as much as possible.

The regular steamers on the lake will stop at the islands, and there will be a launch connected with the camp. Canoes may be hired at the lake, but it is expected that members will send up their own canoes and outfits and make this a real canoe camp in practice as well as in name.

Wapiti Island is owned by the Elks and has been loaned to the Association without any restrictions and therefore will be used as the site of the "Medicine Tent" and "Midnight Crews." Blake Island is owned by a Worcester family and this island will be the home of those who are seeking rest and recreation.

The Regatta Committee has arranged a fine set of races for the meet. Monday will be a day for the "Has Beens" and the "Comers" and will consist of all kinds of novelty canoe races. There will also be races between eight oared so the following has been mapped out: Saturday night will be the regular "free for all" which needs no introduction. Sunday night will be a treat in an illustrated lecture by Wm. Lyman Underwood of the Mass. Institute of Technology on "Hunting with Canoe and Camera in New Brunswick." This lecture has made Mr. Underwood famous throughout New England and is well worth going miles to see. Monday night will be the annual camp fire and "experience meeting." Tuesday night will be the only sad night in the entire meet as then we will be saying "bon voyage" to all of the jolly good fellows who have been reunited at what looks like the best camp yet.

Remember the dates and plan your work accordingly. Come early and stay the limit.

On the committees are the following well known Medford Boat Club members:—E. C. Clements, Chas. L. Bramer, transportation; Harold E. Boardman, H. S. Perrin, camp site; Benj. F. Jacobs, jr., regatta.

A number of Winchester Boat Club members will attend and take part in the sports, including Hermann D. Murphy, E. Russell Murphy, James Newman and John Sheridan.

INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET.

The annual inter-class track meet took place last Thursday afternoon and Saturday morning on Manchester Field, and resulted in a complete victory for 1912.

Starting out with the hundred yard dash, 1912 got first and second places and from this on, kept the lead throughout the meet.

In the broad jump Johnston '13 got first place, jumping nineteen feet, a great distance for a High School athlete.

Sm. th. '11 jumped five feet two inches in the high jump, giving to 1911 five points which were their only ones. Nobody else could get above five feet so the second place was divided evenly among the other three classes.

In the mile run, much to the surprise of everybody, Chapin '12 finished first, while '13, second, and Robinson '14, third.

The summary: One hundred yard dash—H. Wheatley 1912, first; L. Goddu 1912, second; and Small 1914, third. Time—eleven seconds.

Broad jump—Johnston 1913, first; (nineteen feet), Goddu 1912, second; (eighteen feet, five inches) and H. Wheatley 1912, third, (eighteen feet). Half Mile Run—D. Wheatley 1913, first; Chapin 1912, second; and Wilde 1911, third. Time—two minutes, thirteen and one half seconds.

High jump—Smith 1911, first, (five feet, two inches) Goddu 1912, Johnston 1913 and Smith 1914 all tied for second at five feet.

Relay race—1912 first (Goddu, Farnsworth, Thompson, and H. Wheatley) 1:13 second, (Chapin, Hilto, Robinson, and D. Wheatley) and 1914 third, (Smith, Robinson, Elliot, and Strawbridge). Time—two minutes, twenty-eight seconds.

Twenty yard dash—Goddu 1912, first, H. Wheatley 1912, second and Cutting 1913, third. Time—twenty-four seconds.

Shot put—D. Wheatley 1913, first, (thirty-three feet, three inches) H. Wheatley 1912, second, (thirty-one feet, nine inches) and Thompson 1912, third, (twenty-nine feet, nine inches.)

Mile run—Chapin 1912, first, Wilde 1913, second, and Robinson 1914, third. Time—five minutes and thirty seconds.

Four-hundred yard dash—Cutting 1913, first, H. Wheatley 1912, second and Goddu 1912, third. Time—fifty-five and one half seconds.

Score by classes, the points count 5, 3, and 1, respectively:

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Opening at the Colonial Theatre on Monday evening, May 22, Mr. Ralph Herz will appear as a star in "Dr. De Luxe," under the direction of Joseph M. Gates who has been giving to Boston such excellent attractions as "Bright Eyes," "Three Twins," "The Girl of My Dreams," and "Katie Ltd."

"Dr. De Luxe" is by Otto Hauerbach and Karl Huchsmann, authors and composers of "Madame Sherry" as well as the above attractions that Mr. Gates has played in Boston. "Dr. De Luxe" is a novel musical comedy that introduces a new theme.

"Dr. De Luxe" comes direct from the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, where it has had a successful and profitable engagement and New York papers speak of it in the highest terms.

BASE BALL.

The same old story again last Friday when Winchester lost to Reading High School, in its third league game, 14-2. The game was slow and very one sided all the time.

Reading started out with two runs in the first inning from an error and three hits. Winchester held them for one inning and then in the third they hit the ball to all corners of the lot scoring six runs, Winchester making two errors. In the fourth inning, Reading scored one run, four in the eighth, and one in the ninth, most of which were gained by heavy hitting.

Goddu was in the box until the fourth inning, when he was replaced by Mobbs. Winchester was saved from a shut-out in the ninth inning. Rogers started off with a hit, Mobbs got to first by attempted force at second and then Prime got a hit which went through the right fielder, thereby letting in two runs.

NOTICE

Depositing leaves and other refuse in the public streets and the burning of same there, is a violation of the town by-laws, constitutes a source of danger to passing horses, and fills the streets with litter which the town is obliged to cart away at great expense.

For these and other reasons, all persons are requested to stop this practice and thereby to assist the Street Department in keeping the streets clean and free from obstruction.

So great has the nuisance become that the officers of the street and police departments have been directed to enforce the by-laws on this subject.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

While digging holes for the piers for the new Winchester Laundry building on Converse place a rather singular condition was revealed. Below a certain depth the holes rapidly filled with water, and it was supposed at first that it seeped through the ground from the Mill pond close by, but on close inspection it was seen that the water flowed from west to south, or in the direction from Vine street toward the Town Hall building. The general surmise is that the water comes from Wedge pond following a strata of sand to the upper end of the Mill pond.

Kelley & Hawes are going to move the dwelling house now situated south of their stable on Railroad avenue to the Corcoran lot just purchased by them further up the street. At a meeting of the directors of the Winchester Boat Club last week it was decided to install gas in the club house. Seventeen new members were elected to the club also. This organization is becoming more popular in town each year and the non-resident list is now filled. A unique feature of the club is its maintenance of a fleet of canoes for use of its members who do not own boats of their own, making membership especially attractive to High school boys and families with young people.

MAKING WINCHESTER FAMOUS

Handsome Concrete Building for Winchester Laundry.

Work has just begun, as most Winchester people have noticed, on a new and model concrete building for the Winchester Laundry Company. This structure, on which the carpenters are now performing the preliminary operations, will not only shelter the various mechanical appliances of a large and expanding business but will be part of a scheme of the artistic development of the river bank. Hundreds of Winchester families have watched the growth of the local laundry from small beginnings to a leading position among the laundries of New England and, indeed, of the whole country, and many expressions of wishes for its continued prosperity are now heard.

achievements is the power station and the power and circulatory system of the Harvard Medical School group on Longwood avenue.

The constructive work is in charge of the Concrete Engineering Company, one of the foremost construction companies of Boston. Among many buildings which stand to the credit of this company one of the best known is the Motor Mart in Park Square, designed and constructed by them. They have nine other important buildings underway at the present time, it is understood. It is intended to have the new laundry completed and ready for occupancy by August 1st.

The plans for the laundry have been under consideration for some time and as part of their preparation Mr. Downer has made many journeys to other up-to-date plants to get points to utilize in the present and future installations. At the same time the management of the com-

TENTH JUNE BREAKFAST.

Will Be Held in Town Hall on Saturday, June 3rd.

The Visiting Nurse Association, having to omit the annual June Breakfast last year, again calls together the entire community to break bread in true democratic fashion.

Every effort is being made to make the occasion as perfect as a gathering of so great magnitude can be.

The Association depends upon the whole town for the success. The cordiality with which people give time, food or money, even when it can be but little, is most stimulating to the ladies who have The Breakfast in charge.

The Breakfast will be served in the Town Hall on Saturday morning, June 3rd, from 6 to 9. The tickets will be 25 cents each. Music will be furnished during the breakfast by an orchestra of six pieces.

THEO. C. HURD.

Theodore C. Hurd died yesterday afternoon at his home in Rangeley. For a considerable period he had been in delicate health. He was 74 years of age.

Funeral service will be held on Sunday at 3 p. m.

Theodore Clarence Hurd, clerk of Courts of Middlesex County, was born in Newton, Mass., Jan. 19, 1837, his parents being William and Sarah (Barber) Hurd. He attended Framingham Academy, Union College, and was graduated from the Harvard Law School. Mr. Hurd was admitted to the Middlesex Bar in 1860, and from 1860 to 1872 was assistant district attorney of Middlesex County. He was selectman in Framingham from 1865 to 1870, and was representative to the General Court from Framingham, 1867-1872. In 1872 Mr. Hurd was clerk of Courts of Middlesex County, which position he has held to the present time. In 1874 he was Alderman in Cambridge.

Mr. Hurd served as Lieutenant, Company F, 45th Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteers, in the Civil War, and was judge advocate, department of North Carolina.

He was a member of the Calumet Club, Loyal Legion United States, and belonged to the G. A. R.

MRS. HARRIET E. DYKES.

Mrs. Harriet Evelyn Dykes, widow of the late Alfred Dykes, passed away at her home, No. 7 Warren street, last Saturday. She was 76 years of age. For over a year she had been a sufferer from heart trouble and to this was due the end, which came peacefully during her sleep.

Mrs. Dykes was well known to Winchester residents, having made her home here for the past seventeen years. She was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Fortnightly. Her parents were Ruben and Fear (Perry) Collins, well known residents of Cape Cod, Mrs. Dykes being a native of Bourne.

Mrs. Dykes leaves one son, Mr. William P. Dykes of Ridgewood, N. J., and one daughter, Mrs. Helen L. Knowles of New Bedford.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the residence, Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiating. The services were simple, including verses of scripture and prayer. On Wednesday the Episcopal committal service was held at the grave at Wareham.

REV. JOEL METCALF

AWARDED DONAHUE MEDAL.

Rev. Joel Metcalf, pastor of the Unitarian Church, and well known as an astronomer of merit, has been awarded the Donahue Medal by the Astronomical Society of the Pacific for the discovery of the only new comet of last year.

The comet is known as Metcalf's comet, with the official designation of 1910. The comet was a known comet, visible to the naked eye. Mr. Metcalf discovered the comet at his camp at Grand Island, Vermont, on August 10th of last year.

GAME MAY 30TH.

Manager LeDuc of the Winchester base ball club tried to arrange a game with the Houghton & Dutton team for the afternoon of May 30th. As they will not be represented on the diamond this season, he has booked the last Notre Dame's to meet the local boys on that date. They are composed of the fastest players around Boston and will represent Leo Callahan the crack south paw in the pitcher's box with White catching. They are one of the best teams that the Winchester's will clash with this season and a fast game is looked for. Don't forget the date, May 30th 3.30 p. m.

REV. JOHN W. SUTER

TO BE HONORED.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the graduation of the Rev. John W. Suter of this town from the Episcopal Theological School will be observed on the occasion of the semi-annual meeting of the Archdeaconry of Lowell, which will be held in Winchester at the Church of the Epiphany on June 13.

The preacher will be the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, D.D., of Washington, D.C., who was a classmate of Mr. Suter's at the Cambridge school.

NEW BUILDING OF WINCHESTER LAUNDRY CO.

The new building itself, as illustrated in this number of the STAR, will conform to the most exacting requirements of laundry work. It will be equipped with the most modern appliances known to the business. Mechanical carriers will be used wherever possible as well as other varieties of labor saving devices. The gravity process will be utilized, all goods being taken to the top floor and dropped from floor to floor through the various stages of laundering.

One disagreeable operating feature of the old plant which has often caused considerable expense and inconvenience will be entirely removed by equipping the new building with a thoroughly up-to-date system of electric drives by means of which many of the machines will have individual motors while others will be handled in groups by larger motors. Perfect ventilation will be secured by large exhaust fans on each floor. The sanitary conveniences for the employees will be of latest device. In the forthcoming installation it will be noticed that there is no front entrance. This absence is not due to lack of consideration for an impressive approach but simply because this construction is merely an initial section of the final building. Such is the present growth of the business that a later addition of other constructive units is easily foreseen, and the design has been drawn with reference to the ultimate appearance of the plant. The new structure will be ample for the present purposes, having on each floor three thousand feet of floor space, or, with a total of four floors and the basement, about 15,000 feet in all.

The final plan contemplates removing of building around the present wooden structure with a concrete building of larger proportions which will make an expansive and attractive front and other architectural details—a laundry plant, in short, which it is expected will be a credit to the centre of the town, whether viewed from an artistic or a utilitarian standpoint.

An important part of the scheme is to beautify the grounds around the laundry providing a slightly driveway and seats under the trees for the use of employees at their noon hour and recess periods. This provision will be in accordance with the Winchester Laundry Company's present policy, for great success has followed its plan of allowing the employees a recess period each morning and afternoon and it has been proved that with the recesses more and better work is turned out by the same number of employees than was formerly possible without the rest period. As for the contribution to civic adornment those Winchester people who have been disturbed by the unsightliness of certain portions of the banks of the Aberjona will be glad to know that improvement is scheduled to take place along at least one important stretch.

The architects whom the Winchester Laundry Company has secured for the work are Densmore & LeClear of Boston, young men who have had a large experience in mill and laboratory construction. One of their well known pany has of late been gratified by many evidences that they have already themselves achieved something of a reputation. Visits are becoming very frequent from experts in their own line among whom the fame of this Winchester institution has spread. While not very many residents of this town and the neighboring towns have ever accepted the laundry's cordial invitation to inspect the processes—evidently through not realizing how many interesting features are involved—it is very gratifying to Mr. Downer and his associates to know that they have caught the attention of laundriesmen all over the country. Scarcely a day goes by without some laundry expert dropping in to secure information or watch the workings of the Winchester system. A visit is just now expected from a laundryman of St. Paul, Minnesota, who has already adopted several suggestions from this place and who has written of his intention to come East especially to see the laundry.

The growth of the Winchester Laundry has been surprising to many people, but not to those who fully realize both the general expansion of the business and the marked energy and skill with which this particular laundry has kept abreast of the times. Not every citizen realizes that statistics prove the laundries to be today the third largest of employers of labor and the seventh largest in volume of business in the United States. Throughout the country the apartment house, system of living and women's revolt from the crude amateurishness of the home laundry work is tending to force a very rapid growth of this industry with the result that more and more capital is being safely and profitably invested in its development. The laundry business of greater Boston is already one of the most staple and most rapidly expanding of all the local businesses. The Winchester Laundry has had, and for a long time to come will have, the benefit of this general expansion. At the same time it has been able to utilize advantages of position that are all its own.

The present business, as many Winchesterians recall, was started by Young & Wilcox in March, 1868. Previously there had been no laundry in the town. In August of that year Arthur T. Downer took the business in charge. The number of employees was then six. For a collecting and delivering department there was one horse and a little yellow democrat with a basket behind.

From that beginning the Winchester Laundry has prospered until now the employees on the payroll number 110. Employment is thus given to representatives of many Winchester and Woburn families.

Twelve wagons and an equal number of puns and horses are employed. Nine wagons are constantly on the road, and their routing has become a complex matter.

At the outset the business was mostly in Winchester, with a small amount in Woburn. At the present time the laundry covers the following places: Winchester, Woburn, Stoneham, Reading,

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

When the question is now asked "What is the most beautiful town in the United States?" the answer is not easy. But a quarter century from now, when the same question is asked, The Spectator believes the answer will be different, for, with a set purpose and operating upon carefully thought out plans of ornamentation and adornment, fully 200 towns are now after the town beauty prize. It will require a long period to even approximately realize most of these beautification schemes, as in not a few instances they involve propositions that will entail a considerable cost. It is however, a most interesting speculation as to which, 25 or 50 years from now, will be regarded as the most beautiful town in the world. Perhaps it will be Winchester, but then, again, perhaps it will not be. But let us hope it will be.

There are fish stories and there are hen stories. Here is a hen story which The Spectator finds in an exchange reaching his desk. He simply passes it along. He would not endanger his reputation for veracity by making any claim for truth about this. It is said of Oscar Heinze, a farmer of Clinton, Penn., that he went into his barn a few weeks ago and filled his bed with straw, not knowing that in gathering up the straw he had also picked up a hen's egg. So it was with great astonishment that he awoke one night to hear a "cheep, cheep," coming seemingly from the tick. The chirping continued Mr. Heinze decided to open the tick. He did so and after a short search found a newly hatched chicken.

The following story is told of a nearby pastor and a little five year old, though it is related to The Spectator as a fact. It seems that the pastor of the church, who is a great favorite with the children, makes a point of visiting the kindergarten department each Sunday for the purpose of telling the little ones a Bible story. On these occasions after the story had been related the pastor usually asks the little ones as to what they think of it. On this occasion no one replying to the pastor's inquiry, a little five year old was selected and asked what he thought of it. To the surprise and consternation of the pastor who had related the story of Moses in the bulrushes, came back the answer, "It's all a dam lie."

The Spectator wants to say a word against the fly and ask that every householder in Winchester determine to make the crusade against the pest more pronounced, more effective and more bitter than ever before. The fly is a deadly foe to mankind, a public conveyor of disease germs of almost every kind, a visitor to places that abound in filth and unwholesomeness, and an unwelcome intruder in our homes. The subject is not a pleasant one to dwell upon but The Spectator feels it his duty not to pass it by at this time. The fly must be exterminated, and it is the intention of The Spectator to help in the process. The Spectator is going to append here an abstract from an article from the pen of a well-known club woman. Every householder in Winchester would do well to give it a careful perusal:-

"Once read a lucid setting forth of the arraignment against the fly, and you and I will give all the help we can to rid ourselves of a common nuisance and a common enemy. And it that is not convincing, listen while one who knows the misery of the fly outlines for our benefit the horrid excursions made by this little pest and the deadly burdens he brings back-then we will be willing to take greater precautions than ever before.

"In the very offensiveness of the fly story rests its greatest strength, for never again shall we be able to feast at a banquet when flies have been the first unbidden guests--we have heard too much.

"It is bad enough to know that typhoid fever has been carried by the fly, heavily and fatally, but it is even more dismaying to learn that he is guilty of spreading tuberculosis, which medical science is endeavoring to combat everywhere.

"One feels helpless in the realization that a fly may come to our doors and windows, bearing germs of many of the ills to which flesh is heir, and that eternal vigilance is the only watchword to keep him out.

"Screens, absolute cleanliness, protected food, covered garbage--you and I may be faithful to all, but somebody else may be untruthful for indifference, and so the fly multiplies and continues his depredations.

"And that is why housewives are asked to lend a hand, woman's clubs are urged to help others, and public-spirited women everywhere are enlisted in the crusade against an enemy that scatters germs right and left.

"It won't do to educate a few and leave the masses in ignorance of the fly as a disease-carrier, and so the ugly story must be carried to every part of every city and hamlet.

"When we think of what has been accomplished in the extermination of yellow fever and malaria in the South and read of what is being done in other corners of the world, remote and near, to transform pestilence-spots into healthful abiding-places we have confidence in the assertion that it will not be many years before the house-fly will be no more.

"It has been arraigned, found guilty and sentenced.

"But each home must help carry out the decree or it will become ineffective. "It will be uphill work, and virtually an impossibility unless women shoulder the responsibility in their homes, abide by rules and regulations and conquer this officious, invading enemy. "The light is weakened by individual failure to enlist, but the fact is, the fly is so malignant, his wretched habits are made so plain and the sorry story is so unvarnished that we are afraid longer to let him continue his unwholesome way undisturbed and triumphant."

The Spectator.

An alarm of fire from box 27 Sunday afternoon called the department to the Boone house on Grove street, sheds at the rear of the estate being on fire from burning grass. The blaze was extinguished with a line of garden hose and the damage slight. On Monday box 58 was rung in for a fire in the residence of E. L. Ashton on Oxford street. Inmates of the house saw smoke coming through the floor, and although unable to locate the blaze, called the department. The firemen were equally at a loss to find the fire, a thorough examination failing to produce any blaze, although the odor of smoke was very strong. After investigating the department left and no further trouble was encountered by the residents. What caused the smoke is a mystery, as there was no fire in the house except in the kitchen and the cellar was free of smoke at all times.

WHAT IS THE MATTER?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I trust that you will print the following, being a despatch from Washington and taken from the Boston Record:

What is the matter with common education in Massachusetts, is being asked by many a Massachusetts congressman, and especially by Congressman Roberts of the Lynn district, who is becoming weary of trying to fill vacancies the district is entitled to fill at West Point and Annapolis, the one for the army and the other for the navy?

Examination after examination of the most impartial kind is held, and without the least success. The boys go down before the examining board with an ease that shocks. Already there have been 12 examinations for the two vacancies, and each has failed to produce a successful candidate, and there are six more coming, three this week for Annapolis and three for West Point in June. Whether these will produce a successful boy remains to be seen.

The boys, of course, as a first thing must be physically perfect, but this is not the trouble. The young men are unable to weather the mental test they are put to. They seem to pass in English and history satisfactorily, but fall down before the test in mathematics (algebra, geometry and arithmetic), and almost with an ease as if they had never studied these subjects. Not a candidate that has presented himself for examination has managed to pass in these subjects. Why there should be a failure in geography is especially inexplicable. But somehow the boys do not grasp geographical facts. With respect to mathematics the explanation is not so difficult. Apparently the education given in Massachusetts schools is far below the standard required to pass West Point or Annapolis, whose standards are in truth exceptionally high. Is Massachusetts to blame? Apparently yes, for boys similar in type educated elsewhere in the United States pass these examinations.

Not Ready Thinkers Mathematically.

The mathematical examinations of West Point and Annapolis require the candidate to do some independent thinking and rapid thinking at that. For this the Massachusetts boys appear unprepared. They seem to be accustomed to rote learning and can attack problems only that have been drilled into them word for word and line for line.

And it is not the common boy who fails but the High School graduate, and not only one school is to blame but High school after High School, town after town. The boys who have failed are graduated from the High Schools of Lynn, Malden, Stoneham, Wakefield and Chelsea.

And so poorly do they seem educated at these places that no amount of coaching in private enables them to pass the army and the navy examinations. One boy especially went to an Annapolis preparatory school to be coached for the examination, but failed nevertheless. It is being surmised that the foundation training and what followed after is so defective that no amount of tutoring is able to polish off the boy. One boy even entered Wesleyan university and in freshman year decided to try Annapolis, and he tried the examination but failed.

Eight examinations have failed for Annapolis and four so far for West Point, and there are more to come seemingly. Inasmuch as other congressmen in the state report almost similar misfortunes in filling the vacancies, the Massachusetts system of education can look anything but pleasing in the sight of the army and the navy of the United States. Apparently there is real cause for inquiry.

LADIES' GOLF.

The event on the ladies' golf schedule at the Country Club this week was a Monkey Match in charge of Mrs. Edgett, which was played Tuesday afternoon. Five teams competed, the match being won by Mrs. Bowles' team--Mrs. Joshua Kelley, Miss Alice Skillings, Mrs. Chas. T. Mossman, Miss Elizabeth Downs. Mrs. Edgett's team was second, Miss Isabella Hunt's third, Mrs. Geo. W. Fitch's fourth and Mrs. H. G. Davy's fifth.

ARE WE BEYOND LIMIT.

Can Winchester Become a Part of Boston Postal District.

For some years past there has been considerable talk of Winchester entering the Boston postal district. According to the law, which is printed below, Winchester will be unable to enter the district if its boundary line is a great deal more than five miles from the boundary line of Boston, which in this case would be the distance from the Winchester-Medford line to the Charles-town line. If we are too far beyond the limit then we should work and strive for a government postoffice building. The law says "as near as may be." This is an elastic statement, so that Winchester may come within the prescribed limit. Can any of our readers inform the STAR of the distance from Charlestown to the Winchester-Medford line?

The law is as follows: "The Postmaster General, when the public convenience requires it, may establish within any postoffice delivery one or more branch offices (stations or substations) for the receipt and delivery of mail matter and the sale of stamps and envelopes; and he shall prescribe the rules and regulations for the government thereof. But no letter shall be sent for delivery to any branch office contrary to the request of the party to whom it is addressed.

No station, substation or branch post office shall be established beyond the corporate limits or boundaries of any city or town in which the principal office to which such station, substation or branch office is attached is located, except in cases of villages, towns, or cities of fifteen hundred or more inhabitants not distant more than five miles, as near as may be, from the outer boundary or limits of such city or town in which the principal office is located."

The Postmaster General in his report of 1909 says:

"The desirability of repealing so much of the act of June 9, 1896, as imposes a limitation on the establishment of branch offices and stations is again brought to the attention of Congress. Under this statute branches or stations cannot be established beyond the corporate limits of a city except in places of 1,500 or more inhabitants located not more than 5 miles distant. The restriction is inconsistent with the unlimited authority granted the Postmaster-General to establish post offices. It prevents an important step toward a more business like organization of the service, as outlined on pages 13 and 14 of this report. It works a distinct hardship on residents of numerous suburban towns, preventing them from receiving city delivery service. It is urged that this restriction be repealed, in effect, by amending section 3871 of the revised Statutes so that it will read substantially as follows:

"The Postmaster-General may establish branch offices at such places as he may deem expedient, and may also establish one or more stations within any post office delivery; and he shall prescribe the rules and regulations for the government of branch offices and stations."

The Postmaster-General in his report of 1910, again advocates this recommendation, saying, "The application of this method to all the smaller offices in the immediate neighborhood of cities is highly desirable."

The First Assistant Postmaster General in his report of 1910 say:

In past annual reports attention has been directed to the advantages that might be secured by reducing the number of independent post offices through their conversion into non-accounting branch offices. The greatest benefit to be derived from such action lies in the simplification of the accounting system, but a decided improvement in the character of the mail service might also be confidently expected as a result of the supervision that would be given to the work of the branches by the postmasters of the offices to which they were attached.

Wakefield, Melrose, Malden, Everett, Medford, Somerville, Cambridge, Boston, Brookline, Arlington, Arlington Heights and Lexington.

Meantime many important changes in laundry machinery have taken place, and the Winchester Laundry has kept its plant up-to-date. Many old machines have been put on the scrap heap to be supplanted by newer and more effective devices.

From handling a few shirts and collars each week the business has reached a point where the present output is about 4,000 shirts and from 25,000-30,000 collars, with eleven or twelve tons of family work weekly, crowding the present plant to its utmost capacity and compelling the management to request the drivers not to take on new customers except where old ones are lost.

So remarkable a growth has naturally necessitated greater capacity and larger quarters. This expansion is being accomplished under a corporate form of management. About five years ago it was felt necessary to have more business heads in the organization and a corporation was formed, under the Massachusetts law, with A. T. Downer as treasurer and general manager, Frank W. Roberts, president and mechanic, and John G. Perry, clerk and superintendent. The successes since that organization was authorized have warranted the directors of the company, it is felt, in taking a step which will insure the permanency of the business in its present favorable location.

Many observers who have been watching the undertaking with great interest believe that the new quarters, the Winchester Laundry, as one of the many of the remarkable institutions of which Winchester is proud, are easily becoming recognized as "the model laundry of New England."

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

As a truly American drama, "A Gentleman from Mississippi" has few equals, and it will offer exceptional entertainment at the Castle Square next week. The title character is the junior senator from Mississippi, and he goes to Washington with little knowledge of the world, and a firm belief that his state is the centre of the universe. The dialogue is brilliant with wit, and its situations and incidents are cleverly amusing. The atmosphere of the South and of Washington is preserved throughout the entire play, and it is filled with a series of very realistic scenes. The authors of "A Gentleman from Mississippi" are Harrison Rhodes and Thomas A. Wise, the latter the well known comedian who triumphed so emphatically in the title role. This play had a long run two seasons ago, but it has not been seen here since, its production at the Castle Square being its first time by a stock company and at popular prices.

Mr. Craig could not have done better than by selecting George Hassell and Donald Meek for the leading roles. Mr. Hassell will appear as Senator Sheldon, the title character, to whom his personal size and his rotund vigor will give added strength, and the part of a lively, wide-awake newspaper correspondent will be played by Mr. Meek. "A Gentleman from Mississippi" will be given at the Castle Square during only one week.

THE JUNE STRAND MAGAZINE

The June Strand upholds its reputation for being one of the most varied magazines published. An article which should especially attract women is one called "The Creation of a Venus." In order to build up this perfection of feminine beauty an English artist has taken the most perfect feature from a number of famous beauties and "created" a modern Venus of surpassing loveliness. The portraits from which this Venus has been "built up" are given in color and add to the attractiveness of the subject. Other articles in the June Strand which will attract are "Women Who Write Plays," "Wall Street: Its History and Romance," and "Uncle Sam's Humor." The fiction is excellent, and includes stories by Barry Pain, Austin Phillips, Randolph Bedford, Arthur Morrison and C. C. Andrews.

H. B. Winn, the clothing and dry goods dealer, contributed a large box of garments to the rummage sale held last Saturday by Victoria Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F. The garments were all new ones in first class condition, but a little out of style. Mr. Winn is an up-to-date man, and his large stock of goods is kept constantly in that condition. This is well to remember in purchasing dry goods or clothing.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

One of the most pretentious vaudeville bills ever offered at this time of the year is announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week, a feature of which will be Little Billy, the famous boy comedian. Billy is now offering an entirely new repertoire of songs and dances, and has become a greater favorite than ever. A comedy event of unusual importance will be the Ryan & Richfield Company, in a new comedy by Will M. Cress, entitled "Mag Haggerty, Oseopath." Another trio of favorites will be Louise Myers, Mildred Warren and Bert Lyon, in a comedy sketch called "A Little of Everything," in which Miss Myers plays her famous character of the maid, Frankie Carpenter and Joe Grady, who are great New England favorites, will also appear in a comedy called "The Butterfly," and others will be Carle Stowe, the monologist; the Exposition Four; Pauline Walsh; Hill, Cherry & Hill, the comedy cyclists; and the Aerial Smiths.

FLAGS MUST BE DISPLAYED.

A new state law has just gone into effect making it compulsory to have the American flag displayed from poles outside of all school buildings every fair day in the year and inside of the school rooms on all other days.

The act reads in part as follows:—"Chapter 232, Sec. 50, Acts of 1911:—The school committee of every city and town shall provide for each school house in which a public school is maintained and which is not otherwise supplied, a United States flag of silk or bunting not less than four feet in length and suitable apparatus whereby the flag shall be displayed on the schoolhouse building or grounds every school day when the weather permits and on the inside of the schoolhouse on other days. Failure to observe this law for a period of five consecutive days upon the part of the master or principal in charge of the school at the time shall be punished by a fine of not more than five dollars for each period of five days of such negligence, unless said failure is caused by the school committee in not providing the said master or principal with a flag, in which case the said penalty shall be imposed on those directly responsible for the failure so to supply the said master or principal. Said penalty shall be imposed by any court of competent jurisdiction within the Commonwealth."

MYSTERY SOLVED.

Key to Authorship of Anonymous Letters Suggested.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Many of your readers must be familiar with the ingenious attempts to prove that Bacon wrote the works attributed to Shakespeare. The method is somewhat complicated, but a letter in last week's STAR offers an opportunity to make a simple application of the process. This letter was entitled "Maime Fishing Trips", and was signed "Angle Worm."

It will be noticed that after the capital letter of the second word of the signature there are three small letters; let us strike these out. Now go back to the first word and also strike out the three small letters following the capital letter, and the one remaining letter change from small to capital. This is what we now have: instead of Angle Worm, Amhl E W(orm), or, A. E. W.

How's that for an up-to-date puzzle solution?

Query.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Edward T. Harrington Co. have sold for George B. Whitehouse, the new white house built by him, corner of Cambridge and Calumet Road to Mrs. D. A. Hall of Brookline.

The property consists of a house of 9 rooms and 2 baths and 15,800 sq. ft. of land.

The same firm has leased the house corner of Mystic Avenue and Lloyd Street, owned by H. M. Hovey to Mrs. Edith A. Pettigill of Lawson Road, Winchester.

W. H. S. NOTES.

MRS. SARAH M. PERKINS.

Mrs. Sarah Minerva Perkins, aged 75 years, died at her home No. 11 Irving street on Sunday. She had suffered for some time from a form of heart trouble, and this with bronchial asthma was the cause of her death. She was the widow of the late Daniel Perkins. She leaves two brothers and a sister.

Funeral services were held from the residence on Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Henry E. Hedge, pastor of the First Baptist Church officiated. The interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mr. Metcalf officiated at the funeral of Mrs. Wilhelmina Fleming of Harvard Observatory this week. Mrs. Fleming was easily the most distinguished woman astronomer the world has ever known. Her discovery of the new stars alone is sufficient to give her an undying place in the development of modern astronomy. Miss Maria Mitchell was famous more as a teacher than a working astronomer but Mrs. Fleming's work on variable and new stars placed her in the forefront of the world's discoverers.

Newsy Paragraphs.

A meeting was held last Friday night at the Innot Canoe Club of Woburn, attended by High school boys of that city. The meeting was held with the purpose of interesting the Woburn boys in canoeing and in forming a crew to compete for the Lawson Inter-Scholastic paddling trophy. Among those who spoke were Leon Tuck of this town, coach for the local High school crew, and Dean Wheatley, captain of the Winchester team. It is anticipated that a large entry will compete for the Lawson prize this year. The race will probably be run off June 17th in connection with the Winchester Boat Club regatta.

May 25, 1911. Officers will carefully observe any violation of the following laws in regard to the operation of automobiles, and if any violations are observed, take the name and address of the operator and report the same to the Chief.

1. Going around a corner where the operator's view is obstructed at more than eight miles an hour.

2. Going around corner, or at an intersection of ways, where the operator's view is obstructed without giving a signal by blowing horn or other wise.

3. Passing street cars which are discharging or embarking passengers without slowing down, or coming to full stop if necessary.

4. Driving at a greater rate of speed than is reasonable and proper in any part of the Town, particularly on the following streets: Main, Washington, Church, Mt. Vernon, and the Center of the Town.

5. Not being properly lit up at night. There should be two white lights in front to be seen at a distance of 200 feet, and a red light at the back.

W. R. McIntosh, Chief.

HIS HARD LUCK STORY.

(Contributed by E. S. B.)

His horse went dead and his mule went lame, and he lost six cows in a poker game; then a hurricane came on a summer's day and blew the house where he lived away, and the earthquake came when that was gone and swallowed the land that the house was on; then the tax collector came around and charged him up with the hole in the ground.

NOTICE!

Personal observation by the members of the Board of Selectmen, coupled with constantly increasing complaints made to them by citizens of the town, lead the Board to call upon owners and drivers of automobiles to bear in mind the necessity for restraint in driving upon Winchester streets.

Driving automobiles through the thickly settled portions of the town at a high rate of speed is not confined to non-residents, but is indulged in by many residents, who do not realize, apparently, the danger to others, and, particularly, to young children who are forced to cross the streets many times in travelling between their homes and their schools.

The growing practice by dealers in automobiles of using the principal streets of the town to demonstrate the speed qualities of their machines must cease.

The Board of Selectmen believe that automobile owners intend to be reasonable in the use of the streets and desire to co-operate with the public authorities in enforcing the laws of the road.

This notice is sent out in the hope that a word of caution to all will be sufficient and render unnecessary a campaign for the strict enforcement of the laws by the police officers of the town.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Put that Woburn hospital bill up to the next town meeting and it will unanimously authorize our Board of Health to pay it. A few years ago we voted to pay a pauper bill to Woburn that had been outlawed for many years.

Is Governor Foss making good? Ask any machine Republican and notice with what a gloomy face he discusses the question.

For the last three years that I have lived in Boston I have been patiently waiting to have somebody remark something besides, "Winchester, that's a fine town," but it seems to be hopeless to expect any other remark. How do you account for it Mr. Editor?

As our grade crossing bill will be law in a few days now arrangement should be made for a town meeting regarding it. Our Commoner decided not to kill it in either of the three committees it was before, nor in the House nor Senate nor before the Governor, but to smash it in the town meeting. This was very considerate of him, but perhaps it was because he wants his fun in the meeting over it. Let him look out however; the steam roller will be well greased and manned.

The hearings before House, Ways and Means Committee, of which Norman H. White is chairman, on the annual appropriation for the railroad commission are bringing out some very interesting things concerning the railroads and railways and between the activities of the Governor and Mr. White a great deal of good should come out of them. Mr. White is one of the strongest characters on Beacon Hill and one of its best legislators and will continue to be heard from as he is "un-ateated."

Our Assessors having finished their out-of-doors work are now preparing to buckle down to assessing and dooming in the quiet of their office and have a very large and important contract on their hands. I hear they got back about the usual number of sworn returns and the question now is what they will do about it. This return business has always been a farce here as elsewhere and it is high time there was a change. Let the Winchester Board be one of the leaders.

MEMORIAL DAY.

How the Day Will be Observed in Winchester.

Following is the program for Memorial Day as prepared by John T. Wilson, Commander of A. D. Weld Post 148, G. A. R., and the following committee—S. H. Brookings, Henry Smalley, W. C. Haskins and Henry G. Richburg:

HEADQUARTERS A. D. WELD POST, 148, G. A. R.

DEPARTMENT OF MASSACHUSETTS.

GENERAL ORDERS.

No. 1.

WINCHESTER, May 15, 1911

1. The time set apart as Memorial Day calls us with ever echoing notes to commemorate the unparalleled sacrifices that kept and maintained our beloved country one and indivisible. One by one our comrades are vanishing and answering to the roll call upon the other side, and all too soon, the last survivor of that patriotic host that rallied to the Nation's defense in its great need, will have passed beyond all earthly portals. While any of us remain, it is a solemn and imperative duty resting upon us, one and all, to take part in the observance of Memorial Day and to allow nothing to interfere with our presence with the Post in the beautiful and appropriate tributes to our departed comrades.

2. In accordance with the General Orders from Department and National Headquarters, and in obedience to Rules and Regulations, Tuesday, May 30th, will be observed by the comrades of this Post as Memorial Day.

3. Members of other Posts, and all soldiers and sailors who served in the war of the rebellion are invited to turn out with this Post and join with us in the observance of the day.

4. Comrades will report promptly at Headquarters, G. A. R.
Hall, at 2.00 P. M., in the regulation uniform—dark clothes, Kossuth hats with gilt cords, white belts and gloves.

5. All citizens are requested to put aside other duties and pleasures and co-operate with the Post in the proper observance of the day.

6. The Post will form on Mt. Vernon Street at 2.15 P. M., at
G. A. R. Hall, and under escort of the Woburn Mechanic Phalanx, Capt. J. Edward Graham, will receive the officials at the Town Hall.

7. Order of procession will be through Washington, Main, Church, Fletcher and Wildwood Streets to the Cemetery. Music by Everett Brass Band.

8. Comrades will assemble at 7.15 o'clock P. M. at the Headquarters, G. A. R. Hall, and at 7.30 march to the Town Hall, to attend services there.

9. Rev. P. Isaac Osborne of Winchester will deliver the address.

10. Senior Vice Commander, Henry Smalley, and Comrade Philip Maher are hereby detailed to decorate the graves of our comrades at East Woburn.

11. The attendance upon Divine Worship the Sunday next preceding Memorial Day has been so long a custom by our Post that it has become a part of the services of Memorial Day. Each comrade is particularly enjoined to turn out with the Post, Sunday, 28th inst., at 6.45 p. m. in uniform at the Post Hall.

By order of

JOHN T. WILSON,

Commander.

S. H. BROOKINGS,

Acting Adjutant.

Sunday evening, May 28th, at the First Congregational Church.

Comrades will assemble at G. A. R. Hall at 6.45 p. m. and march to the Church. Veterans residing in town are cordially invited to attend Church with the Post.

Sermon by the Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon of Winchester.

Exercises at the Town Hall, Tuesday evening, May 30th, commencing at 7.45 o'clock. Music will be rendered by children from the Public Schools under the direction of Mr. Ernst Makechnie.

- 6 Address BY REV. P. ISAAC OSBORNE OF WINCHESTER
- 7 Marching Thro' Georgia BY THE SCHOOL CHILDREN
- 8 America

My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing:
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrims' pride,
From ev'ry mountain side
Let freedom ring!

My native country, thee,
Land of the noble, free,
Thy name I love;
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills:
My heart with rapture thrills
Like that above.

The audience are requested to rise and join in the singing of America.

THE JUNE WOMAN'S

HOME COMPANION.

The June Woman's Companion is interesting and useful in a great variety of ways. One of its splendid features, particularly entertaining and valuable at the present time is a description of a large number of "safe and sane" celebrations of the Fourth of July which actually took place last year. These reports are full of ideas and suggestions which, as fast as they are put into effect, will save legs, arms and lives. And the great point is that the children who enjoyed these celebrations had a better time than they ever had in the old way. The new forms of entertainment that have been devised, and that are reported in this month's Companion, are really amazing in extent and ingenuity.

The fiction in this month's Companion is notable. There is a splendid story by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, the last piece of work written by this famous author shortly before her death a few months ago.
Other stories are contributed by Marion
Hul, C. N. and A. M. Williamson, Zona
Gale, Fannie Heaslip Lea and others.

Something unique and indeed aboriginal in the way of petition has reached Congress. It has come to Speaker Champ Clark and bears 66 signatures; in what looks like blood—every name in red. It is a protest from the Chippewa Indians of the White Earth Reservation in Minnesota against what they allege is an attempted legalization of fraudulent land sales or their reservation. The signatures are in the prints of thumbs dipped in poke-berry juice. The first name signed to the document is that of a chief, May-zhuc-he-gwon-nobe.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE

New Tax Method Proposed For

Forests and For Economies

PURE MILK BILLS ARE VETOED

Massachusetts Manufacturers Concerned Over the Tariff Situation—

Government by Experts at the State

House

Governor Foss continues to send in veto and special messages to the legislature. One of his recent messages recommended the adoption of two constitutional amendments, one authorizing the great and general court to levy a tax upon incomes, and the other to permit the taxation of forest lands at a different rate than other property. The governor thinks that his proposition to tax forest lands at a rate different from other property presents a scientific system for the taxation of forestry. He says three-fourths of the area of Massachusetts is better adapted to forestry than to any other purpose and that Massachusetts is a natural forestry state, and he believes that the adoption of his plan would be the best thing possible for the development of rural life.

He is opposed to the proposition for a state income tax upon all incomes in addition to the present taxes on the ground that it would impose double taxation, but he favors a state income tax as a substitute for a part or a whole of the present tax on personal property and claims that this would not be an obstacle to a federal income tax.

Purity of the Milk Supply

By his veto of two bills intended to preserve the purity of the milk supply coming into Boston, Governor Foss has disappointed a number of those interested in the public health who had sought to protect the public against impure milk. Some of the newspapers have criticized him severely for his action in this regard. The Transcript says that both these measures were "in line with the best and most advanced public thought on the question of milk and milk supplies," and continues: "The governor seems to have taken a brief for the farmers entirely and to have accepted absolutely their side of the case. This simply shows into what errors an inexperienced person—governor or anyone else—may fall by consulting one faction."

The Transcript also criticizes the governor's veto of the resolve for printing five thousand copies of the report of the Massachusetts commission on the cost of living. The revision was to have been made by the chairman and secretary of the commission, who were to "eliminate matters of temporary interest . . . bring statistics up to date, and . . . otherwise revise the report in matters of fact as they may deem advisable."

The Transcript says the real source of the resolve was the extraordinary demand for this document. "It will be remembered," says the Transcript, "that it was used in the campaign with considerable force against Candidate Foss to relate his exaggerations placing upon the tariff the entire burden of the increased cost of living. The public may be pardoned for its assumption that there is direct relation between the findings of this report and the action of the governor."

Governor Draper Is Vindicated

The supreme court of Massachusetts has vindicated Governor Draper. When Governor Draper vetoed the so-called eight-hour bill providing for eight hours for certain employees engaged in public work for the state, county, city or town, he was attacked in the most vindictive fashion by men styling themselves labor leaders. It mattered not that each time Governor Draper vetoed this measure he was advised by the attorney general that it was unconstitutional. The labor men opposed him viciously because he had the courage of his conviction and was not afraid to do what he thought right. Now, in answer to the direct question by the legislature whether the act would be constitutional, the state supreme court has replied that it would not. Governor Foss, it will be remembered, first urged Governor Draper to veto the bill and later condemned Governor Draper for his veto, and still later declared that if elected he would sign it if it came to him. That shows the difference in the calibre of the two men.

Manufacturers and the Tariff

The manufacturers of Massachusetts are much concerned over the tariff situation. They say they are in a state of uncertainty regarding future operations owing to the fact that the Democrats wish to make a radical revision of the tariff. With the house Democratic and the senate Republican, of course nothing can be done, but there is always the possibility that insurgent Republicans might vote in sufficient numbers with the Democrats to pass a measure which was not too radical. The Bay State manufacturers do not look for any general tariff bill at the present special session, but they expect the situation to be somewhat different at the regular session in December. They believe that session will give a good deal of time to tariff agitation and the Democrats will draft a general bill on which they may appeal to the country in the presidential and congressional elections of next year.

There is no optimism felt by Massachusetts manufacturers. The woolen manufacturers especially are feeling much depressed and are not making any extensions at the present time. Many of their mills are running only upon orders and their purchases of wool are from hand to mouth. Many of them believe that business not only will not improve but that, on the contrary, it will remain stagnant, or become even worse until the tariff uncertainty is settled, which may not be before 1913.

Some of them feel that the country as a whole is antagonistic to the industries of this commonwealth, although they admit that the state has always fared well at the hands of congress in the protection of its industries. These men feel that one cause for the bad feeling of the rest of the country toward New England is the fact that while this section has always been well protected there have been many shortsighted Massachusetts people who have not appreciated the treatment of the state but have continually demanded the abolition of duties on raw materials used in its industries while accepting the highest protection on its manufactured goods—an attitude of sublimated selfishness which could have no other result than to incur the antagonism of the rest of the country.

Regarding Government by Experts

The debate of the experts appointed to investigate the various departments of the commonwealth still continues. It seems to be agreed, however, by all concerned, that the value of the investigations so far conducted is nowhere near equal to the amount of money it has cost to date. Expert Chase, who went over the accounts of State Treasurer Stevens, found three or four minor mistakes in the accounts during the years which he covered in that office. He admits that he found not one single instance of dishonesty, and that the office appears to have been administered with scrupulous integrity. In the two hearings given Mr. Chase by the committee on ways and means, he failed absolutely to make good his suggestions as to the proper system of handling sinking funds. For that reason, perhaps, he tried to discredit the treasurer, although compelled to admit that he had found no evidence of dishonesty of any sort. The committee on ways and means is convinced that Mr. Stevens is an admirable treasurer and that he has conducted his office with the highest ability and integrity. The committee also recognizes the fact that the state treasurer himself cannot do all the work of the office and that to the clerks and subordinates must be left practically all the calculations and mathematical work which is to be done therein. All the mathematical errors discovered by Mr. Chase were of such a trivial character as not to invalidate or materially affect the work of the office. The majority of the committee on ways and means feels very strongly that the work of Mr. Chase, so far as the treasurer's office is concerned, has been of no value whatever, not only because his report contained errors, but because it contained no valuable suggestions either as to the administration of the treasurer's office or as to possible changes in the laws relating to that department.

Governor Foss' announcement that he would veto the fifty-four-hour bill as well as the bill for higher salaries for school teachers created a storm of protest. Mayor Fitzgerald fears that such action would mean his defeat this fall.

NURSING AS A CAREER.

It is said that nursing is one of the most inviting fields of human service and that its financial return surpasses any other occupation open to young women. It develops all the native graces of womanhood and leads the way to positions of trust and influence. The demand for more nurses is a world wide call.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses, located in Philadelphia, Pa., has undertaken to meet this demand by offering free scholarships to young women in all parts of the country. Room, board, laundering, incidental expenses, special financial assistance and railroad fare home on completion of the course, are provided. Length of course two years. Also a Special Short Course and a Home Study Course for those who must quickly prepare for self-support.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses is a benevolent institution conducted without hope of gain or profit in the interests of ambitious young women. Readers of this paper can get full information by writing the school at once.

Micah's Picture of Universal Peace.
(An International Peace Lesson.)
Micah IV:1-8.

Golden Text—Nations shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. Micah IV:3.

(1.) Verse 1—What are your ideas concerning the millennium?

(2.) What institution to-day stands as a mountain above every other institution?

(3.) When will Christianity probably sway the hearts of the nations, so that their beneficent laws will dominate them?

(4.) What are the influences at work to-day which make for the Christianization of the nation?

(5.) Verse 2—What can churches and individuals do more than they are doing, to make the nations of the earth Christian?

(6.) Verse 3—When will nations begin "to beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks?"

(7.) There probably never was a time when the civilized nations were spending as much money on their armies and navies as now, or were more thoroughly prepared for war, what does this indicate as to the coming of universal peace?

(8.) What is probably the cost per annum of (1) the standing armies, (2) the navies of the civilized nations?

(9.) If fifty per cent of the vast sum spent in preparation for war were spent in educating the nations in the folly of war, and in the sufficiency of arbitration to settle disputes, how many years would it take to accomplish?

(10.) What would be the effect if the universities of the world were to establish chairs for teaching the folly of war, and the morality, and economics of peace?

(11.) When did you last listen to a sermon from your pastor on the crime and folly of war?

(12.) To what extent is the Christian church responsible for the present insane preparation for war?

(13.) If Jesus were now in the flesh and addressed public gatherings, what would he probably say about present day war preparations? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(14.) Verses 4-8—If the nations of the earth were to disarm and make a treaty of perpetual peace, what would be its economic, its social, and ethical effect?

(15.) What effect would perpetual peace have upon the evangelization of the world?

(16.) What can we do more, to arouse the average man to a realization of the stupendous folly and crime of war?

Occupation for Women.

Two women, maybe more, occupy novel positions in the business world in New York. These women are employed by a number of wholesale dress goods and millinery houses to entertain women buyers from out of town. They entertain the visitors at dinner, in the theater, and make the sojourners' stay in New York pleasant. The expense, of course, is charged to the houses employing them. The individual charges of these women entertainers usually are about one-fourth of the total expense.

Really Hard Luck.

Four men were sympathizing with each other at an uptown hotel, according to the New York Sun. They were employees pretty well up on the staff list and two of them were assistant managers. They had indorsed checks for acquaintances that they supposed were all right, and, according to the rule, had to make good. "I'm worse stuck than any of you," said the chief engineer. "The check I got stuck on was for $114 and the man who signed it is in jail."

Keep Clean.

Keep your house and your belongings clean. Let the blessed sun, the greatest physician in the world, get all through you and all about you. Get your full share of the free air of heaven. "Eat to live and not live to eat," as a sage philosopher of the long ago tells us. Keep your house clean in which you live and keep the "house" in which your life lives clean, and all will be well.

Will Inherit at Sixty-Five.

The will of Mrs. Mary Olmstead of Brooklyn, filed in the surrogate's office in Kings county recently, makes a provision that none of the legatees are to receive their share of the estate until they reach the age of sixty-five years, except in the case of the two grandchildren, who will receive their share when they become thirty-five years of age.

Rooster Hard to Kill.

A Buff Orpington rooster, missing for three weeks, was found wedged in the wooden foundation of a haystack at Stanford, Kent, England. The bird was as thin as a lath, but now is crowing as lustily as ever. It was twenty days without food.

Solomon on the Bench.

An old offender was introduced to a new country justice as "John Timmons, alias Jones, alias Smith." "I'll try the two women first," said the justice. "Bring in Alice Jones."

Aurora Borealis.

According to a theory recently enunciated, the aurora borealis is formed of cathode rays, emitted by the sun and deflected by the terrestrial magnetic field in the upper strata of the atmosphere. The velocity of these cathode rays must be nearly equal to that of light, and very much greater than the velocity of cathode rays produced in the laboratory. Lenard concludes that these extremely "hard" cathode rays are emitted by unknown radio-active substances in the sun.

Flower Keeps Its Freshness.

A common South African flower possesses the valuable property of keeping fresh for two months or more after cutting. It is a white star of Bethlehem, producing a compact spike of flowers on a stiff, erect stalk 18 inches or two feet long. The flowers are of a thin and papery tissue, all white except the yellow anthers. It can be sent over as a cut flower from South Africa to England, and then lasts for weeks in water.

Why Australia Has Thrived.

We believe it to be the case that the conditions of Australia, where reward is more proportionate to ability and effort, and less dependent than in an old country upon birth and favor, lead to the development among natives of the commonwealth, on the average, of greater activity of mind and body than is found among the natives of the United Kingdom—British Australasian.

IN TROUTLAND.

Streams and Woods Alluring to Winchester Men.

Lakes and bays are fabled from the log cabins at what is known as Marr's Camps, Indian Pond, Somerset Junction, Maine. And even the traditional hatch strings are not seen hanging from the doors, for the reason that the doors stand wide open all through the twenty-four hours. It is an ideal place tenanted by ideal people, are these Marr's Camps. Situated away up in the Pine Tree State, close to the headwaters of the Kennebec River, which drains the big Moosehead Lake, the locality abounds in fish and game, and is a paradise for the sportsman and those persons who would forget the turmoil of life and accumulate a reserve of strength for the days to come. The nearest neighbor is miles away from the camp, and the only intruders seen are the rugged rivermen guiding the winter's cut of logs down the swiftly moving waters of the Kennebec,—honest and kindhearted men.

Last week saw a party of Winchester gentlemen at the camp enjoying to the full all that nature has to bestow in perhaps the most charming part of Maine. The chaperone and guide was Mr. Charles A. Lane, whose wide experience and travel have enabled him to learn where fish and game most abound. The game laws were on, so that there was no shooting, although many tempting opportunities were afforded, a deer being seen within one hundred feet of the camp, while partridges and other game birds were met with at frequent intervals in tramps through the woods. But the gentlemen were after trout, and so but little attention was given to the denizens of the forest. The trout caught weighed from one-half to two pounds and a half each, and were full of fight. Singular to relate, the biggest fish did not get away, he was safely taken out of the water with the aid of a landing net. One of the fishermen did, however, make a try at pulling up the bed of the river, but he had sense enough when he found his hook had been torn from the line not to claim it was the work of a monster fish. Trout just taken from the water are delicious when broiled by an experienced cook like the one who presided at the camp, and so many times it had a prominent place on the table. But Mr. Marr is a generous provider so that trout diet was but one of the many dishes served, roast beef, steak, chops, eggs, and in fact a cuisine equal to that of a first class hotel, was always at the disposal of the hungry Winchesterites.

The hunting season is in the fall, and at that time the fishing is good too, and each year a party of ladies and gentlemen can be found at the camp.

There are about a dozen log camps or cabins with accommodations for from four to eight persons each, with broad piazzas, large living room in each, with stoves and the requisite furniture for comfort. The accommodating host, the excellent table, the fishing and shooting, the comfortable beds and the general air of cleanliness have made Marr's camps known to people in many states.

When the train on the outward journey reached Madison, a son of Rev. F. H. Means was at the station to greet the party. Rev. Mr. Means will be remembered as a recent resident of Winchester. The week spent at the camp was a most pleasant one and much enjoyed by the local fishermen.

SERVICE OF ORDINATION.

The Bishop of Massachusetts will hold his spring ordination of priests here in Winchester at the Church of the Epiphany, Thursday morning, June 8th, at 10 a. m. The preacher will be the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, D. D., Rector of St. John's Church, Washington. The public is cordially invited to be present at this service.

KEEPING UP WITH LIZZIE.

Have you read Irving Bacheller's new book, "Keeping up with Lizzie?" Better read it soon. There are only seven short chapters and you can read it all in one evening, but be prepared to disturb the air with many a ripple of laughter, and to feel yourself failing in love with old Soc. (Socrates) Potter and his homely philosophy. The Connecticut Yankee is at his best in Socrates, and that is saying a good deal.

Lizzie Henshaw the grocer's daughter went away to a fashionable boarding school, at seven hundred dollars. From that day she set the pace for the community. Dan Pettigrew, son of another grocer, had of course to be sent to Harvard. Both grocers must put up their prices to cover expenses. Lizzie made friends and sailed round in automobiles and set the pace again. Sam Henshaw felt compelled to build a new house to keep up with Lizzie, and all Pettigrew to mortgage his to buy an automobile. Twenty men that used to walk to their dinners every day had to buy outstons. Then everything began to rise but morals. The bank clerk could not keep his pace and suicided.

But the end was coming and it was better than they deserved, thanks to Soc. Potter. The people that were "motor sick and horse-sick," sick of idleness and rich food, began to discover that there were only three luxuries after all: "work, children and motherhood;" that happiness did not come by pursuing her, she overtakes, but is never captured.

How is this for a bit of homely good sense? "The Yankee blood is running out and it is a pity. Today the Yankees are almost a childless race. Do you know the reason? It costs so much to live. We can't afford children. To begin with boys and girls don't marry so young. They can't stand the expense. They're all keeping up with Lizzie, but on the wrong road. The girls are worse than the boys. They go out of the private school and beat the bush for a husband. At first they hope to drive out a duke or an earl; by an' by they're willin' to take a common millionaire; at last they conclude that if they can't get a stag they'll take a rabbit. Then we learn that they're engaged to a young man, an' are going to marry as soon as he can afford it. He wears himself out in the struggle an' is apt to be a nervous wreck before the day arrives. They are nearin' or past thirty when he decides that with strict economy an' no children they can afford to maintain a home. The bells ring, the lovely strains from "Lohengrin" fill the grand new house of God, an' overflow into the quiet streets of the village, an' we hear in them what Wagner never thought of—the joyful death-march of a race. This old earth is growing too costly for the use of man. We prefer autos an' diamonds an' knick-knacks. Life has become a kind of circus, where only the favored can pay the price of admission, an' here in America where about all the great men we have had were born in cabins, an' came out o' poverty."

REMARKABLE EXHIBITION.

There is a remarkable little exhibition of drawings by children, opened this week at Room 20, Copley Hall, Clarendon street.

These drawings are so free and original and so fresh and delightful in color that they surprise even the artists into cordial enthusiasm.

It is commonly asserted that there is little genuine artistic spirit among the art students and even the artists of today here in America, but these drawings show the easy possibility of development and intelligent artistic appreciation, spreading gradually through the whole community, and out of which widespread appreciation, of School of American Art could naturally arise.

These drawings are the work of the average school child guided and encouraged to paint in the joyous spontaneous manner of the true artist, and one is tempted to believe that every normal child has the capacity for artistic expression.

The schools represented are the Buckingham School and the Berkley street school of Cambridge; and Miss Carroll's school Brockton where Miss Edith King of Belmont teaches the drawing and painting; also a class in Winchester High by Miss King and Mrs. Hermann Dudley Murphy.

The exhibition will remain open until June 7th and is open to the public.

DAVIS—HINDS.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Hinds of Glen road announced the marriage of their niece, Edith Planer Hinds, to Mr. Paul B. Davis on Wednesday, May 31st.

"PANDORA'S BOX."

Entertainment for the Benefit of Local Charities.

The people of Winchester are to have the privilege of witnessing a most delightful outdoor entertainment called "Pandora's Box" which will be held on the weather is favorable, Monday evening, June 19th at 8.15 p. m., on the estate of Mr. Oren C. Sanborn.

The pantomime has been arranged by Miss Mary G. Kellogg, who has drilled the parts and taught the dances.

It will be presented in three episodes: 1. The Origin of Pandora 2. The Paradise of Children 3. The Opening of the Box

Miss Hazel MacKaye, at one time a member of the Company of Coburn players and lately assistant stage director of the Pageant of Darkness and Light, is to have charge of the staging.

Mr. W. H. W. Bicknell has kindly consented to attend to the music and will provide an orchestra of 20 pieces with Mr. John Little of Malden as leader. Some of the music of Gluck's Opera "Orpheus" which will be used has been obtained with great difficulty, as the orchestral parts can not be bought in America. Mr. Swotland, the electrician of the Boston Opera House, has been engaged to produce elaborate lighting effects.

All are familiar with the Greek Legend of Pandora and the way she brought trouble into the world. As worked out in this entertainment in the first episode, Pandora is seen by Mercury after she has been fashioned out of clay by Vulcan and before she has received the breath of life. He calls upon the Goddesses to give her such qualities as will make her perfect. Minerva gives her wisdom, Diana strength and courage, Venus beauty. Mercury then sends to earth for her children playmates and they call her into life.

The Gods are angry because Prometheus has stolen fire from heaven for the use of man, so they plan to send Pandora to bring trouble to Prometheus and his fellow mortals.

Prometheus suspects that, as the Gods are angry with him, they would not send him a gift in good faith so he refuses to accept Pandora and warns his brother Epimetheus against her.

The second episode begins where Mercury brings Pandora to Epimetheus. As he has been warned he refuses to look at her and only by the use of all her powers does she finally succeed in attracting him. Then a crowd of Epimetheus' playmates enter and as they are playing and dancing together Mercury appears with a huge box on his shoulders. He puts down the box, asks permission to rest, and warns all on no account to touch it. The children continue their play, but Pandora has no interest in anything but the box.

31 episode. Pandora is seen still fascinated by the box, the cords of which she is attempting to untie, when Epimetheus enters and tries to draw her away. Her playmates do the same but without avail. When Epimetheus comes for her a second time she rushes to the box and opens it, whereupon all the evils of the world are liberated.

Pandora, now frightened and repentant, implores forgiveness but Epimetheus is obdurate and refuses.

The last scene is where the Gods, who have watched their scheme succeed, feel pity for mankind and so compel Pandora to open the box again that Hope, the greatest friend of man, may not be shut up while the evils of the world are free to do their worst.

The following is the cast:

Pandora, Miriam Phinney
Epimetheus, Genevieve Robinson
Mercury, Pauline Chamberlain
Diana, Margaret French
Minerva, Frances Elder
Venus, Ruth Phinney
Hope, Mary Kellogg
Maidens, Rhoda Young, Marguerite Barr, Georgia Young, Elizabeth Clark, Isabel Hunt, Gertrude May, Celma Cox, Dorothy Furbush, Estelle Davis, Helen Sanborn.

Children, Carlina Murphy, Myrtle Dunn, Ruth Hammond, Melora Davis, Ruth Caldwell, Virginia Mosman, Anne Zueblin, Elizabeth Levick.

Tickets for the entertainment, which will be for the benefit of the Hospital Fund and the Primary Assembly Room, may be obtained of Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn.

If the weather is unfavorable on June 19th the entertainment will be given on the first pleasant evening following.

"A PROTEST."

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you kindly print the following letter in your paper this week.

To the Citizens of the Town of Winchester.

In passing through your Town on my way to the Cemetery on Memorial Day I encountered something that I don't believe ever happened in any city or town in the United States on "Decoration Day;" the day that has been set apart for decorating the graves of our loved ones and to honor the dead heroes.

In passing up Washington street we first met the teams at work tarring the street, which made it impossible for the car or other vehicles to pass. Beyond this we met the revolving brush, brushing the street throwing dirt over everybody who attempted to walk on the street or sidewalk, making the street practically closed for public travel. We finally arrived at the cemetery, the time taking us to get there being one hour more than it generally is from my destination. Now I think the Citizens of Winchester and G. A. R. should demand an explanation from the "Selectmen" to find out if such inconvenience is necessary on this particular day. If so I think they must have lost all respect for the dead that should be honored on this day.

Respectfully yours,

Charles D. Emerson,
Harvard Sq., Cambridge, Mass.

STORES TRYING TO CLOSE WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

As on years past, an effort is being made to unite the merchants in town in closing their stores on Wednesday afternoons during June, July and August. A number have signified their willingness to do so, but some proprietors do not like the day selected, preferring Thursday or Saturdays, etc., and it is probable that again this year some of the stores will be closed and others open on various days. Still others will remain open during June.

The effort to secure a half-holiday during the summer has never met with a united support from all, and under these conditions probably does more harm than good.

The following places will close Wednesday afternoons during June, July and August:

H. B. Winn (both stores)
Central Hardware Co.
Bowser & Bancroft
Franklin E. Barnes & Co.
Winchester Exchange
Duce & Adams
Winchester Shoe Store
James McLaughlin
Thos. O'Laughlin
David Sten
S. Frumson
Hersey Hardware Co.
M. A. Shirreff
Arnold the Florist
Louise Wine
Michael O'Donnell
Peoples Fish Market (July and August)
Hollands Fish Market
J. C. Adams
Edwards & Poor (Saturdays only)
None of the stores will close on weeks having a legal holiday.

NOONAN—SULLIVAN.

Miss Elsie B. Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Sullivan of Main street and Mr. William J. Noonan of Woburn were married last evening at St. Mary's parochial residence by Rev. Walter J. Roach. Mr. Joseph Noonan, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Grace Davis of this town bridesmaid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, attended by a large gathering of young people and friends of the couple.

The bride was attired in a dress of white silk muslin trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and maiden hair fern. The ushers at the house were Messrs. Joseph and Frank Noonan of Woburn and Edward Sullivan of this town, brother of the bride. Following the reception the party adjourned to Waterfield hall, where dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Many handsome gifts were received, including cut glass, silver, and household articles. Mr. and Mrs. Noonan will make their home in Winchester.

NOT HURT BUT FRIGHTEENED.

On a recent Saturday afternoon an Italian was taken from Winchester to the Choate Memorial Hospital in a big touring car. From what could be learned the man was gently bumped by the auto and bowled over in the street a few times. No bones were broken and no bruises or any kind appeared on his body. The yell of the man during his bath and while being attended by the doctor, would give one the impression that a crude fragment of grand opera had remained on this side of the Atlantic during the summer months, and by a mischance had been waited to Woburn. His high notes were all rendered in superb Italian and his audience was happy when the melody was over.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

May 31—June 19.

Exhibition of photographs loaned by the Library Art Club. Mount Shasta and Lake Tahoe. Mount Shasta is in the northern part of California, 350 miles from San Francisco. It is a colossal volcanic cone 14,440 feet high, next to Mount Whitney the highest peak in the United States.

Lake Tahoe is about 140 miles north-east of San Francisco. It is 22 miles long, 10 miles wide, and 6,216 ft. above the sea. South of it are numerous other beautiful lakes, and surrounding all are the mountain peaks of the Sierras.

L. T. L. NOTES.

The Loyal Temperance Legion met Friday, May 26 in the Methodist Church vestry with a good attendance. Mrs. Frisbie had charge of the meeting which was the last regular one of the season, although the members will meet June 17 to assist in entertaining the club from the Willard Settlement.

Plans were discussed for the entertainment of the Middlesex County Convention of the L. T. L. which will be held in Winchester Saturday, June 10. It is hoped that all members who can will attend the sessions of the convention which will be held in the M. E. Church.

COMING EVENTS.

June 3, Saturday. Winchester Country Club. Medal play. Invitation.

June 3, Saturday, 3 p. m. Lawn party of the Winchester Equal Suffrage League at the home of the President, Margaret M. Elder, on Myopia Hill.

June 6, Tuesday. Winchester Country Club. Ladies' golf—two ball foursomes in charge of Mrs. Davy.

June 10, Saturday. Food sale at Arnold's flower store.

A VICTORY.

The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club scored an easy victory over the Bowdoin A. C. of Dorchester last Saturday afternoon, 17-8. Excepting the errors, it was a clean and well-played game, many good stops and throws being made. Among these were catches by Eldredge, Shields and Ruppach, and stops by Blank, and Ramisch.

Murphy pitched a fine game for Winchester, striking out seventeen. Several innings he retired the side on strikes.

G. Robinson was the batting star of the game, making four hits for a total of seven bases, one of which was a home run. This was undoubtedly one of the longest hits ever made on the grounds. Others who batted well were Murphy, Belleville, Burwell, Shields and Levins. This is the first game the boys have won, and now with the crowd with them, they are pulling hard for another victory.

KELLEY—JUDKINS.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Judkins of 72 Bacon street, last evening their daughter, Miss Irene Pishon Judkins, formerly of Brookline, became the bride of Arthur Shirley Kelley of Everett.

Mr. Kelley is manager of the diamond department of a firm of well known jewellers of Boston and has been with the concern during the last 15 years. He is a prominent member of the Malden Club and is well known in Boston business circles. The bride is well known in Winchester and Brookline circles.

The couple was married by Rev. George G. Hamilton, pastor of the First Universalist Church of Everett. Miss Judkins was attended by Misses Margaret and Catherine Cutler as bridesmaids and George L. Kelley, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Miss Mildred Judkins, a sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor, while C. Ernest and George W. Judkins, brothers of the bride, were the ushers.

W. H. S. NOTES.

The second of the class games were played on Wednesday afternoon when the Juniors defeated the Seniors 18-12. The heavy hitting and loose holding on the part of the Seniors accounted for most of the runs.

Exercises appropriate to Memorial Day were held in the Assembly Hall on Monday morning. Raymond Strawbridge spoke on "The Origin of Decoration Day," Alexander Godfrey on "The Graves of Our Dead," and Alice Romkey on "Memorial Day." The orchestra also played two selections entitled "Sweet Eyes are Blue" and "Winter."

The crew has been practising daily under the coaching of Leon Tuck, one of last year's four. They will probably paddle for the Lawson Trophy on June 17th.

Vacation privileges at the Public Library for persons who leave town, or remain at home. Any reasonable number of books, not new or in great demand, are allowed persons who will be responsible for them, but the cards must be left at the library for renewal if the books are to be retained longer than the regulation period.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A certain Winchester youngster of The Spectator's acquaintance has a way of indicating his wishes by dropping into correspondence with the various members of his family. They find notes from him on their plates or pinned in a conspicuous way to something in their rooms. One morning this youngster's mother found the following communication from her young hopeful pinned to a cushion on her dressing case:

Dear Mother - I need a new music roll, a new dickshenerary and a base ball bat. If you cannot get all at once get the bat. I can get along without the music-roll and the dickshenerary."

A young woman well known to The Spectator has been committed to a hospital for the insane. She became violently insane when the wedding she had planned was frustrated. The license had been obtained, but the wedding was forbidden by the family physician because of evidences of mental disorder. In the opinion of The Spectator it was a wise interference, the medical man's prudence being fully confirmed by the sudden development of insanity when the marriage was forbidden. It is not difficult to see many cases where similar interference would have saved unending anxiety, misery and suffering to parents and the deplorable inheritance of incurable diseases to children. The time may come when the example set by the courageous physician who lives within a very few miles of Winchester will be more extensively followed; when it will even be more strongly indorsed by law; and when it is, our hospitals for the insane and our penal institutions will be less crowded and the tremendous total of misery will be appreciably reduced.

A woman has a just cause for complaint in what The Spectator is told is a fact. Her husband is so pennywise that in order to reduce expense he insists upon her going barefooted around the house and wearing a discarded pair of his shoes when she goes out. If any woman could get a divorce surely that woman can. The legal doctrine of the unity of man and wife is not without its limitations.

A well known gentleman gives The Spectator to understand that the boy-scout movement does not appeal to him at all. This gentleman voices the feelings of a number of persons The Spectator has had the pleasure of discussing the subject with when he says that the opposition rests upon the essential undecidability of stimulating the military spirit. "America is not likely to be invaded," he says "it is not necessary that we should saturate our youths with the spirit of militarism. We have drifted into a condition of international menace. And yet we have by no means reached the stage in which it is necessary to feed our rising generation upon gun powder or cloth in khaki. The ideals of the rising American generation are still civic, still peaceful and industrial, and should remain so." In the opinion of The Spectator such counsel is wise. This country of ours will best serve its mission to the world by avoiding so far as possible being ensnared completely in the military ideal. When the boys grow up, they may serve in the militia. But other ideals should have first chance at them.

Every time The Spectator hears a man make the assertion that he likes hard work he cannot help believing that the man would get nearer the truth were he to say that he likes the results which it produces.

Quite frequently The Spectator likes to stand at the corner of Mt. Vernon and Main street and make a study of the persons who pass by. One thing The Spectator is convinced of and that is that one can never tell how happy or unhappy a man is by the expression of his face in public.

A gentleman lets drop the remark that the man who first advised the hitching of a wagon to a star must have had the aeroplane in his prophetic mind.

A shoeman who The Spectator patronizes gives him the information that gray is, in some respects, a more sensible leather for shoes than black. It is the color of the dust of the streets. It will not show the dust, as will black shoes. Lately The Spectator has been on the lookout for a man wearing gray shoes but has yet to see him. It is very evident that gentlemen wearing gray shoes are as scarce as hen's teeth.

The Spectator is delighted to give the following communication publicity. It is one of several which have been received at The STAR office recently:—

Dear Spectator: I hope you will not take it amiss if I express to you my warm appreciation of the admirable paper the management of The STAR is giving the people of Winchester. To my mind The STAR at present comes pretty close to being an ideal paper. Clean, bright, newsy, attractively made up, well managed and ably edited. Everybody feels that the STAR is going steadily forward, and the people of Winchester are indebted to the STAR in more ways than one.

Thanks, many thanks, dear friend,
The Spectator.

For the past few years the Massachusetts Fish and Game Commission have been stocking the Charles river with bass, white perch, brown trout, speckled trout and other game fish. In spite of the many people who fish and boat on the river the fishing is good in the secluded, upper portions of the stream. This year, according to the Boston Transcript, a large number of brown trout are to be put into the river as they are more pugnacious than the speckled trout and better able to defend themselves against the black bass which is the most predatory of all fresh water fish. Newton, Waltham and other municipalities take water from the Charles through screens and filtering arrangements, but no objection has ever been made against the fishing privileges on the river the general public so much enjoy, the fishing not being restricted to any one municipality.

A special musical program was rendered by the church choir.

While the contest of putting the shot at the Athletic meet of the High school was going on at Manchester Field last Saturday, Miss Marjorie Braddock of Hillecrest, a spectator, was hit in the chest by one of the iron balls and rendered unconscious for a time.

TRACK MEET.

Last Friday afternoon the High school track team was defeated in the meet with Arlington High School, 51-17. Arlington kept the lead from start to finish and after the first two events Winchester hadn't the slightest hope of winning.

In the high jump Winchester was tied with Arlington for first place. Penialigan of Winchester and Cronin of Arlington each jumped five feet two inches. This was Winchester's only first place in the meet.

H. Reyeroft and F. Osgood of Arlington each gained ten points besides winning in the relay race, which was won by Arlington. L. Goddu of Winchester secured one second place and two thirds, making five out of the seventeen points for Winchester.

Winchester was greatly handicapped by the loss of its captain, H. Wheatley and R. Cutting who were unable to compete.

The summary: One hundred yard dash—H. Reyeroft of Arlington first, Robinson of Arlington second, and L. Goddu of Winchester third. Time—ten and three-fifths seconds.

Shot put—W. Low of Arlington first, thirty five feet, five inches; Tuck of Winchester second, thirty four feet, nine inches; D. Wheatley of Winchester third, thirty-three feet, eleven inches.

Four-forty yard dash—Osgood of Arlington first, R. Hooper of Arlington second and L. Goddu of Winchester third. Time, fifty-six and four-fifths seconds.

High jump—Penialigan of Winchester and Cronin of Arlington tied for first, five feet, two inches and Ober of Arlington second, five feet.

Two-hundred yard dash—H. Reyeroft of Arlington first, L. Goddu of Winchester second and Robinson of Arlington third. Time, twenty-four and one-fifth seconds.

Broad jump—Osgood of Arlington first, eighteen feet eleven inches; Johnston of Winchester second, eighteen feet, five and one-half inches; Farnsworth of Winchester third, seventeen feet, eleven and one half inches.

One mile run—Bell of Arlington first, Goldsmith of Arlington second and Landall of Arlington third. Time—Four minutes, forty-six seconds. Relay race—Won by Arlington. H. Reyeroft, Hooper, Robinson and Osgood. Time, two minutes, twenty-three seconds. The points count 5, 3 and 1 respectively.

HILL—BRIGGS.

Miss Margaret Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Briggs of Bacon street, and Mr. Dwight Bradford Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Hill of Bridgeport, Conn., were united in marriage on Wednesday evening by Rev. William I. Lawrence, formerly pastor of the Unitarian Church. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, No. 91 Bacon street, at seven o'clock.

Mr. Harold H. Freeman of Dayton, Ohio, was the best man and Miss Eleanor Briggs, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Gertrude Fisher of Brookline and Miss Susan Leland Hill of Worcester. Little Miss Phoebe May was the flower girl and ring bearer.

The ceremony was attended by a large gathering of intimate friends of the couple, the bride being very popular among Winchester's young people.

Following the ceremony a reception was held until eight, at the close of which Mr. and Mrs. Hill left on their wedding trip.

The ushers were Messrs. George M. Orr of Worcester, Chester W. Smith of Hyde Park, L. Winthrop Barta of this town and John K. Williamson, jr., of Bridgeport, Conn.

During the funeral services of the late Theodore C. Hurd on Sunday afternoon, Mr. D. Webster Hawes was struck in the head by the bit of one of the horses of a hack and received a slight cut. The animal reared, and when he came down the bit struck Mr. Hawes just above the ear. The cut bled freely and Mr. Hawes went to the Higgins residence near the Episcopal Church, giving rise to the rumor that he was badly hurt.

FUNERAL SERVICE.

The funeral of the late Theodore C. Hurd took place last Sunday afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany, with solemn and impressive services in the presence of a company which filled the edifice.

The large gathering of townspeople, of the bench and bar of Massachusetts and of the representatives of military organizations, attested the esteem and affection in which the deceased was held in the community.

The services were conducted by the rector, Rev. John W. Suter, who met the body at the entrance of the church and preceded it up the aisle reciting the solemn sentences from the office for the Burial of the Dead. The casket, covered with the silken flag which had covered the casket of President McKinley at Canton, Ohio, was deposited at the chancel rail, about which was banked a profusion of flowers and in front of which were planted the national and state flags, the regimental flag of the 48th Mass., in which Mr. Hurd was an officer, and the standard of the Loyal Legion.

The music rendered by the regular choir of the church, consisted of the chant "Lord let me know my end," "Abide With Me," "O Paradise," and the recessional "For all the saints who from their labors rest." Chopin's and Beethoven's Funeral Marches were rendered by the organist. The honorary pall-bearers were Judges Hammond and Sheldon of the Supreme Court; Judges Stevens and Hardy of the Superior Court; Hon. S. W. McCall, Hon. S. J. Elder, Hon. George L. Mayberry; County Commissioner, Lev S. Gould; County Treasurer, Joseph O. Hayden and High Sheriff, John R. Fairbairn. The active pall-bearers were Mr. Hurd's three court assistants, Messrs. William C. Dillingham, Ralph N. Smith and Fred L. Putnam, besides Messrs. T. W. Lawson and P. G. Gray.

The ushers were: Alfred S. Higgins, Marcus B. May, Roland H. Sherman, Charles D. Jenkins, Dr. G. N. P. Mead and Dr. Ralph Putnam.

Among others who attended the services were: Judges Lawton, Wait and Schofield of the Superior Court; Edward B. George, Clerk of Courts for Essex County; Judges McIntire and Lawton of the Probate Court and Assistant Registers Esty and Harris; District Attorney John J. Higgins, Mayor Shaughnessy of Lowell, Judge Fisher of Lowell and Hon. Fred N. Wier of Lowell.

The interment took place on the following day at Framingham.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

Next Sunday will be Whitsunday. There will be service of Holy Communion at 11 a. m., and in the afternoon at 4.30 p. m., an opportunity for Baptism.

The Sunday School next Sunday will hold its annual examinations, closing day being June 11th.

Next Thursday, June 8th, at 10 a. m. there will be the service of the ordination of priests. This will be followed at 11.45 by a meeting of the Arch-Deaconry. The members of the Arch-Deaconry will lunch in the Parish House at 1 o'clock. The Rev. George Edward Norton is to be ordained at this time. The preacher will be the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, D. D., Rector of St. John's Church, Washington.

McCRILLIS—WHEATLEY.

Miss Leone Wheatley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wheatley, of Park avenue, formerly of Manchester, N. H., and John D. McCrillis, son of the late John A. McCrillis of Manchester, were married in Boston on Monday. Mr. McCrillis was graduated from the Manchester High school in the class of 1902 and afterward was employed in the spinning department of the Amoskeag manufacturing company. He is now managing the carriage manufactory formerly owned by his father.

WHAT IS BEING DONE FOR SEAMEN.

Interesting facts relative to the activities of the American Seamen's Friend Society, No. 76 Wall Street, New York, for the fiscal year have been compiled by the Rev. George McPherson Hunter, Secretary. The society has fifty-one men and women working for the spiritual and material interests of seamen in forty-five of the principal ports of the world. These men and women are active in helpful work, visiting the sick, feeding the hungry, caring for sin-wrecked and destitute seamen of all nations.

The Society maintains a Seamen's Institute, at No. 57 West Street. During the fiscal year, the reading rooms of the Institute were visited by 361,423 persons, evidence in itself that it fills a want. The sailors who visited the institution deposited for safe-keeping while ashore $38,712, and 39,528 letters were written and received by men who made it their temporary home. A nominal charge for lodgings is made to those men who can pay, but no deserving seaman is shown the door. The secretary's statistics are that 2,384 free lodgings and 2,143 meals were given away during the fiscal year.

The American Seamen's Friend Society not only looks after the welfare of seamen ashore, but follows them around many of the ports of the world. Whether the sailors are in Rio de Janeiro or Yokohama, for example, its representatives endeavor to protect them, regardless of race, color, or creed. It distributed 1,895 "comfort bags" during the year, and another side of its excellent work is the loan library plan. These libraries are stocked with good books and placed on ships for the benefit of the men on board. Letters are received from time to time from sailors, expressing their high appreciation of this branch of the society's activities. Last year 9,120 volumes was the loan library record. There were also distributed 8,318 Bibles and 26,319 pamphlets and books in foreign languages.

The American Seamen's Friend Society is eighty-three years old. Its main sources of income are voluntary contributions from persons who are familiar with its uplifting work, and there are several who have sent the annual membership fee of five dollars for years. The society is hampered in its philanthropy through lack of funds. The extension of the Seamen's Institution is urgently needed, and Mrs. Russell Sage has promised $25,000 on condition that another $75,000 is raised.

1895 TEAM WON.

The 1895 High School team won from the present High school team on Tuesday morning, May 30th, by the score of 13-6. The "old timers" played a mighty good game, all things considered.

Smalley started off well in the box, striking out three men in the first inning, but as the game went on he weakened somewhat and gave more frequent bases on balls.

Father Lyons started the hitting for the '95 team by knocking out a two-bagger the very first thing. He tried to stretch it out for a triple but the ball got to third long before he did.

In the next inning Russell got on base by an error, stole second and third, and came in on Payne's long drive to right which was muffed by the outfielders. The third inning brought in three more runs for the "old timers". Ordway got a single, Nowell a base on balls, and then Redfern came up with a double that safely scored Ordway. Smalley singled, which brought Nowell in, and Redfern came in on Prime's error. In this inning the High school scored its first run, gained by heavy hitting.

In the fourth inning the '95 team came back strong with four more runs. Mobbs passed the first two men and hit the third, then, with the bases full, by Hilton's bad throw to first, Wellman and Mitchell crossed the plate. On Nowell's long fly to left field Father Lyons on third base tried to come home but was put out at the plate. Ordway scored by a passed ball.

After this slaughter of the youngsters the High school changed the battery and the "old fellows" failed to score so freely. Nevertheless they made two runs by a base on balls, passed ball, and an error.

In the sixth inning the tables turned and the High school scored three runs by three base on balls, two hit, and two errors.

The '95 team made the best of their last chance and in the eighth inning scored three runs, made mostly by the High school's errors, although a two-bagger by Wellman helped them out a great deal. The boys were afraid of Father Lyons so they hit him by a pitched ball to save a two-bagger or a triple. In the same inning the High school made two runs by a base on balls and two singles.

There were many interesting and amusing features all through the game. Dr. Ordway's slide home in the third and Father Lyons' fall, caused by his shoe coming off, when he was almost home excited much laughter among the crowd.

Nowell was the star player of the game, making an unassisted double play, stopping barked home a hot liner almost out of his reach, and catching a fly which seemed as if it would be a safe hit between second base and right field.

There was a large crowd at the game who supported both teams well, the High school financially and the '95 team vocally. Everybody present enjoyed the game and those who were absent missed a great game and great deal of fun.

BASEBALL.

In a fast game on May 30th the Winchester Base Ball Club lost its first game to the strong Notre Dame team which is considered one of the best teams in the vicinity of Boston.

Winchester was saved from a shutout in the first inning when O'Connor knocked a homer, which went along the third base line and finally bounded off and got lost in the bushes outside the foul line in left field.

In the second inning the visiting team evened up the score by a two-bagger, sacrifice hit, and a bad throw by Stephenson over O'Connor's head. Winchester held them for the next three innings but allowed them to make three runs in the sixth. Broderick started out with a single and reached second on Cushing's attempted sacrifice which, owing to Sumerville's error, resulted in Broderick's getting third and Cushing to second. They both scored by Flaherty's error at an attempt to put them out at home. This left one man on second base who also scored by a single.

Again in the next inning the visitors scored three more runs. Murphy was given a base on balls and took third on Curley's single. Both runners crossed the plate on another single by Cushing.

He also scored from a third hit by Redington.

The feature of the game was the unassisted double play of O'Connor. He prevented about two runs in the ninth by stopping and catching bare handed a swift liner over third base with a man on second and third. As nobody thought he would catch, or even stop it, the runner on third started for home and was easily doubled up by this startling catch.

The largest crowd this season on Manchester Field witnessed this game. All were rather disappointed that Winchester did not win but nevertheless they saw a fast clean game.

ONE UNANSWERABLE ARGUMENT.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

"A Winchester Woman" has forcefully stated the one unanswerable argument against woman suffrage. Other reasons may favor the political equality of the sexes, but the dear ladies are too busy—too preoccupied, some with the task of housing, feeding and clothing children on small incomes (whose purchasing power is seriously diminished by the mess we men make of running our governments); others with the onerous duties of appointments with the milliner and the manicure, and with bridge whist. Too busy are women to be the profound students we men are of the theory and practice of the political sciences, we who "plug up" like so many college students before each ordeal of depositing our votes with the ticket chopper. Too busy to take five minutes once a year they are, to cast a ballot en route for the shopping district. Too busy to capitalize politically the housekeeping instincts of their sex—to secure adequate political representation of the greatest of all our occupational groups, the home makers. Too busy with the avocations once—and in provincial social circles still—smugly denominate the only ones proper for the petticoated.

Not too busy, however, to read and gloat over the defamations of their own sex in a glaringly inaccurate and mendacious magazine article from which, apparently "A Winchester Woman" has taken her incident concerning Colorado women voters.

Since all are so busy, may no lady, already heavily laden, be further crushed under the weight of the ballot! May the rising tide of social democracy be stayed by letters to the editor! May the paper peril impending over the American home be averted by the vaticination of our Sibyls of the anti-suffrage league.

Merely Mr. Man.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the post-office at Winchester as second-class matter.

The U. S. Geological Survey Press Bulletin says that the average quantity of water used daily in cities of the United States ranges from 50 to 150 gallons per capita. The quantity used each day for drinking is estimated to be about half a gallon.

The cashier of a prominent savings bank, says the Stoneham Independent, is responsible for the statement that a goodly sum of bad money annually finds its way into children's banks. This would seem to indicate a mean spirit on the part of grown-ups to take advantage of innocent childhood.

Rep. Wilton B. Fay of Medford has been waited on by Republicans in his district, urging him to stand for another term, and he has the matter under consideration, says the Boston Record. He is one of the hard working members of the house, but a new candidacy would break into the Winchester-Medford rotation understanding which gives two years each in turn.

Germany gives every possible encouragement to business enterprises, and as a result that country is going forward with leaps and bounds. The United States, by regulating and interference, is handicapping business to such an extent that it is becoming almost impossible to do business on a large scale in this country, so a prominent manufacturer of the state informs the STAR. And he appears to be about right.

After June 1 there will be no opportunity for a quick marriage by going to New Hampshire, as a new law goes into effect on that date, like that of Rhode Island, which provides for a number of days' delay between the application and issuing of marriage licenses, giving interested parties an opportunity to verify the statement of the applicants for the license. It would be well for Massachusetts to follow the example of Rhode Island and New Hampshire and amend its marriage law.

Whether crushed stone can be bought cheaper than it can be produced on a small scale is a matter which should be considered in deciding on the purchase of a crusher. Wakefield has decided to buy one and that is something to go by when Reading takes the matter up.—[Reading Chronicle.]

Winchester has a stone crushing plant, yet it can purchase crushed stone cheaper than it can make it. Nevertheless, such a plant is a good thing to have to take care of the stone that accumulates in the ordinary course of street work.

It was an outrage on the public for the contractor who is putting oil on Washington street to hold up the cars for three-quarters of an hour during the forenoon of Memorial Day and practically disrupting travel for the entire day in four towns. Travel on the electric was very heavy, hundreds of people being on their way to and from the cemeteries. At one time there was between three and four hundred persons waiting at the corner of Washington and Forest streets for the delayed cars. At the request of a police officer the man in charge absolutely refused to remove his apparatus from the tracks, he apparently not caring for the discomfort that he was causing to hundreds of people. The Italian laborers employed on the work acting in the same spirit, jeered at the car whenever an opportunity was given them to resume their trips. If it was absolutely necessary to cut off travel on the street while this work was being done, then some other day should have been selected, and Superintendent Ellis of the electric road notified, who would gladly have looked after the comfort of the travelling public by getting them past the embargo. The Selectmen would never have permitted this outrage on Memorial Day had they known beforehand that travel on the street was to be cut off. However, the forearm should have recognized the rights of the people and had there been the least bit of accommodation in his make-up he would have done so.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The June meeting of the local Union is to be held Saturday, June 17, in conjunction with the entertainment of a group of children from the Frances E. Willard Settlement of Boston. Last year on the appointed day the heavy storm prevented the children from coming but this year it is hoped the weather may be propitious. Next week the Conference of Charities and Corrections opens its sessions in Boston and it is hoped that many of the members of the Union will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear vital subjects discussed by experts from all parts of the country. An unusually large proportion of the time has been assigned to drunkenness and its attendant evils. The sessions are to be chiefly in Ford Hall, which is easy of access to Winchester people. The final programme will be published in the daily papers.

June 9 is Flower Mission Day, being so named because it is the birthday anniversary of Jennie Cassey to whose interest and enthusiasm the Union is indebted for the extension and systematization of what was at first a spasmodic effort to lend grace and beauty to the uncompromising rigor of the early work. The burning zeal of the first white ribboners, inspired by a sense of the terrible needs of reform, saw little but the one straight line of attack. Later the necessity for flank movements against an enemy so well entrenched became apparent and the effort has been made to seize every vantage point. This has the additional advantage of making possible the enlistment of all sorts and conditions of women in the white-ribbon army. Sometimes those of one idea look askance at anything but direct assault but there are other ways equally effective and in the long run perhaps more so. Certainly the Flower Mission has justified its existence and won recruits where the sterner methods would not.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Will you please find room in your columns for the following taken from the Boston Transcript.

- W.

LET THE LAWNS BURN

It is amazing to see in the suburbs of Boston many people using their water hose these days with as much freedom as if the reservoirs were filled to repletion. Those who have gardens should of course not neglect them, but the watering of lawns that is being done promiscuously by those who have no meters is very wasteful. Very few lawns at the present time are showing any serious signs of being burned, and a good rain, even if they should be burned, would soon bring them up again. But it is this watering of lawns that will be responsible for the dangerous emptying of reservoirs. Even in the case of the metered suburbs, householders should be aroused to the peril of using what they have a perfect legal right to use.

Attention has been called by the press of New York and other cities to the necessity of looking after leaks and neglected faucets. In New York it is proposed to expend a hundred thousand dollars in sending inspectors to householders to warn them about the use of water. This ought not to be necessary. But the facts are that even if June is a very wet month, August and September will see a great scarcity of water. Utmost care should be exercised by all users of water. It is a vicious circle that is now in operation. The less rain, the more use of water, the greater depletion of reservoirs and finally the absence of water for any use whatever with all the calamity to health and property that this means. Let the lawns burn! They can be revived—but the result of low and empty reservoirs is frightful and irremediable.

FROM THE ABERJONA.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I suppose that the people who earn the cash to pay the bills of this beautiful town must appreciate the thoughts expressed in "Observations" by J. H. C. and the talk he furnishes in town meeting, even if he has lived in Boston for three years.

How do you account, Mr. Editor, for this wise and talented J. H. C. taking up so much time in town meeting, when he has been living in Boston for three years as he says?

One who pays a poll, a personal and a good sized real estate tax.—"By The Aberjona."

BASE BALL.

The High school base ball team won its second game in succession last Saturday afternoon by defeating the Chelsea High school team 11-5. When Winchester played at Chelsea they were badly defeated.

Chelsea got one run in the second and four in the eighth inning, gained mostly by rather loose fielding on the part of the home team.

Winchester scored three runs in the second inning by numerous hits, frequent stolen bases, and large number of bases on balls. In the fourth inning Chelsea changed pitchers three times and each time Winchester succeeded in getting more hits from the new one than from the preceding one, until they had rolled up four runs. The third change had a better result and the fourth pitcher held Winchester down for two innings, when in the sixth, Winchester scored three more runs gained, mostly by the hitting. Again in the eighth inning Winchester scored one run by the loose fielding on the part of the visitors.

NOT EASY TO RUN OVER OPPOSITION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I notice in the column headed "Observations" printed in your last issue and signed with the initials "J. H. C." a paragraph stating that as the grade crossing bill will soon become a law, steps should be taken to arrange for a town meeting on this question. It is said that "Our Commoner" (meaning me) decided not to kill the bill either before the three committees nor in the House or Senate, etc., etc.

The character of this town meeting—if the views of J. H. C. are correctly expressed in the closing sentence of the paragraph—is to be such that every citizen of Winchester who believes in a square deal will have cause to be ashamed of it.

The closing sentence of the paragraph is as follows: "Let him (meaning me) look out, however; the steam roller will be well greased and manned." This is plain notice that the meeting is to be packed by those in favor of the purpose of the bill allowing the town to exceed its statutory percentage of the expense of abolishing the grade crossing; that all opposition is to be run down by the steam roller; that the methods by which steam roller legislation is obtained are to be used to their highest efficiency and the taxpayers of the town are to foot the bill, no matter how great it may be.

If I mistake not, it may not be so easy to run over the opposition with the "steam roller" as the writer of this paragraph thinks. There are some few thousands of people in Winchester who will want to know what the effect on the tax rate will be, together with some other embarrassing questions.

Yours truly,

Whitfield Tuck.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Collier's of May 27th has an excellent and timely article by Will Irwin on the subversive of the Boston press to the big advertisers, ending with a most scathing criticism. As none of the newspapers have referred to it we are justified in believing it true. Too bad.

The Governor had the courage to give the legislature a good spanking in his turnkey bill veto, and it was well deserved. Some organizations should give to the voters next fall a history of members who are candidates for re-election, the same as is done before Boston city elections by the good government association.

I don't know who the Republicans will nominate for representative in this district for the next House, but if Senator Brown is re-nominated, as he probably will be, he will not have a walk-over. A man who will deliberately break his word is hardly the kind of Senator this district should have, and he is away off on some of his votes also.

There should be in next week's STAR a full report of any committee which is going to ask the town meeting of the 12th inst. to either appropriate money or endorse any important town work and the motions to be offered should be printed too, so we should not fall into the ridiculous error we did at the meeting a year ago on the grade crossing matter. Full publicity should be had before voting on all questions of any importance.

It was easy enough to solve the "Angle Worm" signature, but very difficult to solve the reason for the persistency of that spineless worm to feed the fish in our reservoirs.

The World in Boston pageant proved that several excellent actors have been wasting their time in the pulpit. It was a great show and prolocutor Stockdale was certainly immense, as was Mr. Eddy in the character of Livingstone. The dancing however was very evangelistic.

The Boston Transcript says it is not timely that any criticism of the Board of Railroad Commissioners should be made. Well, before the Governor gets through with that board the Transcript may think it would have been much to the public interest if some heed had been paid to criticisms of it in the past instead of suppressing them as was done. Between the Governor and Norman White the facts are coming out this time and the press will be forced by public opinion to print them.

Boston Common of May 20th printed the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners decision on the North Adams case under the heading "Model Public Service Ruling." This is a very important decision, but no Boston paper would print it.

I have had the surprising fortune of getting all of my legislative bills into law this season, whereas in previous ones they have usually all been thrown out. The powers that defeated them and similar bills of others in the past have cut little ice on the Hill this session, but it was because they didn't dare to use the necessary bait.

J. H. C.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The production of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" at the Castle Square will be quite an event. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" itself is a play to delight all those who are fond of hearing or seeing child life. It tells a romantic tale of Cedric Errol, who after poverty with his young mother in New York, finally learns that he is the heir to a great English earldom, and who is taken to England to live with his grandfather. The play is filled with humor, and it is consistently interesting and dramatic. In addition to Miss McDermott the cast will contain George Hassell as the Earl of Dorinourt, Frederick Murray as Mr. Havisham, Donald Meek as Hobbs the grocer, and Gertrude Binley as Mrs. Errol.

PROROGATION IS NOT NEAR

Legislature Likely to Sit Until After July 4

MANUFACTURERS NOT BUSY

Imports of Materials Used by Them Decrease—Senator Hear Thinks Governor Foss Failed to Veto Boylston Street Extension Bill—Appointment of Judge Schofield Gives Satisfaction

The prorogation of the legislature still seems to be a matter of the distant future. Last year the session was ended in time for the members to go home for June 17, but this year they may well have to reassemble and continue their work even after the Fourth of July. The house, which ordinarily holds back the time of adjournment, is this year doing wonderful work as far as speed is concerned. Every day it disposes of the matters on the calendar and has to adjourn because the various committees have not made reports which can be acted on. The committee on metropolitan affairs is working hard and faithfully under the leadership of Senator Mulligan and Representative Grafton Cushing but it has many important matters still undecided. A few other committees are behind time but generally speaking they are those which have worked the hardest throughout the session. The committee on ways and means considers that it has been and still is much handicapped by the delay of Governor Foss in transmitting to the legislature his recommendations in relation to appropriations, but that they cannot be blamed for that delay. They have had much extra work thrown upon them as a result of the investigations and reports of the governor's "experts," but they have not been afraid to give time and thought and the result is that they are in a position to act at once in the various remaining appropriation bills as soon as they are received from his excellency.

Millions For Boston Harbor

The measure introduced by Senator Brown of Medford providing for the expenditure of $9,000,000 for the improvement of Boston harbor has been favorably reported to the legislature and seems in a fair way of passage. This is one of the most far-reaching measures that has ever been brought before the Massachusetts legislature, and if enacted and signed by the governor will mean much to this city and state. There has been much agitation in favor of developing Boston as a great export and import center, and undoubtedly $9,000,000 would go far toward giving the improvements so much needed.

The fifty-four-hour bill had its ups and downs like some other legislation. Immediately upon its passage Governor Foss declared that under no circumstances would he sign such a measure. A number of the labor men declared that he would not dare to veto it and some of them were willing to make large wagers to that effect. To most people it seemed impossible that after such an emphatic declaration that he would under no circumstances sign it he could turn squarely about and absolutely reverse his position.

There seems to be no doubt but that Governor Foss has had Police Commissioner O'Meara forced upon him for reappointment. For some months now there has been a spontaneous movement for the reappointment of Mr. O'Meara. He has made a successful police commissioner but he has been subject to much criticism, some of which probably has some basis of fact while much is without substantial foundation. Those conversant with social conditions in Boston are well aware that the millennium has not yet come and that no man living is capable of bringing that era. The commissioner realizes the impossibility of anybody conducting the office in a way to give universal satisfaction and he realizes his own limitations, but in the meantime he has worked early and late to get the best results for the people of Boston.

General Manufacturing Not Gaining

One of the most accurate indexes of manufacturing activity is recorded to be imports of materials used in manufactures. The figures of imports for the last month or two show a decline in a large proportion of the articles entering into consumption for manufacturing purposes. For instance, the figures for April show that imports of crude India rubber fell from $7,200,000 in April, 1910, to $5,500,000 in April of this year.

Hides and skins dropped from $7,700,000 to $5,700,000, raw cotton from $1,800,000 to $1,700,000, raw wool from $5,400,000 to $3,900,000, burlaps from $2,000,000 to $1,700,000, linens from $1,500,000 to $1,400,000, nitrate of soda from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000, boards, planks and deals, in the lumber line, from $900,000 to $600,000, undressed fur skins from $2,200,000 to $1,700,000, wood pulp from $900,000 to $800,000, wool, cloths and dress goods from $700,000 to $400,000, silk dress goods from $600,000 to $500,000, leather gloves from $500,000 to $470,000, dressed furs from $90,000 to $700,000, straw hats and materials for straw hats from $500,000 to $400,000, machinery from $800,000 to $600,000, iron ore from $500,000 to $400,000, pig iron from $500,000 to $300,000, copper ore from $1,000,000 to $400,000, feathers and down, crude, from $1,000,000 to $800,000, bituminous coal from $400,000 to $200,000, cotton knit goods from $500,000 to $300,000, rice and flour from $500,000 to $400,000, silk laces from $300,000 to $200,000.

Some imports increased, but the total amount imported of such articles as are used in manufactures in this country was $44,100,000 in April, 1910, as compared with $37,900,000 for April of 1911. The total amount of articles imported for use in manufactures for the ten months ending April, 1910, was $1,318,200,000, while for the ten months ending April, 1911, the amount was only $1,274,600,000.

These figures would seem to indicate that the threat of tariff revision is leading manufacturers to curtail their production, and many manufacturers do not expect to see any marked improvement in manufacturing business until there has been a definite refusal by congress to make another general revision of the tariff.

What is a Legal Veto, Anyway?

Senator Roger S. Hoar of Concord doubts if Governor Foss legally vetoed the bill for the extension of Boylston street across the Back Bay Tens in Boston, and he wanted to have the supreme court pass upon the question. The legislature thought the matter not worthy of so much attention and refused to pass an order asking the court to decide the doubt. The ground of those who doubted if the veto was effective was that in refusing to approve the bill the governor made no real objections to it. There have been similar cases and similar questions, but wherever the courts have been called upon to settle them they have almost invariably decided that the veto was effective, even if the objections against the measure had not been distinct, or indirect.

The appointment of Judge William Schofield of the Massachusetts superior court to be justice of the circuit court in Boston is giving very general satisfaction to lawyers and to everybody else, apparently. He will be an acceptable successor to Judge Lowell, who was the quintessence of honor and of very high ability. It will give Governor Foss an opportunity to name another superior court judge, which he will doubtless be glad to have, as there are many Democrats waiting to secure judicial appointments. At the same time it will be an embarrassment to select one man from the large number who would like to be named.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

"Consul, The Great" will be the attraction at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week and it is probably the biggest feature that has ever been offered in vaudeville at this time of year. For although a chimpanzee, he does everything that is usually attributed to a human being. Besides riding a bicycle, work a typewriter, play the piano, dress and undress himself, lace and tie his own shoes, he does numerous other stunts that are nothing short of wonderful. The engagement will be limited to one week and this will probably be "Consul's" last appearance here for some time. He will head an exceptionally strong vaudeville bill, with a number of new features. It will mark the appearance here of Diamond & Nelson, Kate Watson, the eccentric comedienne; Sergeant Brennan the skillful English diabolo player Adolph Glose, a wonderful pianist who impersonates great composers; Leonard & Whitney in an Irish sketch; and Swor & Mack, blackface comedians; Brent Hayes, the banjo expert; and the Dorlans, in an acrobatic comedy.

LONG SERVICE IN CONGRESS

The Boston Journal says: "Two Bay State representatives have served longer in the House than those from any other section of New England. They are George Pelton Lawrence from the first district and Frederick Huntington Gillett from the second district. They first went to Washington in 1867."

Excuse us,—"they are" Samuel Walker McCall from the eighth district and Frederick H. Gillett from the second district, each of whom is serving his tenth term in Congress. Rep. George P. Lawrence of North Adams is serving his eighth term. The first two gentlemen were first elected in 1892 to the 53d Congress, and Mr. Lawrence in 1896 to the 55th Congress.

Cyrus Adams Sulloway, the "Tall Pine of the Merimac," was first elected to the 54th Congress in 1894 and is now in his ninth term. In point of service these four men are the oldest congressmen from New England.—[Medford Mercury.]

Israel's Penitence and God's Pardon. Hosea xiv.

Golden Text—Thou art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, slow to anger. Neh. ix:17.

(1) Verse 1—What proportion of the members of present day evangelical churches, are walking in the conscious favor of God?

(2) God's chosen people had gone away from Him, and the prophet urges them to return; what suggestion is there in this for pastors?

(3) What reason is there to believe that the average Christian backslider, before he finally gets established in the faith?

(4) Verse 2—When a backslider wishes to return to the Lord, what "words" will he be likely to use?

(5) Why is it not possible for one to be a Christian without using "words" to God?

(6) When we talk to God we enter into conversation; how, or in what language does He talk to us?

(7) When God "takes away all iniquity," does he make it possible for us not to commit any more? Give your reason.

(8) Verse 3—Why is it impossible to keep saved if we depend on any earthly thing, and do not put our trust wholly in God?

(9) Why is it wrong for a child of God to be anxious about earthly things?

(10) Verse 4—How would you compare a forgiven sinner, with Adam before he sinned, in the matter of moral purity?

(11) What difference is there in the way God treats and regards a reclaimed backslider, and, if there be such, an angel who never has sinned?

(12) Verse 5—What does God do for and with His children, in order that they may develop their spiritual lives?

(13) What takes place in a faithful Christian, which answers to the growth and perfume of a flower, or the growth and expansion of a tree?

(14) If the life of a man is not as sweet perfume, and if he is not as the spreading branches of a great tree on a hot day to the weary traveler, what if any reason is there to believe that he is a Christian?

(15) Why is it either right or wrong to believe that a Christian must grow in grace or backslide?

(16) Verse 8—What is it, under our present conditions, to worship an idol?

(17) What are the chief idols which people now worship?

(18) Is there any danger, and if so what, of practical idolatry in connection with our church services?

(19) Verse 9—May any man understand the mind of God from the Bible, who is not personally taught of God? Why?

(20) What is it which makes it certain that a child of God will be led into all truth? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Ralph Herz at the Colonial Theatre in the novel musical comedy "Dr. De Luxe" has become a great favorite with Boston theatregoers and judging from the enthusiasm shown at every performance they have accepted Mr. Herz in his first venture as a star. He is surrounded with an excellent company. Miss Jeanette Childs has scored an emphatic hit with her dancing and her Harlem Scarem "kiddies"; Francis Danarest who was made famous by singing "Every Little Movement" in "Madame Sherry" has repeated her former success with her new song, "That Will Keep Him True To You"; Marion Ballou has made many new friends in Boston by her artistic portrayal of the character Miss Ada Houston, R. na Santos the girl with the ventriloquist voice has become a prime favorite; William Frutke, who is well known in Boston has created quite a favorable impression in the role of Colonel Houston; Karl Hoschna has written some beautiful music for "Dr. De Luxe". The audience on leaving the theatre are all humming and whistling "For Every Boy That's Lonesome," which is a very good indication that the melody has become contagious.

THE REVOLUTION IN WOMEN'S WORK.

Makes Votes for Women a Practical Necessity.

During the past hundred years there has been a complete revolution in industrial and social conditions.

In consequence of this the position of women and their conditions of work have undergone a change nothing short of revolutionary.

A hundred years ago women in their own homes spun the cloth, made the clothes for the family, cured the meat, preserved and canned the fruits and vegetables, baked the bread, made the butter, made the soap and candles, had charge of the entire education of girls and the early education of boys, and took care of all the sick. Women then could protect their children from evil influences, their daughters from unhealthy and demoralizing conditions and their homes from infectious clothing and impure food.

Today industrial conditions have completely changed. The cloth is now spun not in the home but in the factory. The clothes are made not in the home but in the sweatshop. The meat is cured not in the home but by the beef trust. The fruits and vegetables are canned not in the home but in the factory. The bread is baked not in the home but in the bakery. The butter is made not in the home but in the creamery. The soap, candles, etc. are made not in the home but in the factory. The girls and boys are educated not in the home but in the public school. The sick are cared for not in the home but in the hospital.

As women's work has gone out of the home into the factory many women have been forced to follow their work into the factory, and there are today over six million women in the United States working outside the home. The hours of labor of these women and their conditions of work, both moral and sanitary, depend upon the laws, and yet the women have no voice in making the laws.

The women who are left in the home are trying to bring up their children and to keep their homes free from evil influences both physical and moral. Under present-day conditions the homemakers are directly dependent upon the outside world for all the things which are necessary for the very life of their families, and yet women have no voice in making the laws which regulate the conditions under which these things are produced.

Women in their work as homemakers and mothers are even more vitally affected by the influences which reach their children from the outside world. The playgrounds, the school, the saloon, public amusements, etc., all vitally affect their powers to make their homes what they should be, and yet women have no voice in making the laws which for good or evil so vitally affect their work.

Women need votes now in order to do the work which women have always done.

Women need votes to help get for themselves decent working conditions.

Women need votes to help to protect children from child labor.

Women need votes to help put an end to sweatshops.

Women need votes to help get more stringent pure food laws.

Women need votes to help get better tenement house laws.

Women need votes to help combat contagious diseases.

Women need votes to help put an end to the white slave traffic.

Women need votes to make it necessary for the government to consult the women's point of view in the making and enforcing of the laws.

Women need votes to make it necessary for the government to use the taxes paid by men and women for women's interests as well as men's.

A hundred years ago the government of this country was primarily concerned with establishing its independence from other nations.

Today the government of this country is primarily concerned with social and industrial problems, which vitally affect the lives of women and children.

History proves that governments pay attention to the demands of the people who keep them in power and not to the demands of a disfranchised class.

For this reason Votes for Women is a natural and necessary result of present-day conditions.—Woman's Journal.

A meeting was held in the Knight's of Columbus rooms Sunday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a court of the Daughters of Isabella. There was a large attendance of young women interested in the movement and addresses were made by Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, pastor of St. Mary's Church; Mrs. P. Cogan of Stoneham, district deputy, and Mrs. Frank H. Reynolds, regent of the Stoneham court. A committee, of which Miss Frances O'Loughlin is chairman, was appointed to complete the arrangements for the institution of the court.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. McCarthy left town on Wednesday for a two weeks' stay at Bath, Me., and vicinity.

An automobile owned by Frank Lombard of Medford and driven by a lady who has learned to drive, crashed into the window of Covell's confectionary store last Sunday night and demolished the plate glass window. Miss Martha Hargrove, employed at the store, had barely left the window when the crash occurred. She escaped uninjured.

The exercises on Memorial Day by A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., as printed in last week's STAR were carried out without a hitch. The day was ideal, and the interest in the movements of the veterans was shown by the many people on the streets and at the cemetery. Mr. Harry Lunt, as is his custom, assisted the veterans and relieved them of much of the work at the cemetery. A feature of the exercises at the Town Hall was the singing by pupils of the schools under the direction of Mr. Ernst Makechne, former supervisor of music in the public schools. Careful drilling was apparent in all the selections and the audience greatly appreciated the efforts of the pupils.

The fire department was called out for a fire in the centre on Wednesday evening at six-thirty, it being the first really serious blaze that district has had for some time. That it was not worse was due to the prompt work of the firemen, who made a remarkably quick stop. The blaze was in the block next to the river on Main street, occupied by the Winchester Hemery Co., Whittington's Harness Store, John McCraven and others. The fire was first noticed by the McCravens, who gave the alarm. When the department arrived a hot fire was found in the cellar of the Hemery Co., which had burned up through the rear of the store. After three quarters of an hour's fight the blaze was extinguished. The Hemery Co. was the principal sufferer, the other occupants being smoked up somewhat but otherwise unharmed.

MORE REGULATING.

An exchange observes that Germany is endeavoring to so control the fashion in footwear that the different styles of shoes shall be limited in number, and all freak styles done away with. This ought to work no hardship on the wearer and be of real benefit to the dealer, who now is often left with out-of-fashion shoes on hand to his loss. It similar laws could control the fashion of women's hats and clothes, what a blessing to everybody but the milliner and dress-maker, who now derive a large part of their income from their ability to decree that the bucket hat of last year shall become the high hat of this, and the hobble skirt to be fashionable only long

It would hardly seem unreasonable to say that half of the women in this country are in slavery to those who dictate what the fashions shall be, and are obliged to spend money against their wish to avoid being criticized by others, slaves of fashion. When women's conventions talk about emancipation and freedom they might consider this kind of slavery. Most of them will admit that it exists, and the apparent hopelessness of being able to throw off their shackles. What a splendid victory it would be if one-half of the women would band together and stick to last year's styles, for a change. If they would do that it would not be long before they would be masters of the situation and not be obliged to pay $20 for $5 worth of material and the balance for style.

THE WINCHESTER STAR.

VOL. XXX. NO. 49.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1911.

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

AN IMPORTANT MATTER

That Greatly Concerns the Future of Winchester.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Winchester, Mass., June 7, 1911.

The Waterways Improvement Committee have caused to be circulated a report which I have no doubt all citizens have before this had an opportunity to read. Whether the general plan for the improvement of our waterways recommended by their landscape architect is acceptable to the town, or not, the single recommendation for action at this time, contemplating the purchase of the Whitney property, is of great importance to the future of this community. Not only is the acquisition of this property almost imperative, if the stream is to be kept free from pollution, but there are many incidental advantages coming to the town by this purchase which possibly many of our citizens are not familiar with. It should be borne in mind that Mr. Whitney owns not only the mill property and the land and buildings adjacent, but a large area of flowed land, originally meadow land, in the centre of the town, which by draining and gradually filling, would become as valuable as any land in the same locality, and in addition to this ownership certain rights which those familiar with the management of town affairs are fully cognizant of.

The following items should be noted in connection with this purchase: and no doubt there are others which I do not recall:

1 The right to raise the water in the lake and stream below the mill to such height as seems advisable.

2 There is now in force an order of the County Commissioners requiring two bridges to be maintained on Walnut street. By the acquisition of this property one of these bridges could be discontinued.

3 There are now two streams from the Mill pond to Manchester Field. One of these would be discontinued and land acquired by filling the same.

4 The acquisition of a About 26,000 feet of land, now occupied by various buildings of the Whitney property, which, located in the centre of the town would be very valuable for many purposes.

b About 1-2 acres of land in the pool or pond between Main street and the Town Hall.

c A strip of filled land between the Town Hall and the stream (about 1,000 square feet), across which the town sewer runs, and there is an agreement that this sewer must be removed at any time that the owners of the property may demand.

d A small strip of land north of the Methodist Church which is not filled, about the same size as the land next to the Town Hall.

e About 15-20 acres of land in Judkins pond, which, with the removal of the dam and the dredging of the stream, would be drained off and would afford an excellent playground for the north end of the town, and at the same time give a right to put a street from the centre of the town to the Plains without any land damage.

f A small amount of filled land back of the present Engine House, which could be used to advantage with the town lot for any purpose.

g About 14 acres of land between the main line of the railroad and the Woburn branch, which could be filled at a small expense if the dam were removed, and would become available for business purposes.

h A certain amount of land on the west side of Main street, between the street and Wedge pond, upon which a dam could be built at very small expense to maintain the present water level in the pond, or possibly raise it a little if desirable.

5 When the county ordered Main street to be widened the work opposite Whitney's mill was not completed in accordance with the requirements of the county. Mr. Whitney has an agreement with the town by which, when this part of the street is widened, two bridges must be built and the dam rebuilt and located, relatively to the street, in the same manner as at present, all this maintained by the town forever.

6 As a result of a lawsuit with the Metropolitan Park Commission Mr. Whitney now has the right to enter the Mill pond from the Parkway and build structures over the present pond; and of course he has the same right to enter from Main street; so that it would be possible for a private purchaser to cover this area with buildings of any sort or kind.

7 At the head of the stream which runs into the Mill pond there are about 30 acres of land, commonly known as "Mollie's Pasture." This naturally drains into the Mill pond, but at a nominal expense (probably less than $100) this 30 acres of water-shed could be turned into our reservoir. At present this can not be done without liability of damage to the owners of the Whitney property.

8 By the acquisition of this property it would be possible to divert Long Pond Brook into our reservoir and so add a considerable amount to our available water-shed.

9 The probability that in any of the various plans for abolishing the grade crossing which have been suggested or are likely to be suggested the acquisition of this property by the town would make the problem easier and might result in a great saving in land damages.

In general, the acquisition of this property by the town would assure the control for all time of the shores of our lakes and streams in the hands of the public and free the town from any danger which might result from the property being sold to private parties and built up in such ways as individuals might deem for their personal advantage.

Ever since I have been a resident of Winchester the question of the town's acquiring this property has been frequently discussed, but there has never been before, so far as I know, any opportunity to purchase it. Such an opportunity now exists. It is for the town to decide whether it will take it or not.

Lewis Parkhurst.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

A good idea is catching. The idea of observing in churches a special day for the recognition of children is now quite general, and parents and children are alike interested in it.

It is not easy to say who really first observed it. The honor probably belongs to a Universalist pastor. But the idea was contagious. The Methodists, with the "immediateness" that is said to characterize them, were the first to put the day to permanently good account. At the celebration of the Centennial of American Methodism in 1886, a fund for Student Aid was initiated, to be gathered from the offerings of the children and others at the yearly Children's Day Service on the second Sunday in June.

In 1873 they began to aid needy students striving for an education. During thirty-seven years, 19,651 young men and women have been helped to secure their training in schools and colleges.

Last year 2,072 students, representing 27 different nationalities or races were aided. Of these young people 931 were preparing for the ministry, 163 for missionary work, 515 for the profession of teaching, and 463 for various other callings, such as engineering, forestry, architecture, law, medicine, etc. All these students were once Sunday School scholars and helped build the fund from which they may borrow now, and as the loans are returned they go out again to help others who could not go to college but for this timely and generous assistance.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The schools will close on Friday, June 23rd.

The High school graduation exercises will be held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, June 20th.

The Wadleigh school graduation exercises will be held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, June 23rd.

An important change will take place on the opening of the schools in the fall in that the offices of the Superintendent of Schools and School Committee will be transferred from the High School building to the Prince building. This change has been made necessary on account of the crowding of the High school, and more particularly by the necessity for more room for the commercial department of the school.

The school committee and superintendent of schools of Providence, R. I., are visiting the Winchester schools today.

There will be a Union Baccalaureate Service in the High School Assembly Hall on Sunday, June 18, at 7:00 p. m. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. John W. Suter.

The honor parts for the graduation day exercises at the High school have been assigned to Miss Eunice Homer, Madge Hovey, Miss Mabel Carlson, Miss Marguerite Waldmyer, Kenneth Caldwell and Harry Donovan.

The Senior Class will give their Promenade on Friday evening, June 16th, at eight o'clock. The committee in charge is Miss Mary Finn, Miss Gladys Spaulding, Lowell Smith and Kenneth Caldwell.

The committee in charge of the class day exercises of the senior class is Miss Marguerite Waldmyer, Miss Hannah Locke, Lowell Smith, and Walter Kramer.

Miss Alice B. Locke graduated from Dr. Sargent's school of Physical Education June first.

THAT WINCHESTER PATIENT.

The Claim is Just and Winchester Will Pay.

The Woburn News in its account of the meeting of the Board of Health of that city last week said:

The case of a Woburn man with settlement in Winchester, who was treated at the Choate Hospital for typhoid was re-opened by a communication from the Winchester Health Board in which they refer to an article published at the time in the Evening News giving an account of the affair.

May 29, 1911.

Board of Health,

City of Woburn, Mass.

Dear Sirs:

In regard to the matter I trust that you do not feel that the Board of Health of Winchester has in any way jeopardized your rights by delay on its part in considering the matter. I write thus for the reason that an article appeared in "The Winchester STAR", evidently reprinted from one of the Woburn papers would seem to give the impression that by delay on our part we have caused you injury, which of course is not so, as the whole question turns on the time and manner of the original notice.

As we have felt that Winchester is morally bound to pay this claim, and as we feel that we have no authority to pay it unless especially authorized by the town to do so, we have arranged to take the matter up at our next town meeting by inserting in the town warrant a vote authorizing us to pay the claim.

Trusting you will appreciate our position in the matter, we are MEN PROVIDED PROGRAM.

A social gathering was held at the First Baptist Church on Tuesday evening, the entire program being provided by the men of the church. Many of the men related amusing and interesting experiences of incidents in their careers. West D. Eldredge told a number of humorous stories, Willard A. Bradley told of some of his experiences down south, Wallace P. Palmer gave an account of some happenings during his college days while a student at Brown university. Harry C. Sanborn related some adventures on a trip to Texas. Alexander Macdonald told stories of his boyhood days and Daniel C. Linscott related many amusing incidents which he had witnessed in the courtroom. Remarks were also made by Dr. Mott A. Cummings and Henry E. Langham. The musical part by a quartet consisting of Howard S. Palmer, Bertine Winchester, Ray Goodwin and George Morse, and a bone solo by Howard Palmer. Strawberries and cream were served. The social committee had charge of the arrangements. They were Mrs. Edmund C. Sanderson, Mrs. Mary T. Wiseman, Mrs. West D. Eldredge, Mrs. Charles M. DeLoria and Miss Helen M. Palmer.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR THE ODD FELLOWS.

On Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock special services will be held in the First Congregational Church with the Waterfield Lodge, No. 231, I. O. O. F. as guests of honor. The service will be in the nature of a memorial. A special musical program has been prepared. Mr. Hodgdon will speak on "The Personal Touch." At the close of the church services, the Lodge will go to the cemetery and decorate the graves of the members of the fraternity who are resting there.

REV. JOHN WALLACE SUTER

Who has been Rector of The Church of the Epiphany for twenty-five years.

25th ANNIVERSARY.

The 25th anniversary of Rev. John W. Suter as Rector of the Church of the Epiphany occurred Thursday at the church, and was the occasion of a most unusual ceremony when Rev. William Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts, ordained six young men to the priesthood. The Arch-Deacon and Rev. Mr. Suter's class at Harvard were also present. Rev. R. Land Cotton Smith, Rector of St. John's Church at Washington, was the preacher. The following young men were admitted to the priesthood:

Rev. George E. Norton of St. George's Church, N. Y.; Rev. Clayton M. Legge of Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge; Rev. Ralph M. Harper of St. Paul's Church, Boston; Rev. Gilbert L. Pennock of Emanuel Church, Boston; Rev. Charles P. Otis of All Saints Church, Worcester.

It is an interesting coincidence that 25 years ago, June 8, '86, at this same church, were ordained to the priesthood: Rev. C. P. Mills, educational secretary of this diocese; Dr. R. C. Smith; Rev. G. A. Strong, rector of Christ Church, N. Y.; Rev. Henry Wood, rector of St. John's, Lawrence; Rev. John W. Suter, rector of Epiphany in this town.

These five men were present, as also Rev. W. S. Chase, rector of Christ Church, Brooklyn; Rev. Maximilian L. Kellner, professor of the theological school, Cambridge, who were in the same class with the five men in the theological school at Cambridge.

At 11:45 a. m., following the ordination service, there was the spring meeting of the archdeaconry of Lowell.

An elaborate luncheon was served in the Parish House at one o'clock to the guests, arrangements being made to seat one hundred and twenty-five. The china, which was used for the first time, was very handsome and was hand painted for the society by the Misses Edith and Carrie Billings, the color scheme being green and white and gold. The silver and glassware also was used for the first time. The linen and table decorations were loaned by the ladies of the society. The floral decorations consisted of the June garden blossoms and lent a sweet fragrance and color to the pretty scene.

Mr. Suter was taken completely by surprise at his home on Wednesday evening when a box arrived containing a brass holder for a prayer-book, the gift of friends. It was used on the altar on Thursday and is a magnificent design of the Arts and Crafts style.

At the luncheon the tables were in charge of the following ladies and assistants: Mrs. F. D. Cleveland, Mrs. J. W. Suter, Mrs. Geo. W. Fitch, Mrs. Parker Holbrook, Mrs. Wm. Kendall, Mrs. E. E. Murphy, Mrs. Addison R. Pike, Mrs. E. D. Chadwick, Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde, Mrs. H. D. Campbell, Mrs. Alonzo P. Weeks, Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Mrs. Wm. Sache, Mrs. Henry L. Houghton, Mrs. Carlton Mills, Mrs. Sylvester Taylor, Mrs. Minnie Ely, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Mrs. Louis Burch, Mrs. Henry Winde, Mrs. E. O. Parnard, Mr. Walter Cummings, and Misses Edith and Carrie Billings. These ladies were assisted by the young Epiphany Guild, Miss Elmor Barta, president. Mrs. L. E. Thompson was chairman of the luncheon and successfully carried out the details.

REGATTA AT BOAT CLUB.

The Lawson Trophy Race, paddled by tours from the suburban High schools, will be held on the 17th of June on Mystic lake, and in connection with the event the Winchester Boat Club will hold a regatta and dance.

During the month of May the membership of the boat club was increased by twenty-five and the interest among its members is such as to promise the most active summer in its history. The non-resident membership of the club is up.

The afternoon of the 17th will be given over to the Lawson race and a program of water sports both entertaining and exciting. In the evening the dance will be held. The club holds a regular Saturday night hop this week.

THE WATER PARK QUESTION

A Popular Objection Answered.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On reading the admirable report of the Waterways Committee, the first thought is that the landscape architect and the Committee itself are disposed to be very liberal with the town's finances notwithstanding the great benefit which will eventually come to the town if the recommendations of the report are ever carried out. The second thought is that three-fourths or more of the projected improvements can be well left for future development and only the embryo of the great promise of what may be in the future be taken care of now. The main thing at present is to get public possession of the private mill property which should have passed into public possession long ago. It would seem at first that the price the committee recommend to pay for the mill property, water rights and land is much too generous compared with its assessed value. But when we consider what great benefit the public is to receive which is not assessable, something which will be a joy forever, the price does not seem so high. For instance, would the community think of returning the large amount of money which has been paid the former owners of business plants once situated near the mill property, and restore the old order of things which existed before the playground was established? Not for a moment would the public think of restoring the tannery, coal yards, lumber sheds, tenement houses, freight yard, livery stable, etc., for ten times what was paid for them by the community. Yet assessed values were not much respected when all these properties were taken for public use as the records plainly show. The Hawes Bros. livery stable was assessed for $6350 and $20,000 was the price paid for the property for park purposes. The tannery, shut up and out of business, was assessed for $23,800 and $30,000 was paid for the real estate alone. Emerson & Co. lumber and coal yard was assessed at $9850 and its value to the public was $30,000. Alexis Cutting received over three times assessed value for his property as did Francis J. O'Hara. Probably these business firms did not net much profit from their sales, liberal as the prices paid seem to be, as the purchase money was largely paid out in purchasing and fitting up new quarters. None of these Winchester citizens had any legal controversy over what they were to receive. They were paid willingly and each award was approved by the Winchester Park Commissioners as the law provides that local park boards shall approve all takings of the Metropolitan Park Commission. Of course the expense of moving and fitting up new places of business is a large element of damages in taking business property, and assessed values have nothing to do with this phase of taking private property for public uses. In thinking these things over, and considering the character of the business carried on at the old Winchester mill and the water power which cannot by any possibility be moved, a sober second thought acquires the committee of being over liberal, over generous in recommending the purchase of the property at a higher price than its assessed value. It is to be hoped that all will support their recommendation to at least purchase the mill property, if nothing more is done toward carrying out other recommendations in their report.

A. B. MILLS' STORE SOLD.

The kitchen furnishing store of A. B. Mills on Mt. Vernon street has been bought by Mr. J. A. Murray of this town, who will continue the business, being now open to former customers. Mr. Murray has been associated with a large kitchen furnishing store in Boston for many years and is thoroughly competent to give continued satisfaction.

Mr. Mills has decided to retire from business. His recent severe sickness had caused the temporary closing of his store, and with his recovery he decided not to continue. At present he is much restored in health, which is a source of gratification to his many friends.

COMING EVENTS.

CHARITIES AND CORRECTIONS

On Wednesday evening last the 38th annual conference of Charities and Corrections began at Tremont Temple. This conference lasts until next Wednesday and presents some most interesting meetings. Tomorrow, Saturday morning at 9:30 at Ford Hall the subject, "Children, Families and Neighborhoods and Law Breakers is taken up by experts. Saturday evening, at Tremont Temple Jacob Riis and Seumas MacManus appear with others on the subjects of Housing, Health and Recreation. Sunday, at Ford at 8 p. m. the time will be given to the general subject, "Children" and some of the best speakers in the country have been engaged.

Monday, June 12, the general subject, "Securing and Training Social Workers" will be considered at 9:30 at Ford Hall by such speakers as Jane Addams, Charles Birtwell, Prof. George E. Barnett, and Mary Richmond. Dr. Richard Cabot speaks at Kingsley Hall at 11:10 in the Ford Building on "The Health of Social Workers" and the evening session at Tremont Temple will be addressed by Dr. Washington Gladden on "The Function of the Church in Social Work." At this session Dr. Crothers, Rabbi Wise and Dr. White of New York will take part in the discussion.

Tuesday, June 13th at 9:30 a housing symposium will be held at Lorimer Hall and discussion of immediate problems will be held. Dr. Devine, editor of the Survey, is to be one of the speakers. On Wednesday, June 14th, morning and evening sessions will be held, the final evening session at Ford Hall, considering the subject, "Drunkennes."

Miss Margaret Elder of Winchester is on the Committee of Charities and Corrections which has arranged the conference.

COW BOY POOL TOURNAMENT CLOSES.

BASEBALL.

On Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field at 3:30, Winchester will play Swampscott A. C.

A large party of Winchester young people went to Lynn by automobile last Monday night to attend the Ringling Circus.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator has heard of a great many ways of keeping flowers fresh, but recently read of a new way, and that is to put a piece of loaf sugar in the water into which the flowers are to be placed.

A certain man gave a STAR reporter an item the other day and said: "Don't mention my name; every time my name is printed it makes my wife mad."

A woman carrying a basket walked out of a store with the end of string from the ball in the store tied to the basket. She walked some little distance from the store before she noticed the string. She freed the string from the basket and walked on leaving the store keeper to wind up the string.

How lonely in these days must be the person who does not understand or appreciate the game of baseball.

Because a woman came near being drowned in a bath tub it by no means follows that bathing is dangerous. Most persons are so constituted that they are not likely to faint away when they come in contact with water.

The Winchesterite is certainly missing half of his life if he does not get up to see these glorious sunrises. The wonderful pictures that are lined against the sky from the moment the early rays begin to tint the clouds until the golden orb is completely above the horizon, compose a series of beautiful panoramas that change every second with all the prismatic variety of the kaleidoscope. Aside from this it will do any person a lot of good to get up early and inhale his lungs with the pure air.

The Spectator knows a man who is in jutting his health seriously by trying to save a little money. This is wrong. It is foolhardy. No man should try to stint or try to economize in the food he eats, which is the very foundation and secret of a man's success in life. Orison Swift Marden has the right idea of the whole matter when he says: "The most precious investment a man can make is to be just as good to himself as he possibly can, and never under any circumstances, pinch or economize in things which can help him to do the greatest thing possible to him. There is no doubt that the efficiency of numerous people is kept down many per cent by improper diet. Many a man who thinks he is economizing in time and money because he spends only 15 or 20 cents for his lunch may lose dollars in possible efficiency because of this short sighted economy."

The Spectator suggests a new cause of study for the public schools of Winchester. It would not be science or a language, it would be just about Winchester. "The Queen town of the Commonwealth." Some kind of a text-book form should be gotten up and the teacher could use them to teach the children something about Winchester. The Spectator is firmly convinced that the study of the town would become a very popular one.

A certain youngster cheated Uncle Sam the other day. He was asked to mail a letter. After a few moments he returned and handed the lady two cents which she had given him to pay for the stamp. "I waited until nobody was looking," he explained, "and then dropped the letter in the box without any stamp."

A little friend of The Spectator's was sitting on the doorstep the other day, when a man came along and said: "Has your mother any umbrellas to mend?" "No," replied the youngster, "but she has stockings to mend."

Every time The Spectator hears of an operation for appendicitis, he feels shooting pains down where he believes his appendix to be.

People no longer believe in witchcraft, but can any reader of the STAR readily think of anyone who has not some other foolish notion?

The police handle children a good deal like children's parents do—threaten a good deal more than they threaten.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Spectator and other persons to whom "the boy scout movement does not appeal at all" are evidently misled by some imitation. The real thing is not military and does not depend on drill; it is educational and character-building. Half a million boys are enrolled as Boy Scouts of America under the leadership of Ernest Thompson Seton (who lectured in Winchester not long ago). Everybody interested in boys as future men and citizens would do well to read the official handbook (especially the introduction) and bulletins (particularly Nos. 1 and 5). The book is sent by mail for thirty cents. Headquarters are at 124 E. 28th Street, New York; there is a branch office in Old South Building, Boston.

Noway Paragraphs.

Charles H. Hurlburt and Nellie M. Ingham, both of Chelsea, were united in marriage on Sunday evening at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. C. W. Blackett.

The death of the pet horse of Mr. John W. Lufkin was a rather singular coincidence. Mr. Lufkin, formerly of this town, with Mrs. Lufkin, was spending a few days at their cottage here and had sent for their pet, as they intended shortly to leave for their summer home at the Rangeley's in Maine, where they had taken him with them for a number of years. He had been perfectly well all winter and seemed pleased, as he always did, to get back to his little stable in Winchester. He died very suddenly Monday night. He was 29 years old and had always been owned by Mr. Lufkin since he was a colt. For many years he carried his master from his home here in Winchester to the station and back. In all the years since they left here, he never forgot his old home and always gave a longing look toward it when passing. He was very gentle and had been driven by Mrs. Lufkin in Boston, for years. It was always their wish he might end his days in Winchester, which he did and was buried on Memorial Day.

Last Friday afternoon at four o'clock the fire department was called to an Italian residence on Cedar street, in response to an alarm from box 35. The fire was caused by a partition in the cellar being built against the clean-out of the chimney, hot ashes dropping down setting it on fire. The blaze was extinguished with a hand chemical. On Saturday noon the firemen were called to another Italian house on living street. Here the woman of the family had attempted to clean a hot stove with benzene. She had a rag saturated with the fluid and a put bottle. The rag blazed up and the bottle exploded. It is thought that she threw the bottle away from her before it exploded, as she was not injured and the explosion appeared to have been in the middle of the floor. Firemen living near the scene had the fire practically extinguished before the arrival of the centre apparatus.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A Plain Statement of Facts Regarding Street Name.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In order that the citizens of Winchester may understand my position concerning the street recently accepted by the town and formerly called Ogden avenue, I take this opportunity of throwing a little more light on the situation.

When I came to Winchester several years ago, it was with the intention of permanently making it my residence, and I determined even at that early date to become a citizen and voter of the town as soon as that outcome could be brought about. I found, on investigation, that being of English birth this would take several years; but I at once started proceedings and will be eligible to become a voter of this town in a very few months. While in town, I have endeavored to interest myself, so far as I was permitted, in town affairs; I have paid heavy taxes, and it seems to be unfair in view of these facts that criticism should be made of me on the ground that I am not a voter, and not entitled to the recognition which a voter should receive. I am becoming a voter just as fast as the law will permit me, and I ask for fair play.

When the matter of naming the street came up at the last town meeting, the main, if not the only reason why the present name "Symmes road" was adopted, was that it would be a tribute to Rev. Zachariah Symmes, who was one of the ministers of the early English Colony, and who at one time owned three hundred acres in the southern part of Winchester. This was in face of the fact that practically the entire street had been known by the name of "Ogden avenue" for over four years and that over three quarters of the abutters were opposed to any other name than "Ogden avenue." It has been, I am informed, the invariable custom in Winchester for many years in naming a street to follow the wishes of the property owners who have property fronting thereon, and this is the first instance in the history of the town where the wishes of the owners were not considered and complied with.

I have ascertained that the Symmes grant originally covered what is known as the Brook's estate and land, upon which is now located a large part of the territory adjacent to Everett avenue, Church street, all of Bacon street, Herrick street, Black Horse terrace, Main street from Black Horse terrace to Symmes Corner and beyond, including a large portion of the southern part of Winchester on both sides of the railroad. Most of this land included in the grant has passed out of the hands of the Symmes family, and has been laid out in streets and house lots. Much of the property has changed hands a great many times. The particular tract of land comprising about three acres of farm land developed by me, upon which Ogden avenue, so called, was located, was not purchased by me of the Symmes family at all, but of Harriet and Helen Wellington in 1906, who made no suggestion whatever as to the naming of any proposed streets. In laying out the tract, and in adopting my family name, as a name for a street, I followed what I was informed was the usual custom in town, and not at all bad taste; there being a large percentage of cases where the street was named after those who developed the land. "Lloyd street," which is on the grant, was named after the son of a prominent citizen of Winchester without any criticism; and "McCall road," a street laid out on Myopia Hill has been named after another prominent citizen upon land exploited by him. That, in view of this circumstance, I should have been so harshly criticized by a gentleman of national reputation at the last town meeting for using my family name as a street designation seems to me to be very unkind, particularly in view of the fact that the learned gentleman was plainly mistaken in stating that there was no precedent for my conduct and that no one had ever heard of the prominent gentleman above mentioned ever desiring to have streets called by their names.

When Lloyd street was accepted there was no objection made because of its name, and I have no doubt but that when McCall road is presented for acceptance, no one will ask to have the name changed. Just how it is going to be an honor to the Rev. Zachariah Symmes to have a short street not over a thousand feet in length bear his name, I am at a loss to discover. If the Reverend gentleman is to be honored, would it not be much more in taste to apply his name to Bacon street or some street on the original grant of some relative importance. If he were here today and were the Christian gentleman I understand him to have been, I firmly believe that he would be the last person in the world to desire to perpetuate his name in the products of another man's energy and enterprise, particularly where the land had some time ago passed out of the control of his immediate family, and the other man's name had been accepted as a street name by a majority of those who lived on the street.

My attitude has always been that I did not absolutely insist upon my name being used, and so far as the abutters were concerned that I would approve of any name the majority desired, and would cheerfully yield my desires to the will of such majority. The attitude of my opponent as announced at the hearing before the Selectmen has been that the street should be called "Symmes road" or nothing; and that if any other name were affixed, he would sue the town for damages, or compel the abutters to pay for the use of the small portion of the street which lay directly adjacent to his premises. This, I have been advised by lawyers is a position which could not be maintained, but it serves to illustrate the bias of my opponent. Adjoining the tract developed by me are several acres of farm land still owned by the Symmes family, and more-over located on the original grant; why could not this land be developed and a street opened and named after its owner? Why should they wait for the brains and energy of others to lay out a street, to which the family name could be applied.

In answer to the criticism that I have got my pay for developing the property, I cheerfully acknowledge that such has been largely the case; but at the same time the Symmes family have also been paid for any rights which they had for the reason that the small section of the street entering Main street was purchased as a right of way by me from them and for a money consideration. It was not required of me to provide any outlet to Main street, the way opened up on the land bought by me of the Wellingtons affording an outlet to Bacon street which was all that my grantees could require. My purchase of the right of way to Main street was, therefore, a free gift by me to my grantees, and the condition of the purchase was that this small section of the way (140 feet), should be called Symmes road until accepted by the town. Then again, because of my development of the Wellington property, the adjoining property owned by the Symmes family has greatly increased in value, for which increase they have paid nothing and done nothing to secure.

My main reason for setting forth the above facts is that my reputation as a public spirited citizen has been attacked, and that it is to the voters of Winchester that I must make explanation and secure vindication of my position. Had the citizens at the last town meeting been in full possession of the facts, I believe that the outcome would have been different, and thus the stamp of public disapproval would not have been placed upon my efforts, which, though actuated mainly by business motives have not been so far commercial but that I have taken care to bring to Winchester a very desirable class of householders and to render attractive a portion of the town which has hitherto not received a great deal of attention.

A joint meeting of the Selectmen and the Park Board was held last week to decide upon the program for July 4th. The games will be under the direction of the supervisor of the playground as last year. George Leduc will have the arrangements for the base ball game in charge. The band and fireworks will be under the charge of the Selectmen.

"THE COLGATE SYSTEM"

OF VACUUM CLEANING

This is the most practical and economical system of Vacuum Cleaning. The Vacuum process has come to stay, but before it could be considered a NECESSITY rather than a LUXURY, there had to be some practical method of applying it.

Previous to "The Colgate System," Vacuum Cleaning was so expensive that a home could be cleaned only once or twice a year, but NOW, by means of this system, it is economical and practical to have your home cleaned EACH week. This is difficult to believe, but it is a fact which my subscribers are proving for you. ASK THEM!

Earl Wilson's Experiences in New Mexico.

John T. Wilson, Esq., has received the following interesting letter from his son, Earl, which will be found of interest to readers of the STAR. Mr. Earl Wilson is one of Winchester's progressive boys whose progress in the affairs of life has been rapid:

Rock Island, N. M.
May 29, 1911.

Dear Father:—

The last time I wrote you was from Monahans, Texas, and I told you I was preparing to go out with the party that was to survey the New Mexico-Texas boundary line. We left Monahans on the 15th of April arriving at the south east corner of New Mexico a little before noon of the 17th. In the afternoon of the 17th we set the new south east corner. It consists of a solid cement base thirty inches square under ground, a corner of cement thirty inches high above the ground with a brass plate on top. We are now over two hundred and twenty miles north of the south east corner, leaving about ninety miles to go. We have not experienced as much trouble getting water as was expected, although we haven't had all we wanted all the time by any means. The tank wagon has had to make a few rather long trips after water but not many. The outfit consists of three four-horse wagons, one two horse wagon, one two horse two-seated covered rig and a four-horse tank wagon; the U. S. surveyor who is the head of the party, the U. S. Commissioner who is Ex-Senator Cockrell of Missouri, the Texas surveyor and assistant, four chinamen, one flagman, four teamsters, one cook and a flunkie. While we were down in the san hills I killed a rattlesnake a little over four feet long having nine rattles. A day or two later another fellow killed a much larger one but it only had six rattles.

We saw several cattle spring roundups and it is very interesting. One night a bunch of cow-punchers were camped within a stone's throw of our camp and so we visited each other, and swapped stories. Our experiences were a good deal more varied than theirs.

We saw several bunches of antelope, which are fast disappearing. People are not allowed to shoot them, but nevertheless lots are shot.

Last night we had a cloud burst and lots of hail. Our camp was nearly washed away. I've never seen rain fall so heavily and so much in such a short time.

We are now camped on the New Mexico side of the line along which the famous X. I. T. cow outfit has its ranch. The X. I. T. people had, and I guess still have, the largest ranch in Texas. Originally the ranch consisted of 3,500,000 acres but it only has about 2,000,000 left. One of the punchers from an X. I. T. range house was over here tonight. During the conversation he happened to mention the horse pasture and when asked its size said it was about 30 by 50 miles; somewhat of a pasture, no?

Things seem to have quieted down in Old Mexico. I'm glad I saw Juarez before the siege and burning.

Senator Cockrell was a Brigadier general in the Confederate army, he also served thirty years in the U. S. Senate. His war experiences are many and interesting.

Tomorrow is Memorial Day. The great event in the year for you, and my birthday. I hope you will write me and tell how everything went off. I would certainly like to be with you.

Affectionately your son,
Earl.

STRATTON—BANCROFT.

The wedding of Mr. George Raymond Bancroft of the firm of Bowser & Bancroft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Bancroft of Stoneham, and Miss Grace Marian Stratton, daughter of Rev. Frank K. Stratton of Melrose, took place on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the First Methodist Church, Melrose. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. E. C. Brigham of Springfield, brother in law of the bride.

The bride was gowned in white marquisette over white liberty satin, trimmed with princess lace and wore the regulation veil. She was attended by Miss Kate McMullen of East Boston, who wore blue marquisette over blue messaline. The bridesmaids were Miss Annie Brigham of Springfield and Miss Bessie F. Smeltzer of Norwood, who were dressed in yellow silk muslin. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white sweetpeas and her maid of honor a bouquet of the same flowers in pink. The bridesmaids carried baskets of yellow marguerites to match their costumes.

Mr. Fred Herbolzheimer of Reading was best man.

The church was decorated for the ceremony with palms, mountain laurel and daisies, the color scheme being green and white.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple held a reception in the ladies' parlor of the church, continuing until ten o'clock. The ushers for both the ceremony and reception were Messrs. Warren Sleeper of Stoneham, Clarence and Harry Baxter of Belmont, Earl Bucknell of Stoneham, E. Ernest Bietrich of Dorchester and Ralph Bancroft of Melrose.

At the conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft left for the home of Dr. R. R. Stratton, where a private reception was held until their departure on their wedding trip. They will be at home after September fifteenth at No. 35 Myrtle terrace, Winchester.

WICKER—RICHARDSON.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Postmaster and Mrs. J. Winslow Richardson on Wednesday evening, June 7th, when their daughter Edith, was united in marriage to Mr. Edison M. Wicker of Cambridge by Rev. P. I. Osborne of the Second Congregational Church.

The bride was dressed in white crepe meteor over messaline and carried bride roses. The maid of honor was Miss Harriet E. Day of Boston, who was dressed in white chiffon cloth over pink silk and carried pink sweet peas.

Miss Jean MacLellan of this town and Mr. Edward Hathaway, jr., of Revere sang the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and Mr. Robert M. Stone of Cambridge presided at the piano.

There were about fifty guests present. A reception followed the ceremony, the couple being the recipients of hearty congratulations from their friends. Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Wicker will reside in Cambridge.

MAKECHNIE PUPILS RECITAL.

The annual violin recital of Mr. Ernst Makechnie's pupils will take place at Chauncy Hall, 585 Boylston street, Boston, Tuesday evening, June 13. This is an event which interests a number of young people of Winchester and their parents, most of whom have already obtained tickets from Mr. Makechnie at his residence, 238 Elm street, West Somerville. An unusually attractive program has been prepared for this occasion, beginning with Wagner's Tannhauser's March, rendered by the full violin orchestra. Those who heard last year's recital in the same place were very enthusiastic regarding the performance.

An amateur farmer on the west side of the town calls his garden the "cut worm" nursery.

The Woburn boulevard bill has been voted down in the lower branch of the Legislature. It will not go down, however, and next year will see the fight on again. It is a case of taxation without representation, as Woburn is several miles outside the park and boulevard system, and yet is obliged to pay its proportion of their cost and maintenance.

President Taft says that the opposition to the reciprocity treaty comes from the lumber trust and paper manufacturers, and without using names scores a New York firm, some of whose members recently appeared at the hearing before the senate finance committee in Washington ostensibly in behalf of the national grange and objected to the enactment of the agreement.

The Boston Globe says regarding the favorable report of the Mass. Senate Committee on direct nomination: "The passage of the bill means a radical change in political conditions in the Bay State, and machine government will be dealt a severe blow. It will be the most important forward stride that the people have been able to make for many years." As the Representatives and Senators are supposed to be the servants of the people, why should it be necessary to compel them to give the people what they ask and demand. Eliminate the politician and then the people will have true representation.

Apparently the Board of Health of Woburn became needlessly excited over the refusal of the local Board of Health to pay for treatment of a Winchester man at the Choate Hospital in that city, particulars of which were printed in the STAR several weeks ago. Winchester has no desire to shirk its just debts, and this bill would have been paid long ago but for an oversight on the part of the Woburn Board regarding the method and the time limit of presenting such bills. The local Board at the coming town meeting will ask the citizens for authority to pay it—a requirement which is absolutely necessary before the bill could be paid.

Representative to the Legislature.

The discussion that has already arisen concerning the advisability of returning Mr. Fay for a third term is more serious and far-reaching than might at first sight appear. Granting all that can be urged in advocacy of the proposition, it must not be forgotten that the conditions are exceptional, and principles which might apply in normal cases may not hold in this.

The long-standing arrangement between Winchester and the Medford wards should not be abrogated or even modified until after due deliberation. And indeed at the present time it does not seem desirable to make any change at all.

Town Meeting.

The meeting next Monday evening merits as full an attendance as the annual meetings in March, and every one who can possibly attend ought to be present. Several matters of the deepest concern to the present and future welfare of the town are contained in the warrant. The most vital of all, and one which is not second in importance even to the grade crossing question, relates to the waterways problem. The report of the Waterways Improvement Committee deserves exceptionally careful study and consideration. The Committee itself is brief, but none the less forceful and convincing in its findings. The expert is clear and painstaking, and plainly points at the immense and priceless opportunities to promote the beauty and attractiveness, as well as the health and comfort of the citizens. And all these things have a direct money value as well. Winchester should develop and is likely to develop, as chiefly a residential town; and the improvement of the waterways will contribute more than anything else that can be mentioned toward attracting new residents, improving property, and adding to valuations. The opportunity is now ours; if we neglect it, it may never come again; or if it does come, the experience of countless other towns and cities proves that it comes at an enormously increased cost. For the sake, partially of ourselves, but chiefly of coming generations, let us not allow this chance to slip through our grasp.

An Important Meeting.

The town meeting of Monday evening next will be, perhaps, the most important and far-reaching the town has ever held. The warrant has been distributed; study the articles in it. The Committee on Waterways Improvements asks for $100,000, and if the citizens decide not to vote the money at this meeting, the matter is certain to come up again. Aside from the grade crossing question there is no improvement so important as this regarding the future of Winchester. It is a business proposition, and if carried out will be a good investment for Winchester by drawing here people who desire to live amid beautiful surroundings. If the present deplorable conditions of our waterways remain as they are at present, the tendency will be to drive people away. The expense of the improvements contemplated, if carried out, will be more than returned to the town in a few years.

The committee on new fire station asks for $50,000 for a new station. In view of the fact that the grade crossing question has not yet been settled, it might be well to wait a little longer, so that the citizens could be given an opportunity to see what the conditions are to be after the method of abolition has been finally decided upon.

A measure that should be handled with caution, is that to permit the town to exceed its ten per cent. of the expense of abolishing the grade crossing to secure the adoption of the so-called town plan. Up to the present time there has been no clear statement of just what this scheme will cost, the expense being variously estimated at all the way from $350,000 to over $500,000. The citizens should know beforehand what it will cost, and to go ahead and do this work under any other condition would be a grave mistake, no matter how able the committee having the matter in charge. The last vote of the town was in favor of gates at the crossing, but this having been deemed impracticable if it would seem that the method of abolition is now again before the town.

Other important matters are a new heating plant for the Town Hall; Saturday half holidays during June, July and August for town employees; additional money for moths, and the cemetery, etc. So that from a money point of view, the meeting should have the attendance of every taxpayer in town.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

It was expected that "Little Lord Fauntleroy" would be successful at the Castle Square, but its triumph has far exceeded all anticipation. In consequence Mr. Craig announces that it will be continued for a second week, and that Henrietta McDannel will repeat her notable performance of the title character. Miss McDannel's success in this play has been as remarkable as her success as Peter in "The End of the Bridge," and she contributes no small proportion of its triumph. The other leading roles are acted by Mr. Hassell, Mr. Meek, Miss Binley and Miss Colcord

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The reason I have taken up so much time in town meeting is because others have not taken their share. However, I have not used the meetings to advertise "the beesness" nor to get square with those with whom I have had business differences. Come again.

Oh you Commoner! I hoped you would take the bait but did not suppose you would swallow it; you are relied upon to furnish a large part of the fuel for the steam roller, which you alone have said is used in our town meetings, for figuratively speaking it is a hot air machine. You will also take the part of an eccentric.

The only people who will have any influence in deciding the Winchester end of the expected grade crossing agreement are the registered voters who attend and vote at the town meeting. Make a note on't.

What kind of "spineless angle worms" can there be at Winchester Highlands to allow a contractor to hold them up on a public highway on such a legal holiday as Memorial Day? It is fortunate indeed we did not have such "things" in '61. What do you think would have happened in Ward 8 if such a performance had been attempted? I am glad I have, left those parts, but Mr. "By the Aberjona" still lives up there although his "poll, personal and considerable real estate tax" does not seem to have furnished him with any spunk. No wonder the old soldiers are disgusted.

The town meeting will probably be so warm that the Selectmen should consider furnishing electric fans. One of the warmest nights, I think, will be on renaming Symmes coal and calling it Ogden road. I move we name it Squaw Sachem road.

The gentleman "By the Aberjona," evidently fears I cannot keep posted on town affairs and live out of town, but as I cover the town every few weeks over the electric and steam roads, see the gossips once a month or oftener and take the STAR, I think I know a little more about them than citizens who take the trains at Wedgemere and Winchester Highlands, or the electric, and go through to Boston daily. As I happen to be on the committee to investigate assessing, I am interested to know whether or not the river resident makes a sworn return on that personal property he refers to.

The Supreme Court said nothing new in the Standard Oil and tobacco cases, but if Justice Harlan's notions had prevailed and could have been enforced we shouldn't have known where we were at. The law is and of necessity must be common sense.

Some of the big public service corporations are seriously considering establishing publicity bureaus. There's progress for you. Charles Francis Adams advocated it forty years ago. The World do move.

Some of the Boston papers say that Mr. Luce will have no serious opposition for lieutenant governor next fall but they are very much mistaken for the Democratic party will fight for every office on the ticket all along the line and Mr. Luce will be opposed by a candidate as honest, able and fearless as himself and also fully as good a campaigner and speaker. Representative and ex-Senator John H. Meany of Blackstone, Worcester County, is the best orator in the present General Court. Mr. Meany is strong with the farmers and being from Worcester County the Republican candidates for both governor and lieutenant governor being from the extreme eastern part of the Commonwealth will help him very much. The Republicans have absolutely no hope of defeating Governor Foss and greedily admit it.

The Democrats need to be very much more careful in selecting candidates for the House than they were last year as there is a good chance to elect a majority of the representatives for the first time in over half a century.

We should appropriate $150 more money for the 4th of July observance at next Monday night's meeting as the $400 voted at the annual meeting is niggardly. Winchester wants all of its town functions done in good shape and can afford to have them.

The present plan of the Central fire house committee is to ask the coming town meeting for an issue of bonds to purchase land and erect and equip the building. This might be all right if the grade crossing matter did not have a very important bearing upon it outside of any question of grade and the committee ought to tumble to it and let its report wait till a little later. We might be shown the plans however. J. H. C.

MUSICALES.

Notwithstanding the rain, about a hundred people attended Mrs. Lewis' pupils' recital Tuesday evening in Woburn Unitarian vestry, and enjoyed the program well rendered by eighteen young pianists, whose technique and style showed the results of expert instruction. Mrs. Meyer of Wakefield, whose acquaintance Mrs. Lewis made in Germany, contributed a pleasing group of songs.

There will be another recital by pupils of Mrs. Lewis next Tuesday evening, June 13, in Metcalf Hall (Unitarian Church) Winchester.

CENTRAL FIRE STATION.

Report of committee on Central Fire Station.

At the annual Town Meeting of March 12th, 1906, the following was Voted, "That a committee of five be appointed by the Moderator to investigate the matter of building a new Central Fire Station and to report at some future meeting."

Committee appointed: John Challis, Clarence J. Allen, James J. Fitzgerald, Freeland E. Hovey, Nathan H. Taylor.

At the Town Meeting of October 22nd, 1906, this committee reported that owing to the question of abolition of Grade Crossings which was under consideration by the town and Railroad Company

"It was not advisable to proceed, notwithstanding the fact that the new Central Fire Station was a necessity. The meeting

Voted, "That the report of the committee be accepted and placed on file, and the committee continued for the purpose of securing an option in behalf of the Town upon such parcel or parcels of land, as, in the opinion of the committee, will be most suitable for a Central Fire Station; to secure a plan or plans for said station and to report to the Town their action for its approval at a future Town Meeting."

Acting under this vote, the committee presents the following report:

We have looked over available sites for the Station and have secured options on same. Have visited neighboring cities and looked at new houses and apparatus.

We believe that the Town requires a FOUR WAY brick house so constructed as to accommodate 1 steamer, 1 hose wagon, 1 ladder truck, 1 chemical or combination, and have ten sleeping rooms with the necessary furnishings.

Recommendations

a. That the Town purchase for the sum of $8,750.00, plus interest from date of option and necessary cost of insurance and examination of title,—the so-called Davis property on Vine street.

b. That the Town vote to add to this the Water Works property on Vine street.

c. That for the purpose of acquiring land, erecting and equipping the Central Fire Station ready for occupancy, the Town raise and appropriate the sum of $50,000 to be expended under the authority of this or some other committee appointed by the Town.

Estimates.

Land $8,750.00 plus interest and charges
House $35,000
Fire alarm $35,000

$45,300

The committee has not considered any changes or additions in the Fire Apparatus, believing that this committee was intended to consider only the problem of housing.

Votes have been prepared which will be offered later in the evening for your consideration.

John Challis,
Clarence J. Allen,
James J. Fitzgerald,
Freeland E. Hovey,
Nathan H. Taylor,
Committee.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The regular June meeting of the local union is to be held Saturday, June 17, at the home of the president, Mrs. G. H. Hamilton, 31 Vine street, at the usual hour, 3 p. m. It is, however, to be held in connection with the outing of a group from the Frances E. Willard settlement of Boston and it the day is unpleasant both the meeting and the outing will be postponed until the Saturday following. Members are requested to make a note of this.

The children who come bring a basket luncheon but fruit and drinks, lemonade, etc., are provided and the Union pays the car fares. Help towards defraying this expense will be gladly received if any one wishes to contribute something.

The children will do their share by entertaining those present with songs and recitations. Every one is invited. The Winchester Loyal Temperance Legion is also to participate.

This week Saturday the county convention of the Loyal Temperance Legion will be held in the Methodist Church and all interested are invited to attend the sessions which will be held at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Mrs. Helen G. Rice, State superintendent will be present and other good speakers. There will be a medal contest also and other interesting features. It is unfortunate that two of the local Sunday schools are to have a picnic on that day but it is hoped the others will be well represented. There will be a basket luncheon.

Maine is in the throes of the campaign for the re-enactment of the prohibitory amendment. So many Winchesterites go every year to the Pine Tree State for recreation that they have a personal interest in its laws. It is hoped that this year those who go will pay particular attention to conditions there and judge for themselves whether the open saloon would be an added attraction. Liquor is to be had there, it is admitted, but it is not legally sold and the traffic is not pseudo respectable. A whole generation has grown up unaccustomed to the open bar and its attendant scenes. Would you favor its reinstatement?

Preliminary Midsummer

CLEARANCE SALE

Commencing Thursday, June 8th

Will surpass in values anything we have before offered. Rather than carry our stock over into next season we are about to sell everything at greatly reduced prices.

This mark-down includes our imported models which are shown on the second floor; also many charming summer hats, gowns and piazza wraps.

THE JUNE BREAKFAST.

Once more a June Breakfast has become a part of the history of Winchester and of its Visiting Nurse Association. The fact that last year's scarlet fever epidemic necessitated the omission of the breakfast from the calendar of 1910 seemed to make its revival more popular than ever this season. Over eleven hundred tickets were sold before June 3rd, while over six hundred more were sold at the door. This means that about one-fifth of the residents of our beautiful town breakfasted at the Town Hall in a sort of general family gathering. Can anything more delightful be imagined? We are all more or less familiar with the formal evening banquet, which is the favorite form of entertainment for the men, and with the elaborate and fashionable luncheon which the ladies affect, but who of us would give a hgh for either in comparison with a June Breakfast? The very word "June," in itself, is enough to conjure up any number of charming pictures, and when one has only to open his eyes and look about to find most of these pictures actually painted before him in the early morning sun-light, then it's no wonder that he arrives at the breakfast table with a smile on his face and a hearty "Good Morning" on his lips. And what a pleasure it is to find everybody else has come, too, —and in the same happy frame of mind! Nobody is thinking about what the other person has on or what sort of an after-dinner speech he is going to make or which fork she is going to use next. Instead, everyone seems to be joking with his neighbor from the other less desirable side of the town, or telling his wife how much better the scrambled eggs taste than those at home, or looking out that the children don't fall into the oatmeal. For the children are there, big and little, and are the best part of it all. They add the finishing touch of sociability which makes the breakfast a big family party.

And a big one it certainly is. When one realizes that there were consumed on Saturday morning 24 hams, 30 tongues, 2640 eggs, 90 pounds of butter, 1488 doughnuts, 2400 rolls, 33 pots of beans, 5 crates of strawberries, 5 bunches of bananas, 40 gallons of cream and 25 gallons of milk, —then it becomes quite apparent that it has taken many hands to plan and many hands to execute so large an undertaking. But experience has proved the best of teachers and the work of preparation is now so systematically planned beforehand that everything runs along with comparative ease. Each of the nineteen tables has its head and from eight to ten assistants, while there are about thirty more at supply tables and other work. Altogether a total of over two hundred workers is required to run all the machinery.

But the very fact of working together diminishes greatly the arduousness of the labor and helps wonderfully towards promoting acquaintance and good feeling. In fact the June Breakfast is an excellent social institution. In many ways it works for a more general intercourse among our townspeople. It is a good thing for so many of us to get together in the interest of the same good cause. Just what the financial returns for the Visiting Nurse Association will prove to be cannot yet be positively ascertained but let us hope they may be worthy of the institution. May they be ample enough to warrant our looking forward to another summer for a repetition of that rare delight, a June Breakfast!

ANSON BURTON.

Anson Burton of Cabot street, a well known resident of this town for over twenty-four years, died on Tuesday. He had been in poor health for some time.

Mr. Burton was born in East Cambridge, his parents being Anson and Elizabeth (Harvey) Burton. He was a member of the well known firm of A. & E. Burton & Co., brush manufacturers of Pearl street, Boston. He was a Mason, being a member of William Parkman Lodge of this town and DeMolay Commandery of Boston; a member of the Unitarian Church, the Royal Arcanum, and previously of the Calumet Club.

He leaves a widow and two daughters, Miss Edith and Miss Ethel Burton.

The funeral services will be held from the residence, No. 2 Cabot street, this Friday afternoon, at 2.30. Rev. William I. Lawrence will officiate. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

The large garage being built for Captain Anthony Kelley of Fletcher street is almost completed. The building is a very attractive one capable of housing two large motor cars.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the subscriber has been duly appointed executrix of the will of John Sullivan, late of Winchester, in the County of Middlesex, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are hereby required to exhibit the same, and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to ALICE F. SULLIVAN, Executrix.

CORSETS

Like all articles of great merit, P. N. Corsets with cork protected clasps, have many imitations. In P. N. Corsets are embodied the very latest ideas of corset building, ideas that have their origin in Paris and which are reconstructed to meet American requirements. The multiplicity of models we carry enables us to satisfy the woman who follows fashions every whim and likewise the woman of more conservative taste.

Style 1818, Practical Side P. N. Corset. Extra quality, corset with compress front clasp, wide ribbon and low trim, six supporters. Double steel corset breaking down impossible, these side steels can be removed without ripping and reversed in pocket from time to time, thus insuring permanent shapeliness to corset. This is an extremely smart model for the average figure with a tendency to large hips. It is so cleverly designed that the superfluous flesh about the hips is perfectly controlled and the figure molded to the modish lines of slender grace. Price

Style 1210, P. N. Practical Side Corsets $1.50. Style 823, high bust, Style 812, low bust, Style 806, short, 824, long, 818, Summer net. Price

$1.00

WILHELMINA CORSETS

The manufacturers of most corsets spend a vast amount of money advertising and this money does NOT come out of the maker, does NOT come out of the retailer, but it DOES come directly out of the corsets. Wilhelmina Corsets are not advertised, the maker preferring to put extra value in the corsets.

Style 880, Wilhelmina Corsets. The like of which has never until now been shown, is not duplicated in value by any other corset on the market and will probably never be surpassed. Extra length, good corset, fine lace trim, four supporters, nicked skirt hook, draw strings, hook fastener at bottom. Price

$1.00

Style 884, Wilhelmina Corsets. Long, $1.50. Style 888, Form Adjusting, Price

$1.98

Ferris Good Sense Waists, Women's $1.00, Misses' 75c, Children's 50c.
 Nemo Corsets, model 319, Batiste, low bust, model 321, Contil, medium bust, the two new summer models with "Lastikops" side bands. This corset is better than custom made corsets at twice the cost. Price

$3.00

Linen Laces Free with all Corsets.

CONGRESS DISTRICTS

Much Interest in New Ones For Massachusetts

THE LABOR BILL IS VETOED

Governor Foss Held It Was Not Needed—Rights Conferred Already Held —Mayor Fitzgerald as a Ready Critic

The members of the legislature are considering congressional redistricting. The state has now fourteen districts and under the new apportionment which has been authorized by the lower house of congress would be entitled to sixteen. The United States senate has not yet endorsed the bill and thus the matter waits for the time being. Speaker Walker has said that he will divide the redistricting committee exactly between members of the two leading political parties—an attitude which has caused some Republicans to feel that it would be better to have the question of redistricting go over to the legislature of 1912, when a new speaker would be in the chair, especially as it is a delicate matter under any conditions to divide the state into congressional districts and takes considerable time.

If the whole matter does go over to the legislature of 1912 for action it will still be in time for the congressional election of 1912.

How the Congressmen Stand

So far as known now Congressman Lawrence will be a candidate for re-nomination in the Berkshire district. There is no probability that lines will be so changed as to affect him in that district. It seems a foregone conclusion that however the district may be changed, it will still be Republican in its makeup. The same will undoubtedly be true of the second district, now represented by Congressman Gillett. Mr. Gillett has served the district a number of terms and thus far no intimation has been received of his not being a candidate for re-nomination. The Third district, which includes the city of Worcester, is represented by a Democrat, John A. Thayer, of that city. Radical changes may very likely be made in this district and it will probably be as strongly Republican as at present, no matter how its lines may be altered.

Congressman Wilder of the Fourth district is willing to serve another term. It would be very embarrassing if, under the redistricting, two congressmen now sitting were to find themselves in the same congressional district. Such a situation might easily arise, especially in eastern districts which have the largest growth. Congressman Ames of the Fifth district, Congressman Gardner of the Sixth, Congressman Roberts of the Seventh and Congressman McCall of the Eighth are each expecting a re-nomination. It is said that a good many of the Boston Democrats would not be sorry if Congressman Andrew J. Peters of the Eleventh district should be lost in the shuffle. His district is made up entirely of Boston wards and has been Democratic during all the years he has been a candidate. Of course, William F. Murray, the new congressman from the Ninth district, would like a re-nomination and so would James M. Curley, now representing the Tenth district for the first time. Congressman John W. Weeks, representing the Twelfth district, would like to continue in congress and so would Congressman Green of the Thirteenth, and Congressman Robert O. Harris of the Fourteenth district. With the addition of two new districts in the state, there ought to be room for all the congressmen now sitting. It is natural that they should be very much interested in the redistricting plans of the legislature and that they should desire to be carefully looked after by their friends in the legislature.

Labor Measure Vetoed

Governor Foss has vetoed another bill which was backed by the labor unions. It was a bill to allow peaceful persuasion at the time of a strike and now that the governor has signed the fifty-four-hour bill, there will probably be no very great exception taken by the labor men themselves to this action, especially as they can bring it up again next year. The governor holds that the peaceful persuasion bill is not needed, as every citizen is already in full enjoyment of his fundamental right to argue peacefully whatever subject he pleases with anyone who will listen to him under conditions to which both agree. He thinks, however, that in matters relating to industrial problems, it often happens that persuasion passes into threats and menacing demands, a species of intimidation and compulsion, fosters enmity and leads to acts of violence. He adds that "we must have no statute which can be used to legalize, in the guise of peaceful persuasion, such means of intimidation and moral compulsion as I have referred to."

Fitzgerald as a Scold
Mayor John P. Fitzgerald is becoming a scold. He evidently believes the easiest way to divert attention from one's self is to make an attack on someone else. One day he attacks the city council because it does not immediately act favorably on all the loan bills and other matters which he sends to it, then he gaily turns to the Boston Bar association and criticizes that because some of its leading members opposed his election in the last city campaign. In a recent issue of his newspaper the mayor demands the official heads of Stephen O'Meara, police commissioner of Boston; of Charles Warren, chairman of the state civil service commission, and John F. Moors of the Boston finance commission, and demands the appointment of new men who will "work in harmony" with the city administration. It was only a few days ago that the mayor looked fiercely at Governor Foss and expressed the conviction that he would be a very heavy load for the Democratic party to carry this fall if he vetoed the bill to increase the pay of the Boston primary teachers. He has attacked Police Commissioner O'Meara, he has accused the Boston police officials of having been companions of thieves, and recently he made a bitter attack upon Joseph Lee of the Boston finance commission. To paraphrase the words of a famous couplet, he would:

"Count that day lost whose low descending sun Views no attack on John A. Sullivan."

The friends of the mayor believe he should cultivate the cheerful spirit. They fear that if he continues in the way he is going, he will develop into a common scold and be amenable to proper punishment under the statutes for such cases made and provided.

BRILLIANCY.

Brilliant men like to have as their helpmates brilliant women. The essence of marriage is companionship, and the woman you face across the coffee urn every morning for years must be both able to appreciate your jokes and to sympathize with your aspirations. If it is not so the man will stray actually or else chase the ghosts of dead hopes through the graveyard of his dreams. Prettiness palls unless it is backed up by intellect. The merely clever woman is nearly as bad as the clever man. All those people who carry most of their goods in the show window are headed for jobs at the button counter.—Elbert Hubbard.

A RECORD IN GUN FIRING.

The Heaviest Broadside Ever Discharged From a Warship.

The most dramatic incident of the gunfiring trials of the new Brazilian battleships Minas Geraes and Sao Paulo, was the firing of an entire broadside simultaneously, making a terrific discharge, the heaviest broadside ever fired and an event unparalleled in the history of ballistics. The five turrets of the ship were all trained on the port beam, all the ten guns being given an elevation of seven degrees and loaded with a full charge of 285 pounds of cordite. The ten twelve-inch guns, monster weapons fifty feet long, each discharged a shell of 850 pounds weight, making a total of 8,500 pounds "weight of metal." At the same time were fired the eleven 4.7 guns mounted on the Sao Paulo's broadside, each sending off a projectile weighing forty-five pounds and adding 495 pounds to the discharge, making up a total broadside fire amounting to 8,995 pounds—a record discharge of destructive projectiles. These vessels mount as light guns in addition six three-pounders on each broadside, which fired in action would bring up the total possible weight of metal fired from the ship to 9,013 pounds.

The most notable feature of the Minas Geraes is her superimposed turrets. The wings of the navigating bridge are removed for action, the boats discarded and davits swung back out of the way while the guns are being fired.—London Illustrated News.

New Form of Door.

One of the oldest of human inventions is the door swinging on hinges at one side. Some weaving insects, such as trapdoor spiders, employ a similar device, but nothing is too old or too good to escape the efforts at improvement of modern inventors. A Belgian inventor has devised a door of a new type consisting of two triangular parts which close together on a diagonal line running from one lower corner of the door opening to the opposite upper corner. The two parts, or leaves, are pivoted in such a manner that when opened they swing into partitions in the ceiling, leaving an entirely unobstructed passage. Being carefully counterbalanced, the leaves require slight force to move them.—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Easy Arrangement.

Wife—Am I, then, never to have my way in anything? Husband—Certainly, dear. When we are both agreed you can have your way. When we differ I'll have mine.

CAUTION.

For he who fights and runs away
May live to fight another day,
But he who is in battle slain
Can never rise to fight again.
—Oliver Goldsmith.

REGULAR MEETING

First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

(If a holiday the following evening)

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

Address all communications to the Bank and not to Individuals.

WINCHESTER WON

LAST SATURDAY.

The Weymouths, formerly Wellington of Dorchester, lost a 1 to 0 game to Winchester at Garfield Park, Weymouth last Saturday in one of the fastest games ever played in that town. Somerville and Kussmaul pitched great balls and were well supported. Kelley retired the side in the ninth on three sensational catches.

ARLINGTON 7, WINCHESTER 3

The game with Arlington High school played on Manchester Field Saturday last was close and interesting up until the tenth inning. Goddu was in form and deserves great credit for striking out thirteen men and procuring five putouts.

Winchester started the scoring in the second inning by securing two runs. In the third by scoring one more, they had a lead of three, but in the fifth inning Arlington woke up, got one run, and another in the sixth. No score was made in the seventh or eighth, but in the ninth Arlington again got one run, thus tying the score.

Winchester was held to no score in the last of the ninth and in the tenth Arlington got four runs on account of bad errors on Winchester's part. Arlington again held Winchester in the last of the tenth, the game ending 7-3.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

Still another sensational novelty is announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre, following "Consul." This time it is nothing short of a most remarkable kangaroo, who puts on the gloves and engages in a boxing contest with two snarling experts. The Boxing Kangaroo furnishes one of the most novel entertainments seen on the stage.

On the same bill will be another star attraction, Eddie Leonard, the famous minstrel man. His famous "Boolah" song has become a classic. Still another big attraction will be Mae Melville and Robert Higgins, "the thin teller who can't stoop," and Miss Melville is one of the funniest character comedienne now before the public. Other features will be Linton and Lawrence, in a musical comedy called "The Piano Shop" Arthur Whitelaw, the monologist; Martine and Sylvester, knock about comedians; the Misses Marian Merrill and Louise Hilton in their operatic production, "The Maid of Cimbar," the Bert DeVore Trio of wire walkers; and others yet to be announced.

WOBURN WON.

In a slow, loose game with Woburn High school at Library Field, Woburn yesterday afternoon, the local High school team was defeated 19-0.

Tuck pitched for Winchester after the second out in the first inning, allowing fourteen hits, while Mobbs allowed three. But the heavy hitting was not the only reason for the large score—errors, passed balls, wild pitches, etc. accounted for many of the runs.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Weater who allowed only two hits. Score by innings:

VOL. XXX. NO. 50.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 1911.

PRICE, FIVE CENTS

Largest Meeting and Most Important in History of Town.

Whitney Property Purchased for Town Park Purposes.

The record for the largest town meeting in Winchester was broken Monday evening, and for once the capacity of the great hall, including the small hall, and the galleries, proved to be inadequate to accommodate all who desired to listen to the most important meeting held in the history of the town. The ladies were present in unusual numbers and lined up in the back of the gallery was a long row of standers.

Of course the principal reason for this large gathering of the people was the great and far-reaching waterways question. The minds of the citizens regarding this scheme were made up before they entered the hall, the determination being to push it through regardless of all obstacles, and settle once for all this question that has been disturbing the tranquility of the inhabitants for so many years. The able, educative and convincing articles prepared by Mr. Everett N. Curtis, showing the conditions of the ponds and streams, printed in the STAR last winter, and the engineer's report sent out last week, made the citizens determined to improve conditions no matter what the cost. So that when a vote was taken there were but five dissenters.

In the end this will be found one of the best investments ever made by the town, and the result will be a truly Winchester beautiful.

The proposed new central fire station took up considerable time, and while the citizens were practically unanimous in favor of it, many believe that there should be a further postponement until the method of grade crossing elimination had been decided upon, but the advocates of the measure believe that the present intolerable condition had already existed too long and therefore they would agree no longer to delay.

TOWN MEETING.

The second session of the special town meeting was held last evening, there being a large attendance. The article calling for $50,000 for a new fire station was laid on the table by the vote of 247 to 86. The opinion prevailed that as the method of abolishing the grade crossing was so near, that the question should be held in abeyance. It was voted to pay Woburn $84 for medical treatment given to Matthew Dooley of this town. The policemen were placed under the civil service laws by a large vote. It was voted not to grant Saturday afternoons during June, July and August to town laborers. The Cemetery Commissioners were given $200 to establish a card catalogue of interments in the cemetery. It was voted to establish a "Permanent Care Fund for Wildwood Cemetery" from the money given for permanent care of lots. The moth department was given $1200 additional to the amount voted at the March meeting. The question of appropriating $3500 to install new heating apparatus at the Town Hall was laid on the table. Mr. J. I. Braddock presented a new plan for the elimination of the grade crossing. Pending his explanation, the meeting adjourned to Tuesday evening, June 27.

MARY J. RICHARDSON.

Mrs. Mary J. Richardson, aged 82 years, died at her home in Glengarry on Tuesday, June thirteenth. Mrs. Richardson came to this town in 1894 and for the greater part of the time since has made her home in Winchester. She was the widow of the late Charles A. Richardson for thirty-five years a proprietor and the Managing Editor of the Congregationalist. Though ill through her entire life, yet in earlier years she was at intervals an able and enthusiastic worker for the best interests of church and community. Her later years in Winchester have of necessity been spent in retirement. She was a woman of large interests, and marked spirituality, and nowhere was this more evident than in her home, where through off-recurring periods of pain and long-continued illness, her buoyancy, of spirit, her courage and her faith never failed her.

The funeral service Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, was followed by cremation at Mt. Auburn. Beside her two daughters, Mrs. William F. Ray of Franklin Mass., and Miss Alice M. Richardson of this town, five grand children and three great grand children survive her.

Miss Marcia Hazelton gave a luncheon of twelve covers on Wednesday in honor of Miss Bernice I. Hilton, whose marriage takes place the twenty-seventh of June. Immediately after the luncheon there was a handkerchief shower and before the party broke up the bride was "showered" again.

There was considerable hostility shown by the citizens to the actions of Mr. W. L. Tuck during the debates, and at one stage of the meeting the Moderator had a strenuous time in trying to hold the indignant citizens in check. Mr. Tuck, if he really desires to assist in good legislation, is making a mistake in the reckless and uncalled-for manner in which he assails respectable citizens. Good and bad measures alike, presented by him, are voted down to show the feeling of resentment against him.

Mr. F. M. Ives was elected Moderator, and after the passage of the customary vote regarding rules for the conduct of the meeting, Mr. John T. Crosgrove asked consent of the meeting to take up article 14, regarding half holidays on Saturdays during June, July and August, to town employees.

Mr. John H. Carter was opposed to the motion, claiming that a deal had been made by the friends of this measure and those in favor of the new central fire station. Some years ago the town went through a similar deal, when the question of kindergarten schools was up for consideration, and then, as now, Mr. Crosgrove opposed the motion.

Mr. Crosgrove denied all knowledge of such a deal, and that there was any in the present case. The passage of this article only meant failing in line with surrounding cities and towns.

Mr. J. A. Lariway spoke in opposition, saying that it would be better to give the men a week with pay in winter when there was no work, than to shut down during the summer, when there was plenty to do, with the resultant illness of horses and machinery.

THE WINCHESTER

ASSEMBLY ROOM.

(Contributed.) "What is so rare as a day in June" may have a distorted but significant meaning when applied to the coincidence that the June breakfast and an overflowing town meeting should fall in the first half of this choicest month. It is hardly possible for one to attend both of these gatherings, one so profitable in fellowship and the other planning for the welfare of a coming generation, without seeing the desirability of the opportunity for periodic gatherings of a more spontaneous character. When one also sees the crowds which congregate on street corners and the overtaxing of the public library because there is no other place of meeting for those who momentarily do not wish to read, the fact is emphasized that it is well for a community not only to have a place for the children to play outdoors, but an equally appropriate space for recreation, instruction and communion indoors.

The proposed Assembly Room, for the conduct of which funds are now being sought, would make a focal point in the community life which would permanently express the spirit which is incarnated in the June breakfast and the town meeting. Whatever criticism one may have of the dilatory methods of a popular democratic gathering and the ubiquitousness of the seekers for the limelight, such a gathering does inform the citizens and express their will in the way which insures their permanent edification and co-operation.

There are some who are temperamentally so individualistic that it is an effort to participate in such gatherings frequently; there are others who constantly feel the call of their kin; there are many who in their restlessness may become mischievous and who do not understand the stimulus and solace of human fellowship. The Assembly Room is designed to gather these latent communal forces, partly for momentary enjoyment, partly for intensive spiritual and intellectual cultivation, and partly for laying the basis of a sounder and more comprehensive community life.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Murdock and Miss Jennie E. Skinner were guests at the Grant-Rankin marriage in Central Church, Berkeley and Newbury streets, Boston, on June eighth and at the reception at the home of the bride, 516 Commonwealth avenue. Capt. Homer B. Grant is of the Coast Artillery Corps, United States Army and Miss Rankin a graduate of Smith, class of '03. Captain and Mrs. Grant will tour England and Scotland during the next two months. All the brilliancy and attractive formality of a military wedding and reception, were enjoyed to the fullest by the three hundred or more guests present.

PROTEST BAD ODOR.

Residents of Cutter's Village Meet Board of Health.

The Board of Health gave a hearing Tuesday evening in the small Town Hall on a petition signed by 61 persons protesting against the odors coming from the Beggs & Cobb's tannery on Swanton street. It is a condition that similarly affects Winchester and is due to the inability of the Metropolitan sewer to take care of the sewage. The whole trouble comes from the fact that when this sewer was built the engineers made the fatal mistake of not building it large enough—a blunder that will cost a vast sum of money. Winchester is affected by overflow pipes that enter Black Ball pond when the capacity of the sewer is overtaxed, this filth being allowed to flow down the Aberjona river to Mystic Lake and also to settle on the bottom of the pond, river and lake.

In the case of Messrs. Beggs & Cobb they were forbidden further use of the sewer until all sediment had been removed from the waste water. This required the building of concrete settling pans, according to requirements of the Metropolitan Sewer Board, and these have cost the firm so far over $7000. It is the small arising from these pans that causes the entire neighborhood of Cutter's Village so strongly to protest. The firm was represented at the hearing by Mr. William E. Beggs and Mr. Harry Cox, the superintendent. They said that the present condition was forced upon them by the Metropolitan Sewer Board because of the incapacity of the sewer, and the settling pans were built by their order. The firm, they said, would be glad and willing to adopt any remedy that might be suggested to suppress the odors. Chemicals to be used for that purpose would not be permitted by the Sewer Board. From their remarks, this large establishment, employing over 500 men, had been placed in a serious position by the command of the Board.

The petitioners to the number of over thirty, men and women, attended the hearing and all testified to the bad odor that caused nausea, sickness and the closing of doors and windows. It is a serious matter to these people, as was shown by the testimony presented by them. Selectmen Pond and Daly appeared and protested against conditions observable from Swanton street, where school children and women were obliged to pass by scantily clad men at work close to the street. They thought that a screen or fence should be built to shut out the sights.

Messrs. Beggs & Cobb and the local Board of Health will, no doubt, find some way to overcome the odors, as the desire of the former is to remove all sources of complaint.

Among those who spoke at the hearing were: Patrick Heunessy, David Meskill, David Murphy, John Donovan and his wife, James Stevenson, Mr. Waddell, Daniel O'Loughlin and the Misses O'Loughlin. Edward O'Brien, Miss Nettie Morgan, James Blackham, John Matson.

At the request of the board of health the representatives of the company remained for a conference with the board. It was finally decided by the board that the conditions be adjudged a nuisance and the company be given six weeks in which to abate it. It is proposed to cover the basins and provide in some manner for the odor and gases to be carried away as far as possible.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

PICNIC.

The annual picnic of the Sunday School of the First Congregational Church was held last Saturday. About 250 attended, going by three special electric cars to Riverhurst on the Concord river.

The day was spent with sports of all kinds, ball games and other forms of recreation. Two ball games were played, one between the married and unmarried ladies and the other between the bachelors and bachelorettes. In both instances the unmarried teams won. The games were such that all could participate, and prizes were given for first and second places of ribbons. An amusing feature of the sports was the nail driving contest for the ladies.

The return was made at six o'clock, the party arriving at Winchester without a single mishap. The Woburn brass band accompanied the picnicers and furnished music during the day.

L. T. L. CONVENTION

About sixty delegates from various legions in Middlesex county north met in the Methodist church last Saturday. Winchester and Arlington were not very well represented owing to the counter attractions of Sunday school picnics, but Somerville, West Newton, Reading, Cambridge and Woburn were among others represented. Mrs. Helen G. Rice, state superintendent, was in charge. Mrs. Ada Frieble conducted a medal contest, the winner being a little Italian girl who rendered a selection in a manner worthy of a much older person.

son. There was a very good program besides the usual reports. Harold Lutes of Winchester gave the address of welcome and members of the local W. C. T. U. assisted with the refreshments in connection with the basket luncheon. A number of visitors were present and some of them made brief addresses.

KENDALL—LAWRENCE.

The first church wedding for the month of June in this town occurred on Monday noon, when Frank Dana Kendall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kendall, and Miss Dorothy Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Lawrence, were united in marriage at the First Congregational Church. The ceremony was performed at noon by Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the church, and was witnessed by a large gathering of friends of the young people.

The edifice was decorated with palms, bay trees and daisies, the color scheme of green and white being carried out in a complete manner. Miss Jessie Marshall, the organist of the church, played the wedding march for the bridal party.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Lawrence, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Miss Katherine Lawrence, Miss Barbara Davis and Miss Rena Gerish of Malden, Miss Eleanor Wiggin of Bedford, Miss Lena Reddon of Portland, Me., and Miss Elizabeth Mansfield of Medford. Mrs. Marjorie Lawrence and Miss Beulah G. Foss were little flower girls. The best man was Mr. A. Harold O. Foster of Medford.

The double ring service was used, the bride being given in marriage by her father.

The bride was gowned in a dress of white satin and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, her veil being caught with a spray of the same flower. The maid of honor wore yellow satin, her flowers being yellow daisies. The bridesmaids were gowned alike in white silk muslin and wore wreaths of daisies and carried daisy chains. The flower girls wore white dotted muslin over yellow and carried baskets of white daisies, which were strewn before the bride and groom on their way from the altar.

The ushers were Messrs. Harold Ireland of Newton, Horace T. Jenkins of Quincy, Russell Moseley of Boston, Frank Dow of Cambridge and John Tarbell and Harold Rhodes of this town. A luncheon for the wedding party at the home of the bride's parents on Glen road followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kendall left upon their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside at Morningside, Arlington in their new home recently finished.

17TH EVENTS ON THE LAKE.

The 17th will be a gala day for the Winchester Boat club, which will hold a regatta and dance during the afternoon and evening.

The water sports will open at 2 p. m. with the Lawson Trophy Race. This year the prize will be contested for by four crews—Medford, Woburn, Dedham and Winchester High schools. The race was won last year by Winchester high, a new record for the half-mile course being made; 3m. 46 sec. This was 15 sec. better than any previous race.

The race will start at the head of the big lake, opposite the Winchester Boat club, and will finish in front of the Medford Boat club house.

Following this race a program of water sports will be held at the Winchester club, in which the Innitout Canoe club of Woburn and the Medford Boat club have been invited to participate.

The sports will consist of the following:

- Single blade,
- Tandem—lady and gentleman,
- Tail-end,
- Tandem,
- Novelty—standing,
- Relay—2 men,
- Hurry-scurry,
- Tilting.

At eight o'clock in the evening there will be a dance at the Winchester club for members and guests.

FOUR WEEK SESSIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Highway which leads to Education is, at present, strewn with tired out boys, girls and teachers. Some of them are positively ill. One has swollen glands, another headache; one big boy faints while playing tennis; many complain they do not sleep well and one little boy has pus discharging from his knee—a boy from a good home, who has always been well nourished, who keeps school hours. His only dissipation has been on much school.

He has been unable to recover from the strain of the six weeks' term of school, to which we were unwisely subjected this season. When Easter comes late, why should the school children wait for it? The writer is one among many parents who would like to see our Winchester schools adopt the plan, now quite general, of dividing the school year into periods of eight weeks—a week's vacation between each period. Of course one of the vacations should come at Christmas and it should be not less than ten days.

"PANDORA'S BOX"

Fete at "Aigremont" Will Be a Most Charming Entertainment

The presentation of "Pandora's Box" by the young ladies of Winchester, under the direction of Miss Mary Kellogg and Miss Hazel MacKay next Monday evening will undoubtedly be a most pronounced success.

Miss Kellogg's arrangement of the mythological story as told in the Star of June 2nd, will be interpreted by the young ladies of her dancing class in a series of charming dances accompanied by suitable music. A group of little girls takes the place of a Chorus; forming a background for the principals and filling in the intervals between the periods of the story's action. The music will be rendered by the Winchester Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. John Little, and as the staging of the performance is under the personal direction of Miss Hazel MacKay, a most artistic entertainment is sure to result.

The proceeds will be given jointly to the Hospital Fund and the People's Primary Assembly Room which it is hoped will be an accomplished fact by Autumn. The business arrangements are in Mrs. Orson Sanborn's able hands, insuring financial success. Everybody seems to be interested in the success of the entertainment and is working hard for it. Mrs. Sanborn has furnished her house and lawn, Miss Kellogg and her young ladies are giving a tremendous amount of time to rehearsing and Mr. Bicknell and Mr. Little have devoted much thought and time to furnishing music exactly suited the various actions in the story.

The reserved seats are being taken rapidly but there remains practically an unlimited number of admission tickets which will be found perfectly satisfactory to their holders for the confirmation of the laws at "Aigremont" will afford a good view to a very large number of people.

The following is the Cast: Pandora.....Miss Miriam Phinney Epimetheus.....Miss Genevieve Robinson Mercury.....Miss Pauline Chamberlain Diana.....Miss Margaret French Minerva.....Miss Frances Elder Venus.....Miss Ruth Phinney Hope.....Miss Mary Kellogg Iris.....Mrs. George H. RECITAL.

The piano recital by some of the pupils of Mrs. Annie Soule Lewis Tuesday evening in Metcalf hall was attended by about a hundred and fifty people, who enthusiastically applauded the splendid rendition of the program, which ranged from little pieces played by first-year pupils to various brilliant selections, including elaborate transcriptions from Mendelssohn and Wagner. Parents and friends, who from past experience could judge from a high standard, commented on the progress shown by the year's work, while those who came for the first time expressed astonishment at the technique and musical style displayed by these young players. Variety and further enjoyment was added to the program by a group of songs sung by Mrs. Aubi Pearle Meyer, whose beautiful lyric soprano voice and pleasing stage presence won great praise from critics in Germany, where Mrs. Lewis made her acquaintance when both were busy in musical Leipzig. About once a month Mrs. Lewis' pupils give an informal recital for their parents and friends, and the larger, more public recital, at the end of the season always gives great satisfaction to those who come to hear what young pianists can do under this teacher's expert guidance.

Among those who took part were Mildred Linscott, Adele Simonds, Amelia Burwell, Kenneth Nugent, Dorris Redding, Brenda Bond, Hollis Riddle, Esther McCarthy, Consuelo Burwell, Clara Sellers, Ruth Bishop, Gladys Bean, Evelyn Buckman, Dora Gilbert, Langworthy Burwell, George Stearns, Lillian Knapp, Julia Randall, Marjorie Burwell, Barbara Wellington, Avis Sherburne, Evelyn Snow.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The Union will meet tomorrow, Saturday, June 17, at 3 p. m. for a brief business session, after which the children from the Willard settlement will entertain those present with recitations and songs. The Winchester L. T. L. will assist. Everybody interested is invited to see what is being done by the unique settlement. This group is composed chiefly of child workers and those interested in child welfare are especially invited. After the inspiring meetings of the past week, it does not seem as if any thinking person in the vicinity of Boston can fail to be alive to the needs and opportunities in this field.

Those who failed to attend the meetings of the section devoted to "Drunkennes" missed a great opportunity of getting the latest word on this important subject although, as Chairman Robert A. Woods said, it was a packed convention since everybody agreed that drunkenness is wholly bad, there were wide variations as to the best ways of doing away with it. A new plan was proposed by Prof. Hutton of Western Reserve University and evoked much interested discussion. It was to grant license at a nominal sum, and then charge up to the liquor traffic the cost to the community of caring for the effects of the abuse of liquor, the paupers and criminals and insane people directly chargeable to the traffic. This radical suggestion contains much food for thought. Even some brewers and liquor dealers who were present endorsed the plan in general. One of the good features would be the putting upon the liquor sellers the responsibility of dealing with those members of the trade who violate the laws and bring discredit upon the others.

The temperance question cropped up again and again throughout the sessions, showing again the impossibility of dealing with any topic of social welfare to the exclusion of others. We stand or fall together in reforms of all kinds.

In the Superior Court at Cambridge Monday, Joseph A. Delorey was arraigned and pleaded guilty to a simple charge of assault and battery. Chief McIntosh pressed the case against him; the original charge was one of a more serious nature. Delorey was sentenced for three years.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The other day The Spectator had occasion to be in a certain home where a revolver is kept in case of the advent of housebreakers. The revolver was lying on top of the dresser in the chamber of The Spectator's host and while the former was being shown some article of a sentimental interest, the gentleman's fourteen-year-old son entered the chamber and picking the revolver up, pointed it at The Spectator playfully. Of course the youth was merely fooling, but The Spectator can recall instances in plenty where that sort of humor has proved deadly. The parent, who kept a loaded revolver within reach of a minor, was severely rebuked by The Spectator and now that revolver is placed where only the father can reach it.

The merchants of Winchester have what The Spectator is pleased to call "news centers." Things are happening in the stores of Winchester, things that the public is anxious to know about. New goods are being received and the public wants to know what to buy and what it will cost. The merchant, who is unfamiliar with newspaper advertising, is about like an untrained reporter. Just as the latter may walk up and down the town untouched by the suggestions of good news stories springing up on every side, so the sluggish merchant fails to realize the human interest story in the goods he has for sale. A merchant who fails to advertise, or to advertise adequately and interestingly, makes as little impression on the public's desire to know the store news, as the newspaper with a big staff of reporters and editors who do not know a good news story when they see it in their field.

The Spectator is very anxious to see established a free dental clinic for the children of the public schools. The advantages of the idea are too numerous to point out here. There are many children here in Winchester—any reputable medical man will tell you that—who are backward in their studies because of troubles that a dentist could in short order remedy. The Spectator trusts that by the opening of the fall term of school something in this direction can be done.

The Spectator is inclined to argue with his friend, the Philosopher, that a man who brags very rarely makes good.

There are several ways of advertising. For instance, The Spectator dropped into a butcher shop the other day and the apron on the butcher was dirty. That was poor advertising.

The Spectator never thinks of hunting for a soft snap because he knows full well that one will never find a soft snap by hunting for it.

A clergyman tells The Spectator that the Bible continues to be the best seller. There are other "best sellers" of course and some of them are books no Winchesterite should read.

A gentleman argues that we have too many holidays. In the opinion of The Spectator he may be right to a certain extent, but he bends backward over the fence in the opposite direction. He gives The Spectator to understand that he would not object to celebrating Christmas and the Fourth of July, but he wants to bar all the rest. Evidently he forgets that wonderful holiday, Thanksgiving. There is no day in the year other than that, except Christmas, which reunites so many families here in Winchester and elsewhere and take so many minds off the cares of business and digging for money and moving around in the same old dismal circle.

A gentleman tells me the following interesting story of two lads whose parents are next door neighbors, and who do not get along amicably as might be expected. A few days ago one of the youngsters (we will call him Willie) came hurrying to his mother, his entrance heralded by an anguished wail of woe. "Now what is the trouble?" asked his mother. "Why, boo-hoo, it's Freddie," he shrieked plaintively. "He's making faces at me." "Well," exclaimed mamma, "didn't I tell you not to play with Freddie?" "W-w-well," he sobbed, "I ain't playing with him. He's over in his yard making faces at me." "Oh, well," said his mother, "can't you make faces at him?" "W-w-well, boo-hoo, I did," wailed Willie; "but he's much homelier 'an me that he skins me every time."

The other day The Spectator saw a young lady employed in a store sharpening a lead pencil and he could not help reflecting that a woman sharpens a pencil as awkwardly as a man threads a needle.

A friend of The Spectator had a jumping toothache. Now The Spectator always deeply sympathizes with a person suffering from a jumping toothache and he advised the unfortunate Winchesterite to consult a dentist or he might have to do some lively jumping before Mr. Toothache got through with him. Recently The Spectator came across a very simple remedy for jumping toothache and he will give it publicity in The Star for the benefit of any reader who may fall a victim to jumping toothache.

Fill a small cup with boiling vinegar. Dip a piece of cotton wool into the vinegar and rub the gums; let the vinegar be as hot as you can endure. Stuff the aching tooth with some wool. In five minutes the pain will have ceased. Sometimes, however, two applications must be made.

Passengers on a late Woburn car late Saturday night were shocked when a woman somewhat under the influence of liquor opened a handbag and extracted therefrom a flask of whiskey from which she drank copiously.

An automobilist gives The Spectator to understand that the present State automobile law is the very best one that any State has, and that any failures under it are due wholly to the non-enforcement of the statute. On the other hand another Winchester automobilist is willing to admit that a number of changes might be made with good results. The big fight, however, is against the establishment of a speed limit. But speed limit or no speed limit, the irresponsible crazy driver will continue to burn up the roads and slaughter the inhabitants.

Any Winchesterite can make a fairly good argument by letting the fellow who is against him do all the talking.

THE SPECTATOR.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

June 13, 1911.

Board met at 7.45 p. m. Present Messrs. Nugent, Pond and Daly.

Mr. Nugent was chosen chairman. Petition of Telephone Company and Edison for location of 7 poles on Hancock street, referred back to the Town Engineer to confer with the companies as to locations.

Voted, that the Supt. of Streets be instructed to ascertain the charge made by other towns for sidewalk work, and the allowance made to abutters of granolithic and concrete work.

Signed petitions of the Edison Co. for placing cross arms on pole of the Telephone Co. on Main street, opposite Sheridan circle and of the Edison Company for one pole on Vine street.

Voted, to hold hearings on Monday, June 19 next at 8 p. m. on petition of the Edison Co. for 3 poles in Stratford road, one pole on Main street corner Ridgely road, for 9 poles on Sheffield-West and for 7 poles on Lincoln street.

Received from abutters of Sheffield-West, $24.07 as part payment for oiling said street.

Voted, that the matter of request of J. H. McKen for permission to pile lumber for house on Dix street, be referred to Supt. of Streets.

Letter of C. E. L. Wingate asking for repairs to concrete sidewalk where sewer had been put in. Replied that all places were allowed to settle for some time before repairs were made.

Voted, that the clerk write all departments that following the opinion of the Town Council in the matter we would request that all bills be approved by two names.

Voted, that the contract for fireworks be awarded to Emaste Bovelli of 74 Swanton street, at $200 as per specifications.

Warrants drawn for $2383.87 and $1065.71.

Adjourned at 10.45 p. m.

G. H. Lochman, Clerk.

PLAYGROUND OPENS MONDAY.

The Park Commissioner's plan to open the playground on Manchester Field next Monday provided the weather is such that the final work necessary may be carried on with out delay.

Mr. William L. Caldwell of Dorchester, a junior in the Springfield Manual Training School, has been engaged as supervisor for this summer, and will be on hand to greet the children Monday afternoon. It is the desire of the Park Board that all of the children understand that the money appropriated and the apparatus provided is wholly for their benefit; not for elder people. Mr. Caldwell has many new and interesting games to occupy their attention and desires to have all of the children begin at once to use the playground in order that they may learn at once of the good times in store for them. His instructions from the Park Board are to give the children of Winchester the best summer they have ever had.

The equipment on the playground is being placed in position and will be supplemented this year by six new swings for the younger children.

Newspaper Paragraphs.

Waterfield lodge, accompanied by members of Victoria Rebekah lodge, attended a memorial service on Sunday afternoon in the First Congregational church. A special musical program was given by the church quartet and choir, and the pastor, Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, preached an appropriate sermon on the "Personal Touch." After the church service the members marched to Wildwood cemetery, where 18 graves of deceased members of the order were decorated.

Mr. Charles Young of Lincoln street has a new Maxwell touring car.

The Saturday evening hop at the Winchester Boat club last week was largely attended by members and guests, and was one of the best of the season.

Fireworks at Wilson's.

Memorial day was observed by the members of the Winchester firemen's relief association Sunday afternoon. Instead of a parade, as in former years, a committee in an automobile visited Wildwood, Calvary, Woburn, Stoneham, Medford and Malden cemeteries and decorated 53 graves of former members of the department. The committee consisted of Ernest Polley, Ernest G. Beaton, Albert R. Libby, Hugh Skerry, John Hanlon and John Moynihan.

Three more of the fine old "Deacon" elms were removed from the First Congregational Church property this week. The trees had been killed by some unknown cause. Last year an equal number of these trees were cut down for the same reason.

On Wednesday one of the large moulds used for the upright pillars for the new concrete building of the Winchester Laundry Co. fell when being hoisted to the fourth floor level. The huge box fell to the ground without doing any damage, a most remarkable fact in view of the number of men and sightseers constantly about the work.

The fire department was called by telephone during the heavy shower on Tuesday afternoon to the residence of George B. Squires on Black Horse terrace. The fire was caused by a bag of fertilizer being left against the clean out of the chimney in the cellar, hot ashes dropping down the chimney causing it to ignite. There was no damage other than filling the house with smoke. The fact that the lightning was very plentiful at that time led to the rumor that the house had been struck.

IMPROVED TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR WINCHESTER.

Telephone service in Winchester will be greatly improved on Saturday night, June 17, when the present switchboard in the central office on Washington street will be abandoned and every telephone subscriber will be instantly connected with a new switchboard of the most modern construction. Not a single subscriber will be inconvenienced by the change which is known among telephone men as a "cut-over."

In connection with the change in switchboards the central office will be provided with an entirely new power plant equipment and a new retiring room for the pleasure and convenience of operators will be attractively arranged in another part of the building.

All these changes have been made absolutely necessary by the great increase in telephone subscribers in town during the past few months. The present switchboard was put into service on Oct. 19, 1907. At that time it was anticipated the board would meet all the requirements of the exchange for some years. But since the new telephone rates went into effect a few months ago there has been a marked increase in local service.

In January, 1901, there were 304 telephone stations and 143 subscribers' lines in Winchester. In 1907 there were 838 stations and 350 lines. In January of the present year there were 1298 stations and 686 lines. During the past six months the subscribers have increased to 1336 in May with 772 lines.

On the present switchboard about 7186 local calls and about 3359 incoming calls from other exchanges are handled on an average every day.

The initial equipment on the new board will care for the requirements of the exchange up to January, 1912, when there will be about 1500 stations in Winchester originating about 8000 originating calls and about 3720 incoming calls every day.

The new board will have a capacity for caring for the needs of the central office until 1925, when, it is estimated, there will be about 4000 stations originating 22,000 local calls and 10,100 incoming calls. It is expected that 30 operators will be required to handle all the calls in Winchester in about 15 years.

At the present time Miss Mary E. Cain, chief operator, has 17 assistants under her supervision, of which 11 are switchboard operators and the remainder are clerks. Wire Chief Thomas N. Farrell has two assistants employed in keeping the construction work in the best possible condition.

CHILDREN'S DAY CONCERT.

Children's Day was observed at the First Baptist church on Sunday afternoon by a concert given by the Sunday school. A full and interesting program was given before a large audience. The music of the afternoon was rendered by Miss Helen M. Palmer, organist of the church. Rev. Henry E. Hodge, the pastor, delivered the address on "Secrets of a Happy Vacation."

The following members of the Sunday School took part: Alice Romkey, Ruth Wishman and Rita Goodwin, Katherine Jakeman, Viola Biswanger, Henry Jones, Everett Ryan, John Plummer, Harold Lutes, Edmund Dilworth, Helen Plummer, Gertrude Felber, Ruth Lingham, Esther Smith, Annie Skillings, Dorothy Riddle, Miriam Deloria, Ethel McEwen. The new court of the Daughters of Isabella will be instituted on Sunday, June 25th.

"THE COLGATE SYSTEM"

OF VACUUM CLEANING

This is the most practical and economical system of Vacuum Cleaning. The Vacuum process has come to stay, but before it could be considered a NECESSITY rather than a LUXURY, there had to be some practical method of applying it.

Previous to "The Colgate System," Vacuum Cleaning was so expensive that a home could be cleaned only once or twice a year, but NOW, by means of this system, it is economical and practical to have your home cleaned EACH week. This is difficult to believe, but it is, a fact which my subscribers are proving for you. ASK THEM!

Building Laws.

Under article three Mr. Robert Colt offered the following, which was carried:

Moved that a committee of three be appointed by the Moderator to consider the subject of building laws and to report at a future town meeting such by-laws as it thinks advisable for the town to adopt in relation thereto. That this committee be authorized to fill vacancies in its membership and to expend not over seventy-five dollars for printing and clerical expenses, the amount to be charged to the incidental account.

Mr. Lewis Parkhurst offered the following:

Moved, that the Park Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to purchase for and in behalf of the town, for a public park, of Arthur E. Whitney, the Whitney mill property, so called, and described in a certain agreement of sale given by said Whitney to Lewis Parkhurst dated May 22, 1911, as follows, to wit: All those parcels of land including the mill, mill property, flowage rights and other easements belonging to the said Arthur E. Whitney and particularly described in two certain deeds, one given by John R. Whitney and others, trustees, and others, to Arthur E. Whitney dated July 21, 1903, recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, book 3054, page 201, and the other given by Everett W. Crawford to said Arthur E. Whitney dated August 2, 1910, recorded with said Deeds, book 3541, page 21, but excepting out of said property the parcels excepted in said deeds, and also so much of said premises as lie between Main street on the west and the Webburn Branch Railroad on the east, with the right reserved to said Whitney to fill said last described parcel and to exclude flowage waters from whatever source; excepting, also, all buildings and movable property of any name or nature, including the stone above the level of the ground under the mill on the mill lot, so called, and all stone from the mill dam above the level of the waste way if and when the use of said dam shall be discontinued, all of which buildings, movable property and stone shall remain the property of said Whitney, but with the right to said Whitney to abandon and leave upon said land such part thereof as he may elect; and excepting also, to said Whitney the right to occupy, without rent, the said premises and use said mill as he is now accustomed to do, without hindrance for the period of one (1) year from the time of the delivery of the deed by him to the town.

Mr. Parkhurst, speaking on his motion, said that the project was the most far-reaching that had ever come before the town, not excepting the Manchester Field improvement of 17 years ago, when the freight yard, tanneries, stables, tenement houses, etc., were replaced by the beautiful playground. At that time the town debt was $6000 greater than it is now, while the present valuation is 122 percent more, so that the town is better able to take up this improvement than at the time Manchester Field was acquired. Mr. Parkhurst's remarks were listened to with the closest attention and were in substance the same as printed in last week's STAR.

Messrs. Edwin Ginn, R. E. Joslin, J. A. Laraway, A. H. Russell and others spoke in favor, while W. L. Tuck and J. H. Carter spoke in opposition. Mr. Parkhurst's motion was passed by an almost unanimous vote.

Mr. Parkhurst then offered the following:

Moved, that the town treasurer be and hereby is authorized and instructed under the direction of the selectmen to issue and sell ninety (90) coupon bonds of the town in sums of one thousand (1,000) dollars each, payable $3,000 on the first of November each year from Nov. 1, 1912, to Nov. 1, 1941; the proceeds of said bonds to the amount of ninety thousand (90,000) dollars are hereby appropriated for the purchase of the Whitney mill property, so called, for a public park for the use of the town of Winchester, the same to be expended under the direction of the Park Commissioners.

Mr. Carter doubted the legality of this motion, claiming a special act of the legislature would be necessary. He moved to amend by adding that the legality of the bonds under the motion be referred to a well known legal firm.

Mr. Joslin opposed such action, by saying that when the bonds were sold this legality would be put to the test, and that Mr. Carter's objection was simply one of delay.

Mr. John T. Wilson then called for the previous question. The vote was then passed, yes, 483, no, 5.

Fire Station.

Mr. Freeland E. Torey presented the following motion:

Moved, that the town do build and equip a central fire station on land belonging to the town, now occupied by the water department, and adjoining land belonging to, and to be purchased of Freeland E. Hovey, and that the engine house committee appointed March 12, 1906 carry this vote into effect.

There was a long discussion over the passage of this motion, many citizens urging the meeting to wait until the method of abolishing the crossings had been determined upon and also that the acquisition of the town of the Whitney property might open up a more favorable site, including the present location of the fire station. Those favoring claimed that any elimination of the crossing would not interfere with the site selected by the committee. Realizing that the present intolerable conditions at the centre house had existed too long, Mr. Hovey's motion was carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

MOREY-BUXTON.

Edwin Morey of Nashua, N. H., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Morey of Winchester, and Miss Marion Patten Buxton, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Buxton of Nashua, were married last Thursday at the home of the bride's parents, 114 Concord street under a floral canopy. The dining room was a bower of Killarney roses, and the stairway was festooned with asparagus vines and carnations.

The single-ring service was used by Rev. William H. Morrison. Leonard Lamb, a classmate of the bridegroom at Tufts college, was best man and Miss Anna Mann of Dorchester, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. The ribbon bearers were cousins of the bride, Mark and Ruth Buxton.

The bride was given away by her father. The ushers were William W. Powers, A. H. Cotton, Roy Kendall and Albert Chandler.

The groom's gifts to the best man and ushers were stickpins, and the bride's favor to the maid of honor was a heart locket. The bride's gown was duchess satin trimmed with princess lace, and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was attired in pink satin and had a bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Morey were congratulated by 50 guests. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Morey will reside at 12 Hall avenue, Nashua.

TRY FAIR PLAY WITH HIM.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The large amount of time consumed in useless talk, the words wasted on all sorts of topics not germane to the one under discussion, and the buffoonery indulged in, all tend to bring our town meetings into disrepute, and undoubtedly in some cases have caused voters to remain away. No more difficult subject can be found to deal with than the one who imagines himself to be a martyr.

The individual whose antics and vagaries lead me to write this article is not getting a square deal by a few, who, either by constituted authority are clothed with great power, or by their arrogant and bumptious methods, assume that to differ from them is a grave offence, if not a crime. He evidently proposes to retaliate by reprisal upon the whole town, and many innocent there be who suffer. It is a well-known fact that many voters habitually line up against any measure which he proposes or supports, simply to "down" him, quietly admitting that the measure was a good one, and, if proposed by certain other people, would have been adopted. Can such voting be justified, or can such a voter be classed as otherwise than dangerous?

It has been the open and notorious practice of our moderators (generally with the approval and glee of the galleries and the town cuckoos) to hold this individual up to the strict letter of the rules, and in all discretionary matters to rule against him, exercising towards certain other parties a kindly forbearance, or giving the helpful suggestion. We have all heard the sharp rap of the gavel when his time limit has expired, as against the general apologetic tap given for others benefit.

I am not undertaking any defence for this offender, for I am a fellow sufferer with the other voters in listening to his diatribes and many of his theories; but, conceding his equal right to be present, why should not a trial be given in accordance with the same treatment which others get, without the enactment of special rules designed to limit, but actually expanding the unnecessary talk, and possibly he will in the goodness and mercy of his heart talk less.

The most regrettable feature of the situation is that a sentiment is being fostered to the effect that every man who has wealth has interests which are adverse to those who may be without it. When voters divide on those lines we are all in danger.

Notwithstanding the occasional indications that the aforesaid individual may have a kindly regard (more or less to be prized) for the writer, I take occasion to say that in all questions of politics and economics I differ with him, and never vote his ticket.

SENIOR PROMENADE.

The Senior Promenade will take place in the Town Hall this evening at eight o'clock. The affair is in charge of the following committee: Mrs. Mary Flinn, Miss Gladys Spaulding, Lowell Smith and Kenneth Caldwell.

At a meeting of the class of 1912 held Tuesday the Recorder Staff was chosen for next year. Grace Buckley was elected editor-in-chief, Francis Getty assistant editor-in-chief, Lucy Starns exchange editor, Katherine Fiske artistic editor, Henry Harris athletic editor, and class editors, (1913) Marjorie Burwell, (1914) Raymond Strawbridge, (1915) Anna Heillon, James Flinn was elected business manager and Charles Downer assistant business manager.

The commencement number of the Recorder will not be out until Friday. It will probably contain pictures of those who are to have orations at Graduation; it will give their orations in full, the 1911 Class History, Statistics, and Prophecy and the picture of the girls' Basket Ball Team. Extra copies may be purchased at Wilson's.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Rip: Herz in the novel musical comedy "Dr. De Luxe" will remain at the Colonial for quite a few weeks more. This without fear of contradiction is the funniest musical comedy that has visited Boston this season and the theatre going public of Boston and suburban towns have placed their stamp of approval by their liberal patronage.

Mr. Joseph M. Gaites who introduces Mr. Herz in this new musical play decided to remain in the Colonial on account of the Colonial being much cooler and more convenient for the continued run of this popular musical comedy.

Miss George Kelley has been added to the cast who will play the role of Mrs. Houston, the other Boston favorites Marion Ballou, William Pruette, Ethel Green, Harry Stone, Polly Prime, Jeanette Childs and the beautiful little Harlem-Scarem "kiddies" continue to make more friends at every performance.

WHAT WILL THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL GRADUATES DO?

It is a strange necessity that forces the most important decisions upon immature minds. The choices of youth are to influence and often determine the conditions of manhood. Sometimes the boys and girls, rather than their parents, select the courses they are to pursue in the High School, and their selection is made, too frequently, of the easiest rather than of the best subjects. The knowledge acquired in a high school course is not to be despised, but learning how to study is one of the most valuable acquisitions. The "College Course" is designed especially to teach one how to study. For practical equipment it is quite as valuable as any other, with the added advantage that it puts the student's feet inside the threshold of the college where it may be his good fortune to continue.

It is there is nothing in a boy but what has gone in with a spoon, it may not be worth while to labor with him. If he has the wit to see that fifteen minutes spent in sharpening a razor before shaving is better spent than thirty given to grumbling over the discomfort of a rough edge after the process, he is wise enough to profit by a little good advice.

Ruskin said: "If you choose rightly, and work rightly, what you do shall be safe afterwards."

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Was the "Steam Roller" well manned and greased? Ask our Commoner. It is still in commission.

Take the Whitney properties? Certainly. But do it in a way that will hold and with the least expense. This park act business is simply subterfuge.

The ground had been most thoroughly canvassed and the voters were there to put through the waterways motions as offered, whether they believed them to be legal or not, but the end is not yet.

I have always supposed that the function and the duty of a town counsel was to see to it that the town meetings and the officials proceeded and acted legally, whether called upon or not, but apparently ours does not take that view of it. Perhaps he is right, but it seems to me the other way would be better for the town.

Sixteen hundred voters and seats provided for five hundred.

The warrant was shrewdly but unfairly made up. They all do it, however, from ministers' conventions down, thinking the end justifies the means. Blue bloods, Red bloods, firemen, farmers, laborers and professionals. Take in haste, repent at leisure.

Act in undue and unnecessary haste and repent at leisure. Our ancient wisdom has departed.

First vote to take a property and erect a building and then use that as an argument why a bond issue, which requires a two-thirds vote, should be passed. Was it accidental or designed?

Don't forget that the estimated cost of our park (?) scheme is $265,000 and nobody ever heard of landscape architects' figures being high enough to cover the cost, and moreover he has not included many attendant items which would bring his estimated cost well over $300,000.

Waterways $300,000, engine house $50,000, grade crossing abolition? but say $60,000. Well, this will do for a special meeting and we can have another in the Fall when we can keep cooler.

GRADUATION EXERCISES.

On Sunday evening, June eighteenth, 1911, Rev. John W. Suter of the Church of the Epiphany will preach at a Union service to be held in the High school assembly hall at 7 o'clock. The sermon will be addressed particularly to the High school class of 1911, but it will, doubtless, be of interest to many others. Any who wish to come will be welcomed. Children must be accompanied by adults.

The graduating exercises will be held in the Town Hall as follows:—

High School, Tuesday evening, June 20, 1911, at eight o'clock; Wadleigh Grammar School, Friday evening, June 23, 1911, at eight o'clock.

A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of the schools to attend on both evenings. A portion of the hall will be reserved for the immediate families of the graduating classes, otherwise seats will be open to those who wish to come, except that children must be accompanied by adults.

The program for each evening will be about one hour and a half in length and, it is believed, will be interesting to all who remember their school days as well as to those who know the boys and girls and young men and women who will then receive their diplomas.

The doors will be opened at seven thirty. The seats reserved, as noted above, will be held only till seven-thirty, when they will be filled, and the exercises will begin promptly at eight.

MR. MAKECHNIE'S RECITAL.

A very pretty affair of last Tuesday evening was the ninth annual violin recital by pupils of Ernest Makechnie at Chauncy Hall, Copley Square, Boston. An audience that completely filled the hall showed keen appreciation of the phrasing and bowing and other technical accomplishments of the young performers. Miss Adelaide Proctor assisted at the piano and contributed to the notable smoothness with which the programme went off. Several professional friends volunteered their services in making up with the pupils an orchestra of thirty pieces. The full orchestra was represented in the opening and closing numbers, respectively the March from Lachner's Suite Op. 113 and the stirring March from Wagner's opera "Tannhauser" which was rendered with especial spirit and brilliancy. After the performance a photograph was made of the group of amateur and professional players.

Mr. Makechnie's programme conveyed on the last page an announcement to entertainment committees that some of his pupils are now prepared to supply music for social occasions such as receptions, dramatic entertainments and church suppers.

The Winchester pupils taking part in the violin recital were Selma Coburn, who played Grieg's Wachetlied, and Charles Downer, whose selection was the Theme Varié of Eichberg.

and for the County of Middlesex:—

The undersigned citizens of the town of Winchester respectfully represent that the common convenience and necessity require the relocation of a portion of the highway called Church street in said Winchester, near its junction with Cambridge street, for the purpose of changing the course and width of said Church street substantially as shown on the plan accompanying this petition.

WHEREFORE, your petitioners pray that after due notice and hearing you will adjudicate that common convenience and necessity do require such widening and relocation and forthwith thereafter order the said Church street to be widened and relocated as herein prayed for.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed made by William A. Fisher to William Howard White, dated February 24th, 1899, and recorded with Middlesex (South District) Deeds, Book 274, Page 570, and by said White assigned to Irving S. Palmer by deed of assignment dated June 20th, 1905, and recorded as aforesaid, Book 3169, Page 231, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, on Monday, the tenth day of July, 1911, at three (3) o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and therein described substantially as follows:—

A parcel of land on Wedge Pond in Winchester, Massachusetts, bounded as follows:— Beginning at the Southeast corner of the premises on Wedge Pond at a wire fence; thence running Westerly by said pond and by land formerly of Richardson and Fletcher, fifty-one (51) rods to land formerly of the Proprietors of the Middlesex Canal; thence Southerly by the line of said Canal, fifty (50) rods to a fence between said parcel and land formerly of Andrew Jutter; thence Southerly by said fence fourteen (14) rods and twelve (12) links to a stone post; thence Southerly by land formerly of said Cutter by the fence eighteen (18) rods to the point of beginning.

Said measurements more or less. With the free use at all times and for all purposes of an open street or way twenty-five (25) feet wide from the above described premises to Main street.

Also another parcel of land in said Winchester, bounded—On the South six (6) rods by the parcel of land herein below described; on the West by land formerly of Abel Pierce; on the North eleven (11) rods and sixteen (16) links by land formerly of said Pierce and land formerly of Stephen Cutler; and on the East by land formerly of Andrew Cutter and the parcel of land first herein described.

adjoining the foregoing parcel, and bounded—Southerly by land formerly of Gardner Symmes; Westerly by Wildwood Cemetery; Northerly by the lot of twelve (12) links to a stone post; and Easterly by the land first above described, and extending as far Southerly as said first described lot.

All the monuments above mentioned are to be understood as now or formerly in their locations as above referred to.

Being the same premises conveyed to said William A. Fisher by Irving S. Palmer et al., by deed dated December 31st, 1894, and recorded as aforesaid, Book 229, Page 477, and said premises are to be sold subject to the restrictions and covenants referred to in said deed, so far as now in force and applicable to said premises.

Said premises are to be sold subject also to any unpaid taxes and other public assessments, and to all said tax titles, if any affecting said premises.

One hundred Dollars ($100) of the purchase money to be paid at time and place of sale. Other terms at sale.

For further particulars inquire of Alfred C. Vinton, 19 Milk Street, Boston, Mass., or of IRVING S. PALMER, Assignee of said Mortgage.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Sec. 5 of the Regulations of the Board of Health of the Town of Winchester in regard to milk is hereby amended by adding the words "and well screened," after the word "clean" in the thirteenth line.

To read as follows:
 Section 5. No person engaged in the business of producing milk to be sold or distributed in the Town of Winchester, shall store, cool, mix, or strain said milk in any room which is occupied by horses, cows, or other animals, or for the storage of manure, or in any room used in whole or in part for domestic or sleeping purposes, unless such room is separated from other parts of the building to the satisfaction of the Milk Inspector. All to mix in which milk is stored, cooled, mixed, or strained shall be kept clean and well screened at all times to the satisfaction of the Milk Inspector, and all utensils, namely employed in the storage, sale, or distribution of milk shall be washed in boiling water or sterilized with live steam before they are again used.

CORSETS

Like all articles of great merit, P. N. Corsets with cork protected clasps, have many imitations. In P. N. Corsets are embodied the very latest ideas of corset building, ideas that have their origin in Paris and which are reconstructed to meet American requirements. The multiplicity of models we carry enables us to satisfy the woman who follows fashions every whim and likewise the woman of more conservative taste.

Style 1818, Practical Side P. N. Corsets. Extra quality, corset with compress front clasp, wide ribbon and bow trim, six supporters. Double side steels make breaking down impossible, these side steels can be removed without ripping and reversed in pocket from time to time, thus insuring permanent shapeliness to corset. This is an extremely smart model for the average figure with a tendency to large hips. It is so cleverly designed that the superfluous flesh about the hips is perfectly controlled and the figure molded to the modish lines of slender grace. Price

$2.50

Style 1210, P. N. Practical Side Corsets $1.50. Style 823, high bust, S. y. e. $12, low bust, Style 866, short, 824, long, $18, Summer net. Price

$1.00

WILHELMINA CORSETS

The manufacturers of most corsets spend a vast amount of money advertising and this money does NOT come out of the maker, does NOT come out of the retailer, but it DOES come directly out of the corsets. Wilhelmina Corsets are not advertised, the maker preferring to put extra value in the corsets.

Style 880, Wilhelmina Corsets. The like of which has never until now been shown, is not duplicated in value by any other corset on the market and will probably never be surpassed. Extra length, good contour, fine lace trim, four supporters, nickel skirt hook, draw strings, hook fastener at bottom. Price

$1.00

Style 884, Wilhelmina Corsets. Long, $1.50. Style 888, Form Adjusting. Price

$1.98

Ferris Good Sense Waists, Women's $1.00. Misses' 75c. Children's 50c.

Nemo Corsets, model 319, Batiste, low bust, model 321, Contil, medium bust, the two new summer models with "Lastikops" side bands. This corset is better than custom made corsets at twice the cost. Price

STATE-WIDE
PRIMARIES

Legislature Enacts Bill Providing For Them

STREET RAILWAY MEASURES

Subway and Tunnel and West End
Lease Bill Reported—Some of Its Provisions Criticized—Trend of Prices Downward

The state-wide primary election bill is now a law. It has been enacted by the senate and house and Governor Foss has affixed his signature to it. The passage of this act means a revolution in the method of nominating candidates for public office. For many years nominations to practically all public offices by political parties have been made by delegate conventions. The system had been entrenched from the earliest days. This has given place to popular nominations. Hereafter the people of the state will vote directly for nominees as they have heretofore for candidates for election. The candidate who receives a plurality of the votes cast in any district, or for state officers within the state, will be the nominee of his party. In effect, there will now be two elections—a primary election to designate party nominees and a general election at which the nominees will run the gauntlet of all voting citizens.

It is expected that this change will to a considerable extent diminish the authority of party organizations and central committees. It remains to be seen by actual experience, however, to just what extent this party authority will be weakened. The question of popular nominations has not long been vigorously advocated. For the last two or three years it has had considerable support and this year has been enacted into law without great opposition.

The act goes into effect this year and on Sept. 26 the first state-wide direct nominations will be made. On that day joint caucuses will be held throughout the state for the nomination of candidates for governor and other state officers, members of the executive council, county officers whose terms expire, and for members of the legislature, both senate and house. Next year nominations for congress will also be made by popular vote.

While the convention system is thus entirely abrogated, so far as nominations are concerned, yet state conventions of the political parties are retained for the purpose of drawing up platforms upon which the candidates are to stand and to which the candidates are made delegates. It further provides for the enrollment of voters, so as to prevent repeating, or the invading of Republican caucuses by Democrats, or vice versa. It is expected that the "packing" of caucuses will now be rendered impossible under the provisions of this act.

Great Harbor Improvement
Chairman George E. Smith of the harbor and land commission is in favor of the state spending a million dollars to equip Commonwealth pier in Boston harbor for the accommodation of big ocean liners. He said the pier can be made better than the improved piers in New York, that it is the best designed pier for passengers and freight at this port, and that all that will be required is to equip it with sheds and build a viaduct, and then the accommodations will not be surpassed by any ocean steamship pier in the United States. The first essential was to make a trade with the New Haven railroad and ascertain that it will be willing to pay an increased rental for this pier if the state will equip it for a steamship line to Europe. If the New Haven was willing to do that, the state would be justified in going ahead with the expenditure of a million dollars. It seems quite likely that the committee on ways and means will report favorably on this bill, as they have already on the bill to appropriate nine million dollars for the general improvement of Boston harbor.

The Boston Elevated Bill
There is a great deal of discussion over the favorable report of the joint committees on metropolitan affairs and street railways on the subway and tunnel and the West End lease bill. The bill provides for the construction of a Dorchester tunnel to Andrew square, passing under the South station for the construction of a Boylston street subway and emerging at Massachusetts avenue; for the construction of what is known as the West End loop, from Scollay square round through the West End to Lynde street, and coming back under Cambridge street and Bowdoin square to the East Boston tunnel. The bill also provides that the leases of all present subways which would expire at varying times shall be made to expire in 1936. In other words, the bill provides for a 25-years' extension of all the leases and provides an automatic extension beyond that. The question of how much longer the leases shall extend beyond 1936 is to be determined by three arbiters to be appointed by a justice of the supreme court. These arbiters shall decide how long the second extension shall be, figuring the rentals on a basis of 4½ percent, to pay off the city of Boston's bill, and it is said that this will be about forty-two years, but it is not to be more than fifty.

There is much criticism of the bill in relation to the question of extending the leases. Some of the Boston papers denounce any provision for such a long lease as is contemplated by this measure. It is quite likely that a long fight is at hand over this legislation. Many consider it unfortunate that so important a measure as this one should have to be hastily considered in the last days of the session.

Senator Lodge and Reciprocity
It appears that Speaker Walker was mistaken in supposing that Senator Lodge is hostile to the reciprocity treaty. The senior senator has put himself on record as favoring that treaty and he will not permit amendments to defeat the bill. Mr. Lodge has convinced so good a Democrat as Henry M. Whitney of Brookline that he is absolutely loyal to the treaty with Canada and that ought to satisfy anybody. As a matter of fact, Senator Lodge has believed that the treaty would injure the New England fishing industry and for that reason he would like to see the bill amended in that respect. It is a perfectly natural position and one which seems to ordinary Republicans as fully justified; nevertheless, as he finds that an amendment to protect the fishing industry may jeopardize the passage of the bill, Mr. Lodge will not insist upon it.

Price Decreases Seem General
Prices seem to be slowly falling in a number of directions. Export prices for April show the following percentage decreases in value over April of last year: Butter, 25 percent; lard, 23 percent; hops, 20 percent; cotton seed oil cake, 20 percent; illuminating oil, 10 percent; salt pork, 17 percent; billets, 16 percent; cheese, 16 percent; tallow, 16 percent; hay, 15 percent; hams, 10 percent; flour, 9 percent; wheat, 8 percent; wire, 8 percent; fresh beef, 5 percent. Decreases of from 3 to 5 percent occurred in copper ingots, refined sugar, bacon, pig iron and bleached cotton cloth. The few articles whose export prices advanced included rosin, spirits of turpentine, flax seed, canned salmon and unbleached cotton cloth. The principal decreases in articles imported were in hops, of which the price fell off 34 percent compared with April, 1910; mackerel, 25 percent; wool, class 1, 17 percent; class 2, 23 percent; class 3, 8 percent; sisal grass, 12 percent; pig iron and cane sugar, 16 percent; tea, 15 percent; raw cotton, 14 percent, and manilla, 11 percent. In imports the largest price increases were as follows: Jute, 50 percent; flax, 34 percent; tin plate, 31 percent; tin in bars and blocks, 27 percent; soft coal, 24 percent; still wine in casks, 23 percent; wrapper tobacco and other leaf tobacco, 12 percent; unbleached cotton cloth, 14 percent; bleached, 10 percent; wool dress goods, 11 percent; wool cloths, 6 percent; raw silk, 8 percent.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Lottery Man," which John Craig will produce at the Castle Square next week, is a merry farce by Ridra Johnson Young, author of "Brown of Harvard" and "The Boys of Company B." It tells a pleasant and laugh-provoking tale of the adventures of a New York newspaper man who becomes the hero of a prize contest, and the situations that ensue reach the height of comedy and mirth. "The Lottery Man" was one of the successes of the past two seasons. It ran an entire year in New York, and Mr. Craig's production of it is its first by a stock company and at popular prices.

A cast of exceptional skill will interpret this play at the Castle Square. The title role, originated by Cyril Scott, will be played by Donald Meek, whose gifts as a comedian are well known, and other important parts will be in the hands of the entire company, with George Hassell, Gertrude Binley and Mabel Colcord in characters that will especially bring them to the front. "The Lottery Man" will run for only one week at the Castle Square.

REGULAR MEETING

First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

(If a holiday the following evening.)

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

Address all communications to the Bank and not to Individuals.

WINCHESTER 5, STONEHAM 3.

In an interesting and well played game at Stoneham last Saturday, the local high school team defeated Stoneham high school 5-3.

No score was made until the third inning when Jenkins got on base by an error. Loughlin and Healey followed with hits and Jenkins tried to score but was put out at home by LeDuc's long throw from left. Loughlin scored on Rogers' bad throw to first. In the next inning Stoneham made one more run. Lannon got a hit, Hansel was hit by pitched ball, and Lannon scored by Jenkins' hit.

In the first of the fifth Winchester evened up the score. Prime got on base by an error. Mobbs was given a base on balls, and Prime scored on Rogers' hit. Mobbs also scored on a sacrifice by Matthews.

Stoneham got their final run in the last of the fifth. Sweet got a three bagger, and crossed the plate on a hit by Dempsey.

It was not until the eighth inning when Winchester got four runs, that the visitors led the scoring. Marchant and LeDuc each got a hit and Donahue a base on balls. Then with the bases full Prime made a hit which scored Marchant and LeDuc. Mobbs was also passed, making the bases again full. Donahue and Prime scoring on an error by Stoneham. Mobbs was thrown out trying to steal third.

The only features were the two base hit by Healey and the triple by Sweet.

People Tell Each Other About Good Things.

Seventeen years ago few people in the world knew of such a preparation as a Powder for the Feet. Today after the genuine merit of Allen's Foot-Ease has been told year after year by one gratified person to another, there are millions abroad and in this country who would as soon go without a dentifrice as without the daily use of Allen's Foot-Ease. It is a cleanly, wholesome, healing, antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, which has given rest and comfort to tired and aching feet in all parts of the world. It cures while you walk. Over 30,000 testimonials of cures of smarting, swollen, tender, perspiring feet. It prevents friction and wear of the stockings and will save in your stocking bill ten times its cost each year. Imitations pay the dealer a larger profit, otherwise you would never be offered a substitute when you ask for Allen's Foot-Ease, the original powder for the feet. It gives a restfulness and a springy feeling that makes you forget you have feet. Allen's Foot-Ease is the greatest comfort discovery of the age and so easy to use. It prevents soreness, blisters or puffing. Don't go on your vacation without a package of Allen's Foot-Ease. Sold everywhere, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. Sample sent FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

TOO MANY DEALERS.

The following taken from the Reading Chronicle applies to other towns: Mr. Editor:
It is said that "competition is the life of trade" but apparently too much competition is disastrous in our smaller cities and towns. The Business World quotes that it requires 10,000 inhabitants to support two grocery stores, two meat markets, two milk routes, one clothing store, one shoe store and one ice company. On this basis it would appear that our towns are burdened with too many dispensers of the necessities of life. What constitutes a fair business for one, becomes a bare living when divided among several and does not give the merchant an adequate return for the capital and energy invested.

Nor is there any advantage to the consumer in so much competition. A dealer whose business returns him a profit can give better goods and better service at a normal price than when forced by keen competition to curtail expenses to a minimum to show any profit at all; and yet the latter condition largely prevails. "Practice makes perfect" but bad practice makes perfectly bad and competition as at present in vogue in our towns does not stimulate but rather retards honest business methods and the consumer is affected as well as the merchant.

Stick to your dealer, Mr. Buyer, and do not allow a distribution of what is really only sufficient for one. You will benefit yourself in this and superior goods and improved service at honest prices will follow.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

This is to be a notable summer at B. F. Keith's theatre. Mr. Keith has arranged to put on for the summer what is admittedly the greatest combination of male voices ever heard in this part of the country. In a beautiful production will be "The Meistersingers," composed of the Harvard, Schubert and Weber Male Quartettes, three organizations that are known all over the land as the greatest in their line. A special feature of this production will be the first appearance in Boston of Onita, who comes nearer to being a duplication of the famous Palmer Coxee "Prownte" than any human being who has ever been seen on the stage. Onita will have a unique part in "The Meistersingers." This feature itself should prove especially attractive to the children, who have enjoyed the "Brownies" in the picture books but have never seen them in real life. Other features of an exceptionally good bill will be Haines & Vidocq, the famous blackface comedians; the Five Piroscosoffis, a big troupe of European jugglers; Dolan & Lenharr in the burlesque, "Almost A Mind Reader;" Snyder & Buckley, with their two-man band; The Great Richards; Lester, Loraine & Quinn; and Delmore & Onelda.

The Downfall of Samaria. 2 Kings xviii:1-18.

Golden Text—He, that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy. Prov. xxix:1.

(1.) Verses 1-4—Who was the last king that reigned over the kingdom of Israel?

(2.) What was the character of Hoshea?

(3.) Who did Hoshea succeed as king, and how did he come to the throne? (2 Kings xv 30.)

(4.) What became of Hoshea? (v:4.)

(5.) By whom was Samaria taken and the kingdom of Israel blotted out?

(6.) Verses 7-8—What was the real first cause of the blotting out of the kingdom of the ten tribes? (v:20.)

(7.) What were the secondary causes of the overthrow of the ten tribes?

(8.) How much has God to do direct, with our national prosperity or with our national suffering?

(9.) When we suffer from epidemic disease that we can trace to bad sanitation, or to any other cause over which we have control, why is it either right or wrong to say that God inflicted the suffering?

(10.) How much has God got to do with the sinking of a ship, that was allowed to leave port in an unseaworthy condition?

(11.) What were the general habits of "the heathen" that Israel had imitated?

(12.) Verses 9-12—What specified sins is Israel here accused of, and what relation did they have to the blotting out of the nation?

(13.) Is a "secret" sin as certain to work evil results as one committed in the open?

(14.) In what way do religious sins, such as idolatry, have an evil material effect upon the individual and the nation?

(15.) Verse 13—In how many ways had God "testified" or warned them of the evil results that would follow their sin?

(16.) How does God warn us of the evil consequences of sin?

(17.) How may we learn of the sad and certain results of sin, short of actual experience?

(18.) Verses 14-15—What reason is there to think that they persisted in sin, after knowing the punishment that would surely follow?

(19.) How is it that individuals and communities to-day, persist in doing those things which they know will be disastrous?

(20.) What would you say to the proposition that sin first produces partial insanity, and then its victims keep on in sin knowing, but not realizing, its awful consequences?

(21.) What steps would you take to arouse sinners to the realization of the awful consequences of sin?

(22.) Is it possible to have sinners for boon companions, and to be Christians ourselves?

(23.) Verses 16-18—What if any are the exceptions to the rule, that sinners get worse and worse?

(24.) When sinners train their children to do what they know will result in injury how do you explain it? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

The Charger at the Funeral.

The charger led at the funeral of a cavalry officer is a relic of the custom when a horse was sacrificed at the grave. An officer led the charger behind the bier to the brink of the grave and it was there slain and thrown upon the coffin. The last occurrence of this kind took place at Treves, Germany, in 1781.

1911 GRADUATION.

Fitting Exercises in the Town Hall Tuesday Evening.

Motto: Vincit qui se vincit.

On Tuesday evening the graduating exercises of the Class of 1911, Winchester High School, were held before a large audience of parents, residents and friends in the Town Hall. As during recent similar graduating exercises of the school, the capacity of the hall was taxed to its utmost to accommodate all who were interested in attending to the closing event in the history of the class in the Winchester High School.

The program covered about an hour and a half and was well presented. The High School chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Albert Edmund Brown, supervisor of music in the public schools, was as usual a prominent feature of the exercises. Mr. Brown's work in the schools has already received much favorable comment, and the work of this graduation amply fulfilled the expectations and upheld the high standard set in the Winchester schools for this branch of study.

Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the First Congregational Church, offered the prayer, and Mr. George C. Coit presented the graduates with their diplomas.

The orations delivered by Miss Homer, Miss Carlson, Miss Hovey, Mr. Caldwell and Mr. Donovan were well thought out and presented. Owing to a recent illness, Miss Waldmyer, who was to have spoken upon "The Conditions of the Factory Girl," was excused.

CLASS SONG

TUNE: THE WATCH ON THE RHINE.

The day to part has come at last
To say goodbye to friendships fast
To teachers kind, and classmates true,
To our dear class we say adieu.
Nineteen eleven, all hail to thee,
Nineteen eleven, still true are we

Ref. Three cheers we'll give to-night for nineteen 'levenThree cheers we'll give to-night for nineteen 'leven.

Tho' far we roam, wide lands to see
Still true to dear old friends we'll be Where'er we go, what ere we do,
To our dear class we'll all be true
Fair memories rise of school days past
Of friendships firm which long will last.

Ref. Three cheers we'll give to-night for nineteen 'levenThree cheers we'll give to-night for nineteen 'leven.

Then let our banners flaunt the sky
And let us to all dangers cry,
"Who conquers self, he conquers all."
Then answer nobly to our call
On foreign shore, on homeland place,
The perils we'll with courage face.

The Latest Plan for Eliminating the Grade Crossing.

PLAN FOR THE ELIMINATION OF THE GRADE CROSSING.

To the Citizens of Winchester:

Upon the request of several who complained that they were unable to understand the map shown at the last Town Meeting, owing to the fact that the red lines did not stand out well at night, I am publishing the above plan and description.

Mr. Vernon street is a straight, does not pass through the center of the town, but passes to the rear of the business blocks, (as shown by heavy lines on the plan), this provides a thoroughfare 50 feet wide and 100 feet long, with easy grades due to its starting and ending on comparatively high ground.

This structure would preferably be of concrete construction similar to bridges of the Metropolitan Park System. In addition to the main entrance opposite the Town Hall, an entrance can also be made at grade at Winchester place, or grade of Winchester place may be lowered, and this roadway may be carried over it, and an entrance 60 feet wide be made east of the Savings Bank Building at grade, and leading into the new proposed park.

Such an entrance is shown on a plan of Mr. Seeley. This portion of his plan is to be preferred, as Winchester place is narrow and steep.

Crossing the railroad 18 feet above the tracks, this being the height now required, it then crosses Main street and the tracks of the B. & N. Street R. R. about 15 feet above the level of the street and ends on a line with the rear of Kelley & Hawes' brick building on Park street.

By taking out two small houses on Elmwood avenue, this street can be widened to 80 feet, and by taking a corner off the Congregational Church lot, an entrance from Church street 80 feet wide is provided.

There will also be an entrance from Park street, Elmwood avenue will also be widened north of the bridge landing and carried round to Main street, thus making an easy approach from Woburn. An ornamental iron fence may be placed on either side of the tracks at the center and a subway provided for foot passenger at the center and R. R. station in line with Common street. The total valuation of all property affected with the exception of a wedge shaped piece taken from the Skillings estate is $58,875, but in several cases only a small portion is taken.

The estimated cost of this proposed avenue and the two subways is $286,000, and can be constructed in six months and will not interfere with business or travel while being built. And in course of time expensive buildings are bound to be built on both sides of this thoroughfare that will add sufficient taxable property to pay the interest on the town's share of the cost of construction.

Street Cars.

The street cars coming from Woburn will pass around the corner at Knights & Drug Store, and run to Sullivan Square via Arlington. The Stoneham cars turn at Abare's Drug Store corner and run to Sullivan Square via Medford.

This change will eliminate the grade crossing as far as the street cars are concerned, and by connecting their tracks at Arlington with the Boston Elevated line.

All sections of the town will have through service to Sullivan Square. The running time from Winchester Square to Sullivan, will be the same by either route, when through cars are run via Arlington, and much time will be saved when the cars of each line do not have to wait to cross each other's tracks, as they do at present. This a rearrangement will be for the best interest of all parties concerned.

If the street cars are left at grade with the steam cars as they now are, thus making it easy to transfer, the interests of the many who must go on foot should greatly outweigh the slight inconvenience of the lesser number who have conveyances, and must go only a few feet further.

Other Crossing Plans.

The plan for a crossing south of the center, to my mind will greatly injure the very prettiest approach we now have to the center especially after the Whitney mill is removed.

The Sele mens plan is objectionable because it buries the Common at present the only beauty spot in the center of the town, and puts an artificial obstruction 10 feet high at least, between the railroad station and the center, admitting that the railroad track is lowered 2 feet; the requirements of the law at the present time insist that a bridge over a railroad track be 18 feet in the clear. The usual thickness of a roadbed is about 3 feet, thus making the total height of the obstruction 19 feet above grade of the street, which must be climbed by steps more than equal in height to two flights of stairs in an ordinary house, or one must make a detour and walk up a long incline before reaching the center from the railroad station.

Mr. Vernon street is too narrow an approach for a bridge. With teams standing in front of the fruit stores and a street car waiting there also, Mr. Vernon street is blocked and there is no room to pass now, and it is easy to imagine what it will be when double tracks are laid for the street cars to handle the increased travel that is sure to come in the future. It this plan is carried out it will still be a dangerous crossing, particularly for elderly people and children.

Why not better eliminate the danger from both steam and street cars while we are about it.

To carry out this plan and raise the buildings will upset the center for two years, and when finished will not have added a dollar to the taxable property of the town.

E. I. Braddock.

OBSERVANCE OF THE 4TH.

Arrangements are now complete for the public observance by the town of July 4th. The morning will be given over to the sports, which will be held on Manchester Field commencing at 9.30, under the supervision of Mr. Caldwell; the afternoon will be given to the ball game, commencing at 3.30, and in the evening at 8 the fireworks will be held. A full band will play during the whole day.

Following is a list of the sports:
Boys under 14 years of age—obstacle race, 50 yd. dash, potato race, sack race, basket ball race, shoe race.

Boys from 14 to 18 years—mile run, running broad jump, 100 yd. dash, standing broad jump.

Girls—50 yd. dash, potato race, obstacle race.

For first prize a gold medal will be given, for second a silver medal and for third a bronze medal. Any information regarding the games may be obtained from Mr. Caldwell at the playground any day.

The town has given a contract for its fireworks for the night of the 4th to Ernesto Borrelli, who resides on Swanton street and who is employed by Mr. Henry Weed of the Winchester Mfg. Co. Mr. Borrelli, although unable to speak English, has written a letter in Italian, which, when translated, proves him to be a master in expression of thought and the proper use of words. He makes the fireworks himself with the assistance of a friend just outside the town limits. His knowledge of chemicals and acids, the placing together of which must be so carefully done, both for his own safety and that of others as well as to produce effects when set off in the air, has been a life-time study. Many of our towns people who witnessed the two celebrations given by the Italians of Winchester were astounded to see such beautiful effects in fireworks and the great variety of lights which were so wonderfully effective at the bursting of each shell. Expressions were made then and very often since that nothing like it was ever seen in town before. Mr. Borrelli made every piece, even the set pieces, on both occasions, and he has promised the town the very best display that it is possible for him to make for the money expended.

Mr. Borrelli was awarded a prize at the exhibitions in Milan and Rome, Italy, as a pyrotechnical expert. The exhibit would be witnessed by as many of our towns people as can possibly be present.

A REASONABLE QUESTION.

How can you afford to do vacuum cleaning at your present contract rates? This question is being asked me both directly and indirectly.

The answer is that my business at present is being supported by customers numbering in the hundreds instead of in the tens and therefore, each patron has to contribute a very small portion towards the running expenses, whereas, a year or more ago the rate per hour had to be greater in proportion to the number of patrons.

Within a short while I shall have a new set of cleaning rates which will make vacuum cleaning an absolute necessity to everyone both from an economical and sanitary standpoint.

These new rates will be open to everyone and many of the customers who have adopted "The Colgate System" of regular cleaning will find their cleaning bill to be still less.

Mr. J. A. Laraway is carrying a broken arm about with him as a gentle reminder that all autos do not crank as easy as the red ended Buick. Obliging a party of ladies with a stalled engine is said to have been the provocation.

COMING EVENTS.

June 23, Friday, Wadleigh School graduation exercises in Town Hall at 8 p.m.

June 24, Saturday, 3.30 p.m., on Manchester Field, Winchester vs. Malden Athletics.

June 24, Saturday, Vesper team match at Winchester Country Club.

June 29, Thursday, Ladies' Golf at Country Club. Mixed foursomes in charge of Mrs. Edgett.

NEW TRAIN TIME.

The summer time for the steam trains will go into effect on Monday. This year, instead of the usual increase of trains, four trains have been taken off. Other important changes have been made in the running time of the trains and any one accustomed to use the trains constantly should acquaint himself with the new schedule.

The trains which have been discontinued are the 6.31 and the 9 p.m. inward, and the 12 m. and 7.14 p.m. outward.

Inward changes of note are: 11.37 a.m. to 11.49, 1.03 p.m. to 1.05, 3.13 to 3.11 and minor changes.

Outward changes include the changing of almost all of the early trains in the forenoon from 2 to 10 minutes, the changes of a few minutes in the arrival of the middle afternoon trains, the 11.20 p.m. to 11.17 and the 11.55 to 11.25.

The last change places the town on the same schedule as it was some time ago, when considerable agitation caused the last train to leave thirty minutes later. Winchester patrons of the theaters will again be obliged to attend the early shows to catch the last train.

A new feature is that many of the trains will not run on holidays. As there will be but two during the summer—July 4 and Labor Day—this will not be greatly noticed.

EXPRESSION OF GRATITUDE.

Mr. Theo. P. Wilson:—

My dear Sir:—Please accept my sincere thanks for your kindness in giving so much space in the STAR during the last two weeks to news of "Pandora's Box."

Also may I express through the medium of your paper my gratitude to all those who have given their help during the past three weeks:—to Mr. Oren C. Sanborn and Mrs. Hermann Dudley Murphy whose generosity and encouragement made it possible to arrange for the production of the Pantomime, to Mrs. Lucille Drummond Cecil of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. Sylvester Taylor of Winchester for valuable suggestions, to Mr. John Little of Malden and Mr. W. H. W. Bicknell and volunteer players of the Winchester Orchestral Association, to Mr. John Craig of the Castle Square Theatre for his kindness in lending properties, to Kelley & Hawes, The Edison Electric Co., Arnold the Florist and many others for valuable services.

Very sincerely yours,

Mary Kellogg.

Winchester, Mass., June 21st.

HOIT FELLIS CLUB PLAY.

A play was given by the Hoit Fellis Club for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society in Boston, on Friday, June 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Phippen.

FLY THE FLAG.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

An old soldier wishes to inquire why no American flag was to be seen at the High school graduation exercises. He also observes that there were no flags flying on the public schools on Flag Day.

TO OWNERS AND LOVERS OF CATS AND TO THE PUBLIC.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society, while its office is to do all in its power to protect the birds, and while it believes that cats are among the most destructive of all the agencies of bird-destruction, yet recognizes the fact that cats and cat-owners have rights that demand respect. The present letter is intended to point out a few methods of dealing with the situation so as to mitigate the evils which result from the superabundance of cats and the lack of restraint upon their bird-killing propensities.

John Burroughs says that cats probably destroy more birds than all the other animals combined. Mr. William Dutcher, President of the National Association of Audubon Societies, considers the wild house cat one of the greatest causes of bird-destruction. Mr. Edward H. Forbush, State Ornithologist for Massachusetts, in "Useful Birds and their Protection," puts the average yearly game-bird of the mature cat in good hunting-grounds at fifty birds and calculates that in Massachusetts seven hundred thousand birds are annually killed by farm cats alone. He quotes Mr. A. C. Dike as saying that a cat owned in his family killed fifty-eight birds in one season, including the young in five nests. A writer in bird lore (Dr. Anne E. Perkins of Gowanda, N. Y.) says that one cat brought in meadowlarks, chipping sparrows, blue birds, a Wilson snip, an oven-bird, two hummingbirds, a flicker, a swallow, and a young partridge within a few days. On the island of No Man's Land off the coast of Maine, cats exterminated an entire colony of petrels during the summer of 1910.

Instances of such destructiveness might be multiplied indefinitely. Doubtless the greater part of the damage is done by homeless cats, run wild in the woods. The homeless cat is a pitiful creature as well as a nuisance to be abated. Thousands are humanely put out of existence each year by the Society for the prevention of cruelty to animals and the animal rescue league, and all good citizens should co-operate with these organizations to reduce their numbers. They may be caught in box-traps baited with catnip and then disposed of as thought best. If neighbor's pet cats are caught, action will be governed by ordinary community. Bird-houses within reach of cats and trees containing nests should be protected by wire, tin, or zinc, and cat-proof fences may be erected around gardens where birds nest in numbers. Above all, good citizens will take care not to add to the number of stray cats by deserting their cats or giving them away to irresponsible persons. Many persons on leaving the city for the country or vice versa, or making any change of residence leave their cats to starve for themselves. This is cruel to the cats and ruinous to birds.

The house cat must be fed regularly and fed well. It allowed to forage for itself it is certain to make birds a large proportion of its diet. An undetected cat is a public menace. Only one cat should be kept in a household, that preferably a male. If a female cat is kept, all but one male of the kittens of each litter should be destroyed, and that one should be disposed of as soon as possible after it is weaned. Every cat should wear a bell attached to a collar or ribbon during the spring and summer. This will not save the helpless young birds in or out of their nests but it so adjusted as to ring with the slightest motion of the wearer it will give fair warning to able-bodied adult birds. Cat collars may be obtained ten cents and upwards at any department store or hardware store. A cat with a collar carries with it the evidence of being a pet cat and is much less likely to be killed as a stray animal than a collarless one.

It is also very desirable to confine cats when out of doors in cages or pens of chicken-wire during the season when young birds are about. From May 1st, say till September. It may seem to some unkind to deprive the cats of their liberty thus, but this is what is usually done in the case of valuable cats, and the pens should be large enough to allow some freedom of action. For those who object to confining their cats in any way for all the time, the suggestion of Mrs. F. G. Floyd, Local Secretary of the Society at West Roxbury, is recommended, viz., that the cats should be kept in the house or in wire pens until noon every day in May and June so as to give the birds a free time for feeding in the morning when they are always most active. It would doubtless be better to continue this practice through July and August to protect the second and third broods of young which are raised by some birds, also to keep the cats in during the late afternoon as well as the morning.

Remember that the cat is by nature a carnivorous animal, and very destructive to bird life. Don't blame him for it, but restrain him.

LAWSON TROPHY RACE.

In the tenth annual race, held on Mystic Lake last Saturday afternoon, June 17th, for the trophy in bronze of a miniature canoe, given by Mr. Thomas W. Lawson, Dedham High School, for the sixth time, crossed the line a winner. Winchester came in second, about a length behind Dedham, and Medford third, a half length behind Winchester. The race was twenty seconds slower than last year, when a new record was created, although there was a slight wind blowing down the lake.

Winchester took the course second to the east shore and finished next to the outside on the west, thus losing a great deal by going diagonally across the lake. It had not been for this, Winchester would undoubtedly have won.

Medford and Winchester were in the lead until about a hundred feet of the finish when Dedham made a spurt and came out ahead.

Woburn contested this year for the first time, entering two crews, but as they had had no former experience they were unable to come in ahead of the others.

The Winchester four deserves great credit for paddling as well as they did. After Capt. Wheatly left school, all hopes seemed to be gone, but nevertheless they worked all the harder and came out very near the first.

The crew paddled as follows: Symmes stroke, Luck 2, Elliot 3, Evans 4.

J. B. Howard of Medford was starter. Fred Brodbeck of Dedham, H. D. Murphy of Winchester and B. F. Jacobs of Medford were the judges.

SCHOOL NOTES.

For the school year beginning in September, the sixth grades will have two sessions and will be located as follows: one in the Wyman, two in the Prince, one in the Chapin, and one in the Washington. For several years previous to this, the sixth grades have all been in the Prince and in consequence of the long distance of the building from the homes of many children, one session has been a necessity. For the present year one sixth grade has been in the Chapin and the rest in the Prince. It has been felt that it would be better for all children of this age to be in schools nearer home.

Teachers.

The teaching force will continue as for the present year except as noted below: High school. Miss M. Frances Harriman returns after a year's leave of absence spent in study at Simmons College. Miss Harriman will not replace anyone and the High school will thus have one more teacher than at present.

Miss Leila M. Whittemore of Bristol, New Hampshire, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and of Kenyon Business College, will be in charge of the Commercial Department in place of Miss Margaret K. Brooks, who has resigned to be married. Miss Whittemore is now teaching in Walton, New York.

Mr. Clifford A. Watson, of Gouverneur, New York, a graduate of St. Lawrence University, succeeds Mr. Amasa Bowles in charge of the Science Department and of athletics. Mr. Watson has had successful experience as principal and teacher and has been active in college athletics.

Wadleigh, Miss Bernice E. Oliver, of Garland, Maine, a graduate of Farmington Normal, now teaching in Sanford, Maine, will have a seventh grade in place of Miss M. Estella Sprague who has been granted a year's leave of absence to study at Simmons College, and Miss Zana E. Prescott, of St. Albans, Maine, a graduate of Farmington Normal, now teaching in Dexter, Maine, will take Miss Mary J. Hill's seventh grade. Miss Hills has been granted a year's leave of absence on account of her health.

Chapin. Miss Kathryn F. Mawn, of Winchester, a graduate of Lowell Normal, who has been teaching in Peterboro, New Hampshire, for the last five years, will have the third grade now in charge of Miss Janet C. Hanson, she being transferred to the third grade in the Gifford to succeed Miss Gertrude L. Symmes, who resigns to be married during the year.

Washington. Miss May Q. Clough, of Cliftondale, a graduate of Farmington Normal, will have the second and third grades. Miss Mercy J. Davis, the present teacher of these grades, will have the fourth and fifth grades, and Miss Mary L. Barr, the principal, now in charge of the fourth and fifth, will take the sixth.

Wyman. Miss Elizabeth Hopkins has been transferred from the Prince sixth to the fourth and fifth, in order to enable Miss Carrie L. Mason, the principal, to take the sixth.

Miss Ruth B. Merriam, instructor in the Massachusetts Normal Art School, has been engaged as assistant to the Supervisor of Drawing, Miss Margaret E. Hill. The work in drawing in the High School has increased so greatly during the last two years that it is impossible for Miss Hill to give sufficient time to the grades. Miss Merriam will in particular supervise the work in grades one to six, inclusive.

Miss Emma C. Diehm, a graduate of the Milwaukee Normal, Wisconsin, and of the Crane Musical Institute in Potsdam, New York, will be Supervisor of Music in place of Mr. Albert E. Brown, who resigned to give full time to the work in Lowell Normal school. Miss Diehm has been a supervisor of music in Malone, New York.

The following repairs have been authorized and will be made during the summer months:

At the High school repairs will be made in the basement, there will be a new transformer, rectifier and storage battery for clock system, new arm chairs will be placed in one recitation room, additional commercial desks will be added and one teacher's desk and chair.

At the Prince school one room will be plastered and the new offices installed with a stock room.

At the Chapin school the boy's sanitary will be plastered, the ventilator painted, an outside gong installed and a new fence built.

At the Gifford school new slate blackboards will be installed.

At the Highland school new slate blackboards and chalk troughs will be installed.

The Mystic school will have its cellar windows screened. The Rumford will have direct heat pipes for two rooms and rain water conductors. The Washington will be double curtained in one room and minor repairs will be made at the Wyman building.

JOHNSON—SPRINGER.

John Winthrop Johnson of this town and Miss Florence Elesta Springer, daughter of Mrs. Marcellus Patten Springer of Newton, were united in marriage on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock at Grace Episcopal Church, Newton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Laurens LaLure, rector of Grace Church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The maid of honor was Miss Mildred Springer of Newton, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Miss Eleanor and Miss Emily Springer of Newton. Mr. Frederick C. Johnson, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride was given in marriage by her mother.

The ushers for the ceremony were Messrs. Daniel A. Johnson, of Plymouth, Charles R. Leonard of New York City, F. Roger Thomas of West Newton and D. Robert Whitehill of Newtonville.

Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home in Winchester.

SENIOR RECEPTION.

Last Friday evening the Senior Class of the High school gave their annual reception in the Town Hall. The hall was tastefully decorated in black and gold the senior class colors.

On either side of the green curtain on the stage were hung the banners representing the Senior and Junior class pins.

The affair was enjoyed by many friends and undergraduates. A full orchestra furnished the music for the occasion.

The matrons were: Mrs. John J. Flinn, Mrs. Eustace H. Brigham and Miss Eva M. Palmer, and the committee in charge was Miss Mary Flinn, Miss Gladys Spaulding, Lowell Smith and Kenneth Caldwell.

Newsy Paragraphs.

Winchester, as a municipality or incorporated town, has been in years past, and is now, pursuing a financial course, or executing a wisely planned financial policy, which is to make it the finest and most attractive place in the suburbs of Boston. By a judicious expenditure of money, begun more than 30 years ago, it has grown from little more than a hamlet to an organized community of some 7,000 inhabitants, and these are not of the lower stratum of society, but members of the learned professions, scholars, financial leaders, journalists and men of that character, business, and influence. Only last Monday evening a special town meeting voted to appropriate $50,000 to purchase the old Whitney Mill property with a view of building a boulevard from Manchester Field to Wedge Pond, just one mile long, which will cost the town, when completed, $250,000, the most expensive piece of highway in New England. And it will pay Winchester big interest in the end. — [Woburn Journal.]

REGATTA AT BOAT CLUB.

The annual June 17th regatta of the Winchester Boat Club was one of the most successful in the club's history. The water sports were participated in by members of the Medford Boat Club, Dedham Boat Club and Inuiton Canoe Club of Woburn and were closely contested. In several events fifteen canoes were in line at the start. The sports were run off at the close of the Lawson trophy race in the bay opposite the club. The club house, shores and lake were thronged with spectators.

Following is a list of the events and winners:

Single blade—Won by Manson of Medford.

Tandem, mixed—Won by Miss Day and Mr. Smith of Medford.

Tail-end race—Won by Fred Bates of Winchester.

Tandem—Won by John Sheridan and E. Russell Murphy of Winchester.

Novelty standing race—Won by George Proctor of Winchester.

Relay race—Won by Smith and Walking of Medford.

Hurry-scurry race—Won by George Proctor of Winchester.

Tilting tournament—Won by George Cummings and P. Sheridan of Winchester.

The judges were J. Sheridan and Chester Baldwin. William Little was the starter.

The events were fittingly closed when Earl Ovington, in his Blériot monoplane sailed majestically up the lake and over the club house.

In the evening a dance was held in the club hall, attended by a large gathering of members and guests.

BASE BALL FINANCES.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

If you can find space in this week's STAR would you kindly publish the following:

In passing the hat around on Manchester Field in support of the base ball game, I have been asked by several citizens what it was for. In the short space of time I had I mentioned a few items of expense. Now so all the base ball fans and others can understand I will quote, for instance, our opening game with Medford, April 19th. Collected on the field $17.15, total receipts. Expenses: guarantee to Medford Club $10.00, umpire $2.00, police $2.50, baseballs $6.25 total $20.75. Deficit $2.80. We have played five home games and May 30th was the only game we came out ahead on, and that surplus has been used to make up the loss on other games. As we have picked no demons to battle with our boys this year, and I think the fans who have seen our games so far will agree with me, it will cost us at least $20.00 for every game. We have booked just as last teams to come here as the five teams that have been here. The Winchester's will be strengthened where it is necessary and I feel confident they will win their share of games this season. But we must have the support in order to have a successful season.

Yours for clean sport,

Geo. D. LeDuc,

Manager of Winchester B. B. C.

J. A. C. WINS.

The Junior A. C. won an exciting contest of twelve innings with the Medfords on Wednesday. In the twelfth inning Tenney of the Junior A. C. hit a three bagger. Capt. H. Bugbee made a hit, but got out on first, and brought Tenney in which made the winning run. Jakeman, the Medfords' third baseman, stopped the ball that Bugbee hit and threw it to first base and Tenney came in making the score 8-7.

The line-up: Junior A. C.—H. Bugbee c, G. Budreau p, P. Bugbee 1b, J. Tenney 2b, R. Fenno ss, M. Cummings 3b, A. Woods lf, V. Farrow 4th, W. Caldwell rf, Medfords—J. McLaughlin c, K. Clark p, O. Clark 1b, J. Plummer ss, K. Bean 2b, B. Jakeman 3b, G. Bird rf, D. Eldredge cf, R. Murphy lf.

In the seventh inning H. Bugbee hit a Texas leager and K. Clark in left field jumped in the air and caught it and then fell down but held on to it. In the same inning Eldredge was hit by a pitched ball in the eye.

W. H. S. NOTES.

The High school base ball team ended its season a week ago Thursday at Reading in a very well played game, but after a poor season. Out of sixteen games played, eleven were lost and five won, giving a percent of .3125. The team lacked co-operation and spirit besides being given poor support by the High school pupils.

Miss Mary Finn was elected Alumni Editor of the Recorder for next year. This was omitted in last week's STAR.

Mrs. John E. Emery was called to Chicago last week for the funeral of her uncle, Captain Andrew Emery. During past visits to Winchester Captain Emery made many friends here, all of whom were much grieved at the news of his death.

INTO THE LAND OF DARKNESS.

Eunice Homer.

Few people who are able to perceive the beauty of this wonderful world about us, can possibly realize the utter loneliness and absolute seclusion of those from whom the light is forever shut away. What is it that those who through some misfortune are compelled with sightless eyes to grope their way through the labyrinth of wonders which surround them,—what is it that the blind need? Is it the pity which is so freely bestowed upon them? No, indeed. Pity is as offensive to them as contempt would be to us. They want help,—help to take their places in the world in spite of their stupendous handicap.

For some years there has been an increasing tendency to develop the talents of the blind and to kindle a light within even if that from without is excluded. It is the opinion of such eminent people as Carmen Sylva, queen of Roumania, Dr. Howe, and Michael Anagnos that their rights should be respected, and that those privileges should not be denied them which are granted to their more fortunate brothers.

Never have the blind found a firmer friend in their distress than Valentine Haug, a Frenchman. One evening as Haug was passing through the streets of Paris he came upon a number of blind beggars who were entertaining a crowd of spectators. Amid the jeers and plaudits of the audience, the plight of these poor fellows forced to give amusement to the crowd, unable to discern that they were ridiculed, was indeed most pitiful, and the heart of kind Haug was wrung with sorrow for their sufferings. He perhaps realized in a measure what later investigation has proven, that more than fifty percent of the blind are born with sight, and lose it by accident. He perhaps felt in his heart what someone has so aptly phrased "the majority of blind children are those of poor parentage, born in the ways of ignorance and depravity, in the folds of misery and vice, in an environment where they are kicked, cuffed, and driven about; where the bread they eat, the air they breathe, the talk they hear, are either injurious to their health or poisonous to their character." After pondering for some time over methods of bettering the conditions of these unfortunates, Haug founded a pioneer school for the blind in 1782. His very first pupil afterwards became a well known musician. For years Haug struggled on, keeping the school together by his own efforts, until finally it was merged into a new management and the work prospered from that time on.

The next institution of the kind to be established was in Great Britain, and it was not until 1832 that the first school for the blind was founded in America. A year later another was started in Boston. Since that time, all through the United States, millions of dollars have been expended in establishing these institutions until America now leads the world in this branch of education. As typical of these institutions let us visit those of our native city.

Come with me to the Boston Nursery for Blind Babies, which was started in 1900. Situated on rising ground, overlooking beautiful Jamaica Pond, the nursery is one of the pleasantest places imaginable. As it is such a hot day most of the babies are out of doors, so after making a hasty survey of the interior of the building, we will join them. Now we pass down the little, four-inch steps, used by the children, out through the cool, airy rooms, through the breezy sun-parlor to the yard. Here we see a bamboo slide, a merry-go-round, and, best of all, a big tent where the children are gathered listening to stories. See the bright look on their poor little faces as they listen to the nurses, each of whom has her own "family," so the idea of institution is lost, for no mother could be kinder to her own flock than these nurses at the home. Several of the children run towards us in their hesitating little way to "see" the visitors, a process which consists of running their fingers over our hands and clothing. One tiny blind chap will sing for us in a high, sweet voice, and others will entertain us in various ways by fearlessly sliding down the bamboo slides, regardless of the fact that they are unable to see whither they are going. Everywhere is contentment, merriment—nowhere will you find a healthier, more joyous group of children than right here at the Blind babies' home.

Now we shall visit the kindergarten for blind children, which is but a short distance beyond, on Perkins Street. The nursery's main object is to make useful citizens of those who might so long be unaided that the possibilities of life would be lost. Let us step into a room in the kindergarten. Here is this attractive, sunny apartment with about thirty-four little ones working busily at clay modeling. See how well they do it! Observe some of the other work done from time to time by the children. Does it not seem incredible that those who are unable to see, can sew these cards, weave these mats, and exercise their ingenuity by fanciful designs with blocks. With difficulty we leave this fascinating room to visit an advance primary grade. Examine with me the books of raised type, over which the little fingers glide quickly, and the number work which these same little fingers, unaided by sight, have done; in fact, almost anything accomplished by seeing children is possible to these blind ones. Out in the yard we see again bamboo slides, swings, teters, merry-go-rounds, children running to and fro, picking flowers or resting under the shady trees, always accompanied by a motherly-faced woman; for the home life of the institution is especially to be praised. The children are surrounded by love and sympathy, and are given the pleasures and privileges of other children as far as possible. As in children with normal sight great variety in inclinations is discernible. Some are imitative, others initiative. As an example of this is the boy who has rigged up a battery which to us seems impossible to one in his condition. They also express an appreciation of the subtle things of life. For instance: when one of the blind children was asked what his idea of an old maid was, he replied without hesitation, "A pet animal that has been kept a very long time." From this kindergarten has graduated one of the most remarkable quartets ever seen: Helen Keller, Elizabeth Robin, Edith Thomas, and Tommy Stringer. Think of these men and women who might now be helpless burdens; instead they are able to give to the world the wonderful inspirations of their own beautiful soul!

From the kindergarten we shall follow the development of these unfortunates in the Perkins Institute. Here we see the same happy, contented spirit as in the other two institutions. The instruction is practically that used in all schools for the blind. Come into the various workshops and see what a busy world of sightless ones we have within this institution. Some are busily caning chairs, others are making brushes, baskets and similar articles. In fact, each one is learning something which will help him to fill a useful place later in the world.

The results of this education for the blind are too numerous and wonderful to estimate. Increase in cheerfulness, self-reliance, and buoyancy of spirit are all among them. A woman once said reproachfully to an official at the institution, "The idea of allowing them out alone in the streets after dark!" What difference to them whether it be night or day? They go about with the same cheerfulness and self-confidence. Instead of sheltering them as heretofore, let them go out like that world-famed blind football team of Kentucky, which, out of nine games with teams able to see, gained one victory and tied three. Let them enter the struggle with the spirit to win which means success.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER.

Harry Donovan.

When we buy our "Journal" or "Herald" from the little urchin who stands at the street corner crying his vari us editions we seldom, if ever, give a thought of the long process of evolution through which the American newspaper has passed.

The very first step toward a newspaper on this continent was in 1639, when the printing press of the early settlers was brought to the Massachusetts Bay Colony from England, but for a long time on account of the stringent laws made by the authorities the colonists were not allowed to print the news or even the laws. About 1690, however, an adventurous pioneer attempted a paper called "Public Occurrences."

This was a little sheet of three printed pages, two columns to a page. It was announced to appear "once a month," but the authorities forbade a second issue.

Not until 1704 did a newspaper become established in the new world. This paper was called "The Boston News Letter," and was in the form of a half sheet about 12 by 8 inches, printed in two columns. Its printer was Bartholomew Green, and its proprietor was John Campbell, a Scotchman, who was postmaster of Boston, and who may well be called the founder of the American newspaper. "The Boston News Letter" appeared weekly for nearly three-quarters of a century. During the troubles of 1776 it ceased to exist. At this time there were thirty-seven newspapers in the colonies, all weeklies, with one semi-weekly. The Revolution was fought and independence was won without a single daily newspaper. The first daily was established in Philadelphia in 1784.

Our early papers were almost reprints of the old English papers. Local news was confined largely to time tables of coach lines and the movements of sailing vessels. Foreign Entered at the post-office at Winchester a second-class matter.

Winchester never looked more beautiful than it does today, and it is the best vacation town in Boston's suburbs.

Of the twenty-four Senators who voted against direct election of U. S. Senators, Henry Cabot Lodge was one who helped to make up the list.

State politics will be lively this summer. Already three Republicans prominent in party councils are seeking the gubernatorial nomination.

The town meeting of next Tuesday evening is to be one of great importance, and every citizen should be in attendance. Among the important questions to be acted upon is that of the grade crossing.

Malden Companies have offered to furnish Wakefield with gas for 90 cents and electricity for 11 cents. With its municipally owned plant the cost for the former is $1.30 and the latter 15 cents. In addition the Wakefield plant is worn out.

The motion offered by Mr. Edward I. Braddock at the town meeting last week Thursday evening that a committee of three be appointed to further consider plans for the abolition of the grade crossing, is one that ought to meet with favorable consideration. By acquiring the Whitney property the entire aspect has been changed, so that what appeared to be the best scheme two weeks ago, may not now be so advantageous. There has been a woeful lack of cooperation by the citizens in this entire question because of a lack of real information as to cost and the best method. The cart has been before the horse from the start, over six years ago. Had a first class civil engineer been employed at the beginning to study the entire situation, instead of listening to the suggestions of landscape architects, this whole question would have been settled long ago. As an example of this, note what the Waterway's Committee accomplished. They went about it in the right way. Now let us start right by the appointment of a committee as suggested by Mr. Braddock, and they in turn secure the services of an expert to study out the method and cost, and report as soon as possible. Then the citizens can act intelligently.

Publicity recorded a notable triumph at the Town Meeting last week when it was voted to purchase the Whitney property. To Mr. Everett N. Curtis is due the credit for bringing to a climax this long considered improvement through the series of articles printed in the STAR last winter.

While he believed these articles would receive careful and thoughtful consideration and that they might bring forth fruit at some time in the future, yet he had not the least expectation that his hopes were so soon to be realized. Indeed the placing of an article in the warrant for the March town meeting, calling for the appointment of a committee to investigate the entire matter, was done only at the last minute. This able committee, headed by Mr. Lewis Parkhurst, Mr. Curtis and Dr. C. J. Allen, did their work thoroughly and well, and yet, too, the hope among them that the town would carry out their recommendations was far beyond their anticipations. And yet publicity had done the work so thoroughly that the largest meeting in the history of the town, with but five dissenting votes, enthusiastically supported the committee. Thus publicity accomplished in a short time what numerous committees in the past had failed to do because of the failure to resort to this great power

A CORRECTION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

While newspaper controversy is extremely distasteful to me I feel that I cannot, in justice to myself, allow the article in the STAR of June 9th signed by George C. Ogden to go unchallenged. The communication in question is cunningly framed to capture popular support by appealing to prejudice, and it allowed to stand unanswered may be accepted by many as the correct version of the difference that has arisen in connection with the naming of Symmes road.

An attempt was made a few months ago to have the street in question named Ogden avenue. It was voted down in town meeting, after a fair and full discussion. Not being satisfied with the verdict rendered by the town through its most potential channel, my opponent now seeks to re-open the case. Failing in his communication of June 9th to advance any good and sufficient reason for changing the authorized name of Symmes road to that of Ogden avenue, beyond the simple one that he wishes it, he seeks to enlist sympathy by claiming he is being persecuted because he is not a naturalized citizen of the United States. Such an appeal, the annals of which is very evident, will not be heeded by those who know the history of Winchester and value in fair play. Nine years before my opponent developed any of this property I built a portion of Symmes road. It is true that he bought that property from my niece, the Misses Wellington. (It is true that he later bought four lots from me that divided my home lot from his already developed property.) But it is not true that he bought the section between those four lots "for a money consideration" as he says in his communication of June 9th, nor for any consideration. The fact is I gave that section for highway purposes, just as I gave the section of Symmes road lying nearer to Main street. I am claiming no credit for this. I simply wish the people of Winchester to know that it was not the generosity of my opponent which furnished 120 feet of the street, and that he is mistaken when he says—

"... the small section of the street entering Main street was purchased as a right of way by me from them and for a money consideration. It was not required of me to provide any outlet to Main street, the way opened up on the land bought by me of the Wellingtons affording an outlet to Bacon street which was all that my grantees could require. My purchase of the right of way to Main street was, therefore, a free gift by me to my grantees."

The statement of my action in the matter of this section of street may be verified by the papers of record passed at the time of the transaction. Mr. Ogden is a developer of real estate and a promoter of suburban residential sites. For everything he has done to develop the town and add to her material prosperity I give him full credit, but I am afraid he weighs everything in commercial scales. To him a stretch of greensward, or a bit of upland with a wide-reaching view is simply so many opportunities for structural development. With him, I fancy, old time associations and local history must be subjected to the rigid rule of the plumb-line, the try-square and the level.

I confess to a deeply rooted love for all that is good in the old as well as in the new. We of this generation cannot add to, or detract from, the statue of the Rev. Zachariah Symmes, nor can we by town meeting vote affect the fame, whatever that may be, of the family that has owned the ancestral acres for two hundred and seventy years. Symmes' corner from time immemorial has had a local significance. It took its name from its earliest settler and landholder. I do not seek to perpetuate it, in asking the town to retain the name of Symmes road, because I chance to bear it, but I do feel that the name is a constant reminder of the foundation of the town. It is a bit of history that teaches its own lesson, and teaches it daily to the up-growing generation.

In the rush and bustle of the present it is well, by the retention of these older names with which the history of the town is intertwined to hark back to the days of the pioneers, whose sturdy character gave stability to the settlement, and whose courage and perseverance laid the foundations upon which the structure of our wonderful growth and development has been built. There is an element of sentiment in the matter, but it is not a selfish one seeking self-glification or notoriety, and I believe that the town of Winchester where I was born and where my life has been spent, will view this matter as I do, and refuse to reconsider its action whereby it established the name of Symmes road.

Charles T. Symmes.

TO THE VOTERS OF WINCHESTER.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Regarding changing the name of Symmes road to Ogden avenue as article No. 25 of the town warrant reads: On June 19th, 1911, the undersigned made a personal canvass of the abutters and residents on Symmes road, and obtained the signatures of seventeen (17) out of the twenty-five (25) who are perfectly satisfied with the name Symmes road and do not want the name changed.

Of the remaining eight (8) four (4) are indifferent, which leaves only four (4) who desire the change.

This seems the best reason why the name should be allowed to remain Symmes road, and we trust the voters will give us their support when the article comes up for action at the adjourned meeting, Tuesday, June 27.

W. H. S. NOTES.

Henry Harris, manager of the foot ball team for next fall has nearly completed his schedule. He has a practice game arranged with Waltham as last year, a game with Everett and Somerville. Undoubtedly the game with Everett will be one of the best of the season, as last year it was a close one, and this year Winchester will have practically the same team as last, whereas some of Everett's best players will leave school. The game with Somerville is a question. They say that their team will not be anywhere near up to their usual standard so it may not be so bad for Winchester as it sounds. Foot ball practice will begin the first day that school opens in the fall.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Bill of Rights of the people of Massachusetts declares: "To the end it may be a government of laws and not of men." Four hundred and eighty-three votes to five cannot make an illegal vote valid and our S-lection should satisfy themselves by the advice of the best legal talent before having any bonds sprung or offered. This whole Whitney property purchase business has been going on about in a go as you please fashion although its importance would seem to call for the greatest care. Our present town counsel finding the town's general law matters without system, established one and also had the town clerk look up and make a list of various statutes which had been accepted by the town in the past, but it he had done the work himself he would have discovered that the town did not accept in a legal manner probably this very park act under which the town voted to purchase this Whitney property. There is a bone for the legal lights to pick between now and the town meeting Tuesday night. To say nothing of the right under the park act to take a water power. And the law is common sense.

I withdrew my motion to refer back the waterways, engine-house and grade crossing matters because I knew Monday night's meeting would not listen to it, but I all present it Tuesday night and at this writing I rather think it will be agreed to. The Whitney purchase is not in proper shape, the grade crossing matter will not be for sometime and these two and the engine house should go along together till later on. It's plain enough if you want to see it.

The Town Hall boiler was inspected by both the Hartford Company and the Commonwealth last year, no decrease in pressure was ordered or new boiler called for. Remember what was said by the Ap. Com. and the S-lection about the steam roller last March. Get Mr. Whitney to look at this heating plant again. He knows.

I shall make another effort Tuesday night to knock out that fool rule requiring consent of the meeting to speak more than once on a motion. We don't want government by committee or cliques or gag laws in New England town meetings. What we want is publicity and full information and then let the majority rule. It is not safe to blindly follow men who have made a success in their own line of business for in public affairs they are often anything but safe leaders to follow.

Many people would have agreed with Mr. O'Leary, if they had been present, but they were unavoidably detained elsewhere, some serving short terms and others longer ones, due to the activities of our Chief of Police and his myrmidons. However, neither the Chief nor the patrolmen appointed themselves.

Oh, no Mr. Editor, Monday night's meeting was not the largest we have had. Away back in 1894 one hundred and ten more votes were cast on the Manchester Field proposition than were recorded Monday night. Some of our old timers have some memory yet, we can even remember within a year or two of when the Town Hall building was erected. We can also remember when important matters were fully and freely discussed in town meetings before being voted upon. That was before the day of gag laws, however.

The walk from the centre to the Winchester railroad station is illuminated(?) with two oil lamps on one side of the tracks and on the other by the moon, when it shines. On the station side there are many ravines in the concrete for the way and unwary alike to stumble over. There are no lights at all on the Manchester Field walk to Mystic avenue. Is it the lovers or the footpads who object?

Let Mr. Braddock present his plans to the S-lection for their consideration if he wants to, but we don't want another committee on the grade crossing abolition, we have had two without profit and the S-lection, who are the permanent committee upon this question, should be competent, with assistance of the Town Counsel, to handle it for the future. Besides, this plan is nothing new and was discarded long ago.

The General Court, formerly called the Great; still drifts along, neither doing much nor doing it very well. The Republicans hope in some way to put the Governor in a hole, but every one they dig he promptly deposits them into, to the satisfaction of the people. The Democrats are well organized in each branch, with able leaders, but are wrong on measures fully as often as their opponents. The Republicans have got to fight for all state offices and for the Senate and House next fall, but the governorship is hopeless for them.

For the second time we have voted to pay outlawed bills to the city of Woburn and per-ly, but can we not get similar bills once in a while? A certain public service corporation has escaped taxes on some of its real estate for many years, why should we not ask it in equity to pay us those back taxes?

Why should the rate of interest on the Whitney purchase bonds be fixed? It should read not more than four per cent.

Curiously enough section fifteen of chapter 28 of Revised Laws, being the park act, reads: "A second meeting for the purpose of voting upon the acceptance of said sections (accepting the act, etc.) shall not be called within twelve months after the first, unless the first meeting fails through illegality or irregularity in the proceedings." This seems to hit our case. Of course we can accept the act over again, but would it not be better to get a special act under which we may use the property purchased for other purposes than for a park? Think it over. It would then be legal, too.

J. H. C.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

There will be a double event at the Castle Square next week--the production of "The Genius"--and the return of Howell Hansel. Mr. Craig having engaged Mr. Hansel for a limited number of appearances during the summer, that popular actor will appear assured of the heartiest of welcomes. No actor who has ever played at the Castle Square has excelled Mr. Hansel in popularity, and his engagement is bound to attract no little attention and to assure a continuation of crowded houses.

"The Genius" is a farce of the merriest and funniest kind, said to be even more productive of laughter than "Charley's Aunt." In addition to Mr. Hansel, Mr. Craig will cast the play to the full strength of his company, including Gertrude Binley, George Hassell, Donald Meek and Mabel Colcord.

"PANDORA'S BOX."

There was a time when the gods, now relegated to the pages of mythology, played an active part in the lives of mortals. It is, indeed, a rare experience to us in this age of materialism, when the era of wonders lies so many centuries behind us, to catch a glimpse of that world of fantasy where immortals walked among men, sharing their joys and sorrows, and mingling with them in their sports.

Surely, the crowd which gathered on the slope of the natural amphitheatre on the west side of the beautiful residence of Mr. Oren Sanborn, will never forget the artistically arranged pageant of "Pandora's Box" as it was presented by the young ladies of Winchester last Monday evening.

All things "in heaven above and in the earth beneath" seemed to lend themselves to the success of the presentation. The night was perfect—a cloudless, starlight sky; a mild, refreshing atmosphere. The place was ideal, the broad, many pillared porch, the sloping lawn, and evergreen screens, all most admirably adapted to the appearance and disappearance of the little, silent figures of the gods, goddesses, maidens and children. No troop of ancient revelers could have found a setting more faultless for a merry making. Nor could a group of musicians from Mt. Ida itself, have chosen music better fitted to the charming dances in the sprightly frolic of the children and maidens, than that from Gluck's Opera "Orpheus," rendered by the Winchester Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Little. Nothing contributed more in the execution of the tableaux and dancing, however, than the exquisite costumes. The soft, clinging, silken draperies heightened the artistic effect of the graceful movements of the dancers and gave to the whole scene a picturesqueness which defies description.

The work of the entire cast was remarkable. Mrs. Root, who took the part of the Messenger Iris, gave character and vitality to the myth in her reading and furnishing a strong background for the pantomime. Pandora, herself the central figure, was not only the embodiment of maidenly loveliness and grace, but a very clever actress as well, and sustained the interest in each turn of the story with untiring skill. Epimetheus showed equal ability, and presented a difficult character very effectively. Mercury was all that he should be,—dashing and full of spirit—and his dance in the second act was one of the best features of the pageant. Miss Kellogg's dance in the closing scene, where as "Hope" she came to console the stricken Pandora, promising her presence and comfort in all the future, was a fitting climax. Her conception of the radiant character of "Hope" in the elusiveness and constancy was delicately and forcibly expressed in her dancing.

The pageant was arranged by Miss Mary Kellogg, and her presentation of the mythological story of Pandora and the mysterious box was given largely by the young ladies of her dancing class.

A group of little girls took the place of a chorus; forming a background for the principals and filled in the intervals between the periods of the story's action.

The following was the cast:
Pandora Miss Miriam Phinney
Epimetheus Miss Genevieve Robinson
Mercury Miss Pauline Chamberlain
Diana Miss Margaret French
Minerva Miss Frances Elder
Venus Miss Ruth Phinney
Hope Miss Mary Kellogg
Iris Mrs. George H. Root
Vulcan Mr. B. Streeter

Maidens—Misses Eleanor Barta, Sylvia Gutterson, Emma Farnsworth, Rhoda Young, Margaret Barr, Georgia Young, Elizabeth Clark, Gertrude May, Celma Cox, Dorothy Furbush, Estelle Davis, Helen Sanborn, Marion Barry, Hester Noyes and Mary Colt.

Children—Georgiana and Leslie Brown, Harriett Houghton, Elmer Hale, Friscilla Sweetser, Carlema Murphy, Myrtle Dunn, Melora Davis, Ruth Hammond, Ruth Caldwell, Virginia Mossman, Anne Zuehlh, Elizabeth Levick and Gretchen Ginn.

The proceeds will be given jointly to the Hospital Fund and the People's Primary Assembly Room, which it is hoped will be an accomplished fact by autumn. The business arrangements were in Mrs. Oren Sanborn's able hands, insuring before-hand financial success. Everybody seemed to be interested in the success of the entertainment and worked hard for it. Mrs. Sanborn provided her house and lawn, Miss Kellogg and the young ladies gave a tremendous amount of time to rehearsing and Mr. Bicknell and Mr. Little devoted much thought and time to furnishing music exactly suiting the various action in the story.

On June 24th, there will be a carnival on the grounds of Mr. G. W. Benjamin, on the corner of Highland avenue and Reservoir Street. There will be special musical attractions. The proceeds will go towards the Floating Hospital.

W. C. I. U. NOTES.

Last Saturday was a gala day with the Winchester Union, for Mrs. Hamilton, the president, was the hostess to a group from the Frances E. Willard Settlement and as many more, to the total of three score, came from the L. T. L. and the local union. In the morning the children enjoyed various games and sports, including boat riding on Wedge pond and in the afternoon they entertained the Winchester contingent with songs and recitations. The basket luncheon which the children brought was supplemented by a liberal allowance of lemonade and later in the afternoon light refreshments were served for all, of the sort that might be partaken of without doing violence to the Levitical law. Winchester is a favorite resort with the Settlement people, Miss Hill, the resident worker who was in charge, told the members of the Union and certainly both the looks and actions of the children corroborated her statement. Many of these children work every day so that only on holidays do they have any play time. To assist in guiding them in the paths of righteousness is one of the pleasant features of the W. C. I. U. work which believes there is more value in prevention than in reform or attempted cure. Miss Smith, the leader of the kitchen garden work, directed the class that accompanied her in various evolutions, showing how manners, morals and methods of housework are all taught together, with the inevitable result that good food, well cooked, will help to keep men from the saloons in the homes of which these girls are a part.

Geo. W. Blanchard & Co. have just installed an electric motor for sawing wood, replacing a gas engine. E. C. Sanderson had the contract.

Not For Himself.

"It does me good to see a pompous man get his," said a stockbroker. "I have a friend who just about believes the Lord created the earth in seven days for his especial benefit. He has a fine home on Long Island, with a retinue of servants, but his wife is a semi-invalid, and it falls to the lot of Mr. Pompous to execute various commissions for her in the city. The other day she asked him to stop at a clothing store and get a couple of white duck jackets for the butler. I happened to be with him when he entered the store. Striding majestically up to a sallow little salesman, he said, with much impressive dignity: 'I wish to purchase a couple of white duck jackets for my butler.' 'Yes, sir,' said the little salesman. 'What size do you wear?' 'Mr. Pompous got red in the face spluttered and coughed, and then as if fearing to trust himself to speech turned on his heel and strode from the place. He left me at the next corner, and has avoided me ever since.'—New York Sun.

An Experience at Hull House.

Even death itself sometimes fails to bring the dignity and serenity which one would fain associate with old age. I recall the dying hour of one old Scotchwoman whose long service to 'keep respectable' had so embittered her that her last words were gibes for those who were trying to minister to her. 'So you came to yourself this morning, did you? You only sent things yesterday. I guess you knew when the doctor was coming. I don't try to warm my feet with anything but that old jacket that I've got there; it belonged to my boy who was drowned at sea nigh thirty years ago, but it's warmer yet with human feelings than any of your confounded charity hot water bottles.' Suddenly the harsh gasping voice was stilled in death, and I awaited the doctor's coming, shaken and horrified.—Jane Addams in American Magazine.

Empty Titles.

William Jennings Bryan once joked about our American fondness for titles. "You all know of the colonel," he said, "who got his title by inheritance, having married Colonel Brown's widow? But I once met a general who got his title neither by inheritance, nor by service, nor by anything you could mention. 'General,' I said to him, 'how do you come by this title of yours, anyway?' 'Why, sir,' said he, 'I passed my youth in the flour trade and for twenty-seven years was a general miller.' 'I know another titled man, Judge Greene.

'Are you, sir,' I once asked him, 'a United States judge or a circuit court judge?' 'I ain't neither,' he replied. 'I'm a judge of huss racin'.'—

Fear.

Fear causes more disease than do microbes, more deaths than famine, more failures than panic. It costs more than war, is always a failure and is never necessary, said a medical man. Fear weakens the heart's action, induces congestion, invites indigestion, produces poison through decomposing foods and is thus the mother of auto-poisoning, which either directly causes or greatly aids in the production of quite 90 per cent of all our diseases.

Simplified Spelling.

"Why did you take Elmore away from school, Aunt Mahaly?" a lady asked her cook one day. Aunt Mahaly sniffed scornfully. "Can't do nothin' but satisfy my duty, Miss Mahaly. What you reckon she tell dat chile yistidy? She 'low dat I spell four when even a idjut 'ud know dat it spells try."

Not Strong Minded.

"Your wife, Clark, is, I should say, a strong minded lady."

"There you would be wrong. I don't rather describe her as brittle minded."

"Brittle minded?"

"Yes; she's been giving me pieces of her mind for years."

Her Bait.

"You have to have different bait for different fish, don't you, ma?"

PRIZE AWARDED.

The prize of a medal offered by the Legislative Committee of the Fortnightly for the best essay written on one of a number of given subjects about Civil Service, was awarded to Miss Margaret Mason last Monday morning in the Town Hall before a large number of High school pupils. Mrs. N. M. Nichols, president of the club, made an impressive and read a letter from the committee, appointed by the Fortnightly to judge the best essay, saying that they had unanimously agreed that the essay written under the pseudonym "Major Raymond" was the most meritorious. Mrs. Nichols then presented "Major Raymond" or Margaret Mason, a very fine girl and a beautiful bunch of Mountain Laurel.

The committee to judge the essays consisted of Mrs. Frank B. Tracy, Mr. George C. Coit and Mr. Charles N. Harris.

Cardinal Gibbons: "The Lord's day to the Catholic heart is always a day of joy. The church desires on that day to be cheerful without dissipation, grave and religious without sadness and melancholy. She forbids, indeed, all unnecessary servile work on that day, but she allows such work whenever charity or necessity may demand it. The true conception of the Lord's day is expressed in the words of the Psalmist: 'This is the day which the Lord hath made: let us be glad and rejoice therein.'"

FOR THE PEOPLE

The conservation movement met with no opposition so long as its promulgation was done in general terms and limited to teaching. When, however, we began to translate the idea into action opposition developed. Every monopoly in the end is bound to repose on natural resources. So does every national. Monopoly and the common welfare have been found to be incompatible in the long run. I do not object to using public utilities and natural resources, but I do object to using them for the benefit of the few rather than for the benefit of the whole people.—Gifford Pinchot CONSCIENCE.

What stronger breastplate than a heart untainted? Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just And he but naked, though locked up in steel, Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted. —Shakespeare.

CENSURE.

Censure and criticism never hurt anybody. If true they show a man his weak points and forewarn him against failure and trouble; if false they cannot hurt him unless he is wanting in character. —Gladstone.

A Bell Puzzle.

Workmen who were putting in a new floor in a store at Rockland, Me., found underneath the old floor a large bell, which was afterward recognized and claimed by Alfred Murray. Years ago Mr. Murray kept a store in the neighborhood and had the bell mounted on the roof. Every time the sales amounted to $10 the bell would ring and the person making the last purchase received a present of 50 cents. The bell was stolen a number of years ago on a Fourth of July night and so effectively hidden that it has only just now come to light. Now every one is wondering how the boys got the bell under the flooring of the neighboring store.—Boston Globe.

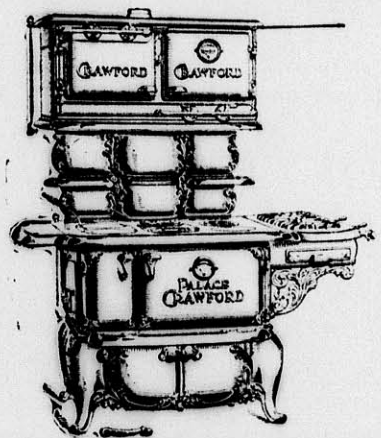

An artificial man likes like a hedgehog and in the wrong way, tormenting himself with his own prickles.—E. P. Blood LAW.

There is too much partisanship and not enough patriotism in America. There is much wrong done owing to disrespect for the law. The laws may be stiff and hard, but they are not evil. The greatest thing in our own country is law, and it is the greatest thing in the universe. Law has been and ever will be in our country the basis of the people's protection. The law is made for the benefit of the people to protect the poor, to enable the workman to collect his wages and to maintain him in the enjoyment of his rights under the constitution. Disrespect for the law by public servants and corporations drives the respect of the law in the dust. —John A. Johnson.

news consisted entirely of matter reprinted from the old London papers which were not received in America until long after publication. The editor once expressed a regret that he was thirteen months late in giving the news from Europe. I wonder what the people would say today if they found such a regret in their morning paper. Of course it must be remembered that the conditions were not very favorable at this time for periodicals of any kind. Postmasters were the editors for their offices were the centers of news.

They printed their papers by hand on wooden presses. There was little freedom of the press. Newspapers were tolerated as long as they gave no offence to the Colonial authorities, as they still are in Germany and other countries of continental Europe.

The early journals were not newspapers so much as they were vehicles for publishing moral or political essays. The editors were in no hurry about printing the news. The Declaration of Independence adopted by Congress in Philadelphia, July 4th, did not appear in the chief paper of the town until the thirteenth, and did not appear in a Boston paper until the 22nd. Imagine such an important event taking place today and not being published until weeks afterward. Preference was given to controversial matter. A communication from a man of national reputation was considered far more important than any amount of news. The papers of the revolutionary period were simply instruments for stirring the people to action. Afterward they flourished as the organs of parties and politicians bringing about the era of personal journalism, and of editors who were greater than their paper.

At the opening of the nineteenth century there were two hundred and fifty newspapers in the colonies, in spite of the conditions of the country, with daily editions in four or five cities. After another decade the number had increased to three hundred and sixty, of which more than twenty were dailies. By 1830 the number had increased to one thousand, in spite of the fact that as yet there was not a railroad or power press in the country.

The first noteworthy departure from old-time methods was made by the "New York Herald," founded by the elder James Gordon Bennett in the small capital of five hundred dollars. In his very first issue he announced that his paper was to be independent, and not a party organ, as former papers were, and as many of the present day are. Mr. Bennett worked on the theory that the people wanted news and not views. He worked hard to this end and spared no labor or expense in getting news. He was the first to use illustrations as a news feature. From the beginning he printed "money articles," or reports of the transactions on Wall Street. Today the financial page is one of the most important in every paper. His jealous contemporaries had some cause for the way they unanimously assailed him, but they overlooked the fact that the "Herald" contained the germ of the greater journalism. From this was gradually evolved the modern newspaper with its many different departments.

A FIFTEENTH CENTURY MORALITY PLAY.

Madge Hovey.

"Good morning, neighbor, art thou, too, on the way to London town to see the great morality play, they call 'Everyman'?"

"Aye, truly; else why should I, an honest miller, leave my work on a Saturday morning and turn my horse towards the city?"

We are in 15th century England. Although it is early in the morning, still two or three hours before dawn, two country travelers are already on their way to London where the morality play, "Everyman," is that day to be presented.

The first speaker is a kindly, simple franklin, well-to-do, if his gorgeous yellow doublet and breeches, his hearty, well-fed appearance, and his sleek, though slowly-plodding farm-horse are not entirely erroneous signs. The other is a prosperous, country miller, rickling and jovial, and on this gala occasion arrayed in a gorgeous costume of vivid scarlet. Self-complacency is written on every feature and, too, a trace of careless indifference. In contrast, his companion is plainly impatient, curious and excited.

Suddenly, as they are nearing a cross-road, hoof beats are heard. The miller grows pale, rears up his horse in terror, then nervously, though with a show of bravado, toys with his stout cudgel. The franklin, however, keeps his head, and rides pluckily forward, sword in hand.

"Come, good friend," he cries, "let's fight the insolent rascals, highwaymen though they be; not for ten shillings would I turn back and miss the play."

But it is not necessary to turn back or to fight, either, for the "rascals" are only Lord Bayne and his retainers, who are likewise pilgrims to London. Immediately, the would-be warrior takes off his cap, and with all reverence for wealth and rank, allows the whole cavalcade to precede him. The miller, now reassured and bland as ever, rejoins his companion, and the two spur on their horses.

After riding for four hours through ill-kept roads, the travellers reach London, the franklin keyed up to the highest pitch of excitement and anticipation, and even the stolid miller showing a slight degree of interest. Having left their horses at a convenient hostelry, they hasten to the square where the play is to be presented, the franklin by tacit agreement, in the lead.

"Prithee, look upon the crowds of people! Didst thou ever see such a vast multitude, or such a brave array of color and splendor? Come, come, let us hasten, thou art ever provokingly slow."

Without waiting for reply, he skillfully leads the way through the throng, and by dint of shoving and jostling, finally secures a position from which he can easily see the stage.

The miller, hot and out of breath, hastens to the side of his friend, whom he finds gazing, in delighted anticipation, at the stage. It is a large, wooden structure, mounted on which, containing two distinct stories, the lower, a dressing room, and the upper, the stage proper. But heaven preserve us. On one side of the platform is a huge pair of dragon jaws, painted bright red, and belching forth smoke and flame. Hell-mouth! Suddenly from this dread aperture, issue horrid shrieks and groanings, terrifying to the last degree.

As soon as the franklin's eye has grasped all the details of the stage, and his ear has grown accustomed to the protracted wailings, he improves the time before the beginning of the performance by silently examining his chance neighbors. Close at hand, stands an Oxford student, wretchedly poor, yet enthusiastically eager to see and to learn. But his learned mien does not impress this ignorant countryman nearly so much as does the bluff, hearty pomposity of a wealthy merchant in gleaming red costume, with jaunty cap, tight-fitting, plain coat, and high, spurred boots. All about stand lords and ladies, elaborately dressed in gay velvets and satins; squires, affable and jolly; lean, poorly-paid parsons; fat monks and friars, with shaven crowns and long, loose brown robes; good-hearted farmers, and anxious tradesmen. There, too, he sees the canny doctor, the learned man of law, the sailor just home from sea, the church clerk, regaled with ale, and the sheriff, hated and feared on account of his unjust extortions from petty land owners. The rascally pardoner is also in evidence, carrying on a thriving business, selling pardons for sins to credulous country folk, and poor, religious parsons. But all in all, it is a good-natured, happy crowd. Prince and pauper, all are alike eager and impatient, all more or less ignorant, credulous, and superstitious.

But hush! The messenger is already delivering the prologue. Our friend, the franklin, nudges his companion, and expectantly fixes his attention upon the stage. And not once throughout the entire performance does his eager interest flag. The carefree Everyman makes his entrance, laughing and singing, his spirits bubbling over in the mere joy of living. Our franklin's spirits, too, have risen buoyantly in response.

But soon his light-heartedness is changed to sympathetic sorrow. For he sees Everyman, a moment before so thoughtless and gay, kneeling before the grim and awful figure of Death, the divine messenger sent to summon him to undertake a tedious, painful journey. Everyman begs, pleads, beseeches to be spared, but Death is inexorable.

And now the wretched Everyman tries to induce the friends of his idle hours, Fellowship, Kindred, Cousin, and Goods, to accompany him on his hazardous pilgrimage, but he receives refusals on every side.

When at length Everyman's last friend, his Good Deeds, in spite of her weakness, promises to aid him in his dire need, the compassionate franklin feels nearly as much gratitude as does Everyman himself. Now the faithful Good Deeds brings in her sister, Knowledge, upon whose advice Everyman appeals to Confession, and gains himself a precious jewel, called Penance.

From this point, the franklin can no longer keep back the tears. The once lithe and happy Everyman is overcome by a mortal weakness as he begins his journey. One by one, his companions forsake him, Beauty, Strength, Discretion, and the Five Wits. Only Good Deeds and Knowledge remain by the side of the helpless pilgrim as he still stumbles forward.

These stanch friends tell Everyman that he has endured no more than all mankind shall endure, and that Good Deeds shall secure his salvation. At last the weary Everyman falls; for him all suffering is ended. A choir of angels is heard singing anthems, as one of them descends to bear away the ransomed soul to its rest.

Intense silence, broken only by stifled sobs, follows Everyman's departure. Simple and unlettered as the audience is, the significance and moral appeal of the allegory have come home with tremendous force. Quiet and subdued, the crowd disperses to the four corners of England. In its midst we catch a glimpse of the miller, for once solemn and awed, and of the franklin, thoughtful, reverent, and filled with the light of understanding.

THE MADEIRA-MANOIRE R. R.

Kenneth Caldwell.

Today, in various parts of the world, great engineering feats are being accomplished. Frequently they are on a large scale and are completed in the face of tremendous difficulties. The Cape Cod canal, the tunnel under the North River, the dam in Arizona, and the Panama Canal, are at present among the most familiar. But there are others also of far reaching importance. Among these is the Madeira-Manoira railroad of South America, which will carry on its roadbed more traffic than the African and Pan American railroads combined.

The necessity for this railroad is evident. Central Bolivia is probably the most productive portion of South America. It contains rich deposits of gold, silver, copper, tin, lead, and mercury. The silver deposits alone have yielded over two billion dollars in twenty years, and still there is no decrease in the output. Besides its minerals the country yields immense crops of tobacco, India rubber, cotton and sugar cane are also abundant. But Bolivia is very unfortunate in lacking any convenient means of exportation. For many years her entire commerce was carried on through the port of Cobija, on the Pacific Coast, which can be reached from interior points only by means of a very hard passage over the Andes. Here the penetrating cold and the rugged and dangerous paths were almost unbearable to those accustomed to the warm climate of the lower altitude. Only very small cargo, transported usually by mules, could be carried over this route. It can be easily seen, moreover, that the importation of heavy articles such as machinery for mining purposes was out of the question. In the early sixties, efforts were made to build narrow-gauge railways over the mountain passes, but these failed.

In later years the exportation of Bolivia's products was attempted by a route on the Madeira, Manoira and Amazon rivers. But this route, though far more feasible than that used in former years had its serious drawbacks. For nearly 200 continuous miles the Madeira and Manoira rivers are broken up by a series of rapids and falls, and because of these the cargoes have to be carried over rough portages. After passing the falls they are reshipped and carried easily 1500 miles to Para. To overcome the difficulties of these portages two great but unsuccessful attempts were made, the first by an English company in 1869, and the second by an American company in 1878. Very little progress was made in either case, only a few miles of track being laid and that very poorly. Both these attempts were abandoned because of deccase and lack of funds.

In the year 1906 the present work of construction was begun by an American-Brazilian company. The projected route, which runs from the cities of Porto Velho in Bolivia and San Antonio in Brazil, is estimated to be 200 miles in length. In addition to other grants, the Brazilian government agreed in 1910, to the construction of a branch line about twenty-four miles long to a point above the Esperanza Falls, which will obviate the necessity of portages around the falls on the Beni River in Bolivia.

To begin the work about two hundred and fifty laborers were hired; most of these were either Portuguese or half-breed Indians, and they make excellent workers. The office men, although comprising three or four nationalities, were as a rule American. The company has numerous steamers on which the most up-to-date and best machinery was at once shipped to Manaos, the headquarters of the company. There no time was lost in setting it up for use. At Manaos, also, the men found portions of the machinery left by former companies. Two locomotives on being repaired were nearly as good as new and aided greatly in the progress of the work. The junior officers prefer work at the front. Here, where their duty is to cut "pickets" or trails through the dense jungle, the overhanging limbs and vines keep the sun from them. In the rear the sun beats down fiercely upon the cleared paths and roadbeds. Owing to the extreme heat many of the laborers cease

First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

(If a holiday the following evening.)

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed made by William G. Fisher to William Howard White, dated February 24th, 1899, and recorded with Middlesex (South District) Deeds, Book 271, Page 570 and by said White assigned to Irving S. Palmer by deed of assignment dated June 26th, 1909, and recorded in said Book 310, Page 231, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, on Monday, the seventeenth day of July, 1911 at three (3) o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and therein described substantially as follows:—

A parcel of land on Wedge Pond in Winchester, Massachusetts, bounded as follows:— Beginning at the Southeast corner of the premises on Wedge Pond at a wire fence; thence running Westerly by said pond and by land formerly of Richardson and Fletcher, fifty-one (51) rods to land formerly of the Proprietors of the Middlesex Canal; thence Northerly by the line of said Canal, to (1) rods to fence between said parcel and land formerly of Andrew Carter; thence Southerly by said fence fourteen (14) rods and twelve (12) links to a stone post; thence Southerly by land formerly of said Carter by the fence eighteen (18) rods to the point of beginning.

Be said measurements more or less. With the free use at all times and for all purposes of an open street or way twenty-five (25) feet wide from the above described premises to Main street.

Also another parcel of land in said Winchester, bounded—On the South six (6) rods by the parcel of land hereinafter below described; on the West by land formerly of Abel Pierce; on the North by land formerly of said Pierce; on the East by land formerly of said Pierce and land formerly of Stephen Carter; and on the East by land formerly of Andrew Carter and the parcel of land first hereinafter described.

Also another parcel of land in said Winchester, a joining the foregoing parcel, and bounded—Southerly by said corner of Gardner Square, Westerly by said corner of Gardner Square, and by the last above described parcel of land; and Easterly by the land first above described, and extending as far Southerly as said first described lot.

All the monuments above mentioned are to be understood as low or formerly in their locations as above referred to.

Being the same premises conveyed to said William G. Fisher by Irving S. Palmer et al., by deed dated December 31st, 1894, and recorded in said Book 229, Page 477, and said premises are to be sold subject to the restrictions and reservations referred to in said deed, so far as are in force and applicable to said premises.

Said premises are to be sold subject also to any unpaid taxes and other public assessments, and to all valid tax titles, if any affecting said premises.

Three Hundred Dollars ($300) of the purchase money to be paid at time and place of sale. Other terms at sale.

For further particulars inquire of Alfred C. Vinton, 19 Main Street, Boston, Mass., or of IRVING S. PALMER, Assignee of said Mortgage.

1911 GRADUATION.

work from eleven to four in the daytime and during moonlight work a greater part of the night. This change of hours has its disadvantages as it exposes the men to the anopheles mosquito during its busy hours at twilight and at sunrise.

Not only is the work itself very difficult, but progress is hindered by yearly attacks of the yellow and malarial fevers which cause many deaths in the working gangs and in the office. In fact, it takes a great deal of courage for a northerner to go to Bolivia and work under such conditions, yet there are many men willing to risk their lives in this undertaking.

Strenuous and dangerous as life here is, it is not all hardships. The men when off duty have plenty to do in the way of recreation. The fishing and hunting are both excellent. Many parties are formed to hunt large turtles which are very common in the rivers. The eggs and turtle meat make delicious food. One day five or six of the office men met a huge snake which they caught and killed. It measured twenty-three feet in length, and when opened was found to contain a whole pig. The smaller snakes are very troublesome. They are often found curled up in the cuts, and the men always take the precaution of pulling back the covers before going to bed.

BASE BALL.

In a ten inning game, on Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon the Winchester Base Ball Club lost to the Bay View team of South Boston 4-3. It was a hitting game all the way through—only nine put-outs out of sixty being made by strike-outs.

Murray made one run for Winchester in the first inning. He got a hit, went to second by M. McCarthy's ball throw to first, stole third, and came home on T. McCarthy's throw over the third baseman's head.

In the third inning Murray hit the ball into the river in deep left. He tried to make a triple out of it but was put out at third. No sooner was he out than Kenney lifted it out a little farther in the same direction. This was good for a triple and he came home on it by a bad throw of Morrissey which went into the crowd back of third base.

It was not until the fifth inning that the visitors made any runs but in this they more than evened up the score. T. McCarthy started off with a single, was advanced to second by Walsh who was safe at first on an error by Harris. M. McCarthy knocked the ball to second where Walsh was put out leaving T. McCarthy on third and M. McCarthy on first. He stole second and both came in on a hit by Sheehan who got to second on holder's choice and came in on a hit by Johnson.

In the seventh inning Winchester evened up the score. Murray got to first on an error by Morrissey stole second, and came in on Kenney's single.

Harris weakened in the tenth inning and by three successive hits the visitors scored the winning run.

The features of the game were the three bagger by Kenney and the star catch by Doherty in right field.

The grand stand was covered with a canopy and well filled with base ball enthusiasts.

Within the last year the men have had a novel experience: that of being in the midst of a revolution. Upon going to work one morning they found the avenida lined with soldiers, and the bullets flying about so wildly that they were forced to return to their quarters and remain there the rest of the day. By good luck none of the company's property was damaged, although, as a rule, buildings which the revolutionists aimed at were unharmed, while neighboring ones were nearly destroyed.

Manaos, although fifteen hundred miles down the Amazon, and in the very heart of the jungle, is now a thoroughly up-to-date city. The streets are all paved and lighted with large arc lamps. There is an electric car line which runs from the heart of the city to its outskirts. A new theatre has been built even more magnificent than many of ours in the United States. The government buildings are large and costly, many being built of marble.

According to recent accounts, the railroad is now progressing rapidly. Up to November, 1910, track had been laid for about one hundred miles, and the railway was being provisionally operated for about ninety miles. The total force at work is now estimated at twenty-five hundred. The last report, however, stated that the office work was being seriously hindered by the fever and the beriberi, a very troublesome itch. Nevertheless, in spite of all obstacles and delays, the engineers figure on completing the railway in August, 1912.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

It has been years since B. F. Keith's Theatre has had a summer attraction that could compare with "Sweet By Summer Breezes," the new summer offering now running at that playhouse. "The Meistersingers," composed of the Harvard, Southport, and Weber Male Quartettes, and Ona, the human elf, who are the most popular features of the new production, have proved a decided innovation in the amusement line. The splendid singing of "The Meistersingers" has already become the talk of Boston. Ona, the cute little Brownie, who has become tremendously popular among the children, will also appear in her quaint "Brownie dance." "The Meistersingers" will be a feature of an unusually strong bill, chief among the novelties being the Four Regals, a remarkable troupe of European strong men who appear in a spectacular scenic production entitled "The Armorer's." Johnny Johnston, the Scotch entertainer, The Langdons in "A Night On The Boulevard," Lillian Ashlev, the dainty singing comedienne; and Pollard, a clever comedy juggler, will also appear. Besides several features yet to be announced.

Winchester received its first glimpse of a flying machine on the afternoon of the 17th, when Earl Ovington passed over the town in his Blériot monoplane. The aviator came from Waltham, passed up the Mystic lakes and over the east side hills. He was making good time and was seen by almost everyone who chanced to stay in town over the holiday. According to the report of his flight he went as far north as Lowell, returning by way of Salem and Lynn to Boston, and thence to Waltham. On Mystic lake the noise of his motor could be plainly heard, although he was flying at a considerable height.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Firemen's Relief Association was held at the centre engine house on Tuesday evening. The new officers elected are as follows: President, David H. NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

Winchester was visited by a regular hurricane on Tuesday afternoon. Almost without any warning whatever the storm broke over the town at five-thirty, accompanied by volumes of hail, rain and a heavy wind. Many persons were caught by the down-pour, and those who were so unfortunate were badly lashed by the giant hail stones. Many persons expressed their opinion that the storm was one of the worst they ever saw in this town. Just after the height of the storm had passed a bolt of lightning struck a house on Thompson Street, running from a drain pipe across the roof to the chimney, ripping up the shingles during its course. No one was injured and little damage done, although the interior of the house was filled with sulphur. The storm did considerable damage in most of the surrounding towns.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Rogers of Calumet road are at their summer home at Allerton.

At "The Vines," 6 LAGRANGE street, there is on exhibition a small group of paintings by Mr. Edward Austin Page. They are pictures of much distinction and charm and among them is the beautiful painting "A Calm Sea," for which he received the gold medal in a recent exhibition and which has been purchased by Mr. Edwin Gunn, for his house, "The Terrace-oaks." Mr. Page has shown pictures for some years at the Boston Art Club, in many cities and at Doll & Richards. Some of his finest work is owned in New York. Winchester people will recall one of his early pictures which hangs on the walls of the Calumet Club, that was presented upon the occasion of its opening.

FISHING IN RESERVOIRS.

Town so Voted at Town Meeting Monday Evening.

Symmes Road Will Remain—Special Committee on Grade Crossing.

The final session of the special town meeting was held Tuesday evening, there being a large attendance. The ladies continued to show their interest in town affairs by filling the gallery assigned to them. The business transacted was important, and several attempts were made to reconsider articles previously acted upon, but the citizens were determined to abide by the previous action. This was particularly so in the attempt made to call up the article relating to a new fire station. It looks now as if the principal hindrance to building the station, was the grade crossing, and if allowed to continue as an obstacle, would prevent final action for many months. In the meantime the permanent firemen will be obliged to live in a house, which, if wanted by private citizens, would not be allowed by the Board of Health. From information gleaned at the meeting the question of abolishing the grade crossing is in practically the condition that it was at the time of commencing proceedings, almost six years ago. It was a mistake not to have given the committee appointed to consider all the plans presented the $500 asked for in the vote to secure an expert engineer to study the entire situation and prepare a plan and specifications. As it is now, it looks as if the final plan would be the creation of the engineers of the railroad. So it is surmised that the town will be compelled to receive what is given it.

Fishing in the reservoirs has again received favorable consideration, under suitable restrictions. This measure was back and forth from year to year, and if past action is a criterion, adverse measures may again be taken later. Altogether, it was a profitable and interesting meeting.

Moderator Ives called the meeting to order, and the first business was on motion of Mr. John H. Carter, to take up article two—which related to the rules governing the meeting adopted at the first session. He said that the section limiting debate to five minutes, unless permission was given by the meeting for further time, should be knocked out. It was too arbitrary and contrary to intent of the New England town meeting, where the fullest discussion should be permitted.

Mr. Ralph E. Joslin opposed taking up the article, which question, he said, been fully thrashed out at the first meeting.

Mr. W. L. Tuck favored Mr. Carter's motion. The vote was against taking up the article.

Grade Crossing.

Previous to adjournment of the last meeting Mr. Edward I. Braddock was speaking on his motion under article 19, regarding a grade crossing plan that he had brought forward. This motion was laid on the table, and a motion was made Tuesday evening to bring it again before the meeting. This was opposed, but on a rising vote of 93 to 85, it was decided to take Mr. Braddock's motion from the table. His motion was as follows:

Voted, that a committee of three be appointed from the floor to appoint a committee of five to further examine into the grade crossing question at the centre of the town, to carefully examine all plans submitted to them, to have plans and surveys made of such routes as they deem advisable, to ascertain the cost of construction, including land damages, and report at a future town meeting.

On speaking on his motion, Mr. Braddock said that it was for the purpose of considering all plans to see if something could not be evolved that would meet with the approval of all the citizens. An expert engineer should be employed to study the entire situation, prepare a plan and make a report to the town, which had not been done during the entire controversy. The town is tired of theories, it now wants facts, so as to act intelligently and know what the abolition of the crossing will cost to a dollar.

Mr. W. L. Tuck said that the time was coming when cities and towns would not be called upon to pay a cent for this work, and a measure was now before the legislature to this effect.

Town Counsel Joslin said that under the new management of the steam railroad a situation had arisen that would cause delay in settling the grade crossing question, so that he saw no objection to the appointment of the committee. The railroad is to create a board whose duties will be to study all the crossing problems on the entire systems. This board would not be ready to take up our situation until the late autumn or fall, when, no doubt it would present some scheme for acceptance by the town. So that on account of this situation no time would be lost by the appointment of a committee. It is well to be sure that we are right before going ahead.

Mr. J. H. Carter moved an amendment to Mr. Braddock's motion, that articles 19, 20 and 21, all relating to grade crossing, be referred to the Selectmen to investigate and report to the town.

Mr. N. H. Seeley believed that greater headway could be made by a special committee.

Mr. J. A. Laraway said that the Selectmen now have all the work that they can do, and that this burden should not be imposed upon them unless they were willing to assume it.

Upon putting Mr. Carter's motion to a vote it was doubted, and a rising vote resulted in a tie—25 for and against. The Moderator declining to break the tie, Mr. Carter's motion was declared lost.

Mr. Braddock's motion was then carried, and he then named as the committee of three who are to select the committee of five, Messrs. Preston Pond, Lewis Parkhurst and Arthur H. Russell.

The question then came up of appropriating $500 for the use of the committee in securing the services of an expert engineer to study the situation, make a plan and report to the town later.

This was opposed by Mr. Carter, who claimed that already there had been too many committees and plans. Therefore nothing would be accomplished in the end by voting this money. The New Haven was long on promises and short on results.

Mr. Laraway thought that as the town had now acquired the Whitney property that the best thing to do would be to put the tracks of the steam road underground, as the lowering of the ponds would permit of this being done.

On a rising vote of 169 to 88, the meeting refused to appropriate the $500 asked for.

Mr. Joslin then offered a motion, which was carried, that the subject matter of articles 20 and 21, relating to the crossing, be referred to the same committee.

Fishing in Reservoirs.

Mr. A. E. Whitney offered the following vote which was passed with much enthusiasm:

That the Massachusetts State Board of Health is hereby requested to formulate such rules and regulations to govern fishing by citizens of Winchester in the Winchester reservoirs as may best insure the purity of the water supply; said rules and regulations to be enforced under the direction of the Winchester Water and Sewer Board.

Mr. Whitney was the only speaker in favor of his motion, Mr. Arthur H. Russell, in opposition, moving indefinite postponement of the subject after Mr. Whitney closed, which motion was voted down. Mr. Whitney spoke very clearly and forcibly on the subject and the result was a decisive vote in favor of healthful, closely restricted fishing in the Winchester reservoirs. Mr. Whitney said in part that fishing had been allowed in the reservoirs by the town for thirty years or more without any complaint whatever of injury to the water. That the State Board of Health examined the water every two months during this time and knew and now knows all about its sanitary condition. He said he applied to the Water Board for a permit to fish within Winchester territory with an artificial fly, not a squirming worm or a greasy piece of pork, but he was refused a right to fish even in this cleanly fashion although he was a state officer, a Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner, serving without pay. Mr. Whitney claimed that the Water Board had not obeyed the town in stopping all fishing, the town never voting for such arbitrary action. The unexplained action of the Water Board in allowing indiscriminate and free fishing for everybody a few years ago was scored by the speaker. The result was that the fishermen and all good citizens voted in the 1904 town meeting to ask the State Board of Health to take charge of the sanitary condition of the reservoirs, which request that board at once complied with. Fishing was not forbidden by the State Board but it was allowed and its authority to control fishing was "delegated" to the Winchester Water Board "to grant and withhold permits to fish" to the proper persons. As the town had previously voted to fish and the State Board allowed it, the Water Board in persistently declining to do anything but "withhold" fishing permits was not carrying out the wish and will of the town in the matter at the present time as they should "grant" some fishing permits also. The result of absolutely forbidding fishing of any kind is seen in the reservoirs today where the big over-grown black bass are killing off all the small fish which feed entirely on vegetable matter injurious to the water. The big fish survive as a nuisance when they should be caught out. Mr. Whitney clearly stated that the water works men are continually taking out dead fish from the reservoirs at this season of the year with a rake which have been killed by the black bass. Many of them are decomposed before taken out and many sink to the bottom are never caught on a rake or anything else and add a decided fish flavor to our drinking water. Not a word of this kind of fishing has ever been reported by the Water Board to the town, but it has been going on year after year. The Chairman of the State Fish and Game Commission, Mr. George W. Field, informed the speaker that the town would sometime be obliged to take out all the large black bass if it wished to preserve the purity of its water supply. Mr. Field is an authority in such matters and he allowed Mr. Whitney to quote him and ask the meeting which was the better way, to catch out the large, live fish with hook and line or allow them to kill each other and all rot in the water excepting those fished out partly decomposed by a rake in the hands of a water works employee. Mr. Whitney claimed the present practice of the Water Board did not prevent fishing in the two hundred acres of our reservoirs. Fishing is continually going on there by a few people who do not respect the edict of the Water Board. He personally knew of four persons fishing there last week. Most respectable citizens who would like to fish in a gentlemanly way and who do not want to go to court over the matter are thus barred out from such fishing as they would like and such fishing as would benefit the water, not harm it. Salem, Beverly and many other towns and cities were referred to by Mr. Whitney as municipalities who had applied to the State Board of Health for just such rules and regulations as his motion called for. He claimed that the Water Board would not call for such rules or ask for a conference on the subject with the State Board and the only way to bring about a desirable action was to pass the vote presented to the meeting. It was perfectly safe to leave the matter of making sanitary rules governing fishing in the reservoirs, which the town has heretofore voted for, in the hands of the State Board just as many other Massachusetts towns had done during the past few years.

Mr. Whitney spoke over the allowed limit but was granted more time and was listened to with marked attention. His grasp of the subject and his historical knowledge of the whole matter stood him in good stead. No reply whatever was made to his assertion. The vote which followed the debate was strongly in favor of Mr. Whitney's motion.

Mr. A. H. Russell moved indefinite postponement, saying that the people were tired of so much of this question. His motion was lost.

FROST—LOCHMAN.

Miss Anna P. Lochman and Mr. Henry A. Frost both of Cambridge, were united in marriage at the Unitarian Church on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock by Rev. Joel Metcalf, the pastor.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. Joel Metcalf and of Mr. George H. Lochman. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about seventy-five relatives of the couple. They were attended by Miss Emma Hayden of Cambridge, maid of honor, and Dr. Richard Miller of Fitchburg, groomsmen. The church was attractively decorated with palms, asparagus ferns, festoons of mountain laurel and bunches of marguerites.

The bride was dressed in white embroidered tulle, trimmed with duchess lace and wore a large white hat with white feathers to match. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a dress of yellow chiffon over yellow satin and carried yellow marguerites. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Myron A. Lochman of New Rochelle, N. Y.

A reception at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Metcalf, No. 3 Crescent road, followed the ceremony, the couple being assisted in receiving by Rev. and Mrs. Metcalf and Mr. and Mrs. Frost of Fitchburg, the groom's parents. The ushers or both ceremony and reception were Mr. William H. Lochman of Somerville and Mr. Beebe of Cambridge. Following their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Frost will reside in Cambridge, Mr. Frost being a professor in the architectural department at Harvard College.

Miss Dorothy Kerrison and Miss Eleanor Barta are at Camp Wyonegonic, Bridgeton, Me. They will be joined next week by Miss Charlotte Stone, Miss Miriam Foster and Miss Constance Lane of this town and Miss Margaret Walker of Providence.

FAVORS PUTTING TRACKS IN SUBWAY.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I, with doubtless many others, was interested in "The Latest Plan for eliminating the Grade Crossing" as shown in last week's STAR and while the plan is in some ways ingenious yet it would not seem to convenience the people doing business, or residing southeast of the square, while the disfigurement of the town by the proposed cement superstructure and the fact that the "Latest Plan" does nothing towards the removal of the B. & M. tracks in the square, puts the idea, orally, on a par with Lynn's late "Discarded Plan."

Those hideous cement structures at Lynn, so violated the canons of good taste and civic beauty that the people with one accord voted them positively criminal, a judgement in which even Mr. Mellen fully concurred; upon investigating the matter after his accession to power in B. & M. affairs. And now, after seeking a good deal of money, the proper treatment for relief from the grade crossing evil in the "Shoe City" is by common consent wisely found, in track depression.

It appears to me that the only difference between Lynn's and Winchester's grade-crossing-elimination problems, is one of degree.

Now let us glance for a moment at Salem where for over 40 years to my knowledge the trains have been running a part of their way under the city and another part of their way in an open top valled in subway.

Why not apply these lessons to our own situation and first of all absolutely refuse to harbor any scheme that promises either disfigurement of the town or merely temporary relief.

In these days of waterproof-cement—construction of both subways and tunnels and with the abundance of this building material within our borders, is there any conceivable engineering or financial reason why the B. & M. tracks should be allowed at or above grade through the centre of this town.

Let us consider the B. & M. tracks (going southward through the village). I can imagine no fundamental reason why beginning prior to the point where the Woburn Branch and Southern division converge, these tracks cannot begin to depress and continue to depress until a subway level is reached by the time the tracks have reached the northwest corner of Main street and the Square.

To this point the subway with open top (as down the incline from North station) to the Emergency Hospital at Boston), thence under Winchester Square just as the construction is under the city square of Salem, but immediately the square is passed the subway to have an open top, void of any roof from the southeast corner of the square and Main street until Walnut street is reached. Here the construction would comprehend Walnut street crossing above the tracks, a consummation devoutly to be wished.

The tracks should continue in the subway level to just beyond Winchester station when they would begin to incline and attain the surface again at a point opposite the Manchester Field. Winchester station should be treated to a cemented basement with train floor at track level, with cement platform at east side of tracks. Easy "Government-tread" stairways to and from the present station ticket floor, and from the east platform to Walnut street. Thus Winchester square would be made safe for vehicles, trolley cars and pedestrians, and the square would regain its natural proportions and even beauty—unmarred by a plurality of gates and flag shanties, which might well be replaced with a slightly shaft dedicated to the Town's fallen heroes.

Moreover a much desired thoroughfare would be made of Walnut street from Church street to the Boulevard and Unitarian Church, while danger from trains through the heart of Winchester would be entirely eliminated, and the twin nuisances, of noise and flying dirt, reduced to the minimums.

Edward L. Burwell,
132 Forest street.

MRS. JOSEPH LARRIVEE.

Mrs. Mary C. Larrivee, aged 75 years, wife of Joseph Larrivee of Blind Bridge street, died at her home on Wednesday. She had been in poor health for a considerable time. In addition to her husband she leaves two sons, Joseph and Xavier.

The funeral services will be held this Friday morning at 9.15 o'clock at St. Mary's Church. The burial will be at Calvary cemetery, Montvale.

MRS. MARY J. HAMBLETT.

Mrs. Mary Jane Hamblett, aged 66 years, died suddenly of heart failure on Sunday last at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur W. Dean of Oxford street. The funeral services were held at her late home at Nashua, N. H., on Tuesday afternoon, the interment being at that city.

DANFORTH—HILTON.

Miss Bernice Snow Hilton and Mr. Gordon Ribblet Danforth of Somerville were united in marriage on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hilton of No. 3 Stratford road. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock, in the presence of over one hundred guests, by Rev. D. Augustine Newton, pastor of the Reading Congregational Church.

The residence was decorated for the wedding with asparagus fern, laurel, palms and bay trees. The only flowers used were Kilarney roses, which were displayed profusely about the rooms and the ceremony was performed in front of a curtain of asparagus fern and roses, making a fitting and attractive background.

The bride was dressed in ivory satin with pearl passamenterie trimming. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and her veil was caught with a spray of the same flower. Miss Beatrice Hazlett of Detroit was maid of honor. She wore a dress of white marquisette over pink satin and carried pink Kilarney roses. Mr. Frank Strank of Brookline was best man. The couple were attended by Miss Helen Snow of Somerville, the little flower girl, who wore a white embroidered robe over pink, and carried a basket of pink Kilarney roses.

The wedding party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by a stringed orchestra and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Following the ceremony a reception was held until ten o'clock, attended by about two hundred. The couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Hilton and Mr. and Mrs. George R. Danforth of Somerville, the parents of the bride and groom. The ushers for the ceremony and reception were Dr. Roy Given of Somerville, Mr. Norman Kennard and Mr. Albert Waldron of Somerville and Mr. Kenneth and Mr. Roy L. Hilton, brothers of the bride.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Danforth will reside at No. 120 Powder House Boulevard, Somerville.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S ASSEMBLY ROOM.

The Executive Committee in charge of the movement to establish an Assembly Room for the use of the young people of Winchester, held a meeting in Rev. Mr. Hodgdon's study in the Congregational Church yesterday morning.

The general plan and scope of the movement was briefly set forth and ways and means for its successful carrying out were fully discussed. The financing of the movement was discussed at great length and a comprehensive plan which will be set forth in detail in next week's STAR was adopted. The Committee already has the nucleus of a fund in the proceeds from the entertainment given by Miss Kellogg at the Sanborn residence two weeks ago. Another entertainment will be given sometime in the autumn for the benefit of the fund under the direction of Mr. Sylvester Taylor and it is thought that certain funds that have been raised for philanthropic and educational purposes in Winchester which are now idle may be made available for the Assembly Room when its importance is fully understood.

The Assembly Room is neither a Socialistic movement, a charity nor a bid. Briefly it is to serve as a substitute for the street corner, the drug store and the town library as a meeting place for young people who don't know what to do with themselves evenings in the winter and who naturally crave some amusement or at least occupation during their leisure hours. The desire for social intercourse sends them into the streets and without a recognized meeting place they are apt to drift hither and yon with results that if they are not positively detrimental are at least not beneficial.

The Assembly Room will be a recognized meeting place for social chat and intercourse with each other; athletic games and exercises will be provided for those who enjoy them; table games and reading matter will be available for those who prefer quieter amusements, and entertainments if desired will be organized in which the boys and the girls can take part for the amusement of themselves as well as their companions.

It is an educational movement in the right direction and should have the support of every public spirited citizen of the community.

MRS. HARRIET E. B. FREETHY

Mrs. Harriet Elizabeth Blanche Freethy, wife of Mr. William R. Freethy, formerly a well known resident of this town, residing now at Brookline, died on Wednesday at her summer home at Alherton. She was 64 years of age. Besides her husband she leaves two sons and four daughters.

The funeral services will be held on Saturday, July 1st, from the residence, No. 44 Harrison street, Brookline, at 2 p.m.

IMPORTANT WINCHESTER TRANSACTION.

A large sale of vacant land in Winchester has just been consummated through the office of the Edward T. Harrington Co., conveying from Nettie M. Hight 165,359 square feet of land situated on Swan avenue near Myopia Hill, having a street frontage of 398 feet and being about that distance from Cambridge street, one of the most sightly and attractive tracts of land, overlooking as it does the Mystic Valley, lakes and all the attractions that this beautiful suburb presents. The estate was purchased by William Stewart Forbes.

WALSH—DOHERTY.

Miss Mary Agnes Doherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Doherty of 14 Kendall street and John Joseph Walsh son of Thomas Walsh of 31 Franklin street, Arlington, were married Wednesday evening at the rectory of St. Mary's Church by the Rev. Francis E. Rogers. The bridesmaids were Margaret and Helen Doherty, sisters of the bride. The best man was Edward Walsh of Arlington, a brother of the groom. The bride was gowned in brides' satin with Irish point lace and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses. The bridesmaids wore white messaline and carried shower bouquets of pink roses. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The ushers were Frank Miller of Charlestown, Christian Christensen of Revere, William Doherty of Woburn and Frank Rogers. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Guests were present from Arlington, Woburn, Roslindale, Revere, Charlestown, Beverly and Winchester. After an extended wedding trip to Maine Mr. and Mrs. Walsh will reside at Pearl street, Newton.

MRS. JOSIAH L. SMITH.

Mrs. Frances Louisa Smith, widow of the late Josiah L. Smith, died at the home of her son, Wilmer E., of Ridge street, on Monday. She was 77 years of age.

Mrs. Smith was born in Winchester, where she spent her life, being the daughter of Jonathan and Elizabeth (Russell) Locke. She had been a sufferer for many years and had failed rapidly since the death of her husband last March. She leaves two sons, Wilmer E. and Lester F.

The funeral services were held from the residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, conducted by Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, pastor of the First Congregational Church. The burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

The fire engineers will remove the keys from the fire alarm boxes about town and place them in nearby private houses from July 3rd to 5th. Residents should take pains to notice where the key to their box is placed. Signs are posted on each box giving the location of the key.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin N. Lovering and daughter, Miss Ethel, are at their summer home at Hancock, N. H.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

In the course of a conversation on the subject of woman's rights a prominent gentleman said that woman's place is the home. Where, The Spectator would like to ask, is the man's place? It takes two to make a home just as it does to make a quarrel. It is a very one-sided home where the woman remains while the man roams. The true philosophy of life is in knowing when to go out and when to return on the part of the party of the first part and upon the party of the second part. A right denied or withheld is in the nature of stolen goods. Taking advantage of an element in political economy is like taking the "coppers from a dead man's eyes." Equity is the keystone to political honesty. To be inequitable is to be unfair and over the verge of dishonesty. Somebody, or a lot of somebodies, is taking advantage of our women and are utilizing the lack of suffrage to their best or his material benefit. Woman is exploited easier, when politically helpless than she would be with the ballot, and therein is found the key to the whole situation. There are active exploiters of women and there are passive ones. Passive exploiters are the more numerous, therefore, the most harmful. The Spectator cannot see where there is much chivalry in denying the woman the ballot. There is not one iota of bravery in it. There is little to be proud of in it. If woman was unrestricted in her rights, and was then exalted in political virtue—then and then only would men have reason to be proud of achievements. As it is, political affairs are not such resplendent things that women bow to men as the perfection of law craft, but rather scorn them as the projectors of law graft.

A gentleman who not long ago returned from a tour of the world informs The Spectator that he hopes the work of preparing a more powerful navy by the building of additional battleships will not suffer any abatement. This gentleman spent a period in Japan and he closely watched the maneuvers of the troops on the drill grounds and the promptness and efficiency with which the various movements are executed, and the thorough discipline of the army, he informs The Spectator that in all this strenuous practice of military tactics the Japanese have constantly in view above other objects the coming conflict with the United States. "In the light of the history of the past it is not improbable that in the course of time, when they have reached a degree of naval and military strength to insure them with a reasonable hope of success. China and Japan, forming an alliance, may seek a conflict with this opulent nation to revenge their real or fancied injuries and compel a fuller recognition of their equality," this gentleman points out to The Spectator. "It is therefore imperative that this country should continue her military and naval development that no weakness on her part should invite an attack. The Prince of Peace himself has recognized the wisdom of thorough preparation in the statement. "When a strong man armed keepeth his peace his goods are in peace, but when a stronger than he shall come upon him and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armor wherein he trusted and divideth his spoils." A few millions spent annually for battleships as a precaution against war is a small outlay compared with the thousands of millions that would have to be expended in the event of war. And not alone from the Far East is there the possibility of conflict."

A thinking gentleman with whom The Spectator frequently spends very profitable periods, the other day called attention to the necessity of men and women mingling for the betterment of humanity and for their own upliftment. He pointed out to The Spectator that at the present time there is a marked antagonism between the sexes, due to economic conditions and the emancipation of women, and that the consequences will be serious indeed if the race does not recognize the fundamental principles of life. This gentleman makes a strong plea for a liberal education of young girls, that they may be prepared for the responsibilities of married life. He also calls attention to the fact that it is an outrage to relegate matured women, between 50 and 75 years of age, to only women's clubs and not accept their ideas accumulated through years of experience.

One day recently a Jewish gentleman arrived in Winchester and in endeavoring to dispose of his wares from door to door was humiliated several times because he was a Jew. Now, in the opinion of The Spectator the worst blot on Christian history has been the persecution of the Jew. The other day The Spectator discussed this subject of the Jew with a prominent clergyman and he called attention to one excuse offered, namely, that the Jews crucified Christ. Just suppose that he did, would it be just to hold the modern Jew responsible for a crime which his fathers committed before he was born? But the Jewish race did not crucify the Christ. It there were 2,000,000 Jews living at the time of Christ, how many of them must have gathered in the early morning before the judgment hall of Pilate and cried "Crucify him?" Not a million, nor a hundred thousand, nor ten thousand, or even a thousand—a mere handful of the Jewish race did the work. It is true that the rulers of the Jews were leaders in the movement. But are we to hold a race responsible for what a little political clique did? Certain it is that as a citizen of Winchester The Spectator should hold it as unreasonable if his children should be hounded because a political ring in his day might be grating in the town house. The Jew has been hated because some even here in Winchester have supposed that these people were clamish and grasping. Well, who made the modern Jew what he is but misguided Christians? For 2000 years they have been hounded, ostracised and segregated him, compelling him to get a living by any possible means.

Physical cruelty is not the only kind to which the wife may subject the husband or the husband subject the wife. The Spectator might cite many other varieties of which the married woman or man may be made the victim. Some of these pass current in the law courts but many do not, though almost all of them may be productive of more real suffering than would be occasioned by physical assault. One of the chief offenders of this class is the man who virtually reduces his wife to a condition of slavery through selfish management of the family finances.

Brutality of this sort is often taken as a matter of course. There is mental, but seldom any verbal, protest on the part of the suffering victim. A man may support his family well, keeping always within the law, and yet publicly humiliate his wife by the manner in which he performs his duty to her. So may the husband act the part of the brute in ignoring his wife socially, treating her as if she were a part of the furniture of the home. Women probably complain of their husbands on all other grounds less frequently than on this one. The man who refuses to recognize his wife's right to a voice in the management of family social affairs and in the question of how the evenings shall be spent may be just as cruel as the often less-refined husband who uses his fists in asserting his mastery. And then, on the other side, there is the nagging woman, the woman who forever talks, the woman who criticizes her husband when company is present, the woman who refuses to try to be economical, the woman who must be pried out of bed in the morning and a half hundred other women who make no effort to curb their tempers or to attune themselves to harmonize with life conditions. Cruelty of this nature is not rare; there are few families here or elsewhere in which it has not or does not at sometime manifest itself. And often it is infinitely more brutal than common physical violence. There is cruelty of word and attitude as well as cruelty of fist.

DID YOU EAT YOUR SHARE?

Did you eat three dozen bananas last year? If you did not you did not get your share. Over 40,000,000 bunches, or more than 3,000,000,000, bananas were imported into the United States in 1910. The immensity of this shipment can be more readily grasped by the statement that it would cover an area 20 feet wide, reaching from New York to San Francisco, or, placed end to end, would extend thirteen times around the earth at the Equator. The "slip" in the peels would launch the ships of the world. The wholesome value of the 1910 importation, at the point of export, was over $12,500,000 while in all probability the consuming public of the United States expended over $35,000,000 for this delectable fruit.

During the past ten years the number of bananas consumed in the United States has more than doubled, and the increased tropical acreage under cultivation assures even more startling figures for the next decade. Many European countries are importing large quantities of bananas; last year Great Britain consumed over $8,000,000 worth, Germany, over $1,000,000 and France $5,000,000.

HONORS TO A WINCHESTER MAN.

Mr. Herbert W. Kelley, Harvard 1911, of this town, left for England last Friday night as a member of the American college track team chosen from Yale and Harvard men. The American team will compete with a team chosen from the English University, Oxford and Cambridge. The selection of Kelley to run the quarter mile is a fitting reward for one who has made a remarkable record during his college course. A consistent performer, Kelley has shown his ability in both dual and intercollegiate meets. Credit is also due to Kelley not only for his remarkable work in athletics but also for his academic work which shows that it is not necessary for the one to interfere with the other.

MUSICALE.

The pupils of Miss Sewall gave a most enjoyable piano-recital at her residence on Saturday evening, June the twenty-fourth. The programme included brilliant selections from the best classical composers which were executed in a skillful manner. One of the interesting features of the evening was the two piano compositions showing careful study in ensemble playing. Miss Sewall is to be congratulated on the success of her year's work.

A VICTORY.

The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club won its sixth game by defeating the Castle Camelot K. O. K. A. 3192 base ball nine, by a score of 21 to 18. It was a batting test, thirty-six hits being made off the three pitchers. Individual batting stars for Winchester Highlands were Murphy, Penabagan and McElhinney. Penabagan's home run went far over the left fielder's head and rolled down Forest street. For the opponents, Brodwick, McDonald, Little and Wilson excelled.

With the score against them 9-5, the home team went to bat, and by five singles and three doubles, scored eleven runs.

FISHING IN RESERVOIRS.

Town Hall Heating.

Selectman Belcher, then moved to take up article 18, relating to appropriating $3500 for the purpose of installing a new heating apparatus for the Town Hall. The meeting refused to take up the article.

Refused to Instruct.

On motion of Town Auditor Wm. H. Herrick article 12 was taken up. It was "To see if the town will pass a vote that no money heretofore or hereafter appropriated by it shall be expended by any town committee or board of town officers to defray either wholly or in part expenses contracted in attending conventions or meetings of any kind held outside the limits of the town, without a vote previously passed by the town authorizing such expenditure."

Mr. Herrick desired an expression of opinion from the citizens on this article as he said that money was being expended by different boards in sending representatives to meetings and conventions.

Mr. Whitney believed that this motion was in the right direction and was similar to one offered by him and passed by the meeting some years ago. Those persons who attended conventions should pay their own expenses, he believed.

Mr. William D. Richards was strongly opposed to the passage of the motion. The town gets all the benefits from the attendance of its representatives in new and up-to-date methods of doing business. The Supt. of Schools, Supt. of Streets, Librarian, Board of Health are to be credited for their desire to keep in touch with affairs that concern their particular line and as a result the town benefits and profits. He moved to leave the matter with the heads of those departments.

Mr. M. B. May of the School Board, said that he had a list of fifteen towns that pay the expenses of their representatives to conventions. When the Supt. of Schools attended an educational convention in Indianapolis last year the Board paid two-thirds of the expense and the Superintendent the balance. It was money well expended, Mr. Laraway also spoke in favor.

Mr. Herrick's motion was lost, the understanding being that the different departments decide the question for themselves.

Central Fire Station.

Mr. Carter moved to take up article eight which related to the vote passed at a previous meeting that the town build and equip a central fire station. Mr. Carter said that this matter had been left in a peculiar situation as the town had refused to appropriate money for the same. His desire was apparently, to reconsider this vote.

Mr. J. H. Holland moved to amend by taking up article ten, which was to appropriate $50,000 for land and building the station. He believed that as the town had already voted to build money should be appropriated.

Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, of the committee on new central fire station, thought it but fair and just now that the grade crossing question was in the far distance, that the station should be built now as an act of justice to the firemen and the committee.

Mr. Holland's motion was lost by the vote of 122 to 89, after which Mr. Carter's motion to take up article eight was lost.

Whitney Mill Property.

Mr. Carter moved to take up article six which related to the vote passed at the first meeting authorizing the purchase of the Whitney mill property for park purposes. He claimed that the property was not taken properly, and if any citizen so desired could secure an injunction restraining the town from putting the vote into effect. It was simply a subterfuge and he did not believe in doing things illegally.

Town Counsel Joslin hoped that the meeting would not again take up the article. There was no subterfuge resorted to, and as to the legality of the vote there was plenty of time to pass upon that question. Any action that might be taken now might discredit and interfere with the successful issue of the project.

Mr. Carter then withdrew his motion.

Saturday Half Holiday.

Mr. Tuck moved to again take up article fourteen relating to half holidays on Saturdays for town employees, which was voted down at a previous meeting. The meeting refused further consideration.

Sidewalk Construction.

On motion of Selectman Boutwell article 22 was taken up and passed. It was:

"To see if the town will authorize the auditor to transfer to Highways and Bridges account all sums received by the town in payment of assessments for sidewalk construction and authorized the Selectmen to expend the sums so received and transferred for maintenance of ways and bridges, in addition to the sum heretofore appropriated for this purpose."

In explanation, Mr. Boutwell said that the demand for granolithic sidewalks was so great from all parts of the town, that it was necessary to have additional money to meet the requests, for which applicants were willing to pay their share.

Greater Boston.

Mr. Tuck offered a motion that a committee be appointed to confer with the Chamber of Commerce in regard to the Greater Boston annexation scheme. Lost.

Symmes Road.

A motion was made under article 25 to change the name of Symmes road to Ogden avenue. It will be remembered that at the March meeting it was voted to call the street Symmes road, and at that time there was considerable feeling aroused on both sides.

After again threshing out the matter, and permitting Mr. Ogden to speak on the subject, the motion was indefinitely postponed by the vote of 137 to 63.

Water for Mr. Edwards.

Mr. Alfred J. Edwards of the Hill district, offered the following motion which was carried:

"That the west side high service water supply system be entered northerly to the house of Alfred J. Edwards and to the premises of other near-by citizens by the same methods and on the same terms as the said water supply was originally introduced and is now being furnished to other citizens from the local high service system installed in 1907 for the equal benefit of all water takers living in the vicinity of the west side high service plant; the expense of said extension to be taken from the amount appropriated for water supply construction."

Mr. Edwards, spoke strongly in favor of his motion, claiming that the terms offered by the Water Board were beyond his reach, and that to get the water to his house from the low service would be practically prohibitive. He thought that he should be supplied from the high service the same as others were.

In speaking on Mr. Edwards' motion, Mr. Whitney called attention to the town records when the West Side high service system was installed by the town, the Water Board then stating that the system should be put in so as to supply all water takers in the vicinity of the reservoir. To do this the Board recommended an expenditure of $16,000, which was voted. Mr. Edwards' houses were the same distance from the reservoir as Mr. McCall's and Mr. Elder's and Mr. Edwards should receive the same treatment as regards a water supply as all others in the vicinity had received from the town. It was only just on the part of the town to serve all its citizens alike in sharing public benefits and that is just what the motion of Mr. Edwards calls for. There were others also who would share in the benefits of the proposed extension of the high service water supply besides Mr. Edwards and the motion ought to pass.

The meeting then dissolved.

TO LEGALIZE ACCEPTANCE OF PARK ACT.

It has been discovered that the park act adopted by the town, June 15, 1893, was not legally accomplished. The acceptance of the act required that it be done at a town meeting of which seven days' notice be given. Through oversight action was taken on acceptance at a meeting where but four days' notice was given. The Legislature has been petitioned to confirm past proceedings relative to laying out of public parks by the town, and unquestionably that body will grant the request.

The bill before the Legislature is as follows:

Petition of James P. Boutwell and others, selectmen, for legislation to confirm certain proceedings of the town of Winchester relative to the laying out of public parks, report the accompanying bill.

An act to confirm certain proceedings of the town of Winchester relative to the laying out of public parks.

Section 1. The acceptance by the town of Winchester of chapter one hundred and fifty-four of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and eighty-two entitled "An act authorizing towns and cities to lay out public parks within their limits," and acts in amendment thereof, at a town meeting held the fifteenth day of June in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three, shall not be invalid by reason of the fact that the warrant calling said meeting required that only four days' notice of the meeting be given to the inhabitants of said town, and that only four days' notice of the meeting is given, or by reason of any other informality in the calling or conduct of said meeting.

Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

FREELAND E. HOVEY BUYS A TRACT OF 88,000 FEET.

The Cape Cod Five Cent Savings Bank has sold a tract of land containing 88,000 square feet, located on Vine street, bordering Wedge pond, assessed on a valuation of $4,500. This parcel will be improved for high class residences, for which Winchester is noted. The sale was for all cash, the purchaser being Freeland E. Hovey. Edward T. Harrington Company were the brokers.

NEW WINCHESTER TELEPHONE OFFICE EQUIPMENT.

The installation of a complete new central office equipment has recently been completed in the Winchester office of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. A switchboard with four sections, equipped for 1600 subscribers' lines, with frames, racks, desks and a power plant, has been cut into service. The installation of the new equipment will undoubtedly mean the best of telephone service in this town.

The switchboard represents the latest and best in the art of telephone engineering. It is of the "central battery, lamp signal type," which is recognized as the standard for telephone offices of this size. All of the equipment was made and installed by the Western Electrical Company, the largest manufacturer of telephones in the world. This company makes all the telephones used throughout the entire Bell system and in many other companies as well.

Smoothness, accuracy and promptness in answering calls are insured by this installation. The automatic features of the new switchboard take care of the various steps in making and breaking connections in a manner that leaves very little manual work to be done by the operator. The operator does not need to listen in to the conversation at any time, so that privacy is secured.

With the common battery telephones there is no cranking or ringing of bells. When the receiver is lifted from its hook a tiny electric lamp flashes into view before the operator, who immediately makes the connection desired by inserting the metal end of a cord into a jack, or hole.

When the subscriber lifts the receiver from the hook he performs a manual act, one that is necessary in every system. Removing the receiver automatically releases the hook, which flies into contact with several springs, the result of which is to set in motion a train of automatic apparatus closing the subscriber's circuit and automatically actuating a relay at the central office. This causes the lamp to light up before the operator, who then performs another manual act, inserting the plug into the jack.

This again automatically makes connections, which accomplish a number of operations, such as disconnecting the line relay, and so forth. The operator works her listening key and connects to the called-for subscriber. This causes a train of automatic operations to take place, and then the subscriber's bell is rung. He lifts his receiver from the hook, and this automatically notifies the operator that he is at the telephone.

The reverse of all this takes place when the disconnection is made. The subscriber's hanging the receivers on their respective hook set in motion a complex train of automatic operation, whereby the operator, without listening in upon the line or asking the subscriber if they are through talking, may determine at a glance that the conversation is finished, and by the simple operation of withdrawing the relays and allowing them to fall automatically into their positions, mechanism is released which automatically restores the lines to their original condition.

The panel of the switchboard before each operator contains rows of lamp signals, each with its corresponding jack, all within easy reach. The supervisory signals, whose work is performed after the line lamps' task is completed, keep the operator informed as to when the parties to the conversation are through.

The equipment which has been installed in Winchester is the latest development of the telephone art, and the acquisition of this switchboard may be regarded as a most important improvement.

WINCHESTER COUNTRY CLUB TEAM WON.

The team of the Winchester Country Club beat the Vesper Country Club of Lowell on Saturday afternoon, 24 to 10. The match was played at the local club and was followed by a dinner.

Why not provide quarters for the central house firemen in tents, pending settlement of the grade crossing question. Then they could at least sleep in uncontaminated air this summer, while in the winter they could use stoves.

Mr. William D. Richards at the town meeting Monday evening struck a responsive chord when he intimated that the heads of town departments were not the only beneficiaries from attending conventions, but that the town came in for a good big share. Mr. Richards belongs to the progressive school, and believes that the town should encourage such attendance, even to paying the expense.

A justice in a court just outside of Boston has ruled that if you buy a five-pound box of butter and find that it contains less than weight you will have no redress, at least in his court. You are buying what the dealer chooses to call a five pounds box of butter, and not in reality five pounds of butter. Should this decision hold good it will upset all preconceived ideas that you are getting and paying for what a package is supposed to weigh.

A resolve has been introduced in the Mass. Senate to prohibit cities and towns from borrowing money for current expenses, and also that a recess committee, to consist of the senate and house chairmen and the clerk of the present legislative committee on cities and two additional members to be appointed by the governor investigate the subject of municipal finances, debt and tax limits, etc. The commission is to report to the next legislature.

JULY 4TH.

The glorious fourth will be observed in Winchester by the townspeople this year as in the past, and the usual observances on Manchester Field will take place during the morning, afternoon and evening.

The morning will be given over to the sports for the boys and girls and a band concert. The list of sports will be found in last week's STAR.

The ball game at 3.30 will be between the Winchester team and the team of the battleship Rhode Island. Manager LeDuc has secured this team as opponents at considerable difficulty. The Rhode Island team claims the championship of the U. S. navy. In the evening the fireworks will be held as usual.

VACATION SCHOOL.

The Vacation school will open in the Chapin school house on Wednesday, July 5, at nine o'clock.

This school is under the auspices of the Philanthropy Committee of the Footlight and is for boys under ten and girls under twelve years of age.

The four classes, nursery, kindergarten, intermediate and sewing will be conducted about the same as last year and will be under the care of able teachers and assistants.

The sum of one cent a day will be charged for one child or two cents a day if two or more children come from a family.

The Chapin school playground will be opened on Thursday, July 6, for afternoons only until the close of the Vacation school on August 11, after which it will be open mornings and afternoons throughout the summer. It will be in charge of two competent supervisors.

News Paragraphs.

The Chapman Gravity Spindle Co., of this town, whose factory was erected last winter on Main street near Cross has just finished for the Ameskeag Mills, Manchester, N. CLOSING EVENTS OF LADIES' BETHANY SOCIETY.

Very seldom a group of ladies are to be found who so thoroughly enjoy themselves and at the same time are doing good. But it is an unmitigated fact that the good women of this society know how to do both.

The fair and lawn party which was given the 15th on the grounds of Mrs. Geo. R. Nugent, one of the members, was a success both socially and financially and a good sum was added to the treasury. The ladies had worked faithfully and while working were entertained at the homes of Mrs. Charles Forsaith, Mrs. J. K. Murdock and Mrs. Herbert F. Butler. Those having charge of the tables were: Mrs. George Nugent, Mrs. Louis A. Claffin, Mrs. Edward S. Everett, Mrs. John B. Boyce, Mrs. Henry A. Smalley, Mrs. Joseph C. Adams, Mrs. Wm. R. McIntosh, Mrs. Cowie, Mrs. Charles Forsaith, Mrs. Edward Ray, Mrs. Melvin A. Fogg, Mrs. Joseph Belleville, Miss Sadie Dotson, Mrs. Geo. Benjamin, Mrs. Fred Twombly, Mrs. Albert McLellan and Mrs. Tolman.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

One thing that new-comers to our town meetings have introduced should be severely called down by the moderator, and that is hissing. It is something new to this town and should not be tolerated.

I have not been able to find another town where a citizen has to get permission of the meeting to speak more than once to a motion, or one where it requires seven persons to doubt a vote. A citizen who has not yet registered and who had to sit in the small hall told me after this meeting that he had always heard of the fairness of Winchester meetings, but judged by this one, which was the first he had attended, it was the narrowest and most unfair he had ever seen, and he thought that the above mentioned rules were worse than absurd.

So we have voted to build an engine house on a certain piece of land we don't own and have refused to vote the money to buy it. Talk about consistency. If we had voted to take the Whitney property and then had refused to vote the money for it, there would have been some sense to that, but the engine house, which all admit we need, we let go by default.

So we are to have one more grade crossing committee. Well, let it call a public meeting next fall and see how many different plans are supported by different groups who will not agree to any other plan. I wonder why we did not have a committee made up of about six each of engineers, architects, real estate experts, property owners in the centre and members of the bar?

Some towns print under the article the motion that is to be offered. This is a great help to intelligent action, as frequently many present do not know what they are voting on. It also enables more intelligent consideration before the meeting comes off. Let's try it.

Lay a motion on the table to get more information and then refuse to take it from the table so the members of the Board who had the information could give it. That's what happened to Selectman Belcher on the Town Hall building heating plant matter. It was a weird meeting surely. Our fish and game commissioner having disposed (perhaps) of his ancient pond rights now is seeking to transfer his activities to the reservoirs and establish fishing preserves. Of course this means we will soon be called upon to make an appropriation to restock them. They should be stocked with suckers.

The New York Alderman asked, What is the constitution between friends? We apparently ask, What of the law when we want to put something through? We put the Manchester Field bonds through in defiance of the law and some one was willing to buy them, but did that legalize the action? We tried the same performance on the school bonds in 1903 and Governor Bates vetoed it. We are now trying to put through the Whitney purchase vote in the same style, using the park act as a subterfuge. Perhaps some one will buy those bonds, and then again perhaps they won't, but that won't legalize it and any property owner can stop it.

Mr. Ogden made a good speech up to a certain point and had the meeting with him, but when he characterized it as an uncivilized community the feeling at once changed. I wonder why our "hustler" who lives near the Stoneham line was so much interested in naming a small street near the Medford line?

Our representative did not hold up our legalizing act, but the presiding officer, at my request that it be not put through till the town meeting Tuesday night. As it had to pass another stage in each branch Monday and Tuesday and then be signed by the Governor it could easily have been held up elsewhere if there had been any chance of its becoming a law before Tuesday night. There was no hearing on the bill at all.

It is unfortunate that the Braddock plan was referred to a committee instead of to the Selectmen, but why the town counsel should have had the subject matter of the other two grade crossing articles referred to the committee instead of the Board is incomprehensible. It is similar to our action of last year when we voted under the lead of prominent citizens to dismiss the petition. What is the matter with us?

Speaking of prominent citizens, one reason I went as far as I did Tuesday night in regard to illegal actions is that I am not willing that p. c.'s should do these illegal things and get away with them and then turn around and call down the prominent p. c.'s for minor shortcomings. Our Manchester Field vote was illegal and the bonds to pay for it were issued in direct defiance of our laws and in my opinion our action on the Whitney purchase is just as illegal and will not hold if contested.

J. H. C.

Tomorrow the local ball team will meet the Medford team on Manchester Field at 3.30. This team was the first one played this season, Winchester losing by the score of 3 to 2. A wood game is anticipated. The local team has ordered a set of new uniforms which it is expected will be used for the first time on the 4th. Manager LeDuc desired to express his thanks to those who by their contributions have made this possible. The full amount necessary has not yet been contributed, and further fund will be welcomed. Mr. LeDuc is an old ball player and an umpire of considerable note, and his efforts to give the town a series of games which will be appreciated should receive the support of everyone.

"KEEP THE CHANNEL DEEP AND THE BANKS LOW."

In the province of Szechuen in China, close up to the borders of Tibet is a remarkable piece of engineering work which dates back two hundred years before the birth of Christ. On one side of a mountain spur was a river which in spring and summer was swollen into a torrent by the snows melting in Tibet. On the other side of the spur was a plain that suffered much from drought. A Chinese engineer dug a cut through the mountain spur, and a great canal through the plain to a bend of the river far below. By means of this canal the water is drawn off from the upper river in time of freshet and made to irrigate the plain. A great bar of iron was placed in the bottom of the canal, with instruction that the water must be shut off every year, and the canal cleaned down to the iron bar. Near the head of the canal is a temple built in honor of the engineer, and on its walls are many of his sayings, among them this one: "Keep the channel deep and the banks low." That Chinese engineer of the olden time knew that if the people allowed the channel to fill up, and tried to compensate for it by building up the banks, there would be constant danger of turning the plain into a swamp, hence his sage advice which has passed into a proverb.

The motto of the Chinese engineer reaches down to fundamentals, and might have many applications. In education attempts are always being made to introduce ornamental studies, which are well enough in themselves, but may lessen the time and attention given to fundamentals. It is all right to teach a child how to draw and color, provided he is taught at the same time how to spell his mother tongue with accuracy, and write it with clearness and precision. It is beautiful to know about the birds and flowers but absolutely essential to have a ready use of the science of numbers.

There can easily be a municipal application of the proverb. Beauty of landscape and attractive scenery are very desirable, but the health and safety of a community are of first consideration. In theology the motto of the Chinaman rings like the text of a prophet. It is easy to allow the silt of careless living, and the detritus of speculation, to fill up the deep channel of religious truth. The souls of men may be solved by ceremony or quieted by theories, but they can be healed only by repentance for sin, by a life of vigorous righteousness, and by a sincere and continuous faith in the Saviour of men.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

June 26th, 1911.
Board met at 7.30 p. m.; all present. Records read and approved.

Delegation from Stevens street was present asking for repairs to said street; present, Messrs. D. W. Hawes, A. A. Reed, C. A. Dodge, W. I. Kendall, A. S. Hall (for the S. B. White Estate) and G. H. Eustis. After various remarks the matter was laid over for future consideration.

Hearing on the petition of the Edison Company for location of 9 poles on Sheffield-west, opened at 8 o'clock as advertised; and petition was laid on the table.

Voted, that request of James J. Fitzgerald for permission to lay granolithic sidewalks on Stratford road, be referred to the Supt. of Streets to investigate.

Letter of S. S. Symmes asking for grade of sidewalk at his new house on Sanborn street, referred to the Supt. of Streets.

Voted, that the Arlington Gas Light Company be granted permission to lay gas mains on Salisbury road from Calumet road to Foxcroft road; also from No. 9 Madison avenue to Highland avenue. On the application for permission to lay main on Highland avenue from 102, northerly, it was voted that the same be not granted.

Petition of George W. Dearborn and others asking for repairs to Herrick street, referred to the Supt. of Streets and the Town Engineers.

Voted, to grant a common victualler's license to Miss Annie F. Nutter, 539 Main street, to May 1st 1912.

WILLIAM L. LARRIVEE.

William Leslie Larrivee, son of Joseph and Amelia C. Larrivee, died yesterday morning at the home of his parents, 6 Blind Bridge street, after a short illness of quick consumption. He was in his 22d year. He was a graduate of the High school, in the class of 1907, and took a prominent part in athletics and school affairs. He was centre on the basketball team for the season of 1906 and 1907, which made such an excellent record. Since leaving school he has been employed in the office of an insurance company in Boston. His grandmother, who lived in the same house, died Wednesday morning. Funeral services will be held at his late home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

RUSHING LEGISLATION

Lawmakers in Boston Have Many Large Measures Left

AN EARLY FALL CAMPAIGN

Ex-Congressman O'Connell Says Mayor Fitzgerald is "Down and Out" and Favors His Recall in January—New England Manufacturers Disturbed at Threats of Tariff Revision

There is no indication that the great and general court will be prorogued much if any before the 14th of July. There are still a great many very important matters to be considered by the legislature. Many of these cannot properly be rushed through without danger to the commonwealth. Many corporations prefer when they have a job which they wish to rush through the legislature that it should be considered in the closing days of the session. At such times these measures are not likely to be as carefully scrutinized as they would be some months earlier. It is very much easier for that reason to get through the legislature corporation bills which favor the interests rather than the people, than at any other time. Members of the legislature are always somewhat disturbed by the clamor of newspapers for an early prorogation. At the same time they realize that in the natural course of events it is not possible to properly complete the work of the legislature according to the calendar. Some years there is less important business than others and the session which has to consider the most important legislation is naturally longer than the other.

Some of the important appropriation bills have only just come to the legislature from the governor, which he has taken months to consider. Some members of the legislature feel that there is a purpose to rush important matters through the two branches of the legislature with scant time for proper consideration. They are unwilling to accept whatever blame may attach to a late session, as they feel that the governor is largely responsible for that condition of things and that the onus therefore should not be laid wholly upon the members of the great and general court.

An Early Nominating Campaign

The passage of the primary election bill for the entire state is likely to result in an early opening of the fall campaign. Already Lieutenant Governor Frothingham is active in promoting his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination. He has been given a reception at the home of ex-Senator Frank Seiberlich at Jamaica Plain, at which 150 or 200 Republicans were present. Both Speaker Joseph Walker and Representative Norman White of Brookline are also active and speaking several times each week in various parts of the commonwealth.

Ex-Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell of Boston believes that Mayor Fitzgerald is "down and out." Although he supported the mayor for reelection two years ago he now declares that he favors a city election next January and the recall of the chief executive. Mr. O'Connell says he believes that either James J. Storrow, Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara, Bernard J. Rothwell, Louis K. Brandeis, ex-Congressman J. H. O'Neill, ex-Congressman John A. Kelliher, Chairman John A. Sullivan of the finance commission, Congressman Andrew J. Peters or Judge Joseph J. Corbett could defeat Mayor Fitzgerald. He declared that he was only one among the Democratic leaders who favored a city election and the mayor's recall. The statute expressly provides that the question of a city election must go on the ballot on state election day in this form: "Shall there be an election for mayor at the next municipal election?" This must be answered yes or no. It requires only a majority of the registered votes for an election. As there are about 112,000 in Boston it will require about 56,000 votes to bring about an election.

Mr. O'Connell believes that 35,000 of those who voted for Mr. Storrow will vote yes at the state election and that "it is fair to assume on account of the tremendous distrust which still exists against the mayor," that more than 33 percent of those who voted for him last time will quietly join the army of those who will vote yes on election day. Mr. O'Connell makes this very significant statement:

"It should be borne in mind that Mr. Fitzgerald won the election two years ago principally because he excited in this city what amounted to no more or less than a race and religious war. He has won practically all of his fights on these issues. They are intensely cowardly and un-American, and can only be invoked by a man who is always crying for sympathy."

Manufacturers Are Disturbed
The manufacturers of New England are apparently a good deal concerned over the possibility that there may be an immediate revision of the tariff at the present session of congress. Some of them say that if they are to expect this as a result of a coalition between the Democrats and the insurgent Republicans it will mean that they will have to curtail operations until after this has been accomplished. It is said by those who speak from experience in such matters that a considerable lowering of the tariff would mean a large loss on any stock of goods in hand and that for this reason it is the part of wisdom for manufacturers to produce their goods only in such quantities as are needed by the trade, and thereby save the loss which would otherwise result from falling prices on a large stock in hand. Probably the business and industries of no section of the country is more sensitive to tariff changes than those of New England and especially of Massachusetts, which is essentially a manufacturing state. It is claimed by the woolen men that a great proportion of the woolen goods manufactured in the country are made in this commonwealth. The same is also true of cotton goods of the finer grade, as well as boots and shoes. It is quite natural that the curtailment of production along all lines of business which would be affected by the tariff should result in a growing volume of unemployment. Manufacturers say that in ordinary times they are accustomed to manufacture goods and pile them up in storehouses against future demand. When they cease to do this labor naturally suffers loss of employment and wages to a considerable extent and that is the case at present. An assurance that no changes would be attempted in the tariff until the next session of congress, aside from the passage of the reciprocity measure, would undoubtedly do a great deal to set the mills of New England working full time or nearly so.

Governor Foss and Charities

Governor Foss has sent a message to the legislature criticising the conduct of the state charitable institutions and declining to approve the increase in appropriations asked for by the state board of charity. His comment is directed against the policy of caring for advanced cases of tuberculosis and lack of businesslike safeguards in helping the adult poor. He also criticizes the present system of boarding out children by the state. The Boston Herald takes up the governor's criticisms and evidently comes to the conclusion that the governor does not know what he is talking about. It denies his claim that the four state sanatoria for consumptives were originally intended for only incipient cases and adds that this is true only of the Rutland institution. The Herald also calls attention to the fact that tuberculosis is now regarded as a contagious disease and as such, isolation is imperative, and that advanced cases as well as others must be cared for in a special institution. The Herald also repeats the criticism of the care of neglected children, declaring that the state board of charity must take care for the children which the courts assign to it. The Herald also points out various other errors in the message of Mr. Foss and appears to show that the governor was, to say the least, under a serious misapprehension when he wrote it.

Fishing Firms Locate in Provincetown

The probability of the passage by congress of the reciprocity agreement with Canada has been greatly feared by the fishermen of Gloucester. As a result one of the largest fish companies doing business there has decided to establish a branch of its business in Louisbourg, Cape Breton, if the agreement is finally ratified. It is considered quite probable that the action taken by this concern will be followed by others in order to parry the effects of the reciprocity agreement when ratified. Naturally the people of the maritime provinces are a good deal elated at this result of the treaty, and are glad to welcome American business concerns, as shown by the action of the town council not to tax the business of the company for five years if it would locate in that place; also to recommend a bonus of $1000 a year for five years to the company.

WONDERFUL EXPRESSION OF ESTEEM.

REGULAR MEETING

First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

(If a holiday the following evening.)

"Thousands are hacking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is hacking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are hacking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

Address all communications to the Bank and not to Individuals.

THE BACK-TO-THE-LAND MOVEMENT.

Mabel Carlson.

The following excellent paper read by Miss Mabel Carlson at the High School graduation exercises last week, was crowded out of the last issue of the STAR at the last minute because of lack of space. The subject of the paper is a live issue and is worthy of perusal. It was as follows:

Within the last four years, articles upon the "back-to-the-land" movement have appeared in most of our leading periodicals. To those interested in the solution of the social problems of our nation, this movement is one of great significance.

Back-to-the-land does not mean necessarily that you must hide in the hills, dig in the dust, and seek absolute seclusion from your friends and former enjoyments. Back-to-the-land does mean, however, living the free life of the open, breathing the fine air of the country, and enjoying the peace and quiet that only distance from the great city can permit.

"Now what are the reasons for causing this present agitation?" possibly you might question. To be precise, it is largely a city effort, expressing many ideas and motives. It is in part an effort to relieve the congestion of the city; in part a desire to find labor for the unemployed; in part the high cost of living, which has made it difficult for many of those dwelling in cities whose incomes are definitely fixed by the wages that they receive "to make both ends meet"; in part an effort of real estate dealers to sell land; and in part the increased interest in outdoor life.

These are in general the foremost causes for the great desire to go back to the country, but, strange to say, the country means different things to different persons. To some people it means a garden, a vacation, or a long excursion; to others a home in the suburbs, a country seat, and perhaps a summer residence; and to still others, a real farm in the open spaces. It is, however, only the last phase that represents the real country life, the farm on which one lives and which he manages.

Of all the people interested in this action, two distinct classes can be formed. One is composed of men who have made their fortune, and want to enjoy it in the greater calm and independence of the open country, or want to use some of their income in playing with agriculture, and experimenting in it. The other class consists of thousands of men who are not rich, who are working hard for ordinary salaries whose incomes are regularly discounted by the high cost of living, who want to go into the country for their own sakes and their families, yet who dare not jump unless they have some assurance that success is awaiting them in their new field.

It is by these men principally that the question, "Could I make a success of it if I should go into the country, and buy a farm?" is constantly being asked. And why shouldn't they ask it? Never has there been a time when real rural life in general offered so much either in financial returns, or in social opportunities, as at present. The farmer is receiving more for his efforts than he has received in many years. He has facilities, and conveniences for which his father never hoped—rural free deliveries of mail, telephones, improved schools, water supplies, and other innumerable useful things. He is constantly becoming more and more a marked man, and taking a higher place in the estimation of his fellows.

As farming to-day, even on a small scale, is vastly different from fifty or even twenty-five years ago, it is becoming a business and a science. In the Middle West where there has been reached a state of development that includes something more than the counting of bushels and acres, it is reported that a larger number of young men each year are choosing farming for their life occupation. Agricultural colleges, and the demand for institutes which shall instruct the agricultural communities are insistent. This means that the position of the farmer as a business man is being established, and his sons, instead of hurrying to the city to seek another occupation are realizing that there is a field for their best endeavor on the old homestead.

There is now also a fine opportunity for the leadership in county affairs, when one has earned the right to leadership. In the past, a man had small chance in these respects, but nowadays the public eye is not only on the man who does uncommon work in school, church, or co-operative organization, but also on the man who is an uncommonly successful farmer. Because of this public recognition, because of the broader opportunities, because of the scientific advancement, rural life is becoming more complex, and the farms will yet support an interesting social life of their own, rather than spend their energy in supporting a highly developed social life in the cities and towns.

So we see this new generation in the country is something of a surprise to the student familiar with that of early days. What would be your impression if you heard a man in overalls, with a milk-pail or a pitchfork in his hand, talk about balanced nutrition, economy of production, and scientific breeding? But not alone in the better management of the farms is the new generation of farmers making advancement. That is but a part. The fact that young men are going out into the world and are seeing how others do things, gives them ideas for the accomplishment of farm duties with less effort. Where they are sent to agricultural colleges, and are then allowed to carry into effect what they have learned, the farmer's problem takes care of itself. Of course not much can be expected if a man farms in the old way. If doubted, just visit a rural community in one of the older states. Then for contrast inspect a farm in the middle west, where it will be seen the spirit of progress and advancement is manifest, not only in the modern machinery and appliances, but also in the new methods. There the attitude of the worker toward his task takes on a new aspect, which perhaps accounts for the up-to-date farmer's success.

The problem still remains as to how the trend of population may be turned from the cities and towns, and how this back-to-the-farm movement can be made a successful one for all those who participate in it. There is no question about the existence of the desire to "get back-to-the-land," and on the other hand, there is no question as to the existence of almost unlimited opportunities for those who set about the cultivation of the soil with intelligent endeavor. And this number is increasing so constantly that it is hard for one not intimately acquainted with the conditions to realize the extent and meaning of the work that is going on in the United States to build up rural life on the old farms; for who but the man who sees can measure the value of this great movement, and come to know what it will mean in the near future to the people of our great nation?

PIANOFORTE RECITAL.

The pupils of Miss Sadie F. Bowser of Winchester gave a most pleasing recital last Saturday afternoon at Dorchester. They were assisted by Mr. William Lawrence Bowser tenor, and Mr. Arthur H. Carpenter, reader, of Boston. More than a score of interesting numbers were rendered—entirely without notes. These included compositions by Chopin, Beethoven, Schumann, Leybach and Nevin. Each number was admirably executed by the advanced pupils—while the work of first, second and third year scholars gave evidence of careful training, marked ability and musical temperament. Mr. Bowser sang "In The Garden of My Heart" and "All That I Ask Of You Is Love," by request and in response to encores "The Night Has A Thousand Eyes," which were well received. Mr. Carpenter contributed largely to the pleasure of the program by very fine rendering of James Whitcomb Riley's well known poem "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," as well as other selections which were greatly appreciated. Owing to Miss Bowser's recent accident, Miss Florence S. Bowser presided at the piano in a most acceptable manner. Large contributions of roses were used with ferns in decorations, which with the perfect June day made the occasion one to linger pleasantly in the minds of all present.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

"Swept By Ocean Breezes," the big production in which "The Meister Singers" are appearing at B. F. Keith's Theatre, is proving to be by all odds the biggest summer attraction that has ever been put on in Boston.

The coming week's programme will again be changed, being composed almost entirely of Scotch numbers, both solos and choruses, and as a special feature a Highland dancer, Miss Nellie Elliott, will entertain the Highland parts of the entertainment. The surrounding bill will include the Mabelle Fonda Troupe of jugglers; Dolan & Lenhart in a burlesque mind reading act; Marmi & Bronsk, two wonderful dancers from the Metropolitan Opera House, New York; Bernard & Dorothy Granville in a comedy act; the Van Brothers, musical comedians Bartholdi's wonderful birds; and others.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

It will be a week of especial interest at the Castle Square beginning Monday. "The Barrier," dramatized from Rex Beach's novel of the same name, will be produced by Mr. Craig for the first time in Boston. Mary Young will reappear as its heroine after an absence from the stage of four weeks, and the cast will also contain William P. Carleton, who has been especially engaged by Mr. Craig for his summer season, and also Howell Hansel in the leading role. "The Barrier," has a plot of gripping interest. Divided into four acts, its scene opens at a trading post on the Yukon river in the far north, and it unfolds a stirring story of love and romance, adventure and revenge. It pulsates with the energy and primitive life of thinly settled regions, and the well defined characters and sensational scenes of the novel are taken good dramatic advantage of in the novel. It is a play of the emotions, and in its scenery will be given a fine display of the icy regions of the north.

Considerable agitation is being manifested in the Calumet Club over the addition of two new bowling alleys. The matter has been thoroughly investigated by Judge Littlefield and will probably come before the club at the earliest possible date. The bowling at the club has become so popular that the committee has had considerable difficulty in even arranging for the matches of the regular tournaments, leaving no evenings open for individual bowling. It is proposed to extend the present alleys out on the north side of the club house.

The High School Recorder is on sale at Wilson the Stationer's.

Six years ago last Wednesday, Julius Hovey, one of the brightest boys of this town, was struck by a train and killed at the centre railroad crossing. At that time it appeared that public indignation over the existence of this death trap would insure its speedy removal. The crossing exists today exactly as it did at that time, with the exception that a few more trains pass over it daily, and each day records an increasing number of the narrow escapes from death. The children of the town are as exposed to this danger now as they were six years ago and the prospects of removal appear to be equally distant.
